COOK GIVES FREE LECTURE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HELENA (Mont.) Oct. 30.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Arctic explorer, tonight delivered his lecture to an audience that filled the Auditorium. His appearance here was at the invitation of the Helena Civic Club, and the lecture was delivered without cost to that organization.

Dr. Cook was introduced by Gov. Norris. He simply recited the story of his trip to the pole. At the conclusion of the lecture, Edward L. Horskey introduced the following resolution of confidence, which was passed by a rising vote of the audience:

"The Helena Civic Club wishes to record its deep appreciation of the generous and kindly act of Dr. Frederick A. Cook in presenting to this club, without charge, his lecture of absorbing interest—a simple, straightforward recital of a great achievement.

"We welcome this opportunity of extending the congratulations of the citizens of the capital city of Montana to Dr. Cook upon the successful accomplishment of his explorations, expressing not only our confidence in him, the results of his work, but even more our admiration for the manner in which he has conducted himself under exceedingly trying circumstances."

GOLD TEETH GOOD INVESTMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Teeth are a good savings bank for one's surplus gold, if one has the usual quota of teeth, and not too much gold. A Chicago jurist intimated today that gold in teeth could not be seized for debt, even if that debt was for gold in the teeth; in other words, once the gold was put in a molar it ceased to be a commodity which voluntarily, or by order of court could be used in barter or exchange.

C. E. Douglas, a dentist, alleges that Miss B. Woolf owed him $25.50 for services. Miss Woolf was summoned before Judge Himes to tell about it. She enumerated for the court several items of assets, the total of which was not appalling, and one item was the gold which Dr. Douglas had put in her teeth.

"I will not issue any order to assign the defendant's savings account," said Judge Himes to Dr. Douglass. "I do not see what else there is left you, unless it is the gold in the teeth. I do not know that there is anything in the statutes covering just the case, but I should say it would be governed by the same statutes as improvements on real property."

LOVE [illegible] FLAMES ANEW.

ELDERLY MAID WITH FORTUNE CUPID'S VICTIM.

Mrs. Jeanette Suffern-Hitchcock Weds One Stableman, But Finding Five Days Later That He Has Wife Already, She Flees With His Fellow-Workman.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Jeannette Suffern-Hitchcock, formerly of Suffern, N. Y., who lived to be 64 years old before Cupid sent a dart through her heart, has disappeared from view. Notwithstanding she possessed $300,000, Miss Suffern fell desperately in love with two stable hands within a week.

She married Bob Hitchcock, one of them, but speedily discovered that he had neglected the slight formality of getting rid of his wife and child in this city. Because of this impediment, Mrs. Hitchcock dropped her husband of five days, and drove away with Joe Simonds, his stable mate. Diligent inquiry since that time has failed to disclose her whereabouts, but her friends say she is all right, and there is no cause for alarm.

Miss Jeannette Suffern, before her remarkable matrimonial experiences, developed a penchant for buying old wagons. Inasmuch as she had plenty of money, the supply of decrepit wagons was unusually large in and about the town of Suffern. This hobby took her many times to the livery stable in Ridgeway, where she became acquainted with David Tobin, its manager.

Tobin said today that for several weeks she called each day, and asked him if he was married.

"I told her as near as I could weigh it up that she wanted a husband," said Tobin.

"She said she did. Then I thought of Hitchcock, who was washing off a buggy.

"They were married right off, and soared around like a pair of ringneck doves for five days.

"Well, it turned out that Hitchcock was already married, and had a wife and two kids living in New York. When she found that out, she came right down here.

"Just then this fellow, Joe Simonds, who had been working with Hitchcock cleaning off buggies, came stalking out of the barn. I told him now was his chance. In five minutes they drove away together.

"When Joe came back he was dressed like a fashionplate, and had a gold watch and $200. He said Mrs. Hitchcock had promised to become his wife."

About this time the New York and New Jersey papers began to get busy with the news, and Mrs. Hitchcock went into seclusion. Simonds was mum as an oyster, and he, too, soon dropped out of sight. It is intimated they are waiting until Mrs. Hitchcock gets legal separation from her encumbered husband.

PAPER CHANGES HANDS.

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Oct. 30.—C. H. [illegible] warrior and an ancestral claim to the throne, in which he traced his ancestry to Solomon. As ruler over the united Abyssinia he became the most powerful negro monarch in the world, and proceeded at once to perfect his army.

Trouble with Italy had long been brewing and the intervention of England had once prevented an open rupture, when in 1893 Italy claimed a protectorate over Abyssinia. Menelik protested and a resort to arms followed. Much desultory fighting resulted with honors fairly even, till the decisive battle of Adowa, in 1896, which Menelik won and forced Italy to sign the peace of Abeba, giving up all claim to a protectorate.

During Menelik's exile he met and fell in love with Taoti, his cousin. Just as they were about to be married both were summoned back from exile, and Theodore, Menelik's political rival, carried off Taoti and married her. It was at this time that Menelik was given a daughter of Theodore, but he did not live happily with her.

Taoti had various matrimonial adventures, till some years later, after Menelik had become King of Shoa, they met again and were married. This was Taoti's second royal marriage and Menelik was her sixth husband.

Taoti, besides being a woman of unusual beauty, according to the standards of that country, possessed considerable tact and ability. She was of material assistance to her husband in ascending the throne of united Abyssinia.

Senator Carter Says Completion of Big Reclamation Projects Will Be Pushed.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Oct. 30.—The members of the Senate Committee on Reclamation and Irrigation are gathering in Denver today and will start on the second half of their trip of inspection tomorrow night.

Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, chairman of the committee, stated that projects now under way would require the expenditure of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 and that the work will be pushed to completion within three years.

Senator Carter announced himself as opposed to the issue of bonds to provide funds to complete the projects but favored issuing warrants to be met at maturity by the proceeds from the sale of government land and payments for the use of water by the settlers.

The committee will investigate the Gunnison tunnel project Monday and will visit government projects throughout Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

NINE BODIES IN BANK RUINS.

ST. JOHNSBURY (Vt.) Oct. 30.—When the ruins of the Citizens' Saving block were thoroughly searched today it was definitely learned that nine lives had been lost in the fire which practically destroyed the principal business building of this town early today. Two other persons were probably fatally burned. The property loss is estimated at $5000. Of the killed, two persons fell from the upper stories, while seven were burned to death.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.) October 30.—The grand jury, which has been investigating the affairs of the Oregon Trust and Savings Bank, which closed its doors two years ago, returned indictments today against Walter H. Moore, president; W. Cooper Morris, cashier, and E. E. Lyttle, Leo Friede and Henry A. Moore, directors of the defunct institution. All five men are indicted on six counts for having accepted deposits after they knew the bank was insolvent and W. H. Moore and W. Cooper Morris are indicted on additional counts charging embezzlement. On Wednesday of this week, the five men were arrested on recommendation of the grand jury, charged with having received deposits after being aware of the unstable condition of the bank.

Gus Lowit, former manager of a department store in this city, also was indicted for his alleged connection with the officials of the bank who are said to have accepted secured notes and overdrafts from Lowit amounting at one time to $105,000.

It was in connection with these actions of the store and the bank that the indictments were returned against Morris and W. H. Moore, for alleged mutilation of notes, the signatures on the notes, having, it is asserted, been torn off. Events in December, 1906, when $58,000 and notes involving $85,000 are said to have disappeared, resulted in issuing indictments for Morris and W. H. Moore.

The report of the grand jury relating to the affairs of the Oregon Trust and Savings Bank, says:

"During the investigation of the Oregon Trust and Savings Bank we find by the statements of numerous witnesses examined that at no time during the bank's existence was it ever in a solvent condition; that the bank's funds were used in investments in private enterprises of the officials of the bank; that while thus engaged in this reprehensible juggling with and squandering of depositors' funds, the officers of the bank kept such inaccurate and incomplete records that even the accountants were puzzled in trying to determine the nature of the various transactions; that in their shameless larceny of money intrusted to their care in the belief that they were carrying on a legitimate banking business, these bank officers exhibited case-hardened consciences and the cruelness of their natures by robbing a crippled woman.

"Our duties as an official investigating body having familiarized us with the facts and circumstanced connected with the exploits in 'high finance' carried on by the officers and directors of this bank during its history, so far as they are known to the expert accountants, the receiver of the institution and others, we unhesitatingly and emphatically place ourselves on record as declaring that we believe the punishment deserved by these persons is of a nature which should cause others who may contemplate crooked banking in Oregon in the future to think twice before they violate the law."

Judge Bronaugh tonight fixed the bonds of the indicted bankers as follows: H. Cooper Morris, $28,500; W. H. Moore, $33,000; Leo Fried, $6000; E. E. Lytle, $6000; Henry Moore, $6000; Gus Lowit, $10,000. The Moores and Fried obtained bail and were released tonight.

JOHN D. STAYS AT HOME.

Ill Health of Mrs. Rockefeller Keeps Head of Standard Oil at Forest Hill.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John D. Rockefeller will remain in Cleveland for two weeks, and possibly a month longer, on account of Mrs. Rockefeller's poor health.

Mrs. Rockefeller suffered from pneumonia while in the South last spring. The recent cold brought the present attack of rheumatism, which has confined her to her room. She is improving, but could not travel with comfort.

Mr. Rockefeller's stay at Forest Hill has been later this fall than for several years.

FOREST FIRES RAGING.

Six Separate Places in Black Hills Are Ablaze and Damage Is Great.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DEADWOOD (S. D.) Oct. 30.—No less than six forest fires are now burning in the Black Hills. The damage already done will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The most serious one, near Pactola is still unchecked, but making less progress today, since the number of fire fighters has been increased.

The Deadwood office of the Forest Service has been notified of a fire burning north of Custer, another east of Hill City, one between Mystic and Merritt, and still another near Merritt.

SURRENDER.

REBELLION IS OVER AND TIBALDOS FLEES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ATHENS, Oct. 30.—The torpedo-boat destroyer Velos returned to the arsenal this evening and the commander of the craft was immediately placed under arrest. Lieut. Tibaldos is still missing. He is believed to be in the vicinity of Mount Parnes, where the police are keeping a strict watch.

The rebellious force at the arsenal on the Island of Salamis surrendered today. All of the vessels of which Tibaldos took possession have returned home, with the exception of the one on which it is supposed Tibaldos has taken refuge.

Tibaldos's miniature rebellion has been suppressed, according to an official announcement made by the government.

Several officers, sailors and workmen in the dock yard at Salamis have surrendered to the government.

Three of the rebels were killed and several wounded when a shell from the government land battery struck the mutinous torpedo boat Sphendona during the engagement yesterday.

While the respective leaders maintained a strikingly peculiar reticence as to the estimated votes for the candidates, the early betting today showed some surprising fluctuations. Odds of 2 to 1 on Gaynor as against Bannard continued with little actual money placed in stakeholders' hands, and at the same time some even money bets were recorded in Wall street as between Gaynor and Hearst. This very anomalous condition of betting affairs has tended to inject complications into the situation as viewed by those who judge results from surface indications.

CHANCE OF SURPRISE.

Of course, no election ever is determined until the ballots are counted, regardless of the advance signs which guide the judgment of the experienced politician. There always is the more or less remote chance of a surprise—the development of an undercurrent which has escaped the notice of the shrewd manipulators and managers or else has been underestimated—in which event there may occur a landslide or a close vote where the recognized conditions had not indicated it. But unless the practical politicians are fooled this time a plurality of the voters of the nation's metropolis are willing to take a Mayor wearing the DENVER (Colo.) Oct. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "My boy branded, branded as they would a steer on the range, by a fraternity, impels me to cry out to mothers and demand that this barbarous practice be stopped.

"I have seen the atrocious evidence and the Greek letters seared upon his stomach in letters two inches high."

This statement was made by Mrs. J. A. Snedaker, wife of the millionaire consulting engineer for Rockefeller in Colorado. She had brought her son, Eugene, 19 years old, from the School of Mines to Denver, suffering from the treatment he received when initiated into the Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

"From admissions of my son, I understand that he and six other freshmen were branded either by hot irons or by acid."

NOTED CAREER OF DR. HENSON.

But Six Pastorates in More Than Half-Century.

Minister Officially Greeted by Brother Preachers.

Newman Club Honors Bishop Conaty at Banquet.

Tomorrow morning Dr. P. S. Henson will preach his first sermon as "stated supply" for Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Henson is easily one of the most prominent Baptist ministers in America, and has behind him the remarkable record of serving but six congregations in a ministry of fifty-five years, and that in Brooklyn was for a period of but one year. His longest period with one church was twenty years, with the First Baptist Church of Chicago, while twenty-two years were divided between two churches in Philadelphia. He remained in his first charge in Fluvanna, Va., for six years, and in his last one, Tremont Temple, Boston, six years, when he voluntarily retired from the active pastorate, having arrived at the age of 77 years, and came to Los Angeles to spend the winter.

Dr. Henson has always been a powerful preacher, and though he has laid aside the duties of an active pastor, he is said to have lost but little of his native vigor, and one would little suspect his real age. In addition to preaching in the Auditorium every Sunday morning and evening, he will conduct the Wednesday evening meeting.

Sunday evening, the time will be divided between Dr. Henson and Rev. E. R. Brown, assistant pastor of Temple Church, who will say his farewell word before leaving for Mexico on Monday evening.

TO BISHOP CONATY.

NEWMAN CLUB'S WELCOME.

The Newman Club gave a banquet in honor of Bishop Conaty at Levy's on Friday night, which was attended by about fifty members of the club and special guests. It was in the form of a welcome home to the bishop, after an extended trip in Europe.

Bishop Conaty was at his best, and in a most interesting way told of his travels, to the delight of his hearers. He paid particular attention to his visit to the Propaganda College in Rome, and to the chapel where Cardinal Newman said his first mass. In speaking of the latter, the bishop said:

"While there, I thought of the Newman Club, as I did again when I was taken to the cell where he had prepared himself to become a Catholic priest."

The bishop went quite fully over his trip, and spoke particularly of the great improvement he found in Ireland, the land of his birth. He said the farmers of Ireland we[illegible] much more prosperous than e[illegible] and they showed it in me[illegible] a result of their becomi[illegible] their own farms.

The President began his address by having a little fun regarding the trip down the river. He said that "dangers had all been run," and that the fleet had come through without the loss of a single man. Mr. Taft taunted the Congressmen and Governors for having resorted to the humiliating device of land transportation at one stage of the journey.

The President declared no progress had been made in river navigation in this country in the last forty or forty-five years. Waterways of this country, Mr. Taft declared, must be used eventually to carry the bulk of heavy merchandise.

The President's declaration that he favored the issuance of bonds for carrying out the Ohio River improvements as one of the approved projects of inland waterways, called out a burst of applause.

The Ohio River improvement will cost $62,000,000. Mr. Taft said he also favored bonds for all other improvements including the Mississippi, just as soon as a feasible project can be decided upon and can be shown to be necessary and justifiable. The Ohio River gives the bulk of business to the Mississippi, the President declared, and the very improvement of a tributary tended to increase the value of the great water highway to the Gulf.

The President told of improvements to the Mississippi on the way down, and especially in protecting the banks from a further sloughing off at the outside. The engineers say they need $2,000,000 more a year to carry on this beneficial work as it ought to be carried on, and the President said that it was a shame Congress did not give it to them. In conclusion President Taft said:

"It is now up to the gentlemen to decide what you want, what it will cost, how long it will take and what the result will be. Once that is done, you can command, not ask."

"The plan for a deep waterway is an accomplished fact. What we need now is action," declared W. K. Kavanagh, president of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway Association, in his address at the opening of its convention today.

"The history of the Mississippi River has been a story of inaction and of niggardly appropriations, which have been fought through the Rivers and Harbors Committee, and through Congress without rhyme or reason," said the speaker. "The whole valley is sick with the congestion of its transportation system, and only this deep waterway can relieve it. The people of the Mississippi Valley must have definite assurance that this carrier is to be completed at a certain date, and that date must not be much more remote than the completion of the Panama Canal."

Mr. Kavanagh said that the people looked to President Taft for the execution of the great task. He referred to the Executive's trip down the river, saying:

"He has seen the richest farm lands in the world crumbling from its banks, dissolving in its waters; he has seen levees that protect 32,000 square miles of this rich alluvial threatened by these caving banks; he has seen the remains of uncompleted revetments that have been torn away by the river, because a neglectful Congress had not provided for their completion, and he has seen a thousand-mile channel unburdened by a single modern vessel, the docks of its many cities unmarked by a single installation of modern terminal apparatus."

MUCH ENTHUSIASM.

With President Taft declaring himself squarely in favor of a bond issue for the development of the country's inland waterways, the Governors of twenty-one States voicing assurances of their hearty sympathy with the movement for such improvement, the first day of the convention was characterized by much enthusiasm.

It was decided to postpone the address of Gifford Pinchot, Chief Forester of the United States, until Monday, because of several hours' delay in opening the convention. Speaker Cannon is also scheduled to speak Monday. The Speaker presided at a smoker given the delegates tonight.

In his address this afternoon President Taft said:

"We have seen human ingenuity developed to the highest degree in the growth of our transportation and the economy of the conduct of railroads. But the apparently hopeless task of making our rivers useful has turned public attention from them and there is not the improvement we ought to have had in the last forty years.

"Now we have reached a point where we are bound to use these streams because the amount of freight will necessitate it.

"The Secretary of War yesterday suggested—although he is far from a government ownership man as possible—that perhaps it might be well to leave the government experiment a bit in risking some capital to put a few lines on the river to see whether something cannot be done with that business.

"I think that we have solved the question of the navigation of the Ohio River for the purpose of improving the trade, and if you are going to make the Mississippi a valuable stream you have got to depend on the feeders to that stream, of which the Ohio is today far and away the most important.

"It will cost $63,000,000. I am in favor of going ahead with what has been determined to be useful, and issuing bonds and building these improvements. I am not in favor of delaying the Mississippi River improvements. The Ohio River improvement is completed, but I am in favor of finding out what you ought to do in the Mississippi River succinctly and knowing what it will cost before you go in and spend your money.

"The Mississippi River Commission says that in order to carry on even the work it is doing, it ought to have $2,000,000 more a year, and certainly Congress ought to be ashamed not to give it.

"I am very sure that the Speaker of the House is working as hard as he can to reach a just solution. The question is: 'What can you do? How much will it cost? How long will it take? And what will it result in?' Now, when you address yourselves to this body of men and treat it as a mere question of transportation on a profitable basis, I have not the slightest doubt that you will reach a solution that will appeal to those who have the responsibility of voting the money for the government, and that you will get what you desire in a measureable time."

"INSURGENT" TAKES POT.

"Regulars" Go Broke in Big Poker Game Between Statesmen.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to degelates to the deep waterways convention who arrived here with the President's fleet today, there were some great games of poker on the boat that brought down the delegation of United States Senators and Representatives. One game lasted forty-eight hours, and when it ended there were three "busted" Senators and four stranded Representatives.

The eighth man, who got all the money, is said to be a Republican insurgent. He had to borrow a grip to carry off his load of wealth, while the unfortunates whom he "skinned" had to borrow from their friends until they could reach New Orleans and draw drafts on their home accounts. The Congressional boat left St. Louis with nine poker tables on board, but this was not enough. At Cape Girardeau the porters from the executive steamer raided the vessel occupied by the Governors and "swiped" the tables on that boat.

MURDERER NAMES OTHERS.

Confession Made to Sheriff by McMahon Is Said to Implicate Two More in Crime.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30.—Further sensational information implicating, perhaps, persons close to James McMahon, the confessed triple murderer sentenced yesteruay to life imprisonment in the Kansas State penitentiary, was obtained from McMahon last night by Sheriff Al Becker, just before the doors of the prison closed behind him.

"The information I got from McMahon last night is the most sensational yet obtained," said Sheriff Becker today. "It implicates at least two additional persons in the crime."

While the Sheriff is investigating the new story, Patrick McMahon is being held in Kansas City, Kas. Patrick was kept in the Kansas City, Mo., Police Station last night. Early today, under the strain of the last week, he broke down and became violent.

On the way back to Wyandotte county, Patrick made several attempts to escape from the Sheriff's automobile, and fought desperately.

Several physicians who examined the prisoner today said he was suffering from temporary insanity.

The treasurer of a circus which showed in Pine Bluff, Ark., Friday, was found bound and gagged in his private car of the circus train on the way from this city to Fordyce, Ark., yesterday and declared he had been robbed of $6000. The robbery is said t have occurred just after the train left Rison.

Secretary of War Dickinson will remain in New Orleans tomorrow, and make an address before the Waterways Convention Monday morning, and will rejoin the President later.

The President started his carer as a football enthusiast this afternoon. The local Entertainment Committee decided that it would be too much of a tax on the President to ask him to go to two football games in one afternoon, but if he was to go to see Sewanee play the Louisiana State University, the adherents of Tulane and Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College were insistent that he should attend their game, too.

The President had decided that he certainly would see the Sewanee game, for Capt. Butt, his aide, and one other member of his party were old Sewanee men. When this became known, the President was besieged by requests to attend the Tulane game as well. It was said that it had been extensively advertised that he would be at the game, and that it would be a bitter disappointment to thousands of people if he did not. So Mr. Taft decided to go to both games.

First, he stepped in Central Park and saw the Sewanee team make the final touchdown in a game which they won with apparent ease. Thence the President had a six-mile automobile dash to Tulane campus, where he saw the last fifteen minutes of play in an evenly-matched game, won by Tulane, 2 to 0. At the Tulane game, the President's auto was stopped alongside the lines, and had been standing there but a few moments when a lively scrimmage and a spectacular tackle occurred right in front of his machine. At both games the President's ears were filled with college cheers.

All the girl actors wore light Esquimau costumes, covered with cotton to represent snow, while the stage was set with much cotton tinsel to portray the discovery of the North Pole. A miniature globe stood in the center of the stage, and around it were grouped the actors, each dressed to represent an Esquimau.

After the tableaux had started, Miss Owen tripped over a Jack-o'-lanter, and in a second the flames had communicated to the other girls and the decorations.

Governor's Resignation to Take Effect the Last of February Reaches Secretary Ballinger.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The resignation of Gov. George C. Curry of New Mexico, which was announced from Albuquerque several days ago, was received today by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, to take effect the last of February.

Gov. Curry gives as his reason for leaving the government service, the rehabilitation of his private business affairs, which, he says, have greatly suffered during his incumbency.

NEWS OF PACIFIC SLOPE.

POUF!

UPWARD SAILS PICTURE MAN.

Goes So High Anxious Crowd Can Hardly See Him.

But He Comes Back to Earth Without Scratch.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—A. G. Pillsbury of this city landed safely at Newark, Alameda county, late today after a thrilling flight in a captive balloon, which broke loose from a launch to which it was attached while the aeronaut was taking pictures of the water front.

Pillsbury chartered the balloon in order to secure a panorama photograph of the water front, and the big gas bag was attached to a tug, which followed it about as it tugged at the big cable holding it to the bow of the boat. A strong south breeze was blowing and the launch was almost lifted out of the water by the balloon when it struck the upper current of the trade wind.

After taking several pictures Pillsbury signaled to the crew on the launch to draw the balloon in. The windlass had only turned a few times when the strain to which the cable had been subjected by the restless tugging of the air craft became too great and the strand snapped. With the snapping of the cable the balloon ascended so high that it was barely discernible to the crowds that watched it with anxious eyes.

The balloon took a course almost in a direct line for San Jose, and all points between that place and this were notified to be on the lookout for the escape.

Shortly after leaving this city the balloon struck an easterly breeze, which finally landed it in the vicinity of Newark.

Pillsbury escaped from the basket, as it reached the earth, without a scratch.

EARNED PENSION.

RAILROAD MEN RETIRE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After more than forty years' continuous service, two of the oldest railroad station agents on the Sacramento division of the Southern Pacific are about to be retired on pensions. Joseph Kinney, agent at Folsom, is one, and J. H. Whitehead, agent at Placerville, is the other. Kinney is the pioneer railroad employé in the State. He has been in charge of the Folsom station for forty-seven years. Whitehead has been at Placerville only a few months, having filled the place vacated by H. K. Barry, who was retired in the latter part of last June; but he has seen forty-one years as a station agent.

MAY DEPORT EDITOR.

ACCUSED OF BEING ANARCHIST.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

HONOLULU, October 30.—Deportation proceedings have been commenced against Lou Sun, editor of the Chinese paper, Liberty News, on a charge of anarchy. The proceedings were brought as the result of an editorial in Lou's paper praising the assassin of Prince Ito, and advising the slaying of more Japanese. The editorial called the assassin a hero, and declared he had gotten ahead of the Chinese, as it was the intention of Ito to gobble up China.

MURDER MYSTERY.

FIND MAN'S CRUSHED BODY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of a man about [illegible] years old was discovered by the side of the Southern Pacific tracks about [illegible] miles east of Sparks, this morning. Coroner Pollock found the body in a mutilated condition. The skull had been caved in, and the right arm fractured.

Papers in the pocket identify him as [illegible] W. Hyde, a miner, living at Nevada City. They also indicate that he is a member in good standing of the Knight's of Pythias of that city. The fact that the man had nothing of value upon him leads the police to believe that he was robbed and thrown off a train.

MUST CALL ELECTION.

CAN'T CHANGE SCHOOL DISTRICT

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] State Superintendent of Public Instructions Hyatt received an opinion from Atty.-Gen. Webb, in which he is told that Supervisors of a county have no authority to alter the boundaries of a union school district which is created by vote of the people.

The question arose in Siskiyou county, where a union school district was to be changed, and the Supervisors thought they could alter the lines without an election. Hyatt forwarded the opinion to the northern authorities today. The law permits Supervisors to create other kinds of school districts in which the limits can be modified without a popular vote.

SUCH A GUSHER.

[illegible] Oil Well, After Three Months' of Dormancy, Suddenly Breaks Loose Again.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 30.—The Ade[illegible] Oil Company's well No. 25, near [illegible] in the Sunset field, after being dormant for more than three months and refusing to respond to the [illegible] suddenly broke loose day before yesterday for two days it vomited a quantity of boulders and gravel, the gas pressure being enormous. At the end of forty-eight hours the refractory well began flowing oil and is steadily producing at the rate of between 300 and 400 barrels a day.

[illegible] A. Jastro, president of the American Livestock Association and head of the State Agricultural Society, has so far recovered from the recent illness that threatened his life as to be able to be removed from a local sanatorium to his home, today.

PRESIDENT FOR POMONA.

Beloit College Man Coming to Claremont as Head of Institution.

Prof. J. A. Blaisdell of Beloit College, Wisconsin, has accepted a call to the presidency of Pomona College, Claremont, according to an exclusive dispatch received by The Times last night from Beloit. He has just returned to his Wisconsin post from a visit to Pomona College, and this decision is the result.

Prof. Blaisdell is an educator of note, and considered one of the best speakers in the United States.

FOR NEW ROAD.

HILL MAY BE BEHIND MORE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EUREKA, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George Henderson, a well-known railroad man of this city, will make an application at the next meeting of the City Council for a franchise for a new railroad through Eureka. The indications are that he will get it, although his purposes seem decidedly mysterious. Henderson asks that a provision be placed in the advertisements for the sale of the franchise stipulating that every person bidding for it shall put up a forfeit of $25,000.

Henderson's plans are apparently to build his road up the coast to Klamath River, along which it will travel east into Idaho, if need be, reaching points where many advantageous connections with other roads can be made.

There is strong belief that Henderson is backed by Hill interests, and it is also said that the proposed road will be able very easily to make a junction with the Western Pacific. In order to reach Klamath from this city it would be necessary to tunnel Bald Mountain ridge between Redwood Creek and Klamath River. It is said that the route has been surveyed for several years.

GIRL SEEKS DEATH.

CLAIMS LOS ANGELES HOME.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Irene Jester drank laudanum last evening, and her life was saved only by the prompt arrival of physicians. The attempt at suicide occurred at the Hotel Manhattan. The young woman had been in Tonopah about two months, and has always been reticent about giving information concerning herself. She is about 20 years old.

She came to Tonopah from Los Angeles. Yesterday she announced her intention of leaving for Goldfield, and packed her trunks. Later in the afternoon, she called at the express company's office and had them shipped either to Los Angeles or Long Beach, Cal.

When she had fully regained her senses, she refused to give any reason for drinking the poison, and added that she would make another attempt at the first opportunity.

PROVED SANE.

COURT FINDS HIM COMPETENT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Through a judgment given yesterday by the court of appeals, Loren Coburn, owner of 35,000 acres of land in San Mateo, Monterey, Fresno and Merced counties, is declared competent to manage his own affairs. The judgment reverses a finding in April of last year, in which Judge Buck of the Superior Court of San Mateo county, adjudged Coburn unable to take care of himself, and appointed Carl J. Coburn, one of his nephews, as guardian. Coburn obtained his lands through a Spanish grant half a century ago.

SELLS TIDE-LANDS.

RAILROAD IS PURCHASER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Oct. 30.—Frank Ross, owner of extensive tide lands, announced today that he had sold 177 acres to a new transcontinental railroad, whose entrance here may be expected within a short time.

The amount paid is said to be more than $500,000. Ross says the road will go into the Oriental trade with steamship lines of its own. It is generally believed the newcomer is the Chicago & Northwestern.

ACCUSED OF WHITE SLAVERY.

San Franciscan Arrested by Federal Official Who Says Nation-Wide War Has Begun.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Jules Toussaint, proprietor of a restaurant in this city, was arrested today by Immigration Inspector Anton de la Torre, on a charge of importing girls into the United States for immoral purposes. He is charged with having imported Henriette Perrin, a French woman, whom he met in London three years ago.

According to the Federal immigration authorities in Washington, on whose complaint Toussaint was arrested, the accused man induced the girl to come to this country on promise of marriage.

De la Torre declared the arrest was the opening gun in a widespread war to stamp out the white slave traffic in this country.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Theresa Fair Oelrichs and Virginia Fair Vanderbilt are named among other defendants in a suit brought by the Bank of California today against the stockholders of the Fulton Iron Works to collect $97,000 on loans and notes. Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. Vanderbilt are stated to hold 200 shares each.

Boy Highwayman Shot.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—John Williams, aged 15, was shot through the chest and seriously wounded by William Ceinar, a plain-clothes policeman, who said the man had attempted to hold him up. According to Ceinar's story, Williams, masked in automobile goggles, sprang from the shrubbery and presented a revolver at the police officer's head, commanding him to "throw up his hands." Ceinar ducked and whipping out his own pistol, sent a bullet through the boy's chest.

SUES THE WIDOW OF RELATIVES FOR SLANDER.

Head of Fifty-Million-Dollar Dupont Company Declares His Wife's Good Name Has Been Assailed by "Untrue and Vulgar Statements" of Mrs. Alexis Dupont.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WILMINGTON (Del.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A sensation was created today when it became known that Alfred I. Dupont, vice-president and the recognized head of the $50,600,000 Dupont Powder Co., has brought suit for damages in the Superior Court against Mrs. Elizabeth Bradford Dupont, widow of Dr. Alexis Dupont, for slander. The amount of damages claimed has not yet been named, but, it is stated, the sum will be several hundred thousand dollars.

The complainant and the defendant are only distantly related by marriage. The specific charge is that the defendant, who is mother-in-law of Thomas F. Bayard, the Democratic State chairman, and son and namesake of the late Ambassador Bayard, is alleged to have originated and circulated "untrue and vulgar statements" in an attempt to injure the character of the complainant's wife.

The case, which begins on Monday, will be especially interesting because of the fact that many members of the wealthy Dupont family will be called as witnesses. In addition thereto, the name of Mrs. Mary Wilson Thompson, wife of Henry B. Thompson, of the Joseph Bancroft & Sons Company, and daughter of Gen. James H. Wilson, U. S. A. (retired,) is also mentioned in connection with the case. She is a friend and neighbor of the defendant. It was learned today that efforts have been made to compromise the suit, but Mr. Dupont has refused.

FALLS HARD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Never in the history of New York's underworld has there been a fall greater than that of Charley Condort, once king of wire tappers, who is locked in the police headquarters charged with an offense that a year ago he would have sneeringly characterized as "Rough Stuff," the last resort of a desperate, down-and-out crook.

Charley, who took $390,000 in a wire tapping game from the man, who is inventor of a score of ingenious schemes for fleecing the unwary rustic, that are now standards among these gentry who live solely by their wits, and who has more victim's scalps at his belt than any other man in his class in this part of the world, has fallen from his place, and has to answer to a charge of trying to steal $10 from a woman whom he took to a hotel in the Tenderloin last night. He was arrested on complaint of Marie Edwards, who says she lives in West Forty-second street.

"RECALL AN ILLEGAL FARCE', SAYS MAYOR OF PORTLAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "The recall in Oregon is an illegal farce, as far as it applies to officials elected for short terms. It doesn't give a man a chance. It allows a minority to harass the choice of a majority of the electorate."

Mayor Joseph Simon thus emphatically stated his attitude on the amendment to the constitution passed by the people of the State at the general election which preceded the last session of the Legislature. The Mayor further stated that in his opinion there is really no authority for invoking the recall under the State laws, and the Mayor is one of the best authorities on law in Oregon.

"According to the provisions of the constitutional amendment, the recall of a public officer may be effected if a petition to that end be signed by not less than 65 per cent. of the registered voters," said the Mayor, "but the law states that the Legislature shall designate what percentage of the voters shall be necessary to formulate a petition for recall.

"The State Legislature of Oregon has never passed any law making such a designation, so the recall cannot be operative.

"There is absolutely no necessity for the recall anyway. If a man commits any grievous offense he can be impeached and indicted for it. In any event public sentiment would act as a check on any abuse of his trust. He would be removed if he violated his oath of office."

William Matuskiwiz, the court interpreter, who acted in the case, discovered that Gubata was a fellow-townsman of his, and that the prisoner's father was a doctor in the Austrian army.

From here Gubata went to San Francisco, where he was subsequently arrested on a charge of forgery. Austrians, believing in his nobility, put up $1700 cash bail for the "Count," who disappeared shortly afterward without waiting for trial.

HURRICANE BLOWS GOOD.

Tidal Wave That Follows Brings Wealth to Fortunate Poor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Its an ill wind that blows no good, and the hurricane which swept a tidal wave from the Gulf over the State of Tobasco, Mex., brought down millions of feet of mahogany and cedar and distributed it over hundreds of miles of that country, occupied by poor natives, and by plantation owners who lost their crops by the flood.

The amount of timber is estimated at about 650,000 tons, valued at $20,000,000, and belongs to the unfortunates upon whose premises it was washed by the storm tide.

This valuable timber, the accumulation of half a century, had fallen into ravines, and other inaccessible recesses in the mountainsides, where it would have cost more than its value to have recovered it by machinery, or the construction of railways. But the tidal wave, assisted by the heavy rains, filled the heavy ravines with powerful streams, which swept the timber out into the open country and over miles of territory.

Gov. Comer of Alabama, who has to borrow $50,000 to pay November expenses of State because of lack of revenue caused by prohibition.

State treasury, and the urgent necessity of borrowing $50,000 to pay the November expenses.

While the license ran only to $100,000 or so, a year, this, with the $300,000 the Governor may borrow under the law, would tide things over to January, when the new taxes begin to come in. Gov. Comer has just negotiated a $50,000 loan for the month coming in, and is dropping out a few lines where he may for the balance of the allowed total. He says he will carry the State through all right, but how, he has kept a profound secret.

With first-class credit the State could get all the money it needs, but the law is explicit that no more than $300,000 shall be borrowed, and no one can make notes for anything in excess of that figure. The condition of the treasury grows out of the loss of the liquor taxes and the failure, because of litigation, to collect $100,000 expected from franchise levies on foreign corporations. These, with the permitted loan, would have been ample by kiting funds, to tide over the lean seasons.

The Legislature of 1907 made the slate of appropriations with no thought of a general prohibition bill, and this coming at a special term in the fall of that year, knocked calculations out. Throwing out the saloons and suspending the breweries had a tendency to knock down the tax valuations so that the leaning has been to the all-going-out and nothing-coming-in class. All this is augmented by the present fight to put prohibition in the Constitution, business holding its breath in large measure, awaiting the result of a special election on November 20.

UNIONITES DYNAMITE BUILDING.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 30.—A building in course of construction here to be used as a garage was partially wrecked by an explosion of dynamite last night. Windows on other buildings were broken, but no one was injured. The contractors say the explosion was a result of recent labor troubles, non-union men having been employed in construction of the garage. Two men are under arrest on suspicion.

NOTED CAREER OF DR. HENSON.

But Six Pastorates in More Than Half-Century.

Minister Officially Greeted by Brother Preachers.

Newman Club Honors Bishop Conaty at Banquet.

Tomorrow morning Dr. P. S. Henson will preach his first sermon as "stated supply" for Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Henson is easily one of the most prominent Baptist ministers in America, and has behind him the remarkable record of serving but six congregations in a ministry of fifty-five years, and that in Brooklyn was for a period of but one year. His longest period with one church was twenty years, with the First Baptist Church of Chicago, while twenty-two years were divided between two churches in Philadelphia. He remained in his first charge in Fluvanna, Va., for six years, and in his last one, Tremont Temple, Boston, six years, when he voluntarily retired from the active pastorate, having arrived at the age of 77 years, and came to Los Angeles to spend the winter.

Dr. Henson has always been a powerful preacher, and though he has laid aside the duties of an active pastor, he is said to have lost but little of his native vigor, and one would little suspect his real age. In addition to preaching in the Auditorium every Sunday morning and evening, he will conduct the Wednesday evening meeting.

Sunday evening, the time will be divided between Dr. Henson and Rev. E. R. Brown, assistant pastor of Temple Church, who will say his farewell word before leaving for Mexico on Monday evening.

TO BISHOP CONATY.
NEWMAN CLUB'S WELCOME.

The Newman Club gave a banquet in honor of Bishop Conaty at Levy's on Friday night, which was attended by about fifty members of the club and special guests. It was in the form of a welcome home to the bishop, after an extended trip in Europe.

Bishop Conaty was at his best, and in a most interesting way told of his travels, to the delight of his hearers. He paid particular attention to his visit to the Propaganda College in Rome, and to the chapel where Cardinal Newman said his first mass. In speaking of the latter, the bishop said:

"While there, I thought of the Newman Club, as I did again when I was taken to the cell where he had prepared himself to become a Catholic priest."

The bishop went quite fully over his trip, and spoke particularly of the great improvement he found in Ireland, the land of his birth. He said the farmers of Ireland were much more prosperous than [illegible] and they showed it in ma[illegible] a result of their becomi[illegible] their own farms.

COUNTRY AWAITING RESULTS OF TUESDAY'S BALLOTING.

Bitter and Slashing Fight on in Illinois Over the Saloon, Mayor Johnson Struggling Against Odds in Cleveland for Re-election—Fight Is Desperate in Virginia.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Municipal and State elections of more than local interest will be held Tuesday in many parts of the United States.

Illinois's contribution to the nationwide political excitement, which reaches its climax on that day, will come from bitter and slashing contests over the saloon, in thirty-three cities and villages.

Outside of Illinois the Mayoralty election in New York overshadows all others, but is by no means the only one to which the eyes of the entire country are turned.

The hottest gubernatorial campaigns are being made in Massachusetts, where Gov. Draper, Republican, will probably be reëlected; in Rhode Island, where Gov. Pothier, Republican, seems likely to win by a narrow margin, and in Virginia, where Judge William H. Mann, Democrat, is expected to win and thus keep the State in the Democratic column.

Among constitutional amendments to be passed upon by the voters, one which is attracting most attention is before the peple of Maryland, and aims to disenfranchise negro voters.

In Cleveland the supporters of Herman Baehr, Republican candidate for Mayor against Tom L. Johnson, are making every possible use of the story that the Mayor narrowly escaped being shot while entering a saloon, where he had gone for his luncheon.

The traction issue has been retired temporarily, while taxation has succeeded it as the Mayor's uppermost subject for discussion. The Republicans have attacked him as a tax-dodger himself, and have challenged his sincerity.

Though Johnson is a 100-to-80 favorite in the betting, the Republicans insist he will be defeated by at least 3000.

The Mayoralty campaign in Indianapolis, Ind., is turning to the moral fitness of the candidates, and the possibility of brewery control in the event that Charles Gauss, Democratic candidate, wins. The active entrance of Tom Taggart into the campaign, has convinced many Democrats that Gauss is being backed by the brewers, and that if he is elected he will be under obligations to a class of men "who are in politics only when politics is to be made a personal advantage."

This issue is bringing many Republican business men and church members to the support of Shank, who would otherwise not have supported him, because he is not regarded as first-class Mayoralty timber. Betting on the election favors Shank.

In the Massachussetts' gubernatorial campaign the backers of Gov. Draper, Republican candidate, claim he will win by 45,000 plurality. The Democratic party has seldom presented so united a front and the 45,000 estimate may be cut down by 25,000. Lieut.-Gov. Eugene N. Foss, Lieut.-Gov. and a lifelong Republican, but a bolter from the party on account of dissatisfaction with the tariff bill, is the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Judge Mann, Democratic candidate for Governor of Virginia looks like a sure winner by possibly 20,000 majority. Capt. William P. Kont is his Republican opponent.

The Republicans have made large gains in Virginia during the past few years, but they are yet far from a victory at a State election. The issue this fall has been based on the charge of the Republicans that the Democrats have been extravagant and reckless.

The Maryland constitutional amendment designed to disenfranchise the negro voters seems doomed for defeat. The majority against it in the city of Baltimore is estimated at from 8 to 10,000.

"ROASTS" EX-SECRETARIES.

New Head of Mint Author of Seathing Attack on Shaw and Gage.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A bitter criticism of the course of former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, and also of the course of former Secretary Gage, made by A. Piatt Andrew of Harvard, who is just entering the office of Director of the Mint, has come to light here. It was published some time ago, but attracted little notice. In view of Prof. Andrews's high official place, it is likely to cause a big stir in financial and business circles.

Prof. Andrews condemns, in unsparing terms, the "paternalism" which led Secretary Shaw repeatedly to aid the money market. He holds Gage and Shaw partly responsible for the 1907 panic, but he blames Mr. Shaw chiefly. He takes the position that some of Mr. Shaw's expedients were of doubtful legality, and declared that "arbitrary and lawless meddling, sometimes involving favoritism on the part of the Treasurer," fanned the flames of extravagant speculation.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Eight-year-old Harry McDonald, who tried to burn the St. Louis County Jail, at Clayton, after he had stolen a horse and buggy, driving sixteen miles into the country, and put the horse in a stable and burned both the barn and the beast, was released today on a bond of $200, signed by his mother, Mrs. Mary McDonald.

The mother told Judge Wurdeman that he boy had taken the rig merely to get away from a doctor who operated upon him recently for adenoids.

Allenists have recommended the removal of adenoids from the nasal passage of children as tending toward both moral and physical improvement.

It is held also that such an operation, develops the mental aptitude of school children.

Mrs. McDonald said Harry was operated upon successfully and has entertained a childish fear of the physician. She said her son did not know the difference between right and wrong, and was not responsible for what he had done.

Harry will appear next Friday before Judge Wurdeman in the Juvenile Court.

San Francisco Hotels.

A Hotel of 600 Rooms and 600 Bath Rooms

California is unique in many things and offers to the visitors many things which cannot be seen elsewhere in the world. One of her latest claims of excellence, however, is having the only large hotel in the world in which every room has its attached bath. This is the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. The Fairmont was originally designed under the direction of a woman—its owner—Mrs. Oelrichs, who was Miss Fair. Perhaps because Mrs. Oelrichs appreciated the conveniences which appeal to the women, she had every room built with its attached bath and clothes closet. Both the bathrooms and closets are of immense size—large enough to delight the heart of every woman. Another feature of the Fairmont's construction is that it has no inside rooms—every room opens upon the streets with city or sea view, or upon our great open-to-the-sky court. Every room is equipped with local and long-distance telephone; also telephone connection to the dining rooms. Despite these many conveniences the rates of the Fairmont are low. For $2.50 per day and upwards European plan, one may enjoy a great room with attached bath. [illegible]ly furnished suites of parlor, sitting room, bedroom and bath may be had for as low as $10 per day and upward. The Fairmont is operated by the Palace Hotel Company, owners of the Palace Hotel on Market street.

British Politicians Admit the Tide Has Turned.

Now Running in Favor of the Unionist Party.

Demand for Tariff Reform Wins Election.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Practical politicians of all British parties perceive that the tide is running in favor of the Unonist programme, though there is no telling how far it will go. The Unionists are determined to force the fighting on all issues between them and the Radicals and Homerulers.

Stimulated by the victory at Bermondsey of "Honest Jack" Dumphreys, who twenty-four years ago started in Birmingham to convert the then Radical Joseph Chamberlain to tariff reform, they predict that the general election, now within measurable distance, will give them an absolute majority in the Commons.

Radicals and Home Rulers characterize this prediction as "extravagant and grotesque," but they concede that the Unionist outlook is much brighter than it was a week ago.

Asquith and Balfour, at the heads of their respective forces, are leading with as much brilliancy as ever has been displayed by rival chieftains in recent parliamentary history.

Bermondsey, the poorest section of London, south of the Thames, was won squarely on the issue of tariff reform. Dumphreys closed every speech thus:

"Mr. Lloyd George's budget is no remedy for the national distress. Under the present system of free trade it will only increase the transfer of wages to foreign lands. The sole remedy for the growing depression that is injuring the earning power of the whole nation is tariff reform. Put aside every other consideration and keep this always in view."

According to the latest local government board return one person in every forty-five in England and Wales is a pauper and the increase last year was 1 per cent.

"They told me," cried Dumphreys, "that our troubles were due to America. But protectionist America is booming and roaring with prosperity and we die on the altars of free trade."

POET GOES BROKE.

Stephen Phillips Follows the Illustrious Example of Many Geniuses and Is Bankrupt.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Stephen Phillips, the poet and playwright, whose "Paolo and Francesca" gained him enduring fame, and whose "Herod," has just been produced in New York, went through a public examination in the bankruptcy court yesterday. The poet's debts, it appeared, amounted to $3670; his assets nil. His income consisted of 5 per cent. of the royalties on plays written for various theatrical managers.

From July, 1907, to the time of bankruptcy on August 18, the amount due him amounted to $5500 and receipts to little under $4500 including $1800 from the "Last Heir," $1515 from "Faust," and $800 paid by MacMillan's on the account of a $1000 promised for a new play, which the poet is now writing. For the past eighteen months Phillips, the examination brought out, had been borrowing from friends and money lenders.

Stephen Phillips, it may be added, from private information, has always displayed absolute ignorance of the value of money and utter carelessness in spending it. His habit of borrowing has alienated even his strongest friends. He at one time lived in the neighborhood of Rudyard Kipling who for a long period assisted him, but eventually forbade him his house, so erratic were the poet's methods.

GAMBLING RIFE AT OXFORD.

Said to Form Considerable Part of the Industry of the English Undergraduate.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Borrowing money and betting on horse races, it has been discovered, form a considerable part of the industry of undergraduates of Cambridge and Oxford universities. Facts have been disclosed by a case brought under the betting acts, in which Edward Fairfax Studd, justice of the peace in County Devon, fined a sporting "tipster" for sending his son, a minor, an invitation to gamble on the Czarowitz race.

Studd told the magistrate that thousands of circulars were distributed among the undergraduates at Oxford and Cambridge, some detailing how wealth could be acquired by gambling, and others offering loans on promissory notes without security. The ordinarily fast life of the universities is confined to the "bloods," a small minority of students, but the combination of tips and proffered loans is said to tempt many poorer students to gamble.

WINS GERMAN PRIZE.

TEUTON FLIES FAST AND FAR.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

JOHANISTHAL (Germany) Oct. 30.—Hans Grade, the German aviator, won today the Lanse prize of $10,000 by flying two and one-half kilometers (a little more than a mile and a half,) in 2m. 43s.

The competition was restricted to aeroplanes constructed in Germany, by Germans, and propelled by Germans.

After receiving the prize, Grade made two more flights of about five minutes each in his monoplane.

"UNDERGRADS" IMPOLITE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a final meeting of the Royal University of Ireland last evening the undergraduates seized one of the large galleries in the hall, and drowned with their clamor every word spoken from the platform. Sir Christopher Nixon, the vice-president, was in the chair and the body of the hall was filled with visitors.

The undergraduates flung out flags with skulls and crossbones, shouted, sang and threw squibs, which set fire to the baize floor covering below, so that great activity was required to prevent a serious blaze. When the Senate entered the hall in processional order the undergraduates burst into a chorus of singing and shrieking. They stamped with all their might and threw firecrackers upon the audience, when Sir Christopher tried to speak.

The undergraduates brought out a long piece of fire hose, but they were not able to attach it to a hydrant, and so the spectators escaped a drenching. The meeting closed amid wild confusion.

TOULOUSE (France) Oct. 30.—The Congress of Catholics, in session here today adopted resolutions outlining a political programme, which alleges the right of the church to hold property and demands the ultimate restitution of the church property forfeited under the separation law.

Lucania's Last Voyage.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 30.—The Cunard line steamer Lucania, which has been in the Transatlantic service for seventeen years, sailed on her last voyage today. Her port is Swansea, where she will be broken up. The steamer was badly damaged by a fire while she was lying at Liverpool on August 14 last. Recently she was sold to a firm of ship brokers for $150,000.

Shortly after midnight yesterday morning the house at Bridge, Ont., of A. McLaughlin, a book-keeper, was destroyed by fire and Mrs. McLaughlin and her two young children were burned to death.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler Talks on Americanism.

Tells Emperor Public Opinion Is "Boss" Here.

Sovereign Listens and Nods His Approval.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—The Emperor, Empress and Princess Louise occupied front seats in the Auditorium of Berlin today, when Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California, and Prof. Moore, of Harvard, delivered the opening lectures of their courses.

Each spoke for a half hour. Seated near the Imperial party were R. S. Reynolds Hitt, secretary of the American embassy, and Mrs. Hitt.

Prf. Erich Schmidt, rector of the University of Berlin, in introducing the American educators, referred to the great influence of America in the culture of the world.

President Wheeler's message from the New World was as to the power of public opinion in the United States, and as he began with the words, "the source of all power in the United States is public opinion," there were those present who saw something dramatic in a situation where the sovereign of one of the most powerful monarchies of Europe listened with an expression of pleased attentiveness to the speaker's explanation of the transitory character of any governing machine in the United States which ceased to correctly interpret any present public opinion.

AMERICANS CONSERVATIVE.

Continuing, the Californian said that notwithstanding their radical theories, their fierce spirit exhibited in elections, and ther predelictions for novelties, Americans were essentially conservative.

He was convinced from personal acquaintance with W. J. Bryan, he said, that Mr. Bryan would have been conservative if he had been elected President; but if he had not proved conservative, he would have been bound hand and foot and gaggd.

At the mention of Mr. Bryan there was a stir in the audience among those who happened to know that the Emperor's councillors of the Foreign Office had advised His Majesty against giving an audience to Mr. Bryan when the distinguished American visited Berlin in 1907.

REFERS TO ROOSEVELT.

Following his reference to Mr. Bryan, President Wheeler turned his attention to former President Roosevelt, whom he described as conservative in his innermost impulses. The latter's capacity for understanding public opinion accounted, the speaker said, for the great place he held in the hearts of the American people.

Prof. Moore outlined the course of lectures which he will deliver on the function of religious history. He said he would treat the subject in an historical spirit strictly.

Nation's New Disease Which Scared the Corn Belt Last Summer Is Disappearing.

FROM THE GRAVE.

SHADE OF DEAD PRESIDENT MAY SHIELD "RED WIDOW."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Paris is on the eve of another tremendous sensation—judicial and criminal—the trial of Mme. Steinheil for the murder of her husband and her aged stepmother. The trial will begin Wednesday, and the prospects at present are that all women will be barred from the courtroom.

The formal accusation of the so-called "red widow," equivalent to an indictment in America, is said to have been drawn with such ability as to insure the conviction of the brilliant woman, whose checkered career has been interwoven with so much that concerned the inner workings of the republic.

Henri Rochefort is of this opinion, and says that Mme. Steinheil still enjoys a secret protection, without which her life would have paid the forfeit of her crimes before now.

"It is easy to divine that it is the shade of Felix Faure that is interceding for her," said Rochefort.

Mme. Steinheil was a friend of Felix Faure, President of France, who died suddenly—of apoplexy, it was asserted—in 1899. She is said to have been in his company a few hours before he was stricken with his fatal illness and secretly removed him from the house of an actress to the Presidential abode.

People are wondering whether M. Faure's death will in any manner figure in Mme. Steinheil's trial. Her counsel are mysteriously silent on this important matter. Of course, it is known that Mme. Steinheil indulged in many liaisons, and the opinion is expressed by certain of the legal fraternity that the trial will develop some big surprises.

BEATIFICATION FAR OFF.

BUT LITTLE PROSPECT FOR ST. CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When qeustioned today relative to the proposed beatification of Christopher Columbus, Cardinal Francis Segna, a member of the congregation of the Sacred Rites, said:

"No formal requests or direct appeals for the beatification of Columbus have reached the congregation since the petition addressed to Pius IX in 1870, but the question probably will be referred soon to the Pope, who will submit it to the congregation."

Cardinal Segna refused to say whether the Pope favored the beatification, and he declined also to divulge his own opinion. Asked whether miracles were necessary to beatification, he replied that before the question was taken up, the life of Columbus, including the slightest everyday incidents of his career, would form the subjects of a strict investigation. This, he added, would take up the domestic relations of the discoverer, which were such that they might prevent beatification.

The cardinal refused to explain further, but the impression prevails that the life of Columbus has been examined privately by the congregation, and that the conclusion has been reached that beatification is almost impossible.

The Mercurial Treatment OF Tuberculosis

A department for the above has now been in operation at the Los Angeles Dispensary for some months, and the good results obtained (particularly at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Colorado, where there have been over 89 per cent. of improvements.—Bulletin, Washington. Government Printing Office. April, 1909,) make it desirable that all sufferers should, at any rate, have the opportunity of learning about the new treatment. The physician in charge will freely give this information, and show Bulletins, etc., to bonafide callers (want of time renders it impossible to write adequate descriptions) whether they take the treatment or not. Judge Us by The Values We've Been Giving You For The Last 15 Years

Some business firms abuse the word "special"—thinking that this one word attracts the public. This is not "The Owl's" way of advertising. "The Owl" does not say "special" unless it MEANS special—unless the price named is actually lower than our regular price for the goods advertised. "The Owl" is patronized by the best people on the Pacific Coast, people who know quality of products and quality of service—people who recognize value. Judge us by the values we've been giving for the last 15 years. We can ask for nothing better.

NOTED CAREER OF DR. HENSON.

But Six Pastorates in More Than Half-Century.

Minister Officially Greeted by Brother Preachers.

Newman Club Honors Bishop Conaty at Banquet.

Tomorrow morning Dr. P. S. Henson will preach his first sermon as "stated supply" for Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Henson is easily one of the most prominent Baptist ministers in America, and has behind him the remarkable record of serving but six congregations in a ministry of fifty-five years, and that in Brooklyn was for a period of but one year. His longest period with one church was twenty years, with the First Baptist Church of Chicago, while twenty-two years were divided between two churches in Philadelphia. He remained in his first charge in Fluvanna, Va., for six years, and in his last one, Tremont Temple, Boston, six years, when he voluntarily retired from the active pastorate, having arrived at the age of 77 years, and came to Los Angeles to spend the winter.

Dr. Henson has always been a powerful preacher, and though he has laid aside the duties of an active pastor, he is said to have lost but little of his native vigor, and one would little suspect his real age. In addition to preaching in the Auditorium every Sunday morning and evening, he will conduct the Wednesday evening meeting.

Sunday evening, the time will be divided between Dr. Henson and Rev. E. R. Brown, assistant pastor of Temple Church, who will say his farewell word before leaving for Mexico on Monday evening.

TO BISHOP CONATY.

NEWMAN CLUB'S WELCOME.

The Newman Club gave a banquet in honor of Bishop Conaty at Levy's on Friday night, which was attended by about fifty members of the club and special guests. It was in the form of a welcome home to the bishop, after an extended trip in Europe.

Bishop Conaty was at his best, and in a most interesting way told of his travels, to the delight of his hearers. He paid particular attention to his visit to the Propaganda College in Rome, and to the chapel where Cardinal Newman said his first mass. In speaking of the latter, the bishop said:

"While there, I thought of the Newman Club, as I did again when I was taken to the cell where he had prepared himself to become a Catholic priest."

The bishop went quite fully over his trip, and spoke particularly of the great improvement he found in Ireland, the land of his birth. He said the farmers of Ireland were much more prosperous than e and they showed it in ma a result of their becomi their own farms.

an Church have fixed upon December 3 and 4 for holding their "Winter Carnival" in Ebell Clubhouse.

Dr. J. Q. A. Henry will deliver an address before the Baptist convention at Oxnard this evening, and will be home to occupy his pulpit in the First Church on Sunday morning. In the evening, Col. Blanche Cox of the Salvation Army will speak.

KIDNAPED!

Frank Farrelly, 7 years old, son of William Farrelly, a boilermaker, was kidnaped from the Ann-street school Thursday morning. The police were not notified of the disappearance of the child until yesterday morning, and have made no headway in locating his whereabouts.

Two women, one a Mexican and the other an American, stopped in front visited the Barker Bros. store before asking for credit there, and F. A. Barnes cashed several small checks for him and they were all good. However, shortly before the financial genius disappeared he slipped over a worthless check for $100, adding insult to injury.

Manager Harry A. Loomis, of the Angelus Hotel, did not get any the best of Muggsley while the latter lived there. In fact, Loomis is still $50 shy on a bill of $250, but says that he deserves a medal for getting money out of the slick Harvard man, when he collected $200 cash on a hotel bill, which his guest seemed perfectly willing to let run.

"I heard that Muggsley was circulating checks which came back marked 'no funds,' remarked the hotel manager." "I saw that there was something wrong in spite of his apparent wealth, so I called him down to the office and told him that if he did not pay up within an hour, I would swear out a complaint against him. How he raised the money I do not know, but in an hour he gave me $200 on account."

HIS WOMAN FRIEND.

While living at the Angelus, Muggsley was often in the company of Mrs. Rexford, who was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. L. Koser, from New York city. The two, young married women, arrived at the hotel at the same time the Harvard man took up his residence there and it developed that he had been in their company during a trip through Yellowstone Park.

It is asserted that Mrs. Rexford told Muggsley that she was a grass widow, and Muggsley told her he was possessed of vast wealth. Each apparently tried to carry out their parts in the farce-comedy-tragedy. Mrs. Rexford charmed Muggsley and he lavished money on her apparently to carry out his adopted policy of appearing in the guise of a care-free millionaire. Although the two women and the man behaved with perfect decorum while staying at the Angelus, they were noticeably together and guests supposed that they were engaged to be married.

When Muggsley decided to purchase the bungalow on Kingsley Drive, he told several persons that he was about to be married, and brought his prospective bride into Barker Bros. store and introduced her to members of the firm.

Exactly what representations were made by Mrs. Rexford and Muggsley are not yet known, but, after taking the house, they placed in charge, Mrs. A. F. Lowry, who claims to be the mother of Mrs. Rexford, and also installed in the house another married daughter, who calls herself "Mrs. Lee."

OLD LADY WAKES UP.

Perhaps the innocent old lady was deceived and accepted the position of housekeeper in the luxurious new abode without suspecting there was anything wrong. Shortly after Mrs. Lowry and "Mrs. Lee" were installed in the bungalow, Muggsley left for what he termed "a pleasure tour of the East." Simultaneously with his disappearance, Mrs. Rexford and Mrs. Koser left the city. From information possessed by the District Attorney's office, when last heard from, Muggsley was in Buffalo, N. Y., in company with the alleged grass widow. Her husband in Elmira has been sending money to permit his spouse to travel for her health. When last seen, the frisky wife of the trusting husband seemed in a fair way to recover her health and said her visit in Los Angeles had done her much good.

A sad awakening from her dream of bliss awaited Mrs. Lowry, yesterday, when it was explained that Muggsley is a swindler and her newly-found home was as bare as a drill hall. With tears in her eyes the old lady watched the furniture disappear as husky employés of the furniture company, guarded by a member of the from darkest Africa, led this part of caravan. The D.O.K.K. patrol formed the rear guard and kept the prisoners of war from getting heavy feet.

The parade ended at Levy's where the new members were given plenty to eat before being sacrificed at Turner Hall. R. L. Dunlap was toastmaster. There were short talks on the work of the order by Earl Rogers, G. Ray Horton and others.

The ceremonies at Turner Hall began at 9 o'clock and ended sometime before daylight. The business there was transacted in a solemn and serious manner until the sixth and last order of business.

This was the initiation of the 150 candidates, some of whom are trying to realize this morning just what really did happen. From the sounds that issued through the closed doors, there might have been an earthquake, a battle or perhaps the feeding of the tiger.

The bulletin issued by the order stated that the terrible tiger was in charge, assisted by the world-famed greedy, gleeful gropperwhozzle, the the wild gozzleswhop the near-sighted Ngmp and other denizens of the desert, fresh from their native lairs. A number of the candidates, when seen after the ceremonies, stated that it was their honest belief that all of these horrible animals were present.

Urbane Manager Fryman, standing nearby, heard the remarks and offered to assist in the search for the garment. The guest, bell-hop, manager and chief maid retired to the room and after five minutes' search had not discovered it. Just as they were about to give up and Manager Fryman had offered to make reimbursement, the maid turned back the upper cover of the bed, and there lay the coat.

Apologies came thick and fast and the guest finally had a hazy recollection of having arisen during the night and procurred the coat for additional covering. He also promised himself never again to act hastily, particularly since the delay had made it too late to catch the train.

SUCH A DEADNESS!

Man Who Does Not Awaken in Response to Calls Causes Excitement in Downtown Hotel.

A florid man of rather large build, rushed up to the clerk of one of the downtown hotels yesterday afternoon and hurriedly declared that from his window, he had seen the prostrate form of a man in a room on the opposite side of the court. "Looks as if he had fallen to the floor, dead with heart failure or something of the sort," he remarked.

Three telephone calls had been sent to the room previous to the information offered and, as no reply had been received, it was supposed that the guest was out. When the information of his probable death had been received, the clerk instructed the carpenter to proceed with the bell hop to the room, there to look into the mystery and force the door if necessary.

Before they were on their way, a woman who also has rooms on the opposite side of the court, came rushing to the clerk from the elevator and in a half breath, whispered that there was a dead man on the floor of one of the rooms on the fourth floor. "He's lying stretched on the floor and the maid, whom I sent to waken him, reported that he didn't move or make a sound in reply to her efforts."

In order that the hotel might have an accurate statement of the death, the clerk accompanied the bellhop, the carpenter and the two informants, who folowed behind.

Arrived at the room on the fourth floor, the door was tried and found locked. A pass key soon admitted the clerk and his assistants. As had been stated, there lay the man, stretched out as if he had fallen from the bed. The attempts to rouse him were futile, he was assuredly dead—dead drunk.

PATRIOTIC.

DRUMS RATTLE IN TAG BATTLE.

VETERANS PUSH MEMORIAL HALL BUILDING PROJECT.

Great Army of Volunteers Buy Souvenir Containing Signature of the President—Stirring Scenes Along the Streets—Ladies Take Leading Part in Campaign.

With fife and drums, and flags flying, the veterans pushed their tag-day campaign yesterday. Little groups of old soldiers, each accompanied by patriotic women, were to be seen in all parts of the city, gathering in the dimes and dispensing the little tags, adorned with the autograph of President Taft. Elaborately decorated automobiles drove up and down the streets, bent on the same errand, carrying parties of ladies. At some of the street corners ladies were stationed in doorways with a supply of tags, while boys and girls canvassed the crowds along the thoroughfares.

All day long headquarters were maintained at Victoria Hall, on Spring street, with a number of veterans and women of the patriotic organization in constant attendance.

It was an interesting sight, and brought back to memory the old war days to see the grizzled veterans surrounded by crowds of people, and hear the martial strains of "Yankee Doodle," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Star Spangled Banner," "Dixie" and other familiar airs, while the untiring women sought purchasers for their tags.

It was not possible last night to ascertain how many tags had been sold, but it is thought that perhaps 50,000 dangled from buttonholes before the day ended; this would mean $5000 gross.

Tag days have been somewhat numerous during the past few years, but it is an easy way to aid a worthy enterprise, without a tax worth considering on any individual. While the veterans are disappointed in not disposing of all of the 100,000 tags, many may yet be sold, as the souvenir bearing the signature of President Taft is well worth preserving. It is probable that patriotic people will rally to the support of the Memorial Hall Association and increase the fund to $25,000 before January 1, 1910, in order that they will not be called upon to forfeit any of the subscriptions thus far made. Los Angeles is not noted for "falling down" on a movement of this kind, and Memorial Hall will be built, even should some of the subscriptions be annulled by lapse of time.

WILL DISCUSS OPENING.

There will be a meeting of the Santa Barbara Avenue Improvement Association in the Morris Block at Santa Barbara and Moneta avenues tomorrow evening. Representatives of the City Council and the street railroad company will be present to discuss a plan for the opening of Santa Barbara avenue between Figueroa and Vermont avenue.

Charcoal Lozenges Powerful Absorbents

Offensive Breath and Stomach Gases Cannot Exist When They are Used.

Charcoal, by virtue of its porous nature, takes up gases mechanically just as a sponge takes up water. Its capacity in this respect is in proportion to the number and fineness of its pores. Charcoal made from poplar, beechwood, vegetable ivory, cocoanut shells and willow wood, is a compact, heavy substance, having a metallic luster, the pores being quite invisible.

Chemical tests of various kinds performed by expert chemists have revealed the fact that charcoal made from willow wood, is not only absolutely harmless, but it is by far the most powerful absorbent of all kinds of gases. Certain other woods, mentioned above, are used by some manufacturers in making charcoal, and besides not being half as effective in absorbing stomach-gases, have also been found to be positively harmful to the digestive system.

Willow wood charcoal is, then, the very best for the purpose of absorbing excessive gas of the stomach, removing intestinal flatus, and purifying foul breath. Charcoal to be effective against gastric flatulence must be introduced among the gases of the stomach in the same state as when fresh from the crucible. The [illegible] of effecting this is to compress [illegible] into soluble lozenges, so that [illegible] being dissolved in the mouth and swallowed, the charcoal is "set free," at once begins its work of [illegible] and absorbing foul gases, and also through its antiseptic properties, purifying the entire alimentary [illegible]

It is definitely known that the absorbent and cleansing action of charcoal is protracted and [illegible] through the intestinal system as [illegible] as in the stomach, and it proves [illegible] eficial there also.

In STUART'S CHARCOAL LOZENGES we have a gas-absorbing remedy which readily takes precedence over all others. The [illegible] used in them is the very [illegible] can be obtained. They are [illegible] of the finest young willow wood converted into charcoal by the [illegible] carbonizing Stuart Process, and before being compressed into [illegible] the powdered chacoal is [illegible] sweet and thoroughly agreeable to the taste by being mixed with [illegible] honey, and the result is a [illegible] equally as palatable as candy.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges [illegible] attained a wide popularity [illegible] the people, millions of boxes [illegible] sold every year. They have [illegible] and over again proven [illegible] ciency as rapid and powerful [illegible] ents of foul stomach-gases, [illegible] and curing flatulence, belching, the eructation of gases, and [illegible] in the purification of [illegible] breath.

17c A DAY

Buys a Ten Acre Florida Fruit or Truck Farm That Will Yield $300 to $1,000 Per Acre

READ THIS FIRST; IT TELLS OUR PLAN

The Type Is Small; the Opportunity Immense

This company, backed by men whose reputations will bear the closest investigation, makes the following offer: We have 500 ten acre, 250 twenty acre 125 forty acre farms which we wish to sell within the next thirty days. This land is located around Ocala and Lake Weir, upon the backbone of Florida, within 90 miles of Jacksonville and 85 miles of Tampa, in the counties of Marion, Lake and Sumter. It is all level lying, gently rolling and self-draining as much so as Illinois and Iowa. Its soil is the richest man could desire. It will grow anything that grows. It is located now in the center of the prize winning orange, fruit and garden truck region of Florida. All about it are located bearing groves and fruit farms. You may alight from a Pullman car at Summerfield and walk to your farm in a brief time. None of these farms is more than a few miles from the main line of the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line R. R. All along these lines and close by our land your fruit will be bought by cash buyers, who have packing and storage warehouses where they receive your products and pay your price to you if you do not care to take the trouble of marketing the crops yourself. There is plenty of water on the property for all purposes. It is the center of a famous lake region. The water is always at hand for all purposes. You do not have to irrigate. The land is not muck land or swamps. It is high, desirable, healthy, level and gently rolling land, free from tall timber and ready for the plow. It is specially adapted for the growing of oranges, grape fruit, berries, melons, potatoes, vegetables of all kinds. Its climatic conditions are ideal. Across this land sweep the breezes of the Gulf and the Atlantic. Pests worry neither you nor your fruit. You walk around in shirt sleeves in the winter, and during June, July and August the temperature is about 80 to 83 degrees on an average. The death rate for Florida is one in every 1447, the healthiest State in the Union. This spot is the healthiest section in the State. Your children will have fine schools all about them. Your wife can meet and mingle with ladies of culture and refinement. Your neighbors will be men whom you will admire and follow. These men will tell you that they would not sell their farms for many times the price you are asked to pay for this land.

OUR PLAN

We are today arranging to have this announcement placed in a number of publications whose readers will number about 40,000,000 people. We have now decided to make this offer apply to 875 farms, allotted as above mentioned. If your application reaches us in time we will give you a farm; if not we will return your money. The price of the land is $20 per acre. Send us 50 cents per acre down and 50 cents per acre per month. Elsewhere you will find a table that shows you just what to pay and how to pay it. Our guarantee below shows how we protect those who cannot visit this land now. We do not want any man to buy simply upon our word who cannot see the benefit of this land. We have no desire to have any man buy more than he can afford to pay for. We want only good men and women, and will not tolerate any other kind. We have other land to sell in this section, but we want this particular tract to have upon it the class of business men and farmers who will improve it and be willing to spend the money in making this spot what it should be. The land is highly fertile. We will show you scores of men in this vicinity who each year raise three crops and receive for these crops, from only a few acres, more actual profit than half the bank cashiers of this country are paid in salaries. There is nothing to be said of Florida that cannot be said of this land. It is our purpose later to build a suitable colony house, where our colonists may come with their friends and families and remain until their homes are completed. We will give you all the advice and assistance in the building of your home and the planting of your trees and crops. In a word, we will stand behind you until you can get along of your own experience. You must not think that just because you are a professional man or woman or that you have no knowledge of semi-tropical products that you cannot raise them with profit. In Florida nature works for man, and man does not have to slave like he does in the north and the west. You must come here, however, determined that you will await the time it takes nature to give to you the products you demand. You should have funds enough to tide you over such a period. You must plant your crops and build your home; when this is done the return is ample and the investment secure.

All over Florida you will meet men who will show you proof of their yields. Some of these reach more than $1,500 per acre. These men can be found all around the land we are now offering you. These crops are actualities, but they are not the common thing. It is a safe estimate, though, to say that the average fruit and vegetable farm, if run properly, will return $300 to $500 per acre each year. This is the kind of land we are now offering to you at $20 per acre and giving you three months more than three years in which to pay for such land.

No matter what your present station is, you can own one of these farms. The man or woman is indeed poor who cannot save at least $5 a month to place in an investment of this kind. You should buy as much of this land as you can afford. No more and no less. Don't let this investment be a burden to you, but enter upon it with the knowledge that you will place your money here and that you will come and live upon this land, if not now, later in life. You can find plenty of labor at reasonable terms to do the farm work for you if you do not care to perform this labor yourself. You will find good stores at which to do your marketing; you will have at your very farm the finest of hunting and fishing, while for tarpon and other deep sea fishing you have only to go to Tampa, a few hours' ride from your home. You can build here a bungalow and in a few weeks your yard will be a flower garden, with roses and vines twining about the trees and the house. Here you will listen to the mocking bird of song and story. The scenery cannot be surpassed; the climate is ideal. It is just the spot to raise a family, spend your declining or maturing years and one to which you may invite guests with every assurance that you will entrance them.

This is the land that has been called the playground of the rich. Such a spot is yours if you care to own a home in it and can save 17 cents a day, the price of a good cigar and less than the money you foolishly throw away every month of the year.

If this announcement does not satisfy you please send for our free literature. It will answer every question, tell everything you want to know and it comes free for the coupon below.

READ THIS LETTER FROM ONE OF THE MEN WE SOLD LAST JULY

This Is Why We Make Our Guarantee So Strong

Lake Weir, Fla., July 24, 1909.

I bought twenty acres of land in Marion County, Florida, from the Florida National Land Company. I bought it last May. I was anxious to see it and left my home on the 20th of this month, July, and arrived on my land July 24th, after making a trip over the greater part of Florida. I must say that I was happy to find that I had bought a piece of land that just suited me. My land was surrounded by orange groves from one and one-half to ten miles distant. I am now sitting on the banks of Lake Weir writing this letter. Lake Weir is one of the prettiest lakes in America, and its shores are lined with pure white sand that has been washed ashore from the lake. Its water is as clear and pure as a crystal and its banks are dotted around with happy homes and the most beautiful orange and grape fruit groves in America. The land I bought is of the same quality and character as this and lies only three and one-half miles from Lake Weir and is just like all of the land of the Florida National Land Company in Marion, Lake and Sumter counties, and is the best land I saw in the state. I have not the time to tell you all about the different crops they raise here, but if you will read their booklet you will find everything therein just as I found it upon investigation. I was a little skeptical when I bought, and as the time rolled on my anxiety grew greater to see what I had, as it meant a great deal to me, as I have no land or home, and the representations made by the company I found to be true, and in fact, much better than I expected. I am sincere in saying that I would not take $100 an acre for my land if I could not buy more. Before I left for Florida my friends told me that the mosquitoes would eat me up. I have not had a single mosquito to bite me on this trip. I have been sitting on the lake banks for an hour and a half and have not seen a single mosquito. Neither have I seen any snakes, as I was told abounded in Florida, and I found the alligators had nearly all been killed by hunters, and they had formulated a law to protect them. I found the people hospitable and congenial, and would advise any person who wants a home to invest with the Florida National Land Company at once before it is too late. Any information I can give I will be pleased to do so.

Yours truly,
PHILIP LEFFEL, Lima, Ohio.

OUR GUARANTEE PROTECTS YOU IF YOU WANT TO BUY NOW

We hereby guarantee every purchaser of the lands offered by this company in Marion, Sumter and Lake Counties, Florida (these counties adjoin) that he or she may select any number of acres up to forty and pay for them either cash or upon the easy payment plan with the distinct agreement that we will refund any and all moneys paid to us, if, after an examination of such land as we have allotted said purchaser, within 90 days, said purchaser finds such land to be other than as represented by this company. There will be no questions asked, all we want you to do is to make the examination.

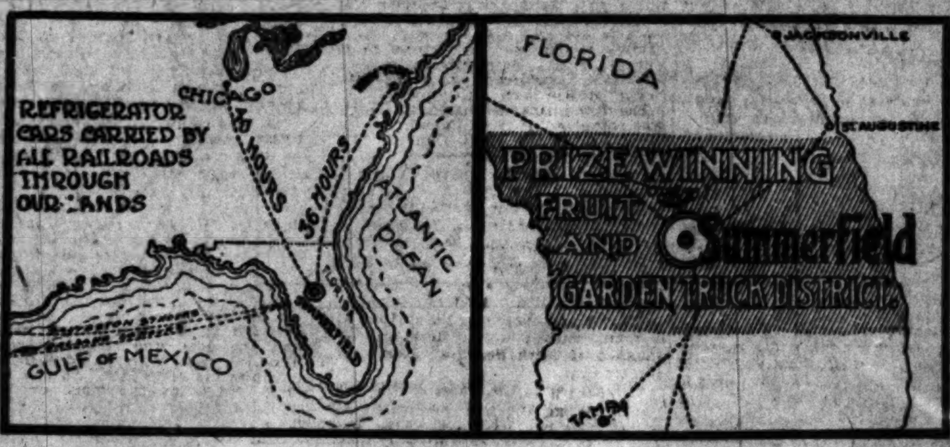
You Can Enter This Land After You Make a Single Payment



Look at these maps and see just where our lands are located. Their advantages in this respect are the best in Florida, as is readily observed here.

THESE FACTS SHOW WHAT YOUR FUTURE NEIGHBORS ARE DOING IN THIS REGION

Oxford, Fla., July 31, 1909.

Dear Sirs—I have lived in Florida for twenty-eight years, and have traveled the State over in search of farming land, as I am a farmer myself, and I consider Sumter, Marion and Lake counties the best general farming and fruit lands in the State.

Through this section there is clay sub-soil, which peculiarly adapts it for general farming.

Corn, cotton, potatoes, oats, peas, pinders, cassava, velvet beans, sugar cane and hay are the principal field crops.

I have made two crops of tomatoes in one year, each crop netting me $150 per acre above all expenses.

For fruit, this section cannot be beaten. Oranges, lemons, grape fruit, guavas, pears and plums are easily grown. Pecans have recently been introduced here, and have proven a success.

Nowhere in the United States can you raise cattle and hogs to greater advantage and nowhere else can you raise feed for same so cheap.

For information to those looking for land, I will say the lands of the Florida National Land Company are the same as mine; in fact, my farm is less than half a mile from the Florida National lands.

H. E. PARHAM, Oxford, Fla.
(Sec. 17 Township 18, R. 23.)

J. H. J. Counts, living seven miles south of Ocla, in Marion county, last year raised off an acre of ground 409 bushels of sweet potatoes and he had been offered 55c per bushel for same, but was holding his crop for 65c per bushel when seen by the representative of the Florida Land Company in February. Sweet potatoes sell from 50c to $1 per bushel, according to season. They can be planted from the middle of April to August, and the crop ripens in ninety days from planting.

Send coupon below and receive our free literature, which contains large reproductions of homes of your neighbors, scenes on our land showing it to be free from all disagreeable conditions and just as we have briefly described it here.

IF YOU WON'T BUY FOR YOURSELF WHY NOT FOR YOUR CHILD?

You have heard what Harriman, Hill, Roosevelt, Cleveland, Fairbanks, Wilson, Patten and many more of our big men have written and said about buying land as an investment. Good land in this country is scarce. What are you going to leave to those who depend on you? Is not this a desirable investment for your child or wife or others who look to you for support? You run six chances to one of being destitute and dependent in your old age. Only ten acres here bought now for 17 cents a day would make you as free from worry about your old age or that of your dependents, as though you had a pension of several thousand dollars for life. Look at it in this light for a moment.

WE WANT TO SELL 875 FARMS. OUR ANNOUNCEMENTS ARE BEING OFFERED TO 40,000,000 NORTHERN READERS

We want to sell 500 ten-acre, 250 twenty-acre and 125 forty-acre farms, or 875 farms in all. This identical announcement and special offer will be made to the American public through the great publications of this country within a brief time. These publications reach some 40,000,000 readers. We do not expect to have a farm left after these announcements have appeared. We want the people to enter their land and begin improvements; to accomplish this we decided to make this tremendous appeal. Send in your coupon for as many acres as you desire; the land will be allotted in the order of the receipt of the applications. This is the only fair method and the only one we will follow.

PRICE

The price of this land is $20 per acre and in one year you can pay for the land on a single crop. We want colonists quick, we made a price to get them.

TERMS

You can buy for cash or upon the easy payment plan of 50 cents per acre down and 50 cents per acre each month until land is paid for. This gives you 40 months to pay for your land.

SOIL

The soil is rich, being full of the very necessities that semi-tropical products demand. This soil will grow all the fancy products that these counties are famous for.

WATER

The rainfall is quite sufficient for all needs and occurs just when the crops need it. Irrigation is not necessary. Drinking water is to be had on every acre by sinking shallow wells.

TITLES

Our titles are guaranteed to you to the most complete satisfaction, reaching all the way back to the national grant.

TRANSPORTATION

Get out of a Pullman on to your land. The main line of the greatest railroad in Florida, the Seaboard Airline, runs right through this land. Not miles away, but through it. The Atlantic Coast Line R. R. is available for this land also.

MARKETS

The northern markets eagerly seek your products, for this region is famous wherever fruit and vegetables are sold. Cash buyers are located with their packing and storage houses alongside this land.

CLIMATE

The climate is ideal, the average for the year in temperature being about 73 degrees. The air is tempered by the Atlantic and Gulf breezes. The climate resembles that of Italy and California.

CROPS

Crops never fail here and you raise three a year and some farmers raise four. They yield when the market is the highest and you the first source of supply. They bring you fancy prices because of this.

WHO CAN BUY

Any man or woman of age with a good clean record can own a home here. We do not want disreputable or unworthy people, as we have located this colony amid some of the best people in America.

GUARANTEE

Our guarantee protects every purchaser and means exactly what it says. There is no quibbling with words, it means that you are to be the judge.

VALUE

This land as soon as you improve it has the value of the lands that are improved there now. If you don't improve yours and others do your land has a greatly increased value. It is worth many times what we are asking for it and after seeing it you'll say the same thing.

Do not buy until you know with whom you are dealing. These men and this company court and can successfully meet the most stringent investigation.

A COUNTY COMMISSIONER OF MARION COUNTY, WHERE THIS LAND LIES, WROTE THIS LETTER.

Pedro, Marion County, Fla., March 1, 1909.
Editor "The Republican," Van Wert, Ohio.

Dear Sir: By request of some of the citizens of your state, I will give you a few of the facts about the soil and climate of Central Florida. I am a farmer, residing in the southern part of Marion County and my farm adjoins some of the lands of Florida National Land Company. During 1907 I was general manager of the Dallas Farmers' Union, with a membership of twenty-eight persons, all being what you would term one and two horse farmers. In the month of June we received in cash for watermelons, cantaloupes and tomatoes, thirty thousand dollars. In the year 1908 we received an average of $110.00 net cash per car on all melons sold and consigned and $1.20 per crate net on all tomatoes and cantaloupes sold and consigned. During 1908 I grew twenty acres of watermelons for which I received net $1,150.00 and four acres of cantaloupes from which I shipped four hundred crates of cantaloupes and received net $600.00 or $1.50 per crate net. Tomatoes, as a general rule, average about one hundred crates to the acre, which makes a net average of about $1.20 per crate, very often ranging as high as $2.50 and $3.00 net.

I gathered 4,000 sheaves of oats from twelve acres, making 12,000 pounds in the sheaf. I also had twenty acres of corn planted in eight foot rows on fine land, from which I gathered 250 barrels of corn. Between the corn rows on twelve acres I planted peanuts, from which I fattened twenty head of hogs, said hogs being from three months to one year old, and net from 100 to 200 pounds, all being Florida bred, having been raised in the open woods, not costing me anything but the peanuts which fattened them. Between the rows of the other eight acres I planted beans, from which I fattened forty head of stock cattle for six weeks, carrying them through the time that the range in the woods is not good for stock on account of cold, also the fact that old grass is burned off, but at the present time cattle are getting fat in the open woods.

The climate of Central Florida is very fine in the very hottest of summer, the thermometer ranging from 80 to 94, but does not even get so hot but you can get in the shade and be pleasant, and the winters do not get so cold but what a man will work without a coat on. We have a little slight frosts, but never so cold but what it is pleasant when the sun is shining. At this time of the year my watermelons, cantaloupes and tomatoes are up, and some parties have tomatoes in the open field blooming at this writing, but the winter has been very mild.

Hoping this may be of some interest to those who are in any degree interested in Florida, we have lands that will make from 25 to 40 bushels of corn to the acre as a second crop.

I will say that we can raise a plenty of hay, and the velvet beans are the best milk and butter products that I ever saw, cattle being very fond of them. They grow so prolific and do not cost a person hardly anything to raise all any one would need.

I will say further, that it has been proven that we can raise as fine cattle and hogs in Florida as cheap as they can be raised anywhere.

Hoping this may be of interest to someone who is contemplating coming southward to the land of sunshine the year round, I am,

Yours truly,
M. M. PROCTOR,
County Commissioner of Marion County.

Mr. Proctor estimates that his net income after counting everything that he should for labor, etc., last year was between $2,400 and $2,500. Considering his acreage under cultivation, the general nature of his crops, and the fact that farming in this case was a side issue, the return is considerably more than could be had from a northern farm so operated.

WHAT A NORMAL FULL BEARING ACRE CAN BE MADE TO PRODUCE EVERY YEAR TO THE MAN WHO WILL REALLY WORK.

Grape fruit	800	Egg plant	740	Cantaloupes	156	Beets	90
Strawberries	1,000	Lettuce	400	Irish potatoes	450	Cabbage	315
Bermuda onions	800	String beans	815	Sweet potat's	300	Asparagus	140
Celery	1,500	Tomatoes	480	Peas	400

TEMPERATURE, RAINFALL AND HEALTH CONDITIONS.

The climate and rainfall as recorded at the county seat of Marion County averaged during past twenty years as follows:

	Temperature.	Rainfall.		Temperature.	Rainfall.
January	57 deg.	2.73 in.	July	81 deg.	7.76 in.
February	60 deg.	3.26 in.	August	81 deg.	7.03 in.
March	65 deg.	3.04 in.	September	79 deg.	7.35 in.
April	68 deg.	1.84 in.	October	72 deg.	3.78 in.
May	75 deg.	5.46 in.	November	64 deg.	1.61 in.

Average temperature for year, 70 degrees; average rainfall for year, 51.90 inches.

Statistics show that Florida has the lowest death rate in the United States. This is no doubt due to mild winters and the vast forests of pine that cover the state, charging the air with their health-preserving properties. The never ceasing breezes from Ocean and Gulf doubtless constantly change and purify the air and the unlimited supply of fine water at shallow depth, all these combine to make Florida one of the most healthful states in which to live. The state is a Mecca of those afflicted with rheumatism and lung and asthmatic troubles.

Women's Ventilation Garments

A perfect garment for stormy weather.

ANY garment made from a rubber coated fabric is impervious to water and air. Often times the heat from the body condenses in the form of moisture, which causes discomfort to the wearer of the garment and frequently does damage to clothing. With the patent ventilation this becomes impossible, as a perfect circulation of air is brought about, avoiding perspiration, moisture and all discomforts.

Materials are imported mohairs and silk fabrics, in charming new patterns. The accompanying illustration shows exactly the sanitary ventilation feature.

Special Monday prices, $12.50, $15, $17.50, $20.

DIDN'T.

MUSTN'T JAM UNCLE ALECK.

"Goo-Goo" Boss Expounds Law at Night Meeting.

Hizzoner Meek Participant in "Experience" Rally.

Council Candidates Out in Alphabetical Order.

Uncle Aleck found out last night that he is not the whole thing in the Good Government Organization—perish the baneful word. Boss Lissner, who is running the machine with his own hands, with his face always showing in the cab window, had called a few of his fellow machinists to order for the usual weekly "experience" meeting at Symphony Hall, and was along about "fourthly" when there were cries of "speech," "speech." The man "alluded at" was Hizzoner, who sat meekly behind Lissner, his head bowed, his legs crossed, one eye partly closed and the other covering the entire situation.

The little boss had permitted his talk to ramble too far afield, and the candidates and others at the meeting were anxious to hear what the Mayor had to say and get him out of the way so the aspirants for other jobs could get in a word or two.

"That's all right," said Lissner; "you'll get a chance to hear him by and by."

Then, after the little boss had concluded his few remarks, he said the Mayor had kindly consented to permit a few of his admirers to take him by the hand. Warning was given that they shouldn't crowd, however—and they didn't. For a few minutes the Mayor's arm was worked up and down like a pump handle at a dairy farm, then Uncle Aleck, at a signal from Lissner, sat down and permitted the programme to proceed.

STRICTLY ALPHABETICAL.

"A" comes before "B," as most every one knows, and the office of Mayor is ahead of that Councilman on the ballot, but Lissner said Martin Betkouski, candidate for Council, should be heard first, and it was even so, wherefore Uncle Aleck, in citizens' clothes and an ordinary campaign hat, once more meekly sat himself down.

Betkouski, who is a member of the recall Fire Commission, who was a member of a former Fire Commission, and who has run for office before, made a little talk. Like all other candidates for the Council, he has not been indorsed by the G. G. O., though the Lissner machine has picked the rest of the slate. But he did not voice any grouch on this account. He is one of the seven Council candidates whose names are to show in black-face type in the blue book of the Municipal League, and he naturally had the right of way, even over Miles S. Gregory, the only one of the celebrated "Big Four" to appear at the meeting.

After Betkouski had got through, Lissner presented Hizzoner, and you may be sure that he got a large "hand." He made a talk about as long as one of his hand-made veto messages and remarked that he wanted another chance to serve the city. "Thanking you for your close attention," he said, "I remain, yours truly, George Alexander." At which there was applause.

OTHERS PERMITTED.

When the stormy applause from nearly one hundred and fifty persons had subsided—in about one second—the little boss said he intended to permit other candidates to speak. First, he ordered them all up in front so he could see who they were. There were loud calls for Capt. Hance, candidate for City Treasurer, but Lissner, complying with a strict construction of the manner in which the titles of offices do not appear on the ballot, said they would hear first from Clarence M. Taggart, who has been indorsed by the G.G.O., for City Tax and License Collector. Mr. Taggart, despite his goatee and a lusty growth of long hair parted far to the south, said that if Los Angeles could only get a collector, such as he would be, they would be all right. He said he had seen men standing in groups all over the city, talking about the campaign. Invariably, he said, they were talking about the candidates indorsed by the Good Government Organization—that is, not the Council, but principally Tax Collector.

As John S. Myers, "Goo Goo" candidate for Auditor, was not in the room, Lissner said they would hear next from Capt. Hance, candidate for Treasurer. This candidate was given a fine reception and he made a good talk.

NOW THE COUNCIL.

"With regard to Council candidates, of whom I see twelve or so," said Lissner, "I—that is, we, shall hear from them in alphabetical order."

A stands for Apfell, and he had the first show. He remarked that he is a watchmaker and would look after the city's mainspring, if elected. The city needs a new charter, he said, and Lissner, who helped frame the present charter, looked sour. Apfell also said he was liberal in his views—not exactly Liberal Alliance, but just liberal.

Then came Charles F. Brett of the First Ward and George W. Coulson of the Sixth, the cobbler who had been sat down upon when he tried to speak at two previous meetings. As Coulson spoke, Lissner first crossed his (Lissner's) right leg over the left, then the left over the right, and when Coulson got to the point where he said there should be a greenhouse in every park—this was lastly—the boss had both feet on the floor. When Coulson remarked that there were bad smells in the parks, Lissner chucked his feet up on the rungs of his chair and yawned, while Richmond Plant, Uncle Aleck's Park Commissioner, also candidate for the Council, looked bored.

SOME OTHERS.

Then came Miles S. Gregory, who talked about reform in Chicago a century or less ago; L. M. Hughes; R. M. Lusk, who wanted to be Tax Collector three years ago, but couldn't; and then, ah, shining light, George W. Lyons of the Ninth Ward, who introduced himself as a personal friend of Lissner, and who said a whole lot of nice things about Lyons—not Harry Lyons, understand, or Councilman Henry M. Lyons of the Seventh—but George W. Lyons.

Going down the alphabet, they came to T. L. O'Brien, C. T. Paul, Richmond Plant—shame that he's down so far on the list—Ben C. Robinson, the union labor pioneer of the initiative, referendum and recall; Sylvanus A. Waldron, the grand old warhorse of the Second Ward, who has been on every political ticket since greenback days, and, lastly, Frank Walker of the Third Ward, who has served one term in the Council.

As there were no "X's" or "Y's" or "Z's" in the hall, the boss said he would like to hear a few reports from various precincts. He thought 182 of the Ninth Ward would make a good showing, so he called on Reginald Balmer, who is a regular little tyke at figures, to make the report in the absence of the regular committeeman. Mr. Balmer, who is blond—what there is of it—is from the G.G.O. headquarters, and in his fine peroxide voice he stated that a recent poll of the precinct showed 72 for Alexander, 6 for Smith and 4 for Mushet. [Prolonged cheers.]

Another man from the "locality formerly known as the Ninth Ward" stated that not one person he had met would vote against Uncle Aleck. O'Brien of the Sixth "locality" said he took a poll in a restaurant one night; it stood 3 for Alexander, 1 for Smith, 1 for Farish, 1 for Mushet. [Prolongation of the prolonged cheers.]

J. W. Kemp of Precinct 100 (Uncle Aleck's own) hesitated to say how they stood down there, for fear it would not be believed. Committeeman Woodbury, introduced as a strong union labor man, said his precinct, No. 77, was three to one for Alexander.

After that Lissner said that City Prosecutor Eddie would answer all questions as to the working of the primary election law, but Mr. Eddie had left the law at home and wasn't quite sure on the principal points. The discussion indicated that many voters believe they have the right to vote for eighteen candidates for Council, when, as a fact, a vote for more than nine will invalidate the ballot—but Eddie was not sure that the invalidation would extend beyond candidates for Council.

Capt. W. A. Irwin,

"Marrying parson," well-known figure about the Courthouse, who died last evening.

CARRIES VALUABLE GEMS.

Jewels of Various Kinds Are Found in Pockets of Hobo—Police Doubt His Story.

When the pockets of E. J. Hart, who was arrested as a hobo, were searched at the police station yesterday, it was found that he was rich in jewels. The detectives closely questioned him and say they are convinced that he did not come honestly by the gems.

The valuable articles consist of a breast pin and a locket. The former is set with ten amethysts and twenty small pearls. The locket is larger than a dollar. It is of solid gold and on one side is the inscription, "S. E. P. to Lelia, July 1, 1905." On the opposite side is a raised head, crowned with four rubies and three diamonds, and a diamond is set in the center of the piece of jewelry. The officers say they learned that he had a string of pearls, which he disposed of just before he was arrested.

"He says he got the jewelry from his sister several years ago, but we are convinced he is lying," said Paul Flammer, captain of detectives, yesterday. "He has all the earmarks of a tramp who has committed a burglary out in the country and has come into town to peddle his loot."

TIED MANY KNOTS.

CUPID LOSES VALIANT AIDE.

"Marrying Parson" Victim of Heart Disease.

Was a Familiar Figure About Courthouse.

Capt. W. A. Irwin, 95 years old, chaplain of Bartlett-Logan Post, G. A.R., died last night at his home, No. 1159 Santee street, succumbing to heart disease.

He was well known in this city, and was familiarly called "the marrying parson" by Courthouse habitués because of his reputation as an aide to Cupid in time of stress. He will be well remembered by hundreds who utilized the services of the warrior parson in inaugurating matrimonial bliss.

W. A. Irwin was born near Monahan, Ireland. He came to America when he was 21 years old, as a member of an Irish regiment stationed in Canada. He was posted in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Montreal and Quebec. At the close of two enlistments, he went to New York City, and, after engaging in several occupations, studied for the ministry.

At the opening of the Civil War, Irwin enlisted in the Twelfth New York Cavalry as a first lieutenant. He served with credit throughout the war, and at its close was made a captain. Upon being mustered out he became a Methodist minister, and held various pastorates in New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

He came to Los Angeles in 1899, and soon became a popular character because of his reputation for being on hand to perform emergency marriage ceremonies. Around the County Clerk's office he was a familiar figure, and, when he was seen hurrying toward any point, the general public at once became aware that he was acting as an aide to Cupid.

Capt. Irwin leaves a widow, three daughters and a son. They are Mrs. S. Stewart, No. 219 East Twelfth street; Mrs. L. D. Leatherwood, No. 253 East Fifty-fourth street; Miss H. M. Irwin, No. 1159 Santee street, and Albert Irwin, No. 1159 Santee street.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, under the auspices of Bartlett-Logan Post, G. A.R., at the funeral chapel of the Dexter-Sampson Undertaking Company. The body will be interred at Evergreen Cemetery.

REPUBLICAN BOOSTS.

Two big meetings in support of the Republican city ticket were held last night, one at Adams street and Central avenue, under the auspices of the Sixth Ward Republican Club, and the other at Jefferson street and Western avenue, conducted by the Seventy-third Precinct Republican Club. At the Sixth Ward meeting there were addresses by George A. Smith, Robert A Hayhurst, E. E. Bostwick, Bernard Healy and Dr. W. E. D. Morrison. Music and dancing followed the meeting. At the Jefferson-street meeting the addresses were made by George A. Smith, R. A. Smith, Dudley Robinson, R. W. Richardson and others.

SORROWING, PULLS TRIGGER.

WOMAN SHOOTS HERSELF, SAYS HUSBAND DESERTED HE

DESPONDENT after a quarrel with her husband, Mrs. A. A. Alexander shot herself at an early hour this morning. The act was done in her room at the Pittsburgh Apartments, at No. 836 Crocker street, at 12:15 o'clock.

She is the wife of an employé of a railroad contractor on the Mojave Desert. She has been staying in the city about three weeks.

The couple were heard by people about the house to be engaged in an altercation last evening. She said after the shooting that her husband had deserted her.

Laborer Applies to the Police and Says He Fears That He Will Hurt Somebody.

"I'm afraid I am going crazy; I'm afraid I will hurt somebody; won't you please lock me up?"

The pitiful plea startled Police Lieut. Kriege as he sat at his desk at headquarters last night. He looked up to see J. H. McCue, a little gray-haired man of timid mien, standing uneasily before him.

McCue was shown into the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Chamberlain gave him a thorough examination, and issued a certificate of insanity. The patient said he is a laborer, 45 years of age, residing at No. 625 New High street. He complained of having suffered a severe headache several days, and said he was afraid th[illegible] hurt some one, as he fel[illegible] somebody was trying to h[illegible] man's pupils were widely [illegible] he showed several sympt[illegible]ity.

A Beautiful Complexion

Is Dependent Upon An Absolutely Pure Co[illegible] tion of the Blood.

It is rare indeed to find a woman who does not desire to acquire a beautiful complexion, or to permanently maintain it, if she is so fortunate as to possess it naturally. It makes little difference how expensive and stylish may be the clothing she wears, or how much she may be adorned with costly jewelry, if her complexion is sallow, her cheeks covered with pimples or blackheads and dark, semi-circles under the eyes, all efforts to make herself beautiful and attractive are entirely wasted.

The woman who is the happy possessor of a clear, clean, unblemished complexion, and a rosy, healthy color of the cheeks, is the envy of all her sex less fortunate than she. The fair sex spend thousands of dollars every year in their efforts to secure and preserve a fair skin and perfect complexion.

Powders, cosmetic, facial creams, without limit, are purchased and used on the cheeks in endeavoring to get rid of pimples, blotches, blackheads, liver-spots, and various other blemishes, completely overlooking the fact that all of these skin disorders are due to an impoverished and depraved condition of the blood, which must be purified and renovated in order to get rid of the unsightly skin diseases.

It is equally absurd to resort to facial massage with fancy, perfumed cold creams, or steaming the [illegible] hot vapors, or using electro[illegible] massage in an attempt to impro[illegible] circulation of blood through [illegible] with the idea of making the [illegible] rosy.

Local treatment is simply a [illegible] of time and money. Ladies [illegible] sire to gain and retain a smoo[illegible] skin, unaffected by blemishes [illegible] kind, should use STUART'S CA[illegible] WAFERS, which act upon the [illegible] generally, and upon the blood [illegible] ically, relieving it of all the [illegible] which float upon its curre[illegible] which are sent out through [illegible] of the skin by the blood [illegible] to eliminate the foreign [illegible] the detriment and damage [illegible] complexion.

These marvelous little [illegible] fying wafers will clear the [illegible] and most thickly blemished [illegible] every form of cutaneous [illegible] remarkably short time, [illegible] who have been trying for [illegible] themselves of pimples, [illegible] etc., will be agreeably su[illegible] pleased at the rapidity and [illegible] ness with which they do the[illegible]

PASADENA.

TRIES TO CROSS, CAR HITS HIM.

WATCHMAN IS RUN DOWN BY A TROLLEY COACH.

Sustains Serious Injuries and Is Taken to Los Angeles Hospital—Annandale Country Club Gives Large Dinner Dance—Mayor Investigates Water Proposition.

[illegible]

PASADENA, Oct. 31.—W. L. Mason, employed by the Freeman detective agency as night watchman, was run down by a Pacific Electric car yesterday evening at the corner of Fair Oaks avenue and Oak street. Mason was riding on his motorcycle and was trying to cross the tracks in front of the car when he was hit. Mason was badly hurt, sustaining a broken leg, a broken arm and other serious injuries. He was picked up by the car crew and taken to the Crocker Street Hospital.

LARGE DINNER-DANCE.

The Annandale Country Club dinner dance, last night, was well attended. The clubhouse was beautifully decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums. On each of the tables great pumpkins were hollowed out with holes cut in the sides. Candles were placed inside. Great, roaring, pine-knot fires burned in the two large fireplaces. The light from these places and from the candles in the pumpkins was the only illumination in the dining-room during the four-course dinner. There were 150 guests.

INVESTIGATE WATER SCHEME.

Mayor Earley, accompanied by some members of the Council and three engineers, spent yesterday investigating the country lying between the Owens River Aqueduct, where it comes out into the San Fernando Valley, and Pasadena with respect to entertaining a proposition to bring Owens River water into Pasadena. They found that the water for Pasadena would have to be taken out of the big aqueduct a short distance back in the tunnel near the mouth, where it empties into the San Fernando Valley. They estimate the total distance is about twenty miles, the way the water would have to be run. In that distance there will be about ten miles of tunneling, the longest tunnel being about four miles, under the Tejunga range. The Mayor and engineers state that there would be a fall of a little over 100 feet in the course of the twenty miles. They are well pleased with the feasibility of the project.

SHAKESPEARE AFTERNOON.

The members of the Shakespeare Club and many invited guests were entertained yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse by Hobart Bosworth, the Shakespearian tragedian. His subject was "King Lear from an Actor's Standpoint." He lamented the fact that the American theater-going people take less interest in tragedy than formerly. He then took up "King Lear" and gave a lucid interpretation of the various characters of that great play. He explained the many difficulties which an actor has in assuming the part of King Lear. There were 250 members and guests of the club to hear Mr. Bosworth.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS.

Halloween was celebrated in Pasadena last night by young and old. The police had a dozen extra men on the lookout, but no damage was done.

Bishop Conaty has appointed Rev. Father William F. Quinlan, formerly pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Angels at San Diego, as pastor of the St. Andrew's Church in Pasadena, to succeed Father Farrelly.

CLOSE OF FLOWER SHOW.

The second annual fall flower show closed last night. The attendance was greater than expected. The show was said to be the best ever given in Southern California. The gardeners, under whose auspices it was held, feel encouraged and say the one next year will be even greater. At the close the exhibits were auctioned off and some brought fancy prices.

MARITAL TROUBLES.

The Gipson matrimonial affair came up again yesterday. On Friday it was announced from Oakland that the Gipsons had made up and would return to Pasadena to live. On the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gipson, accompanied by Constable Austin yesterday morning, the trouble started again with the result that they all went to the office of Justice of the Peace Klamroth and there drew up a paper wherein young Gipson and his newly-married wife agreed to separate and live apart for the balance of their days. Mrs. Gipson stated that, after her spouse left her stranded in Oakland, she went to work in a restaurant and that she intended to return to the position.

PASADENA NOTES.

The Wellesley Club was delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer at her home, No. 651 South Pasadena avenue.

The Motorcycle Club was entertained last night by Clinton A. Pedrick at his home, No. 289 North Marengo avenue. The entertainment was in the nature of a country pumpkin festival.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Daggett and their daughter, Miss Ruth Daggett, returned yesterday to their home on Columbia Hill. Mrs. and Miss Daggett have just returned from a trip abroad and Mr. Dagget met them in New York.

Dr. J. A. B. Scherer will occupy the pulpit of the First Congregational Church this morning. Dr. Matt S. Hughes and Dr. Malcomb MacLean will exchange pulpits tomorrow. Dr. Hughes will preach at the Presbyterian Church in the morning and Dr. MacLean will occupy the pulpit at the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

The young ladies of the Opportunity Club held a pantry sale at No. 115 North Raymond avenue yesterday afternoon. They sold pumpkin pies, doughnuts and candy, the proceeds to go towards paying off the debt on the new cottage the club has recently built for the sick and needy.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Wyman entertained a large number of friends at their home, No. 139 Franklin street, last night.

GATES GOES TO FISK.

Former Head of Pomona College Will Take Charge of Institution for Colored at Nashville.

CLAREMONT, Oct. 30.—Dr. George A. Gates, ex-president of Pomona College, has accepted a call to Fisk University, an institution for the colored, in Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Gates was for seven years president at Pomona, and held a similar position at Grinnell, Iowa, for several years, before, so that he is considered admirably fitted by experience for the head of Fisk. Mrs. Gates and son, Donald, who have summered at La Jolla, will join Dr. Gates some time in November.

Dr. Gates has had under consideration several offers from leading educational institutions and has finally determined upon Fisk University. It is an old and prosperous university, and he will not be called upon to wrestle with financial problems, which was the reason he gave for resigning from Pomona. His successor as president of the latter college has not yet been chosen.

MAY NOT LIVE.

FALLS FROM A SPEEDING CAR

CONDUCTOR RECEIVES SERIOUS INTERNAL INJURIES.

Long Beach Woman Concludes Long Fast by Partaking of Bowl of Potato Soup—Greatly Benefited, She Says—New Police Appointment—City Gets Fountain.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 30.—Robert White, a conductor on the Newport line, is in a Los Angeles hospital, swathed in bandages and suffering from internal injuries, which may prove serious. The injuries were received in a peculiar way, and the victim is unable to give a lucid explanation.

Last evening as the Newport car, south bound, passed Temple street near Signal Hill, White suddenly slipped, fell or jumped from the car while it was running thirty-five miles an hour and alighted head first in a gravel bank. The car ran nearly a mile before the motorman could be made to understand he had lost his conductor.

The car started back but met White, who had staggered to his feet and, with blood streaming down his face, had walked two blocks and then collapsed.

He was taken to a residence and treated until about midnight, when the physicians decided he had better go to a hospital.

One story of the accident was that White slipped on an orange peel, but the generally accepted explanation is that a waggish passenger acquaintance tickled White and the startled conductor stepped backward into space. It was reported from the hospital today that internal injuries were evident and that White's chances for recovery were about even.

BREAKS LONG FAST.

Mrs. M. S. Cummings, living at No. 248 Elm avenue, who has been fasting to relieve a rheumatic ailment, today broke her fast of forty-two days by eating a bowl of potato soup, which she has all along craved. Mrs. Cummings has been unable to walk for two years, but today left her wheeled chair and climbed the stairs at the auditorium. During her abstinence she lost thirty pounds in flesh.

In order to secure funds the Long Beach Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis will place 12,000 stamps on the market to be sold for placing upon holiday packages, as a means to pay nurses. The stamps will depict a Long Beach scene, serving as an advertisement for the city.

C. E. Meyer was today appointed a police officer to fill a vacancy. Meyer is a carpenter, thirty-two years old, and bears an excellent reputation. He was second on the list of eligibles submitted by the civil service commission. Meyer begins his duties Monday.

Conductors and local ticket agents of the Pacific Electric today received orders that, beginning Monday, the fare to Hill street on the American avenue line will be five cents. This concession was granted by the company in return for a right-of-way across the bluff at Pine avenue.

Allen C. Walker, for several years funeral director in the city, has disposed of his interests to Joseph Mathell, of Pierce Brothers, Los Angeles.

CITY GETS FOUNTAIN.

Under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. a fountain, given by Benjamin Walton, was yesterday formally presented to the city. Mayor Windham accepted. The fountain will be located on the lower deck of the auditorium.

In addition to the connection which the Pacific Electric will make of its new line from Wilmington with the Fourteenth street line, the company expects to have a belt line running around the west bluff from Fourteenth and joining the main tracks at Ocean and Golden avenues.

The Southern California Whist Association closed a three days' session last night at Hotel Virginia. About fifty enthusiasts were in attendance. The silver trophy cup was won by the Ventura team. The highest aggregate score was made by Robert Newell of Los Angeles, with a total of twenty-eight plus.

WILL ASSIGN TO GOODE.

Pacific Electric Railway Informs Glendale Trustees of Contemplated Action Regarding Franchises.

GLENDALE, Oct. 30.—The City Trustees received a communication from the Pacific Electric Railway Company, Wednesday, stating in very positive terms that it would not construct a road on Fourth street from Brand boulevard to Glendale avenue, for which a franchise was granted some two or more years ago. The company added that if the Trustees will repeal the section concerning transfers it will assign the franchise to the Glendale and Eagle Rock Railway Company. E. D. Goode of the latter company says he will complete the construction of a road in accordance with the conditions of the franchise within sixty days, and thus complete the loop, commencing at the Pacific Electric building in Los Angeles, through Edendale, Ivanhoe, Tropico, Glendale and Eagle Rock Valley, back to the city; making an ideal tourist trip.

The Trustees will consider the repeal of the transfer clause, Monday evening, at which time they will hold a meeting in conjunction with the Board of Trade.

SLOW WORK.

OLD SURVEYS NOT ACCURATE.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS DRAG AT WILMINGTON.

Other Activities Progressing Satisfactorily—Lumber Yards Busy. Banning Brothers Carry Out Scheme of Father for Ancestral Mansion.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 30.—The City Engineers are now engaged in making a new survey of the city. They were working on Canal street yesterday and called upon D. E. Conner, engineer of Wilmington under the old administration, to point out the old corner posts, set by Lecouvre in the original survey of the town plat. These Mr. Conner had previously found in making surveys. Many of these posts were found to be rotten. These starting points had been ignored by engineers employed by Wilmington before consolidation, and the consequence was that the survey, which took fifteen months of work and an expense of about $4000, has been found inaccurate and worthless.

Other street improvements are progressing satisfactorily. Several small board houses are being erected for rental purposes. Five three-room buildings are now going up near the center of town.

The lumber mills are employing a large force of men, many of whom have families who desire to live here.

The dredgers at work on the Mormon Island channel and the Consolidated Lumber Company's channel are making rapid progress. It is fully expected that schooners will be able to land cargoes of lumber by January 1.

OLD PLACE IMPROVED.

Hancock Banning is improving and beautifying the old home place. Extensive improvements are being made on the grounds and the place will be one of the most beautiful country homes in Southern California when completed. It is the purpose of the Banning brothers to carry out the desire of their father in making this the ancestral home of the family in the western country. Gen. Banning was a native of Wilmington, Del., and he named this town after his native city, and expected to build here a monument for himself. It is the purpose of the Bannings to carry out this desire in the building up of the harbor and city. To this end they are now engaged in pushing forward building enterprises here and rushing the work on Mormon Island.

NEW CITY LOTS.

A tract of thirty acres near the cemetery is to be subdivided and placed on the market as soon as indications point to a revival of interest in Wilmington property. Only a limited number of sales have been made the last few months.

A Halloween party was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barker, who live at the Banning homestead. Mr. Barker is superintendent of the Banning home place. The party was a most enjoyable gathering of young people.

The Petersen hardware business on Canal street was sold this week to E. Simmons of St. Paul, Minn., who has come to Wilmington with his family to make his home.

A Parent-Teachers' Association has been organized in Wilmington. The following are the officers: Mrs. F. S. Cary, president; Mrs. W. S. Moore, first vice-president; Mrs. O. Neill, second vice-president; Mrs. J. E. Hallett, secretary; Mrs. J. E. Puckett, treasurer.

The Wilmington Social Club is the latest organization. It will give dances at regular intervals in the Banning Hall. A large phonograph has been purchased which will furnish dance music.

LOSE COIN AT SWELL CLUB.

Monrovia People Attend Halloween Entertainment and Part With Their Small Change.

MONROVIA, Oct. 30.—Halloween festivities opened last evening with an entertainment given in the Woman's Clubhouse by members of the Saturday Afternoon Club under the direction of Mrs. Charles Anson, president of the Society for Physical Relief. The physical relief part of the entertainment was the separation of the general public from the weight of silver in its purse. A gypsy band of fortune-tellers, under the leadership of Mrs. Scott L. Boyd, did a thriving business. The assistants were Mrs. Daisy Degelman, Misses Blanche Graham, Anna Griffith, Nellie Hoag, Margaret Cross and Mae Baker. Music was furnished by the High School double quartette.

City Marshal Miller posted notices warning all Halloween revelers that little mercy will be shown those guilty of malicious mischief. Special guards were on duty tonight and will patrol tomorrow night also.

A meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. H. Reed, Sr., on Greystone avenue.

Dr. L. M. de Biron was fined $25 for cruelty to animals by Justice Glover this morning. Attorney Rossiter's application for a new trial was denied. Dr. De Biron has appealed the case on the ground that the judgment was not in accordance with the law and the evidence.

POST FUND HIS JOB.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Oct. 30.—Capt. "Tom" McLaughlin, the recently appointed commissary of subsistence of this branch, is having further honors thrust upon him. A telegram just received from the president of the board of managers at New York, informs the captain of his appointment as superintendent of the post fund. This office involves supervision of a number of widely-scattered affairs, such as the post store, hotel and restaurant, Memorial Hall, together with entertainments taking place there; Markham Hall, with the library, amusement hall and the aviary, all of which duties had hitherto fallen to the lot of the treasurer of the home.

Upon the latter officer devolves the care and disbursement of the home's finances; through contracts which emanate from that office, as purchasing agent of its vast supplies, and pay for services, which made the supplement of post fund work somewhat onerous, so the transfer was made with a view to a more equable distribution of departmental labor.

Capt. McLaughlin occupies an enviable position in the estimation of his comrades; for the reason that his is the only instance where a member of this branch has been advanced from the ranks to a commissioned officer. Other aspirants to office have, along through the years since the institution of this home tried to climb, but, though apparently quite as capable as many who have held offices here, were "turned down."

PRAISES SOUTHERN ROADS.

Assistant Surgeon L. Lindsey, who has been enjoying a vacation in San Francisco, and returned a few days ago, made the trip from that city to Los Angeles, in company with Earl Rogers, in an auto. He says they enjoyed the long journey immensely. The roads in Southern California, he says, are in far better condition than those in the northern part of the State.

With notable ambition, Miss Annie Haefner, the pretty cashier at the home store, has entered upon the evening course of stenography and bookkeeping. At one of the business colleges in Los Angeles making the thirty-six miles to and from Los Angeles at the close of her duties each evening.

When Col. Treichel, who died in 1894 was governor of the home, two officers constituted his entire staff, viz: treasurer, who was also quartermaster, and the surgeon, whose only assistant was a young civilian. The needs of the home increased and with that the necessity for additional officers, until today the governor's official family numbers eleven commissioned officers.

Henry G. Wiese, a member of Home Co. A, while sitting on the side of his bed in that barrack on Thursday morning fell over on his back. When comrades reached him he was beyond help. He had quietly breathed his last. Wiese had been sergeant in Co. D, Fourth Missouri Cavalry. He was admitted in 1895 from Fullerton, and was a native of Germany, aged 74.

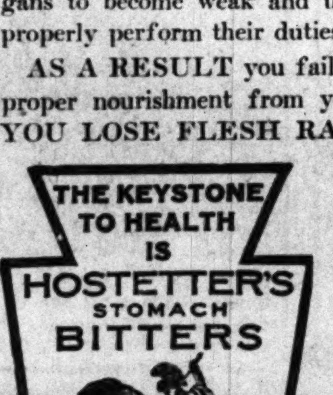
BURGLARY AT EL MONTE.

Safe Is Blown Open and Two Hundred Dollars and Some Jewelry Secured.

EL MONTE, Oct. 30.—When the head clerk of Isaac Coffman & Co.'s store opened the establishment this morning he discovered that the place had been entered by one or more burglars in the night.

The safe was blown open and about $200 was taken. Jewelry valued at $50 was taken from a showcase. The officers report no clew to the thief.



PERFECT PROTECTION

against ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels is assured when the system is kept strong and active with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

THE PROPER CARE OF THE DIGESTIVE ORGANS is one of the most important problems of everyday life, for it is through them that we RECEIVE OUR HEALTH AND STRENGTH. Too often, however, you are prone to be careless, and by either abuse or neglect allow these organs to become weak and unable to properly perform their duties.

AS A RESULT you fail to derive proper nourishment from your food, YOU LOSE FLESH RAPIDLY, and the system becomes weak and emaciated. NOW, YOU CANNOT AFFORD to allow such conditions to continue and run the chances of having a long and perhaps serious illness.

WHAT YOUR SYSTEM REQUIRES is a short course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS AT ONCE. It is compounded from ingredients best adapted for this particular work and by its direct and immediate action on the digestive organs, soon restores them to a normal condition.

THIS FACT HAS BEEN PROVEN in thousands of cases and all that is necessary to prove its great value is to try a bottle. The benefits will be so noticeable that you will wonder why you did not try it sooner and avoid so much suffering.

It is for Sour Stomach, Headache, Heartburn, Poor Appetite, Vomiting, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Liver Ills, Colds, Grippe and Malaria, Fever and Ague.

JOYFUL NOISE.

FOUR DAYS' FUN IS PROMISED.

VENTURA CELEBRATION ARRANGED FOR SEPTEMBER.

The Cause Is the Completion of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars' Worth of Street Improvements Which Will Be Proudly Shown to Visitors from South and North.

VENTURA, Oct. 30.—Ventura is to have a four days' jollification to celebrate the completion of $200,000 worth of street improvements. At a meeting held in the City Hall last night, it was determined to have four days of fun, beginning on December 1, at which date the street work will be finished. Just what form the celebration will take has not been fully decided, but there will be a lima bean feast among other things. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will be invited, and the San Francisco commercial bodies, and this town will submit its street work to the inspection of all visitors.

Within the past year, every street in the main part of this city has been curbed and sidewalked, a new park has been laid out, and planted, a firehouse built, and a fine automobile fire engine bought. All these things, it is argued, are worth making a noise about for the good of the town. The celebration will be under the general charge of C. L. Frost, president of the Ventura Chamber of Commerce, as chairman of the Executive Committee, with Louis W. Buckley as director-general of amusements. Mr. Buckley has just returned from Seattle, where he served the A.-Y.-P. exposition in a like capacity.

WOULD BUILD A TOURIST HOTEL.

Mrs. J. E. Pierpont-Ginn of Nordhoff, who is under contract to build a bungalow hotel here before next summer, has made a proposition to the townspeople to enlarge the project and construct a full-sized resort for tourists in this town if Venturans will subscribe for stock necessary to carry out the larger plan. The matter has been submitted to the Chamber of Commerce, and is being considered.

FIND TRAIL BLIND.

Efforts to Trace Painting Stolen in Elsinore, Fail to Produce Any Tangible Result.

ELSINORE, Oct. 30.—Continued efforts today to trace the "Madonna of the Chair," the painting stolen from the Lakeview Inn, have been fruitless.

The picture was purchased in Italy more than twenty years ago by C. N. Gardner and his mother, Mrs. Lydia Gardner, and is supposed to be a copy by a master. Mr. Gardner, who died in Elsinore last year, told some people here that the picture was worth between $30,000 and $35,000.

Mr. Gardner, who was eccentric, and spent his money liberally, belonged to one of the oldest and wealthiest families in Milwaukee. He was a charter member of the Elks' lodge there, and an Elk badge now held in trust as a part of the estate is valued at $1000, and was among the jewels removed the afternoon before the robbery to another city for safe keeping. A $2500 solitaire ring and a $1500 solitaire stud made up the $5000 worth removed that day.

BUSINESS EXTENDING.

The Santa Fe is planning to enlarge the depot here, owing to the increase of business. The freight traffic here has increased materially in the past few years, and the present quarters are inadequate. Three men are now employed where recently there was only one.

METHODISTS GIVE SOCIAL.

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in Elsinore at a social function met last night at the Methodist Church and parsonage, on Heald avenue, and enjoyed a Halloween social. The formal programme was presented in the church.

"LONG-HAIRED SALOON."

Halloween revelers brought in and opened without leave or license the Long-Haired Saloon last night, on the corner of Main street and Graham avenue. Effigies of the City Marshal and several dummies presided over a bar and card table, and artistic placards invited the dear public to note that "City Hall beer" was on tap. This latter was a reference to the barrel of beer which had been seized as evidence and stored in the City Hall, and from which the bottles of beer recently mysteriously disappeared, leaving only the empty barrel. As befits a prohibition city of the sixth class, the "long-haired" intruder was put promptly out of business this morning.

ADMINISTRATOR IS APPOINTED.

ANGELENO WILL LOOK AFTER VALUABLE PROPERTY.

Riverside Judge Selects Him to Act in the Matter of the Extensive Hendrick Estate in Moreno Valley Until Will Is Admitted to Probate in This State.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 30.—J. G. McKinney of Los Angeles has been appointed by Judge Densmore as special administrator of the estate of Eli E. Hendrick, who died Monday in Carbondale, Pa., leaving property in the Moreno Valley valued at over $500,000. Mr. McKinney is the business manager of the Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company, which was organized by Mr. Hendrick and in which the latter and his family held the majority of stock. Mr. McKinney will take charge of the Moreno property until the will of Mr. Hendrick can be admitted to probate in this State and an executor appointed.

The Riverside county property in the Hendrick estate consists of 17,500 acres in the Moreno Valley, besides extensive farming machinery and 18,000 sacks of barley and oats. Besides eighty acres of bearing orange groves and twenty acres of olives, the estate contains a forty-acre nursery of 150,000 young orange trees and a seed bed containing 200,000 plants.

The nearest relatives of the late Mr. Hendrick are his two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Colville and Mrs. Mary Trauwein, both of whom live in Carbondale, Pa. It is not known whether or not the heirs of the estate will carry to completion the extensive development projects which Mr. Hendrick had planned in connection with his Moreno holdings.

VALUABLE CORNER SOLD.

The sale has been made of the valuable corner lot on Eighth and Orange streets, occupied by the Regina Block. The property was sold by Miss Elizabeth Frost to Kingsbury Sanborn. It has a frontage of 82 feet on Eighth street and 110 feet on Orange street, and is well located close to the business center. The consideration is not made public. As a part of the payment Mr. Sanborn gave Miss Frost a $35,000 mortgage on the property. The Regina Block is a modern two-story brick structure, which was built about two years ago and which has since been steadily rented.

A marriage license was issued by the County Clerk today to Henry Percy, aged 55, a native of England, and Grace Stewart, aged 52, a native of California; both residents of Colton.

CHAMBER ELECTS.

Ontario Commercial Body Chooses New Officers and Will Establish Headquarters.

ONTARIO, Oct. 30.—The board of directors of the newly-organized Chamber of Commerce have elected W. A. Freemire president and C. F. Moore, late of Monrovia, secretary.

Under direction of the new officers there is much busy soliciting of candidates for membership of the chamber. There is work planned for the advertising and betterment of the town but no definite plans are yet made public on account of the incomplete state of the organization.

There will be a downtown set of rooms kept open where the secretary will have his headquarters. There will be a suitable exhibit of products of the surrounding country and means for obtaining extensive information. Every day inquiries arrive and there have been no means of making suitable replies.

ACRES IN SUBDIVISION.

The Hagar estate, the property of which is situated east of the city and which has been tied up for nine years in the settlement, has been purchased by George C. Peckham of Los Angeles, associated with Robert Mann of Denver and J. M. Porter of Pittsburgh. The tract comprises 375 acres and it has been surveyed and subdivided into five and ten-acre tracts. These will be placed on the market, two having already been purchased. The buyers are signifying their intention of building houses on the properties.

MAIL DISPUTE SETTLED.

J. R. Merrill and W. F. Blaikie have been elected to fill the position of president and secretary respectively of the National Projectile Works, J. C. Wright and F. E. Unholz, who are no longer stockholders, having withdrawn. The question of the company's mail has now been finally settled. When the company closed its shops and the former secretary, D. H. Armstrong, resigned, two orders went to the postmaster for the disposal of the company's mail. Armstrong directed that it be sent to him still, but the company declared that the secretary should have it. The matter finally went to the inspectors and then to Washington and has now been settled. The present secretary, W. F. Blaikie, will hereafter get the mail.

The social season soon sets in. Before its exacting duties press too hard the society women of California should take a course of treatments at Paso Robles Hot Springs. Write Frank W. Sawyer, medical director.

PROSPERITY SIGNS.

Imperial Town Lots Advance in Price. City Trustees Pass Several Important Ordinances.

IMPERIAL, Oct. 30.—An indication of the steady rise in prosperity in Imperial Valley is the constantly increasing demand for residence lots in Imperial, the oldest town in this valley. The announcement has been made that, on November 1, the company controlling the townsite will advance prices of property.

The City Trustees last night passed three ordinances of importance. One provides for the creation of an office to be known as Commissioner of Parks and Trees; another places restrictions on the laying of pipes in the public streets, and the third provides for the employment of a night watchman.

The City Trustees have adopted an ordinance prescribing the thickness of walls of buildings that may be erected within the limits of Fire District No. 1.

NEW WATER COMPANY.

Inducements Are Offered for Patronage of Upland and Ontario Citizens.

UPLAND, Oct. 30.—The Ocean View Land and Water Company, Inc., is arranging to serve domestic water to residents of this city and Ontario, and they advertise to furnish 1900 cubic feet for $1, as against 200 cubic feet, by the old company, the Citizens' Land and Water Company, which has for years had the local field.

The new company also agrees to furnish meters and make all connections free. This action will doubtless cause a great upheaval in the water situation here. The new company has a splendid well, at the mouth of San Antonio Cañon, and is also possessed of a great deal of good water bearing land in the same vicinity. The new company is represented here by C. A. Greenleaf.

The Board of Trustees has decided to abandon the use of the rock crusher, in Marble Cañon, and to finish the macadamising of Euclid avenue with decomposed granite, which is to be obtained at the Frankish quarries. This material is furnished to this city at 5 cents per yard. Another change is the doing away with the oil-tamped strip between the macadam and the gutter, and the placing of the decomposed granite from gutter to gutter. Eight inches of the material are to be placed on the road, and later compacted to six inches.

DEATH ENDS SUFFERING.

W. O. Bowen, vice-president of the E. A. Bowen Company, Inc., of this city, died very suddenly at his home in Claremont, on the 26th inst., death being caused by a blood clot on the brain. Mr. Bowen had been a sufferer for a number of years, but his sudden death was a shock to many friends in Southern California. The body was interred at San Diego, on Thursday. One brother here, and a sister in San Diego are all the members of the immediate family.

Cucamonga reports seed oats selling in that section at $2.35 per 100 pounds, a sharp advance over last year's price. A large acreage of small grain will be sown. Rains are badly needed, to facilitate plowing in that section.

Oleomargarine has invaded the local market, because of the prevailing high price for creamery butter. Many local people are using "ole" at 30 cents a pound. Eggs are selling at 50 cents a dozen.

The Commercial National Bank, capital $25,000, has been authorized to begin business. Charles E. Harwood is president.

FISH FRY FOR STREAMS.

Rainbow Trout from State Hatchery to Be Received by Escondido Sportsmen.

ESCONDIDO, Oct. 30.—Local sportsmen have received word that four cans of Rainbow trout, probably about 10,000 of the young fish, will arrive here November 3, from the State Hatchery at Sisson, for distribution in the streams of the Palomar Mountain section to which arrangements have been made for taking them. Most of the fish will be liberated in the headwaters of Pauma Creek, on the top of the mountain, and the balance in the Jolla Creek, and in one of the streams on the east side of the mountain. Very good trout fishing was afforded in the Pauma Creek last year.

The season's shipments of citrus fruits are approximately 250 carloads, of which about eighty carloads were oranges and grapefruit. About fifty acres of citrus orchard were planted during the season, and additions will be made the coming season.

COLTON.

COLTON, Oct. 30.—Miss Elva Wilbur and Wesley Belk were married today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wilbur of C street. Rev. E. L. B. McClellan of the Presbyterian Church performed the ceremony. The young couple will make their home in this city, Mr. Belk being an operator for the Santa Fe.

Juan Aguilar was fined $3 for stealing lemons, by Justice Hanna, this morning.

C. Chavis was given sixty days in the County Jail for stabbing his wife in the forehead with a pocket knife. He was intoxicated at the time.

BANNING.

BANNING, Oct. 30.—A second operation has been performed upon Charles Reche, removing a piece of shattered bone from his hip. Reche is the deputy sheriff who was wounded by Willie Boy on Bullion Mountain. He will probably be lame for years.

HE'S CELEBRATING.

Joseph Toplitzky, who has been Manager H. C. Wyatt's office boy for the past five years, has been promoted to assistant treasurer and secretary, and to celebrate his good fortune will go on a trip to San Francisco today. His friends at the Mason say that when he returns it may be with a bride, a member of a well-known theatrical company.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS.

Mrs Nina B. Leonard, from Calcutta, and others, are to speak at the missionary meetings to be held at Peniel Hall, No. 227 South Main street, tomorrow. The sessions will be at 11 o'clock a.m. and 2:30 and 8 o'clock p.m.

ARM BROKEN BY CRANK.

A stubborn crank on his automobile broke the arm of F. O. Johnson, proprietor of the Westminster Hotel. He was trying to crank his machine on Thursday evening, when the handle slipped and hit his arm, breaking it just above the wrist. He was downtown yesterday afternoon.

PROHIBITION ACTIVITY.

The Prohibition City Committee will hold a meeting at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at its new headquarters, Room 314 American National Bank building, Second street and Broadway. All Prohibitionists are expected to attend and take part in a discussion of important matters in connection with present prohibition work.

ANOTHER.

TICKET PICKED BY DEMOCRATS.

SILK-STOCKING END OF PARTY NAMES COUNCIL SLATE.

League Disagrees With "Goo-Goo" Organization, With Which It Has Worked, and Selects List of Candidates It Would Like to See Elected.

After a long slumber, the Democratic League—silk-stocking end of Bryan's free silver party—has come out of its hole long enough to announce that it disagrees with the Good Government Organization in the matter of candidates for the City Council. It frankly remarks that it has taken the Municipal League "dope" heretofore, but that just now it feels called upon to say a word itself as to Councilmanic candidates.

Modestly and briefly, the Democratic League, through its secretary, M. G. Yoakum, states that it would like a Councilman composed of five Democrats and four others—the others are recall Republicans.

This is the Council ticket picked out by the league, according to the report attested by Mr. Yoakum: John D. Works, Richmond Plant, T. E. O'Brien, Robert M. Lusk, Charles H. Randall, H. J. Woollacott, J. J. Andrews, Frank Walker and Martin F. Betkouski.

Unlike the illustrious city party of Harper in the past, the Democratic League has ignored the Second and Eighth wards, but, to make up for them, has picked extra candidates in the Fourth and Fifth—Works, a recall Republican, and Plant, a recall Democrat, in the Fifth; Woollacott, a straight Democrat, and Andrews, a recall Republican, in the Fourth. In the First Ward, the League candidate is Randall, recall Republican; Third, Walker, straight Democrat; Sixth, O'Brien, recall Republican; Seventh, Betkouski, Recall Democrat; Ninth, Lusk, recall Democrat.

Just how close this ticket will come to the ticket that is to be indorsed by the Municipal League, to which the task has been delegated by the Good Government Organization, is a matter that time only will tell.

Secretary Yoakum of the Democratic League states that his organization heretofore has followed the lead of the Muncipal League. The present action of the pure and unadulterated Democrats may be the forerunner of the recommendation of the Municipal League, which, as Boss Lissner announced a week ago, is a "non-political" organization.

But Yoakum says the Democratic League was disappointed in the failure of the G.G.O., to indorse a Council ticket. "There is little doubt," says Yoakum in his report, "that if the Good Government Organization had made such recommendation, this League would have approved the same.

And so, with this disappointment ringing in its ears, the Democratic League went ahead and recommended the candidates whose names already have been given. It states at the same time that there are other men in the long list of candidates for a Council who are well qualified for the positions and "in all respects worthy of the confidence and suffrage of their fellow citizens."

Surely no condidate can get cross about this!

M'KINLEY BOYS' HOME.

Many Fine Improvements Made, Management Seeks to Secure Fifteen Free Scholarships.

The managers of the McKinley Industrial Home for Boys are making an effort to create fifteen free scholarships in the institution for boys who have no friends able to pay for them. The cost is $150 a year, which includes board, washing, mending, ten months in public school, training in sloyd, industrial work on the farm and in the shop, lessons in band music, if desired, and Christian training in a well-ordered home.

Thus far they have secured six scholarships, provided for by the following persons: William Lacy, J. S. Torrence (two years,) Mrs. I. N. Van Nuys, Arthur Letts, Valentine Peyton, Gail Borden. A seventh scholarship has been started by a self-supporting woman, who contributed $5, and asked that it be for a "Sunshine" scholarship. To this one, sums of any amount will be gladly received, and charitable people are asked to create the other eight scholarships at $150 each. Checks should be made payable to the McKinley Industrial Home Association.

Marked advance has been made at the home during the last year, and the accommodations and comforts for the boys are vastly improved. Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Mennell have erected a handsome little memorial chapel, which will be dedicated within a few weeks; work has been commenced on a commodious cottage, the gift of Mrs. Lyman Farwell, for the accommodation of twenty-five boys, which will be a model of its kind; a brick building for a laundry is in course of erection, and a fine swimming pool has been constructed, the gift of M. H. Whittier.

GOWNS SHOW ART.

Exhibit at Local Establishment Has Wide Range of Foreign and Domestic Creations.

This is an artistic season in the matter of women's gowns. A peep in at the show windows of Bullock's and an inspection tour of the suit and dress department will convince the most skeptical of this.

No other than an artist could have designed the tones and shades and harmonies that characterize this season's gowns of which elaborateness is the keynote. The Parisian creations on exhibition at this store are original copies of gowns worn by fashionable society to the opening of the opera and the races, these events marking the beginning of the social season there. All of these gowns have elaborate capes to match them. In the same store are exhibited a variety of creations from Worth, Paquin and Redfern. The collection contains more than four dozen Parisian gowns.

The Bullock store has made a specialty of dinner, reception, party and evening gowns and wraps, but much thought and time and discrimination were used in the selection of street and tailored suits also. These show exclusiveness of style and cut, and there is a great variety.

The gown made by Schroeder of New York on exhibition at the store, is quite as beautiful, and has been admired as much as any of the imported creations. It is a two-piece affair, the skirt being of heavy, soft, cream satin, with an elaborate overdress—polonaise effect of hand-made lace, and heavily embroidered with pearls.

The millinery department of the big store has kept pace with the dress department; many of the beautiful hats being direct importations from Paris, the handwork of such famous artists as Georgette, Maurice, Cotel, Louise and Louison.

OIL FIELD ROMANCE.

Couple Married Quietly in Los Angeles and Return to Fullerton for Halloween Ball.

D. Saine, field superintendent of the Santa Fe's oil department, in the Fullerton field, and Miss Mae Stegeman, of Quincy, Ill., who has been residing with her brother on the lease of which Mr. Saine is in charge, yesterday gave their friends the slip, came to Los Angeles, and were quietly married. They returned to Fullerton in the evening in time to attend Halloween grand ball.

Mr. Saine is a member of Lodge No. 339, F. and A. M., and of Chapter No. 90, R. A. M., of Fullerton; also of Santa Ana Council and of Los Angeles Consistory No. 3, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite. He came to California nine years ago from the eastern oil fields.

STAIN YOUR HAIR A RICH BROWN

Simple Preparation of Walnut-Tint That Defies Detection.

An interesting little book has been issued on the remarkable effects of walnut-juice in staining gray, faded or bleached hair. It has the advantage over hair-dyes of being non-injurious to the hair, containing no silver, sulphur, lead or other poisons which cause hair-falling, and containing no odor, no oil, no sediment and no grease. At the same time, an opportunity is given to every one who wishes to stain the hair to send for one of the laboratory trial packages which Mrs. Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 890 Groton Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, will send by mail in plain, sealed wrapper.

Those desiring to procure a trial package of this walnut-juice hair-stain, as well as their book on hair, should write to the above address, and enclose twenty-five cents in stamps or coin, and if it is desired to continue the treatment, the preparation may be obtained at drug stores generally at one dollar for a full-size package.

It is said that the stain blends so softly with the actual color of the hair as to deceive experts. It can be applied in a few moments with the comb every 30 days. It stains nothing but the hair, and it dies it evenly from tip to root. Any shade can be obtained from a beautiful rich brown to almost black. It does not rub off on the clothing. One bottle ordinarily lasts a year.

Send for the 25-cent trial package today.

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain is recommended and for sale in Los Angeles by the Owl Drug Co., 320 So. Spring St., 625 So. Broadway, and 5th and Broadway.

THREE-GRADE SYSTEM.

The down-town district will be reinforced by the opening of the "Three Grade System," at No. 609 and 611 South Broadway, on Saturday, November 9. The event will be celebrated by giving novel and original souvenirs of the occasion. The establishment will sell clothing, and its title is exploited in the trade-mark, "Good, Better, Best."

Bullion amounting to £30,000 was taken into the Bank of England yesterday, and £26,000 was withdrawn, of which £20,000 was for shipment to Egypt and £6000 to South America.

Patent Reversible Wall Signs and Double Action Directors.

An invention of Boss Listener for doing politics non-politically and without partisan bias.

To the experienced nostril, it could have but one meaning—campaign cigars. Nothing smells like the premises lately occupied by a Chinese family with a poll cat for a household pet, except a candidate's cigar.

Many campaign cigars were in joint conflagration. A thick smoke emanated from a room with two frosted doors; one of the doors said "Good Government Organization!"

The Good Government Organization was in session. Political sounds filled the smoky air. Campaign tickets strewed the floor. The walls were hung with pictures and banners of perfectly refined candidates, who had condescended to run for office.

The clothing of those in the room was draped with badges and campaign buttons. In the chair was Mr. Listener; he looked like a fire sale. He borrowed a hair brush from Mr. Mush Slimson, the reformer, and rapped for order.

Mr. Listener, who was none other than the celebrated reformer, was about to speak. Then he spoke. He said, "Tut, tut"—like that, in a vexed manner.

As he spoke these portentious words, Mr. Listener turned and glared at that terrible infant, Mr. Ledgerton. Taking the cue, one and all, the accusing eyes of the Good Government Organization turned, glaring, upon that unhappy youth.

It seems that Mr. Ledgerton had got in bad by suggesting that the Good Government Organization indorse certain candidates for office.

"This is a political organization; how could we indorse candidates for office?" asked Mr. Listener.

"It's what we got it up for—to indorse candidates for office," protested Mr. Ledgerton desperately

You could hear a gasp go round the assembly at this outburst of unbridled audacity; some exchanged horrified glances and some uttered "messenger boy" in great scorn.

Mr. Listener simply stood there and waited for silence.

"I have heard," said Mr. Listener at length, "of an organization—nonpartisan, unpolitical and unbiased—which occasionally does a little short-order indorsing."

Before he could name the organization, he was ruthlessly interrupted. A messenger boy burst in at the door.

"Is this the Municipal League?" he asked.

"No," they said, shortly and savagely.

"It says so on the door," he said, pointing accusatorily at the right-hand door.

THE DOUBLE CROSS.

"You looked at the wrong door," they said, showing him that the other door said "Good Government Organization."

"I have a note for Mister Listener, vice-president of the Municipal League," said the bewildered messenger boy.

"You can leave it on the table," said Mr. Listener, enigmatically.

When the boy had gone, Mr. Listener continued, severely: "It would not be proper for the Good Government Organization to indorse candidates. To show that we are perfectly fair with the public, we will simply wash our hands of the whole matter, and refer it to the Municipal League without one plea, trusting in its far-famed non-politicalness, its non-partizanship and unbiasivity."

Just at this point, the other door of the room opened, and a tall figure with a billy-goat beard and a stovepipe hat, stalked solemnly in.

"Pipe the lid," said some one, rudely.

"Knock off his chimney," yelled another.

"This is the fust time I never knew the Municipal League to act this way," complained Uncle Aleck.

"This isn't the Municipal League," they shouted in chorus. "This is a political club."

"By jinks, you're smoking my cigars," said Uncle Aleck, delightedly.

Uncle was for staying, but they told him firmly that his top hat wouldn't do for a political club. He hurried out, saying he would be right back.

Very soon after this, the Good Government Organization adjourned. The members filed out in the following order: Mr. Listener (president,) Mr. Slimson (vice-president,) Mr. Churl, the near-editor; Mr. Gammon, the not-so-near editor; Mr. Ledgerton, a powerful influence in that political organization, the Good Government League, and others.

Mr. Ledgerton got no farther than the door, however, when it was seen that Mr. Listener, with an imperious gesture, motioned him back to his duty.

With a sigh, he fell out of the procession.

A NEAT DEVICE.

Returning to the assembly-room, he dutifully put on such a mask as firemen use to prevent suffocation, removed the boxes of campaign cigars and swept up the campaign tickets from the floor.

All the campaign pictures and photographs he transformed by an ingenious arrangement. As he turned them, where they hung on the wall, it was seen that each campaign picture had a reverse side.

The picture of Uncle Aleck, for instance, had an old-fashioned motto on the back, suitable for non-political headquarters; it read: "The Municipal League bless our home."

Having arranged the scenery, Mr. Ledgerton hurried into the corridor, where he found all his companions of the Goo-Goo meeting reversing their badges and buttons and changing their cigars.

"Leaving them to go their way," as the old three-decker novelist used to say, let us now return to the assembly room they have just left.

On the other door to the room we trace out the magic letters, "Municipal League."

Ah! The door marked "Municipal League" swings open! A procession stalks slowly in.

At its head is Mr. Listener, vice-president of the Municipal League. Next comes Mr. Slimson, member of the Executive Committee of the Municipal League, then Mr. Churl, then Mr. Gammon, Mr. Ledgerton, the sprightly messenger of the Municipal League, and others.

The Municipal League now comes to order, the vice-president, Mr. Listener, in the chair.

The chairman borrows a hair brush from Mr. Mush Slimson, and is about to rap for order, when he pauses, excitedly sniffs the air, turns darkly about with accusation.

"Some one," he says, contemptuously, "some politician, some political person has forced his way in here and is smoking a campaign cigar. The Municipal League is a strictly non-political, non-partisan and unbiased organization, and does not countenance any political measures."

It was discovered, however, that the cigar smell emanated from a stump that had been left on the chairman's table by the chairman of the Good Government Organization, Mr. Listener.

"Ah," said Mr. Listener, coldly, when the situation was explained by Mr. Ledgerton, "I believe it is a fact that some sort of political organization also sits here."

The meeting then proceeds.

The Chair announces that he has a communication to read. He says it is from an organization—a political organization, he believes—called the Good Government Organization.

Mr. Slimson (holding his hand to his ear:) What d' you say the name is?

Mr. Listener (answering loudly:) The Good Government Organization.

Slimson: Thanks. I think I have heard of it.

He said that the Good Government Organization, a political organization, through its able and efficient president, had requested the Municipal League to indorse candidates.

"We should feel gratified in the extreme," observed Mr. Listener, "that this political club should have referred this matter to us without one plea or without one request—unbiased. All they ask is that, in choosing candidates for indorsement, we choose the ones they have chosen."

[Loud and prolonged applause.]

At this point, Mr. Listener was rudely interrupted. A messenger boy, whom we have seen before, burst in through one of the doors of the room.

"Say," he said, "I want that there letter back."

"What letter?" asked Mr. Listener, coldly.

"I brung a letter in here a minute ago fer the vice-president of the Municipal League and I want it back. They told me I was to get it back and deliver it to him personal, at the Municipal League."

"This is the Municipal League; I am the vice-president," said Mr. Listener, haughtily.

"It says 'Good Government Organization' on the door," said the boy, sourly.

"You looked at the wrong door," they told him.

"A while ago you says you wasn't the Municipal League," protested the boy.

"Run away," they said.

"Well it looks like a frame-up to me," said the boy, sourly.

The boy retired into the corridor and rather ostentatiously closed the door.

WHICH NOW?

"I was saying——" began Mr. Listener.

Suddenly the boy's head popped back through the door, "Hey, what are you now, the Municipal League or the Good Government Organization?"

After this, at intervals, all the rest of the day, this boy kept bobbing his head and shouting suspiciously, "Which are you now?"

Once he came back and asked excitedly, "Say, do youse all shed yer skins?"

"We will now return to the business of this meeting," said the chairman. But again he was interrupted.

This time the door marked "Goo-goo" was flung open and in bounced Uncle Aleck. His gait and demeanor were not at all as on the previous visit. Uncle had a long political badge on; he had a dinky hat on the back of his head and he was smoking a cigar that would have asphyxiated every one in the room had they not flung open the doors and windows. His pockets were bulding with smokes of the variety known to the sporting world as "ropes" and he looked like a torch-light parade.

"Wow," shouted Uncle, in a boisterous political manner, as he stepped in at the doorway.

He was greeted with an awful chill. A hoar frost seemed to gather on his

THROUGH A HILL.

RAILROAD PAYS FOR TUNNEL.

BORE WILL CARRY WATER FOR THE CITY.

Will Connect Municipal Mains With the Buena Vista and High Gravity Reservoirs—Southern Pacific Contributes Ten Thousand Dollars as Part of Trade for Strip of Land.

Because Supt. Mulholland is trying to get everything in the city water department "straight" a tunnel is being driven through Fremont hill in Elysian park just to line out two crooked water mains.

The bore will be 1714 feet long and will accommodate the mains carrying water to the thirsty city from Buena Vista reservoir, and the high gravity reservoir. Work is now in progress and it is hoped to have the bore completed in short order.

The work is through sandstone, except for occasional narrow ledges of blue granite which have been timbered and will be faced with concrete arches later.

The bore is 8½ feet wide and 7½ feet high and will cost $10,000 of Southern Pacific money.

This is literally true as its cost is to be met by $10,000 paid by the railroad company to the city because of a change made necessary in the water pipes. The Southern Pacific wanted sixty feet of land off the east end of Elysian park, where it meets the present Buena Vista street bridge, and to get it gave the city a twenty-foot strip on the east side of Buena Vista street, half a mile long, and $10,000 cash to boot.

The two big water mains passed around the edge of the hill and to make the cut that is to give the Southern Pacific additional trackage, it was necessary to remove them. As they could not go over the hill Mulholland proceeded to bore a hole for them. And that work is now interesting street car travellers who see daily the laborers at the south end of the tunnel.

In this bore the forty-inch main from the Buena Vista reservoir and the thirty-inch main from the "high gravity" will pass and both are adequate for the needs of the city for the next ten or fifteen years.

The improvement has nothing to do with the Owens river work and would have been necessary if that great project had never been undertaken.

Another improvement the water department is rushing is the placing of fifty two-way hydrants in the down town districts for better fire protection. They are being placed at points designated by Fire Chief Lips and their cost—$7500—will be borne by the city treasury and not by the water income. They will all be in service in thirty days.

AN INTERESTING PARTY.

An interesting Halloween party was given by Miss Elsya Hutchings, No. 1415 Court street, in compliment to her house guest, Miss Mary Fohher of San Pedro. Novelties were used in decorating, and games and music were the entertaining features. Two dozen guests were invited.

MYSTERIOUS.

FIREARMS FOR A REVOLUTION?

Winchesters Sent Secretly from Here South.

Federal Officials Making an Investigation.

A mysterious purchase of sixty Winchester rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition from a Brawley hardware merchant has stirred the Federal authorities to make a searching investigation. At the time the arms were bought, it was supposed they were to be used by settlers in the new district east of the Imperial Valley, and the name of John Scott was given by the man who transacted the business.

Since then it has been learned that John Scott, who is interested in the newly-established town of San Felipe, did not make the purchase. C. Hauck, the dealer, was able to give a fairly good description of the customer, which does not tally with that of any resident of that section.

Hauck, of course, did not have the rifles on hand, but sent for them upon the representation that they were to be given to cowboys and settlers in a country where firearms are carried as a matter of course.

When it was discovered that the arms were secretly shipped to a point near the Mexican border, and there lost sight of, considerable apprehension was felt by many of the citizens of the Imperial Valley towns.

At first it was rumored that an agent of the Industrial Workers of the World purchased the arms. This organization represents the most fanatic labor unionites in the West. Their method of securing higher wages and additional privileges from the mine owners, has always been one of force. The members own repeating rifles, and gun-play has always been a concomitant of industrial strife engendered by these anarchistic laborites.

FOR REVOLUTIONISTS?

But, acording to apparently reliable information, furnished the local Federal authorities, yesterday, the arms went to the Mexican border, near Calexico, and there were delivered to a band of revolutionists.

While this government does not anticipate any trouble on this side of the line, the State Department has repeatedly warned the "line riders" to prevent the smuggling of arms and ammunition into Mexico. A few years ago when the abortive attempt to march an armed force into Mexico from Douglas, Ariz., was nipped in the bud, quantities of rifles, cartridges and dynamite were confiscated.

The Mexican government does not fear any revolution, but, from time to time, there are bandit uprisings in which innocent settlers are murdered and property is destroyed. As it is practically impossible for the bushwhackers of the border to obtain guns in their own country, they depend upon friends in the United States to provide the instruments of warfare.

The State Department has given a standing order, directed to all government agents, to be on the lookout for such shipments. While the Department realizes that President Diaz is well able to cope with any uprising in the republic, it wishes to show the friendliness of this government by preventing the smuggling of weapons across the border.

Formerly members of the revolutionary junta shipped arms from St. Louis and Chicago to Douglas and Prescott, Ariz., but the watchfulness of the special agents has rendered this course almost certain of detection at the present time.

AGENT'S STATEMENT.

A special government agent who passed through this city, yesterday, on his way to Calexico, was asked about the reported smuggling of arms across the line. He declined to discuss the matter at length, but admitted that some uneasiness was felt because of the apparent ease with which such shipments could be made.

"It is evident that secret shipments of arms are not made in good faith," said he. "If a ranch owner desired to arm his men, for fear of possible raids by the so-called Mexican 'patriots,' there would be no need of concealment. As far as I know, there is no disturbance along the border, but it may be the arms were carried to the line and there transferred to some waiting band of marauders.

"It is the duty of this government to prevent such shipments. The arms can be confiscated whenever found, on the ground they were being smuggled over the line. I am positive that the rifles did not pass through the custom-house at Calexico."

The agent declined to state whether he had been detailed to make an investigation.

Some of the Federal officials are wondering if some of the so-called "defense funds," raised by socialists and unionites, are destined to be used in the purhcase of munitions of war. From the standpoint of Magon, Villareal, Rivera, and the lesser "red light," De Lara, the "patriots" of Mexico are justified in slaying helpless men and women who favor organized government.

WANT CITY TRIMMINGS.

"Shoestring" District Dwellers Organize Association to Boost for All Sorts of Improvements.

Residents of Sunnyside, in the "Shoestring" district, believe that they should have the same comforts and protection as other parts of the city, and they intend to keep these facts before the officials. The Sunnyside Improvement Association has been organized to do this.

One of the first things to be taken up and put before the City Council is the need of better fire protection. The placing of more electric lights and other minor improvements will be sought.

At the initial meeting thirty-five residents became members. F. J. Gardner is president; J. H. Harrison, vice-president; F. C. Epperson, secretary; S. E. Elliott, assistant secretary; C. H. Large, treasurer.

WHISKY JUG AT DEATHBED.

With only a whisky jug for a companion, Timothy Loomey, an old man, died in a dingy shack near the Simons brick yards, Friday night. His cold body was found yesterday. The Coroner is of the opinion that death was caused by either alcoholism or heart disease. The body was taken to Pierce Bros.' morgue, where an autopsy will be performed.

SPEED WAR.

NEW EAST AND WEST GATEWAY.

St. Louis Is Recognized by Eastern Roads.

Now for Western Lines to Furnish the Service.

Faster Trains Between Here and New York.

If the signs are read aright, St. Louis will shortly become an important gateway between Los Angeles and the East.

Neglected for many years, while thousands of tourists poured, first through Kansas City and later through Chicago, to the Pacific States, St. Louis is commencing to "howl" lustily for better service East and West; for recognition of its commercial importance and its geographical location as one of the principal Missouri river gateways. A great commerce and traffic is growing up in the Southwest, for which St. Louis is the natural distributing center.

Los Angeles is one of the sections that can be served through this center to advantage. The big trunk lines leading out of St. Louis are largely to blame for the neglect of that city in this respect. Apparently their interests has been greater in Chicago, and they have centered their advertising and boosting on making that city the most important gateway.

There has been seemingly little attention paid to the growing importance of St. Louis, and its just demands for commercial recognition, and, even those lines with heavy interests there, have not sought business to any extent west of Denver. Some scattering effort is made, it is true, but practically nothing has been accomplished.

All the limited trains from the Coast go East via Kansas City or Chicago—principally Chicago—and vice versa. Heretofore St. Louis has enjoyed no fast service either way.

Within the last few months, this has been changed. The demand for recognition and for better service has been heeded by at least two of the great Eastern lines, and indications are that others will do the same.

The Pennsylvania, on November 7, will put on a "limited train" between St. Louis and New York similar to its fast New York-Chicago trains that will operate upon a schedule of twenty-four hours, the excess fare being $4.

SPEED WAR BEGINS.

The New York Central, following the Pennsylvania, announces for the same date, a "New York Central limited" running on the same time and with the same excess fare. This, say Eastern railroad men, is the beginning of a speed war for control of the St. Louis-New York business that will be record-breaking. For the first time in years St. Louis can offer travelers the same class of transportation East as Chicago.

The Pennsylvania route takes in Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Columbus and Richmond, embracing 1064 miles; the New York Central runs by way of Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland and Indianapolis, a distance of approximately 1174 miles. To maintain the time of its scheduled run the New York Central trains must travel at the rate of forty-nine miles an hour. The Pennsylvania has a leeway of five miles an hour, the running time being forty-four miles an hour. It can thus cut the time of the Central a few hours, if desired, and it is asserted this is likely.

The New Central train will be as fine as any train between Chicago and New York, as the present intention is to give St. Louis all that it is entitled to. It will be composed of buffet, library and compartment-observation cars, with regular sleepers, the train being electric lighted throughout.

UP TO WESTERN ROADS.

The activity of the Eastern lines has caused Western roads to "sit up and take notice," and one of the immediate results is likely to be the establishment of through-sleeper service between Los Angeles and St. Louis by the Rock Island. When the Golden State Limited is put on its winter run, about November 15, it is probable that through Los Angeles-St. Louis sleepers will be added and St. Louis will then be in a position to bid for a part of the business now passing through Chicago.

The Salt Lake operates a through St. Louis sleeper on the Limited, and may possibly put one on the new Los Angeles-Salt Lake Limited, which will operate between this city and Salt Lake. The Burlington and other lines now operate tourist sleepers, but the indications are that, before many months, the Southern Pacific, Santa Fé and Salt Lake will all carry through sleepers to St. Louis. The demand is too strong to be longer ignored, and it is expected that, following the example of the eastern lines, much quicker and better service will be arranged for the Mound City.

The distance between Los Angeles and New York, via St. Louis, is less by sixty miles than by Chicago, it being 3113 miles, as opposed to 3173 by the last-named route. On regular fare trains, the time consumed between New York and Los Angeles is ninety-eight hours; by way of Chicago it is 103½ hours. The fast trains' service cuts this time to ninety-two hours, via Chicago, and therein lay the disadvantage to St. Louis, which has been objected to, and which eastern roads are now remedying. Going to New York by way of St. Louis, you enter the Union Depot at St. Louis, while, by way of Chicago, several stations are used, involving transfers.

SANTA FE CUT-OFF HELPS.

The completion of the Santa Fé's Belen cut-off makes possible the routing of freight via St. Louis, over better grades than formerly, and saves a great amount of time. It is only a question of time when a large number of passenger trains and practically all west-bound freight will be routed over this cut-off.

St. Louis will then be more than ever a great distributing point for the Coast and other sections of the Southwest. It is true the people, to a large extent, fix the standing of the different gateways, but the railroads play an important part in this matter, and it appears that that city is to receive at last the attention from the transportation companies it deserves.

The lines running West through St. Louis to the Colorado River feel they are entitled to more western business than they are getting, and will make a strong fight to regulate this so they will get a fair proportion, and it necessarily follows that, when schedules are rearranged and service improved, the question of fast trains between Los Angeles and St. Louis to operate in conjunction with those being established out of that city to New York, will get attention from the transcontinental lines, just as the Rock Island is already giving it attention.

SHOW FOR MECHANICS OF THE LOCAL THEATERS.

An attractive list of acts has been secured by the Programme Committee of the benefit to be given by the Theatrical Mechanical Association at the Auditorium Friday afternoon.

This, the fifth annual affair of the association, promises to eclipse all former efforts. The sale of seats is progressing in a manner that is gratifying. Every theater in the city will be well represented on the programme.

Harry Girard, Agnes Caine Brown and Roland Paul will sing the trio from "Faust." Charles Ruggles, assisted by Beth Taylor and Margo Duffet, will be seen in a new sketch, "Billy's Job." The Shuberts will offer the third act of Olive Porter's play, "The Ringmaster;" Henry Stockbridge and Fay Bainter will give a song and dance specialty, and the rest of the bill will include an act from "Brown of Harvard" by the Burbank company; Walter Sheck and the Olympic Six; Walter DeLeon and Muggins Davies, with the entire Hartman chorus; Ferris Hartman, in a ten-minute monologue; the Big City Quartette from the Orpheum; a duet by Josephine Islieb and Oscar Walch of the Hartman company; the head-line act from the Los Angeles Theater; Bessie Buskirk, protegé and pupil of the late Mme Modjeska; Goldie Snyder, in a series of poses; the Belasco Theater company in the third act of "The Regeneration;" Blossom Seeley and the Fisher chorus, and the comedian and chorus of the "Fifty Miles from Boston" company at the Majestic Theater.

Seats already purchased may be exchanged at any time at the Auditorium box office, where the regular coupon tickets will go on sale tomorrow morning.

MISSION DAYS AND AIR MACHINES TOGETHER.

In the Bankers' Show.

The two principals—Charles Thompson as an Indian chief, and Miss Edna Spaulding as Lolita, a Spanish dancer.

The fall debut of the bank clerks behind the footlights has become such a regular event that their entertainment is now christened merely "The Bankers' Show," and enough's said.

Funds for their fraternity have usually been raised by a minstrel show, but this year they make a signal departure, presenting a complete, locally written light opera.

"When the Gringo Came," is the title of this work, and it is from the pen of Charles Saxby, with music by P. H. Kaufman. There are as well interpolated numbers by Manuel Lowenstein, who is the best and most prolific of our musical amateurs in the financial world.

The new piece will be given on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, at the Mason Operahouse, with Harry Girard running the stage, and E. C. Kammermeyer as musical director.

The story of the opera concerns the discovery and later the rediscovery of San Diego, first by the Spanish—and later by down-to-date Angeleños. It abounds in comedy, and the juxtaposition of mission days with the era of the flying machine affords a lot of fun.

The company numbers more than fifty people. Mr. Girard has done excellent work, and the effort is expected to be of professional caliber.

Players of principal parts include Charles Thompson, William Ream, Jr., T. J. Flinn, H. C. Packer, R. C. McComas, Ray Church, A. S. McKinnon, C. F. Seidel, Ed. Punch; Olive Moser, Ray Padrick, Iono Gale, James Parker, Helen Bosbyshell, Lillian Ossing, Georgia Morton, Edna Spaulding, T. H. McCormick and Maud Lawton.

Special scenery has been painted for the production, and there is a large equipment of new costuming.

POOL HALL MAN ARRESTED.

William D. Stephens, one of the proprietors of a South Broadway pool hall, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of having allowed minors to enter his place of business, in violation of a city ordinance. He was released under $100 bail for appearance in the Police Court tomorrow morning. The defendant is not the former Mayor, although they have the same initials.

NO TRACE OF BOY.

Kidnaped Child, Police Believe, Was Stolen for Mother, Who Left Husband Years Ago.

The police failed to find any trace yesterday of Frank Farrelly, the 7-year-old boy, who was kidnaped by two women from the Ann-street school, Thursday morning.

They are inclined to believe the kidnapers stole the boy at the request of his mother, who has been separated from her husband for several years.

The San Bernardino authorities have been requested to search for Mrs. Farrelly.

FALL BRINGS DEATH.

Gangrene Follows Injury and Woman Victim Expires at Hospital as a Result.

Mrs. J. W. Atherton died at the Hospital of the Good Samaritan yesterday, as a result of blood poisoning, started by a compound fracture of her left ankle.

She was assisting in putting up some lattice work at her home at No. 134 West Sixty-third street, Tuesday, when the ladder on which she was standing gave way.

The injured woman was conveyed to the hospital, as it was seen that her injury was serious. Gangrene followed, and an operation failed to check the poison from getting into the blood.

The funeral services will be held at the chapel of Bresee Bros. tomorrow afternoon. She leaves a widower and five children, ranging from 2 months to 15 years old.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM.

The lifeless body of Mrs. Luke Wallace, 60 years old, was found beside her bed in her room at No. 901 South Flower street, yesterday morning. It is believed she was stricken with heart disease as she arose. The body was taken to Pierce Bros.' morgue. An autopsy will be held.

WHAT'S DOING IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Portola's gay notes had barely gone before the strident tones of the politician were heard in the land. Above all others rose the stentorian voice of P. H. McCarthy, candidate for Mayor. He raised an awful row because some one had put his banners on a Jap laundry. But the smell he made was not near so pronounced as that experienced by an undertaker who, as candidate for Supervisor, found one of his placards conspicuously exhibited on a garbage wagon.

At midnight of the last day of the Portola celebration, Don Gaspar de Portola went up in a balloon and we have not seen him since. Queen Vergilia, however, stayed right here on deck, as it were, for all the warships gave her receptions. Capt. Fitzherbert of the British ship Bedford, in her honor, dropped into poetry with Mayor Taylor standing at his side to coach him on rhythmical swings. Incidentally the skipper congratulated us all on the success of the festival and said that he would come again if his government said so.

No wonder Clarence Mackay is the head of the Postal Telegraph Company. On his flying visit here he showed that he knew worthy men when he saw them. After stating that his visit was in the nature of a business trip to inspect the lines from here to Salt Lake he said: "I have not been in San Francisco in twenty months. Its growth is amazing. You are the grittiest people on the face of the earth."

French duelists in this city get better results than the men of honor in Paris. Over there Dramatist Bernstein, after being fired at by Critic Chevassu, forgot to fire back and forthwith made the incident the plot of another play. Here Jean Picard fought a duel with Gaston Tompin and it was not a case of after you Alphonse for Gaston filled a morgue slab while Jean fills a cell.

Prof. Julius Nelson, New Jersey State biologist, says that people in a short time will be able to go into the air whenever they like by taking their wings out of their pockets and adjusting them unaided. Ever since the Portola affair we have been treading on air without the aid of wings, because the fiesta cost 10 cents a person, with 1,200,000 people in attendance, and only $120,000 collected.

In its aggregate wisdom and wealth of legal lore, the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association has dismissed the charges against Lawyer Troy, who married the widow of Senator White. A Mrs. Downey accused the attorney of being lax in a suit wherein she was the plaintiff; but as she had no other charge to make the matter was dropped without the necessity of Troy proving that a lawyer is sole judge of what constitutes laxity.

We beat Oakland once in aëro contest, and Oakland beat us once. Sunday the tie will be flown off. Miss Margaret Miller of Fruitvale is to be one of the contestants, and if she wins her father will give her the largest gas bag ever made, with a capacity of 120,000 cubic feet. The young lady prefers this as less expensive than a visit to a millinery establishment.

MASONIC LODGE ANNIVERSARY.

The first anniversary of University Masonic Lodge will be celebrated on Monday evening, with a musical and literary entertainment, given by local talent. The programme includes guitar, mandolin, piano, whistling and vocal numbers, and several readings.

(Authorized Political Announcement.)

"GOO-GOOS" TANGLE.

chin whiskers and his hair. Dr. Cook was back at the pole.

"Kindly ask this politician to retire," said the chairman with chaste icy accents.

WRONG PEW.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle, thunderstruck.

"The Municipal League," said the chairman, cuttingly, "does not permit political demonstrations."

"I thought this was the Good Government Organization."

"You are mistaken." (Temperature drops forty degrees.)

Uncle Aleck (perfectly bewildered.) "Well, by jinks, you said you was."

Some one grabbed Uncle by the button hole and dragged him into a corner and whispered an explanation. Uncle looked scared; extinguished his campaign cigar with a crash. Then he was heard to say with a sigh: "And to think this is the fust time I've had a chanst to wear my hat since the President was here."

As the presence of a politician was felt to be improper, Uncle was gently wafted out and the business of indorsing was proceeded with.

The chairman, Mr. Listener, had a list that he meant to propose. To his chagrin, it was typewritten on the stationery of the Good Government Organization and he had to keep the heading covered up with his hand.

When the list was read and the motion was made to indorse the candidates with the approval of the non-political, non-partisan, unbiased Municipal League, enthusiasm knew no bounds.

Some one started to cheer, but was sternly repressed by the chairman.

"This," he said, "is no place for rough political demonstrations."

"Gee! I wisht we could cheer," whimpered some one.

Then a fellow had a wonderful inspiration.

"I move," he said, "that the Municipal League take a two-minutes recess." The motion was straightway carried.

"Now," he said, when they were in recess, "let's call the Good Government Organization to order."

This was done and the chairman of the Good Government Organization, Mr. Listener, lighted a rope and proposed three cheers (political.) They stirred the echoes (political.)

The meeting then adjourned so quickly that one of the members who had been lighting a political rope, didn't get in on the cheers.

"Tiger," he yelled, with a screech.

But he met the stern and forbidding stare of the chairman of the Municipal League (non-political.)

"No political demonstrations will be tolerated and I request the member to leave the room."

But as all wanted to smoke the cigars (political,) which they had lighted, the Municipal League (non-political,) adjourned.

Editorial Pen Points

It appears that the course of true love continues to be full of chuck holes.

The isles of Greece where Sappho sung and a bald-headed king is by rebels stung.

No girl should run away from home with a man. She should insist on being kidnaped.

The way Dr. Cook went after Barrill adds to the confidence that the public had in Dr. Cook from the start.

Now Grace Van Studdiford is seeking a divorce. Still the step cannot be said to be unusual among actresses.

The Wright brothers are training men to fly here. It is the business of the preachers to train them to fly hereafter.

It seems to us that men and women were sufficiently supplied with ways to quarrel without quarreling over politics.

Greece has no Homer to sing the glory of war, but if she had she would no doubt starve him, even as she starved Homer.

Rains have fallen in Northern California while we are still dust-laden down here. Another argument for State division.

Columbus, another great explorer, was lied about, too, and put in jail. Dr. Cook hasn't the jail to contend against, anyway.

Politics has become so squalidly dull and monotonous that the least of patriots cannot help but welcome the new women's party.

It is now conceded, even at pink tea headquarters, that "Uncle Aleck's" effort to rope in the plug hat vote has proved unsuccessful.

Why do we make the bluff of opposing the suffragettes of America? Were we ever yet able to prevent women from getting what they wanted?

Looking at the coming championship prize fight in the nature of a national event, Los Angeles is, of course, the logical place at which to pull it off.

The greed of office must be something frightful when a judge will leave the bench and train with the Tammany tiger to become Mayor of New York.

It has now come to that pass that every man looks with suspicion on his wife, not knowing at what minute she will break out as a full-fledged suffragette.

We are glad to note that the daughter of William Morris, the poet, thinks she sees "a ray of hope for art." But isn't art more in need of something to eat?

It was to be expected that the Queen of England would come out for Dr. Cook. She is a Dane and the Danes have been solid for Cook since the first rattle out of the box.

No doubt while dodging sand bars under the stars on the Mississippi, the President recalled the lines of Newman's hymn: "The night is dark and I am far from home."

If Peary can be connected with this damnable campaign of purchased and perjured testimony to ruin Dr. Cook, it will be the last straw necessary to break Peary's back.

It is now predicted that Zeppelin airships will sail from Germany to New York within the next two years. It will be a great day for the Saengerbund societies of both countries.

Old Count Zeppelin is preparing for an airship trip to the North Pole. Doesn't it make you feel good to see an old fellow like that making a lot of young fellows look like has-beens?

"Uncle Aleck" had the courage to appear in a plug hat—nay, it was really an act of bravery—but he hasn't the nerve to come out and say that he isn't the creature of Rebater Earl.

The newspapers were bound to have the details, and it now transpires that Mrs. Astor named three women with whom John Jacob had been a little too familiar. But it seems that he still has some money left.

A Chicago reformer asserts that the present styles of woman's dress "accentuate sex." What he means is that the style shows off the shape that a woman builds up by various and sundry artificial appliances.

Without desiring to assume a partisan attitude one way or the other, we are free to say to John Arthur Johnson that if he hopes to last to the third round against Jeffries he will have to cut out the automobiles and the liquor.

The Spanish priests who are now in charge of the old San Gabriel Mission are doing great work there. San Gabriel will soon be as much of an attraction to tourists as the Santa Barbara Mission. Los Angeles should appreciate this.

Tell you what let's do: If the women will agree to abandon rats in their hair and conform to hats around and over which a man can discern the sky line with unobstructed vision, we'll grant them the right to vote and even to become floaters.

A California Chinaman has invented a successful aëroplane and now another California Chinaman has invented an astronomical instrument that will measure the stars and things as easily as a dry goods clerk measures a yard of red ribbon. The Chinese are awakening, never fear.

FOR REPUBLICAN CONTROL.

We desire to ask the Republican voters of this city in all seriousness, with all earnestness, why should not the Republican party in Los Angeles come into its own? Why should we not, as Republicans, assert our rights, if you please, and accept all responsibilities connected therewith? Are there any reasons why this should not be done? If so, what are they? In answering the question, remember that the control of the country by the Republican party is in jeopardy at this very moment. It is a cry of "anything to beat the Republican party." We would advise no man to vote for an unworthy office-seeker because he is a Republican. In ordinary circumstances in local affairs party ties sit but lightly upon us; The Times has often advocated non-partisanship in municipal affairs; but present conditions are peculiar and the gravity of the situation impels us to the opinion that only a Republican victory can save the city from serious conditions.

Why should the claimants, who are trying so hard to wrest the control of the city out of the hands of the Republican party be allowed to succeed? Why should we permit the handing over of this city to a clique of hypocritical pretenders and their nominees? Are they superior in any respects to the ticket set forth by the Republican party? If they are, in what does their superiority consist? Have they done anything, either in private or public life, to show transcendent virtues or overshadowing abilities? If they have, will some one point out to us what these virtues and abilities are? In our opinion it is a patent fact that the men whose names stand upon the regular Republican ticket are, most of them, superior to most of their opponents.

There is only one way to bring about a return in our city affairs to a condition marked by sanity, ability and fair play. It appears to us that that way is obvious. We see no hope for such a return from faddism and hypocritical pretense excepting in the election of the Republican nominees to office and thus restoring the control of the city to a party which can and will bear the responsibility of conducting affairs properly.

This is a Republican community. The party is dominant here by a very heavy majority. It is known everywhere as a Republican city, and whatever may occur the Republican party will be held responsible for conditions in the city of Los Angeles because of the vast majority that party has in the citizenship of the municipality. No matter who is elected, his election will be due either to the direct votes of Republicans, to the negligence of Republicans who fail to do their duty at the polls, or to a serious split in the party strength here. In this view of the case, it is the duty of the Republican party to assume its responsibility for good government, to elect the ticket nominated by the great convention selected by the party, and then to exact the most efficient and careful administration of affairs that it is possible to have. This can be done. The men picked by the Republican party are of good reputation in private and public life. Many of them have heretofore been well tried in public office and have not been found wanting. Let us then, as Republicans, rise to the demands of the hour, assert our rights, secure control, assume our responsibilities and give the city what it ought to have, a thoroughly efficient and honest administration.

Either this, or place the city in the hands of cranks, schemers, politicians, men who either have hare-brained theories to put into practice, or men whose sole purpose is to seize the offices and draw the salaries, men whose interest in politics is selfish and dishonest. We have had enough and too much of cliques and tools of cliques during recent years. The only way to put an end to the disturbance, unrest and turmoil that have characterized our municipal affairs is to put Republicans in office and then, with the party behind the office-holders, lay the responsibility for good government for the party and make it answerable to the public generally for the conduct of every member of the party holding office in the city.

The avowed purpose of those now seeking to gain control of the city government has been to destroy all party autonomy. With the destruction of the party goes the destruction of party responsibility. Unless officials are elected who are answerable to their party for their good conduct and whose party is held responsible to the public for the action of the office-holders, we are reduced to a condition where there is only a personal responsibility of the individual office-holder. The Republican in office will be answerable to his party and that party composes a great majority of the whole public of this city. The other fellow elected to any office is a law to himself, answerable only to himself or to a little clique with no well-defined organization and no tangible existence to which any kind of responsibility can be attached.

The situation is grave. We close as we began, with the declaration that we see no hope for cessation of political turmoil and no hope for efficient, honest administration of city affairs at this time otherwise than by the election of the regular Republican ticket, published in full on another page of this issue. This is not a year for disregarding party lines, for party principles are at stake.

COTTON'S NEW EMPIRE.

Down in the Gulf States the proclamation has been for generations, "Cotton is king." King Cotton is extending his empire, and nowhere more successfully than in his most recently-acquired dominion in the American Nile country.

The demand for cotton grows much more rapidly than the supply. About fifteen years ago cotton was selling in the Southern States at from 5 cents to 6 cents a pound, with no revenue from the seed. Steadily for nearly fifteen years the price of cotton has been advancing until at the present time the market in America ranges at from about 9 to 12 cents, according to the abundance of the crop. Besides, the seed has become a valuable by-product, worth about $10 an acre. This rise in the price of cotton has stimulated the world to seeking for extension of the cotton territory. America practically controls the cotton production of the world. The Southern States turn out 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 or 13,000,000 bales a year. The exports of cotton from America are worth from $500,000,000 to $650,000,000 a year. Cut off the cotton exports, and the balance of trade would be all the time against America. American cotton furnishes means of earning a livelihood in one way or another to over 1,000,000 persons in Great Britain. It does the same to smaller but still considerable numbers in nearly every country in Europe, and lately the cotton industry in Japan has reached large proportions.

Ever since The Times has been able to investigate conditions down along the lower Colorado River in Imperial county, California, and on the other side in Arizona, this journal has been firmly persuaded of the possibility of cotton culture in this Colorado delta, which is now known as the American Nile, because of the possibilities for cotton culture in the territory. The industry has only been undertaken this current year on a large scale. The experiment has proved so entirely successful that the cotton-growing industry may be said at this moment to be beyond the experimental stage. On Friday of last week we published an account of cotton picking and ginning in the Imperial Valley in Southeastern California. One thousand acres are being picked, showing a yield of over a bale an acre for the first going over, with two pickings to follow. It is estimated that the thousand acres will, first and last, yield 1500 bales of cotton.

One of the foreseen difficulties about cotton-growing in this American Nile was that of obtaining labor to do the picking. The industry has been undertaken mostly by southern cotton growers from Texas and Georgia, skilled in the business, and to this fact is attributed largely its success. They not only knew how to cultivate the land, but where to get pickers. An ordinary picker is gathering in the Imperial Valley these days 200 to 250 pounds of cotton. Some experts pick 380 pounds a day. They are paid $1 a hundred pounds, and evidently they are making good money. If a southern negro can earn $3.80 a day picking cotton in Imperial Valley there will be no trouble about getting the labor.

As to the market price of the cotton, a bale of 500 pounds at the gin is bringing $75 and the seed is selling for $10 an acre. As the output is supposed to be a bale and a half for an acre, the farmers are making about $125 from their crop. The cost of growing, picking and ginning is put at $25. Taking a very moderate estimate, cotton growing will pay in this Imperial Valley country from $50 to $75 an acre.

The cotton crop of the present year is nearly all from Texan or Georgian seed. A few planters have experimented with Egyptian seed. The Texans and Georgians, who are cultivating cotton in Imperial Valley, had tried Egyptian seed in their former southern homes. It was unsuccessful, and their failure made them timid about experimenting here. Those who had courage enough to attempt the growing of Egyptian cotton in the American Nile country have been rewarded by good success. This has been the view of those well acquainted with conditions in Egypt and in the Imperial Valley for some time past. If Egyptian cotton shall prove successful along this Colorado River delta, the possibilities of a great industry are indeed impressive. There are said to be on the California side of the river 500,000 acres and 250,000 acres in the delta below the boundary line suitable for cotton. With the territory east of the river, it looks as if there was probably 1,000,000 acres of good cotton land in this American Nile district. If the industry is confined to the production of cotton similar to that in the Southern States and the net profit to the growers is $50 an acre, 1,000,000 acres would give us a net revenue there of $50,000,000 a year. As American cotton sells at from 9 to 12 cents a pound and Egyptian cotton at from 22 to 28 cents a pound, the revenue figures rise in vast proportions.

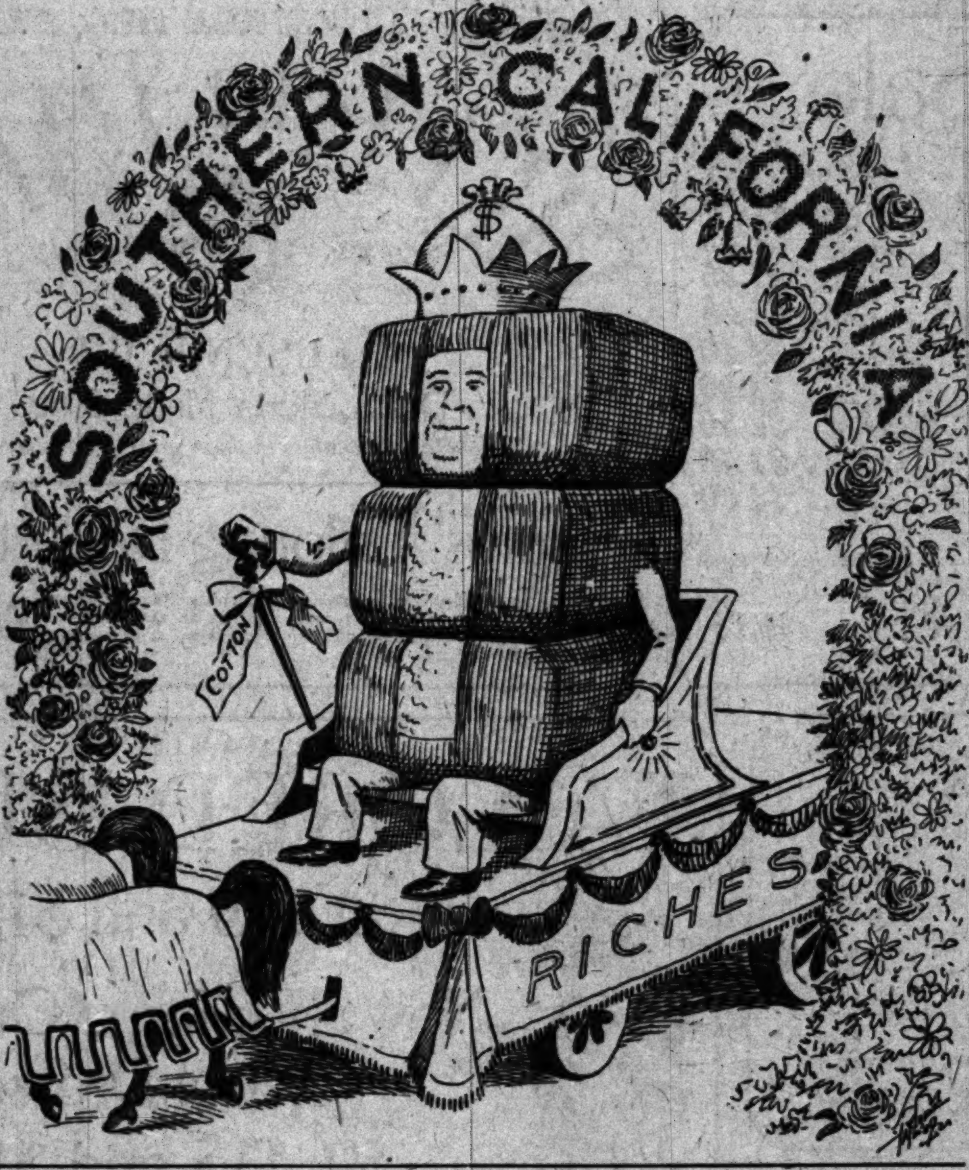
The market for this California cotton is right at the doors. Of the 1500 bales being ginned at the present time in the Imperial Valley country the cotton factory at Oakland, Cal., takes 1000. There is shipped from Texas via Seattle year by year a very large amount of cotton to Japan. San Pedro is but little more than 100 miles from the cotton fields in the new American Nile, and our advantage in shipping through San Pedro to the Orient over Texas shipping through Seattle is very apparent.

But a bale of raw cotton shipped abroad brings but a moderate return to the people of this country. The proper thing to do is to convert this American cotton into cotton fabrics and ship the finished product to the Orient. We now have the cotton fields and the cotton crop absolutely assured. The soil and the climate are ours. The problem of labor is practically solved. The 1500 bales of this year are likely to be multiplied by two, three, four or five by this time next year. This brings us face to face with a new problem. We must have a cotton factory to convert the lint into cotton yarn and that into cotton cloth.

Mr. Denby, who was Minister to China during the second Cleveland administration, stated upon his return, when discussing the possibilities of the Orient, that if we could sell the people of the eastern shore of Asia but one cotton shirt apiece a year worth one dollar, we would have an export commercial trade of more value than all our oversea commerce of the time when he was speaking. The whole Orient uses cotton for clothing and for various other purposes. There is no other source of supply than America. The Imperial Valley is the nearest cotton-growing country of importance to the Orient. Our harbor is the nearest to their shores on the American continent. There is the combination waiting for the man who has the key to open it!

Such an opportunity will not wait for long. A cotton factory between here and San Pedro might be said to be an assured addition to our industries at no very distant day.

THE COMING OF THE KING.



We have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with Mrs. Phil Lydig, but judging her by her nose we are ready to admit that if she is out for her woman's rights she will get them.

The revolution in Greece will not really assume ominous proportions until the Alpha Beta Psi Epsilon and those other college frats get into it. Then blood will flow to the bridles.

GRAFTING FOR A MURDERER.

August 13, 1909, the day Friday, was a blue date for Bisbee, Ariz. On Saturday morning, August 14, the Bisbee Daily Review said, beginning the account of the assassination of Hoy and Bockholt: "Two men are dead because a cowardly assassin yesterday saw fit to shoot them down unawares from the back in cold blood. Asa T. Hoy for six years lived and worked in Bisbee, made friends everywhere because he was a big man physically and mentally, too big and broad-minded to stoop to little things, always trying to help his fellow-men less fortunate than himself in home and worldly goods." The assassin was William Pfannkuche. This man had been induced to come to Bisbee by Hoy, who had known him elsewhere, and wished him to share in the good fortune he was enjoying in the mining town. Hoy was a good workman, a good citizen, careful and saving. An employé in the Bisbee Daily Review, he came to be a stockholder in it. With Hoy that fatal night, went to his death another printer in the Review office, William Bockholt.

There was a strike in the Review office and Pfannkuche led the strikers. He came to the main door of the Review office and coaxed to be let in, but was refused. Sauntering up and down the street, he returned to the office later, and the paper in question said: "He entered the Review office by stealth and without calling the attention of the watchman and a reporter who stood inside of the railing. The noise made by the battery of the type-setting machines and the intentness of the men on their work made his entrance into the composing-room unnoticed. Before any one realized the presence of the fanatical strike leader he was between Mr. Hoy and Mr. Bockholt, with a forty-four-caliber Colt clutched in his right hand. Without opening his mouth or saying a word to any one he shot Mr. Hoy from the back while standing above him, the bullet entering the left side of the back and plowing its way through all the vital organs except the heart, lodging in the right hip where the bone was found to be badly shattered. From Hoy, without the loss of a minute, he turned to Mr. Bockholt, who was also shot while sitting at his machine." Both men were dead in a few minutes after the fatal shots were fired.

There is an exact account taken from the paper in the office of which the double murder took place. A brother of this cowardly assassin, H. C. Pfannkuche, is sending broadcast over the country to the allied printing trades of the United States a circular begging for money from labor unionites to defend the assassin. This folder begins with an attempt to prejudice the public against the officers of the county in which the assassin is to be tried, as follows: "The boy is now in the Tombstone jail, and if the Copper Queen Company—a corporation of millionaires which practically owns the town of Bisbee—succeeds in its declared intention, my brother will soon be a dead man."

Now that paragraph ought to warn all fair-minded, law-loving men of the spirit of unfairness which underlies this attempt to graft money out of the printers of the United States to defend the man charged with this murder. Its unfairness and hypocrisy are self-evident in the few words quoted. The corporation which owns the Copper Queen Company is not trying the assassin. The authorities of the county are engaged in that business. If the Copper Queen Company were attempting to take any hand in the trial it would not be upon "its declared intention." These three words ought to warn the world against this attempted graft. The circular confesses that the prisoner "has given up all hope."

Well he might. The town of Bisbee is not in the hands of the Copper Queen Company, whether the members of that corporation are millionaires or paupers. It must be in the hands of a gang of men either criminals or of criminal intent if the perpetrator of such an assassination as that described above has any hope of escape. Quoting from the words of the prisoner the brother says of his advice to him to drop the matter: "It is useless—I am as good as gone—don't waste your time on me."

The whole totemite leaflet fails to present a single fact in defense of the man charged with murder. It quotes the assassin's own statement that he did the act in self-defense, but the testimony of every man in the office gives a flat contradiction, and the place where the assassin's bullet took effect (the man's back) and the ball's range indicate the exact truth of the statements quoted above from the Review, showing that not only Hoy's back was turned to the murderer, but that he was seated, while the other stood over him.

There is no telling what effect the facts will have or what lack of effect Pfannkuche's lies will have among the people he appeals to. The curse of labor unions is that the law, the rights of others, human life, no consideration has any weight with them when they are thwarted in any attempt to carry out their will. It has been shown again and again that the leaders of these organizations—(and the Western Federation of Miners is the worst of all)—never balk at any crime, no matter how atrocious, in their attempts to control other people's business and to enforce their unfair rules. It may be that otherwise honest, hard-working and decent printers all over the United States will contribute of their earnings, deprive their children of the necessaries of life, perhaps, in order to defend this man who they know should suffer the just penalty of so bloody a crime. The circular of the assassin's brother has come into the hands of The Times; and in the hope of warning some honest, decent labor-union men from contributing part of the money needed in their own households to so improper a purpose the facts of the assassination and the weakness of the circular are laid before the public.

PRINCE GEORGE.

That bold young blade, Prince George of Greece, doesn't seem to be cutting that figure in the revolution which we had a right to expect.

George is the royal person who used to delight our sense of heroics by knocking down peasants who were cross with any King whom George happened to be walking with at the time.

With the aid of the secret service men who wouldn't let the peasant fight back, Prince George worked up a reputation as one of the scrappiest little dare-devils.

When the Turkish war broke out, some years ago, Prince George was an admiral and they told him to cut right in and give his fighting blood the relief it needed—not to bother about mercy to the terrible Turks, but to go in hard and clean them up.

But, alas, when the day of his battle came, the dashing George remembered that he had an engagement somewhere to show somebody his fleet, and he couldn't keep his date to fight.

With the outbreaking of this ridiculous revolution, George seems again to be a face that is passing and a name that is not answered.

A Grafter.

I stole a kiss, though fearing she Might press the charge of larceny—
Then watched her mantling cheek until
I judge 'twas not against her will;
And as she glanced a-down the street
Quite quickly filched another sweet;
These thefts increased with haste thereafter,
Till now I am a hardened grafter.

Diamond Ear-Rings

Today the wearing of Ear Rings in fashionable circles is well nigh universal. THE DIAMOND EAR RING is QUEEN of all styles.

We have prepared for our Christmas trade a very large stock of finely matched pairs—personally selected with the greatest care—mounted in our work shops.

We Have Them at Every Price

From $35.00 to $100.00 will buy a pair of neat, brilliant Diamond Ear-Rings—not large, of course, but of good value—well mounted and fit to grace the ears of any lady.

From $100.00 to $200.00 we have larger diamonds—perfect goods—in values we are sure cannot be obtained elsewhere.

From $200.00 to $500.00 it is only a question of size. The quality—the goodness—the perfection is the same in every instance.

From $500.00 to $1500.00—at every step—at every price—we have the same High Grade Diamonds—perfect in quality, in color, in cutting and brilliancy—matched perfectly in size.

In every size of Diamond—at any price from $35.00 to $1500.00, we are sure we can suit you. It is only a question of how much you wish to invest in a pair of Diamond Ear-Rings.

Will you allow us the pleasure of showing you our Diamond Ear-Rings?

THE LANCER.

Journalism has its redlight district; its prostitutes and strumpets are the 15-cent magazines.

I once imagined that a few of them could reasonably be excepted; but I fear they are all in the same boat—wallowing around in the bilgewater.

If there is a goddess of dirty scandal, she is sitting in her filthy robes in the shrine these muckrakers seem to worship.

Is it possible that our highest and keenest interest lies in peeking into other people's garbage cans?

One magazine of this month regales us with a learned dissertation upon "procuring" unclean women for the market. Another giggles around with devious glee and smacking of lips among the political scandals of Colorado. A third is trying to drag President Diaz into the muck.

All this may be "business;" but I am not fond of swill pails.

Wallowing in Dirt.

Suppose it is true that Mexico is "barbarous," and Tammany ruins girls, and Judge Lindsay has cornered all the virtue in Colorado! What of it?

We certainly have the right to demand that our reading shall help us to forget the dirty part of the struggle of life. I think some of us, in the 15-cent class, have the best right to this demand of any part of the public.

Crime is revolting, and a bore to most of us. A murder, to me, isn't half as interesting as a very haughty woman who does not know that her rat is showing.

Why should these magazines, which play an important part in most of our lives, drag us to a consideration of nothing but crookedness and crime?

If Tammany Hall has an organized system of ruining young girls, I am willing to be as sorry as politeness demands, but I don't care to hear about it.

Kipling and Rideout.

I am seeking the life of the critic who said that Henry Milner Rideout's "Dragon's Blood" is superior to the best of Kipling at Kipling's best, and the best of Stevenson at Stevenson's best.

Perhaps we might compromise on Stevenson. We keep a shelf of Stevenson prominently displayed to show that the family is strictly refined. But a very small dose of the immortal Robert Louis goes a long way with me.

I always pretend that I just adore his essays; but, confidentially, they seem to me to wander through vistas of intolerable dullness, without ever arriving anywhere. His stories seem to lack what Mulvaney calls "guts."

But imagine Mrs. Forester, the haughty lady of "Dragon's Blood," alongside Mrs. Hawksby or Mrs. Reiver! And think of the "man talk" scenes on the hot night in "Dragon's Blood" lined up in comparison with "The End of the Passage."

Kipling's are the only stories I know that will stand rereading unto the hundredth time without losing a mark. The only ones I can't stand are the "Stalky Stories," which are the silliest drivel ever put on paper.

P.S.—I dare say the real critic, who is jaunting, will presently return, and I shall be annihilated.

The Bride's New Dress.

The most pathetic thing I know is the first dress that a bride buys when her trousseau wears out.

I see one such on street cars nearly every day. Her "going-away gown," when she married the handsome clerk, was a brown silk. I am sure she couldn't have felt worse than I when it began to wear out. My heart ached to see how she clung to it; how she tried to turn and twist and pin things over it.

But there was no mistake about it at last. The thing was gone.

I have been anxiously waiting to see what she would get to take its place. Well, she's come out in it . . . a poor, pitiful, cheap thing. She made it herself. The fit is something fierce. And the hat that goes with it is frightful. She made that, too.

Her hands, too, I notice are getting coarse and red from rought house work. She's been washing. The freshness is beginning to fade from her face. She won't care so much about the next dress. Three dresses on from that, she will be disheartened, faded, tired.

What a pity, what a pity! I don't feel sorry for the Mexican slaves, thumped on the bare back, as described by this Turner person in the magazines; but I think the little bride, with her poor, little cheap dress, is genuinely pitiful.

The Raving Orator.

Whatever else we think of this city campaign, three cheers for the lack of oratory.

Almost it persuadest me to be a re-[illegible]. One could be pretty nearly anything to escape the spellbinders. However it comes out, we can remember with sweet gratitude how the spellbinders did not bind.

It seems always very strange that a country so full of good sense and good judgment and humor could consent to endure that offensive idiot, the raving campaign orator.

Tammany's Joke.

Even the muckraking campaign has its redeeming feature . . . which, in this case, is a joke.

Tammany has retorted that the muckrakers are attempting to "defame" New York. Defame New York! As though any imagination could possibly concoct a picture of New York so vile that its vileness would not pale before the original.

The Soldiers.

Why is it that soldiers are so absurd on the stage?

Ferris Hartman's bully little production of the "Sultan of Sulu" was seriously marred at the Grand Operahouse by two elements; one is the fact that Hartman looks so much like Francis J. Heney that you feel like throwing tin cans at him; another is the fact that the soldiers on the stage look like scarecrows, and act like mechanical dolls with the machinery rusted. To see them go through the manual of arms would make your soul turn green at the edges. When they march, you feel a desire to gnaw the iron arms of your orchestra chair.

Training chorus girls in their difficult dance steps is a feat accomplished by the Hartmans with eclat; it would seem that they might achieve the easier task of making the male chorus act less like oil derricks.

It is gratifying to see this faithful, hardworked little opera company getting along. Mrs. Hartman could make a quicker success by giving trashy operas; but he won't. And for that he deserves more than he gets.

Making a Great Man.

Except for the strong, firm hand of Mexico's grand old man, the sister republic would probably now be on the verge of a revolution, like Nicaragua . . . with the records of a hundred other revolutions behind her.

The revolution in Nicaragua against Zelaya is nothing but a joke; but a revolution in Mexico would not be a joke. With its vast areas and its wonderful wealth, Mexico could get up an internal war that would be a horror of devastation and disaster.

That such men as this "red" De Lara have not succeeded in starting such a war is due to the old soldier in the President's chair.

Many of the hard-fisted measures of discipline described by the muckrakers as "horrors" would probably have been avoided gladly by Gen. Diaz.

But ruling Mexico is not a tea party. The muckrakers evidently believe the proper thing for Diaz to do, in times of threatened revolution, is to come out on the battlements of Chepaultepec and say: "Naughty, naughty," roguishly shaking his finger at them.

PUBLIC SERVICE---OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The absence of Councilman Healy, who has gone to Fresno, may prevent the Council from passing the Hewitt public utilities measure over the Mayor's veto.

By the will of Emma H. Phillips, offered for probate yesterday, the Children's Hospital Society of Los Angeles is bequeathed four acres of valuable land at Sunset Boulevard and Vermont avenue, with $3600 for a building fund and beautifying the grounds.

During the six months ended yesterday Judge James disposed of 648 divorce cases. Of these 568 were contested actions. Judge Houser will take up the divorce matters tomorrow in Department Three.

If allowed to amend the complaint in the Kilborn will contest by Judge Moss tomorrow, the allegation will be made that the signature of the late Julia Ann Kilborn to the will executed September 3, 1907, is a forgery. Sensational developments are promised in that case.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hicks were taken before Justice Chambers yesterday because they had attempted to redress their own wrongs by an alleged battery on Mrs. Augusta Barry.

AT THE CITY HALL.

HEALY'S GOING SPOILS PLAN.

COUNCIL UNABLE TO HIT BACK AT MAYOR'S VETO.

Hewitt Public Utilities Ordinance Must Have Seven Votes to Pass It Over Uncle Aleck's Disapproval and the Member from the Eighth Heads for Fresno.

The going away of Councilman Healy with the Foresters on their trip to Fresno may prevent the Council from passing the Hewitt public utilities ordinance over the Mayor's veto at Tuesday's session. He is to leave Monday night, and his absence will prevent the seven votes necessary to pass it over Uncle Aleck's latest veto. The absence of Councilman Wallace in the East will cut no figure, as he would vote in the negative, and the charter requires seven members in the affirmative.

If Healy cannot be prevailed on to remain until after Tuesday's session, action may be deferred until later in the week, and be timed with his return. Healy said yesterday he could not disarrange his plans now.

Municipal League emissaries have been doing missionary work with President Pease of the Council, in the hope of changing his mind on the ordinance. It is the favorite boast of the league workers that they can always influence Pease, but he seems quite satisfied with the Hewitt ordinance, although much opposition to it has been expressed clearly to him. He is not sure he will vote to pass it over the veto. If he should vote in the negative, Healy's vote would be unavailing, even if he remained over. The ordinance carries an appropriation, and a two-thirds vote—six—will not sustain it.

The Municipal League's initiative petition for its ordinance was checked finally by the City Clerk yesterday, and will be certified to the Council Tuesday. The Clerk found 1990 valid signatures, which is nearly 300 more than needed. This will mean that the Council must either adopt the league ordinance or refer it to a vote at the December election. The latter course undoubtedly will be followed.

The feature of the initiative that is the sweetest morsel to the league set is the fact that if the ordinance is approved by popular vote, its provisions are irrevocable by the Council without resubmission at a general election, which would not be held for two years. This would give the league a long time in which to go gophering into the affairs of the public service corporations, and aid in the building of the Earl-Lissner machine, which is taking a few long looks ahead.

Ford Would Be Expert.

Owen Ford, a hydraulic engineer of St. Louis, has written the Board of Public Works, offering his services in connection with the expert survey of the aqueduct power field. He says he formerly lived at Long Beach, and is familiar with the Owens River scheme and geography. The Board has not yet chosen the third member, as it has been waiting for the President to release an engineer in the Reclamation Service for membership on the board of experts. Prof. Harris J. Ryan and Prof. W. F. Durant of Stanford University already have been chosen.

MANY MARITAL SORES HEALED.

DEPARTMENT ONE CLEANS UP ON DIVORCE CASES.

Welcome Relief—Now Department Three Takes Up the Grind—Since May Six Hundred and Forty-eight Suits Were Tried—New Rule in Default Cases.

Yesterday was a time of relief for Judge James, in Department One, of the Superior Court, so far as the divorce docket was concerned.

A few belated derelicts on the ocean of domestic infelicity were on hand to secure decrees of separation from unfaithful companions, but the rush was over.

"I am glad the divorce rush is over for a while," said the court. He had heard nothing else since May 1 last, and had charge of all the default cases for the previous year. In that time there had been a surfeit of nauseous testimony, with floods of evidence sufficient to make one a confirmed pessimist on the subject of conjugal felicity, but the end was in sight, and everybody, from the court to the bailiff, Tom Murphy, was pleased that the grind of testimony involving man's duplicity and woman's unfaithfulness, was about to pass into history.

Since May 1 Judge James has heard all divorce cases. In that time 648 cases were heard and adjudicated. Of that number eighty were contested, some continuing for weeks, and the balance, 568, were default cases, where the defendant did not appear, or could not be located.

The amount of evidence, involving the relations of husbands and wives, in that amount of litigation, can only be imagined. It covered every violation of the code, recognized by the laws of California as cause for divorce. The court was patient during the daily recitals, and everybody had his or her day in court. It was a matter of some surprise that Judge James allowed some of the hearings to be dragged out so long, but he was jealous of the rights of all, and did not limit the testimony, if anything was to be accomplished. His court was for the development of the facts as they existed.

Beginning with tomorrow, Judge Houser, of Department Three, will take up the divorce calendar, and he has cases set for as far away as next March, with the docket filled for every working day until that time.

Judge Houser has arranged to put into execution a new rule in regard to the appearance of defendants in default cases, and will insist that they either appear and give testimony, or furnish depositions, if it is at all possible to locate them. This will delay many actions, and have the effect of clogging the docket to a still greater extent than is now the rule.

FORGERY MAY BE CHARGED.

AN AMENDED COMPLAINT.

Sensational turns are expected in the action brought by Mary Woodman Kilborn to contest the probate of the will of her mother, Julia Ann Kilborn. At the close of the hearing Friday evening, Attorney Murphy, representing Miss Kilborn, moved to be allowed to amend the complaint, and the matter went over until tomorrow afternoon when a decision will be reached by the court.

There was some question as to the changes sought to be made in the document, and it was hinted that forgery might be the allegation to be inserted.

Yesterday, Attorney Murphy confirmed the report that forgery of the signature of Mrs. Kilborn to the will, executed September 3, 1907, would be charged if he was allowed to amend his petition.

The complaint now charges that the purported will is not the last will and testament of the deceased, and the allegation is further made that the document was secured from the deceased by fraud and misrepresentation, the deceased being under the influence of Will D. Gould, who is made trustee of the will.

The question is whether the general claim that the will is not that of Mrs. Kilborn will admit the charge that the signature was forged, it being argued that the signing of the document is a part of the process of will-making which the daughter asserts her mother did not participate in. On the other hand, is the provision of the law which says that a complaint in a will contest cannot be amended or changed as to grounds, after a year has passed from its probate. The point is an interesting one, and Judge Moss is giving it much attention.

If forgery has been committed, who is the guilty party? Rumor is busy in many directions. The general public will never know all of the ins and outs of the management of the Kilborn property, involving the holdings of W. H. Kilborn and his widow. The property involved is about $40,000, and the only child is Miss Mary Woodman Kilborn, well-known in connection with religious work in this city and in San Francisco. Miss Kilborn was on the stand three days and made a model witness.

VALUABLE BEQUESTS.

TO LOS ANGELES CHARITIES.

The Children's Hospital Society of Los Angeles was made the recipient of a valuable gift of land and money, through the will of Emma H. Phillips, filed for probate, yesterday.

The land bequeathed consists of four acres, situated on the southeast corner of Sunset Boulevard and Vermont avenue. In addition the organization is given $3000 to assist in the building of a home and $600 additional is bequeathed to keep the grounds in order and to beautify the same.

The gift land is accompanied by several conditions. One is that the building to be erected with the fund of $3600, shall be completed within five years after the society shall come into possession of the devise made by the testatrix; the second provides that the home must be maintained for the period of fifty years, and that it shall be known as the "Lillian Home," in memory of the dead daughter of the deceased.

After providing for the building fund and the money to be used in the beautifying the grounds, the will further provides that portrait of the dead daughter shall be hung in a suitable place on the walls of the proposed home. All the balance of the estate, except the following additional bequests, goes to a sister, Viola H. Jeffries.

To the husband of the deceased, Timothy F. Phillips, residing at No. 1726 West First street, $2000; to Leo W. Burdette, a son-in-law, residing at 1533 Orange street, the property in Redondo, together with the furnishings thereof; the diamond wedding ring of the late daughter, Lillian F. Burdette; all of the furniture at the home on Burlington avenue and First street, and $2500.

Florence F. Bullock, Lebanon, N. H., $500; Ellen B. Crowder, No. 1414 West Fourth street, $200; Jesse F. Waterman, 120 South Grand avenue, $500. The last named is nominated as executor of the will.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, of Los Angeles, is given $500. The First Congregational Church of Los Angeles, of which Rev. William Horace Day is pastor, is remembered to the extent of $500.

The estate of the deceased is estimated to be worth $40,530.51, consisting of money in the bank, notes and mortgages, together with real property in Redondo, at Sunset Boulevard and Vermont avenue, at Calina Park, at Beaumont and in San Bernardino county. The subscribing witnesses to the will are Walpoole Wood and M. M. Hunt. The will was executed June 30, 1906, and at that time, Mrs. Phillips was sixty-six years of age.

DODGING DUTY.

JURY FINALLY SECURED.

Judge Davis had all kinds of trouble yesterday with his new trial jury, summoned for duty, but finally succeeded in corralling enough to sit in judgment in his court as circumstances may require.

And the men who did not like to occupy the jury box had all sorts of excuses to hand the court. M. E. Wood was a notary public, and ineligible. Robert J. Darling had large property interests, which he could not think of neglecting. Jacob M. Ford, John C. Norcross and C. B. Hopper were not on the assessment roll, and therefore ruled out. Leo Chandler is a practicing attorney, and his place is before the jury, instead of being a member of that august tribunal. J. W. Brown was suffering from a bad cough, and he gave the court an exhibition of his malady that left no room for argument. J. W. Sex was barred from service by the fact that he was a road overseer, but W. J. Durin had the premier excuse of all.

Durin ambled up to the desk and handed Judge Davis a card, containing his picture and announcing to a waiting world that he was a candidate for the City Council. Judge Davis would not use the strong arm of the law to deprive an American citizen of the right to run for office. The court decided that Durin might remain in the field and give the glad hand to his constituents in exchange for votes until December 8, the day after the election, when he would be expected to report.

And so the roll call progressed. When noses were counted at the close of the examination, there were still forty-five men willing to assume the duties of citizenship, and they will be employed in the criminal division as occasion warrants.

ATTORNEY VINDICATED.

HIS CONDUCT PROFESSIONAL.

A committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association has vindicated Attorney A. Lincoln Walker of unprofessional conduct, following charges concerning his connection with the Brower divorce case. The resolutions of acquittal are signed by Messrs. Rippey, Dillon and Britt.

The allegations grew out of an action instituted by Sarah E. Brower against William Brower more than two years ago. The charge was failure to provide, and the wife secured the decree. At the expiration of one year the interlocutory decree was made final by Judge Hutton.

About two weeks ago Mrs. Brower again appeared in court and asked that the decree be set aside and that she be awarded alimony. The surprising statement was made in her complaint that she had been divorced from her husband against her will. She admitted that she had instituted the action, but when she found that to be divorced from Brower would mean that she would get nothing from him in the way of an allowance, she went to her attorney, Walker, and expressed a desire to withdraw her suit. The woman declared that Walker told her it was too late; that she could not withdraw the action, and would be compelled to go through with it. She gave this as a reason for her appearance as a witness to testify against her husband. She also alleged that before the expiration of six months, within which claims for alimony must be made, she had asked Walker to move in the matter, and he had told her that could be done at any time. The statement was also made by the woman that Walker had accepted money from the husband to push the divorce against her, it appearing that the old man, who is a veteran at the Soldiers' Home, was rather in favor of the separation. The court denied the prayer of Mrs. Brower, saying that she had lost her day of grace when she failed to indicate her opposition to the divorce when called to give her testimony.

Charges were preferred against Walker, and the investigation was held at the office of Hunsaker, Britt & Fleming. It was found that the charges made by Mrs. Brower were untrue in every respect, and doubtless grew out of the zeal of a young attorney who has just begun to practice at the local bar.

ALLEGED FRAUD.

INVOLVED IN MINING DEAL.

The Santa Cruz Mining and Milling Company is again made defendant in an action involving the ownership of alleged valuable gold mining property in the republic of Mexico. Associated with the corporation are J. F. O'Harra and L. M. Sullivan. The plaintiff in the latest action is L. M. Grumbacher, who asks that he be awarded a one-eighth interest in a rich concession at the foot of the Saddle Mountain, twelve miles from San Ignacio.

The plaintiff alleges that March 9, last, O'Harra, Sullivan and himself made an agreement in regard to the prospecting and development of mining land in Mexico. Eight hundred dollars was to be raised by the trio for the work and expense, and of that amount Grumbacher was to contribute $100. Sullivan was to have three-eighths of the property and O'Harra one-half.

O'Harra and Sullivan went to Mexico and located six claims, and afterwards a corporation, the Santa Cruz Mining and Milling Company, was formed under the laws of Arizona, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. The property was secured from Josef O. Tuna, prefect of San Ignacio.

Grumbacher asserts that the defendants have neglected and refused to turn over to him a one-eighth interest in the property, which, he says, is worth $1,000,000, and he asks an order of the court to compel them to do so. He makes no claim for punitive damages in connection with the case.

DIFFICULT QUESTION.

HANDED TO JUDGE DAVIS.

The case of George W. Wilcox, superintendent of the Marengo Water Company of Alhambra, charged with making an excavation in one of the public streets of that place, without securing a permit for the work and paying the fee of $1, was before Judge Davis of Department Twelve, yesterday. Difficult points presented themselves, and the matter was postponed for a week.

The action came up on appeal from the docket of Recorder Routh of Alhambra, who had overruled the demurrer of Wilcox to the complaint of the city. Wilcox claimed that the water company had a deed for the land occupied by the street, and that it had never been dedicated to the corporation; in a word, alleged that the company owned the thoroughfare, and could do as it pleased on its own property.

After the decision of the recorder, the case was certified to the Superior Court by C. Sloane Pitzer, City Attorney of Alhambra, representing the city. H. W. Hanson appeared in behalf of the Marengo Water Company.

DECLARED SANE.

MUST STAND TRIAL.

During the absence of Judge Willis of Department Eleven yesterday, Judge Wilbur presided, and with a jury heard the case against Lee Hale of Long Beach, charged with mistreating Mabel Rickey, March 16 last. His attorney contended the young man was insane.

The jury found Hale sane, and he will now be compelled to stand trial for his offense. The principal witness for the people was Chief of Police Williams of Long Beach, who said: "I never considered Hale very smart, but do not think he is insane. I met him on the beach one day, and he threatened to commit suicide by throwing himself into the surf; I handed him a revolver and told him to make a good case of killing, but he refused to accept the weapon, and ran away. He did not want to kill himself very bad."

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

LEO CASE AGAIN. In Judge James' court yesterday, the attorney for Mrs. Kirkpatrick-Leo, was given permission to file several counter affidavits, intended to combat similar instruments offered a few days ago, in behalf of Leo. The statement was made in open court that the woman knew Leo had a wife at the time of the pretended wedding at Waskoe, Nevada, but that she did not know a final decree had not been granted.

PETITION TO SELL. The First Presbyterian Church of Inglewood filed a petition in the Superior Court yesterday asking permission to sell its property, lots Nos. 34, 35 and 36, for $6000. It is intended to build in a cheaper part of the town.

INCORPORATION. Articles of incorporation were filed by the West Lake Masonic Association, capital stock, $50,000; incorporators, J. W. Phelps, W. M. Humphreys, J. W. Webster, C. J. Beers and H. W. Hurd; amount subscribed, $500.

BACK FROM VACATION. Superior Judge W. R. Hervey will return today from a two weeks' trip in the East, and will re-open his court tomorrow morning. Four jury cases are set for the week.

DAMAGES FOR DEATH. H. B. Hoffman and his minor children, H. Ray Hoffman, Alice May Hoffman and Louise Hoffman, brought an action against the Pacific Electric Company, in the Superior Court yesterday, asking for $50,000 damages on account of the death of Alice Hoffman, who was struck by a car at Bairdstown, April 12, and killed. Negligence of the crew on the car is alleged.

CASE OF BROWN. Harry D. Brown, the alleged "broker," was in Judge Wilbur's court yesterday to plead to the charge of kiting a worthless check for $150, with Dr. Nettie Hammond as the victim. As Judge Willis was absent, and he was considering a demurrer interposed in behalf of Brown several days ago, the matter went over until Tuesday.

BERGLAND "SOAKED." Leslie Carter Bergland, who pleaded guilty to burglarizing the rooming-house of E. A. Mussgrove, September 29, was sentenced to five years in San Quentin by Judge Davis yesterday. The accused with the play-actor name robbed the place of pictures and rugs and proceeded to use the property to "fit up his den" on one of the back streets. Other charges were pending against Bergland and he was put away where I will have no opportunity to smoke cigarettes and pose as a lady killer.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

EXCITED WOMEN SEEK REVENGE.

TWO APPLY FOR WARRANTS FOR BATTERY AT ONCE.

Renewal of Hostilities Averted by Diplomacy of Attorneys—Man and Spouse Will Be Tried on Tuesday. Arbitration Idea Is Not Satisfactory to This Couple.

Failing to get the redress they expected from Deputy District Attorney Alexander, Friday, W. L. Hicks and Edith Hicks, his wife, are alleged to have taken the law into their own hands, and, as a result, were taken before Justice Chambers on a battery charge yesterday.

The couple complained they had been accused of arson by Mrs. Augusta Barry, and applied for a warrant for her arrest. The attorney offered to adjust the matter by having Mrs Barry call at his office and tell her side of the story. They left the office, and a short time later met Mrs. Barry. A free-for-all fight resulted.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Hicks appeared and asked Alexander for a battery charge against Mrs. Barry, declaring the latter had struck her with a whip. As they were threshing out the case, they looked up and saw Mrs. Barry, who was beseeching Deputy District Attorney Keetch to issue a battery complaint against Mrs. Hicks.

The attorneys joined forces in attempting to reach an equitable stand. The women became excited, and a renewal of hostilities was averted by the diplomacy of the attorneys.

Complaints were issued against Mr and Mrs. Hicks. They pleaded not guilty and their trials were set for Tuesday.

MOVE FROM COOPS.

ATTORNEYS' NEW ROOMS.

Yesterday was moving day for the deputy district attorneys at the Central Police Station. They deserted the two little office rooms in the City Jail building, and took spacious quarters on the third floor of the Tajo building.

For nearly a year the two small rooms have served as offices for four attorneys and as a waiting-room for the large number of citizens with woes to tell the prosecutors.

Paul McCormick, the deputy in charge of this branch of work, brought the condition of the offices to the attention of the City Council, and they allowed him to rent new quarters. He had a hearty champion in Councilman Wallace. The "City Dad" had some troubles of his own to report and had the experience of waiting in a dark hall with some Mexicans and negroes for more than half an hour.

Theater Proprietor Fined.

R. W. Woodley, proprietor of the Optic Theater, was fined $50 by Justice Chambers yesterday, for having allowed patrons to stand in the aisles of his amusement place.

He is the first victim of a crusade that has just been instituted along this line. Chief of Police Dishman has instructed his officers to pay particular attention to the enforcement of this ordinance.

Speed Fiends Arrested.

Fred Wallace, a negro; H. Stosset and H. O. Whithers, motorcyclists, were in Justice Chambers's court yesterday for having flirted with the thirty-mile-an-hour speed ordinance, which carries with it a jail sentence. The motor officers testified they arrested the defendant while they were riding at a rate of twenty-nine miles an hour. The magistrate sentenced each of them to pay a fine of $50. Wallace did not have the money, and was sent to jail. He stated that his friends would pay his way out.

Negro Financier.

J. C. Allen, a negro, has been landed in jail for fifty days. He rented a house he did not own and collected $10 from the tenant. He pleaded guilty before Justice Chambers yesterday, being accused of larceny by trick and device.

Gets Just Deserts.

Guy Dively must serve fifty days in the workhouse for having encouraged his wife to lead a dishonorable life for the pecuniary gains it would bring to him. He was sentenced by Justice Frederickson yesterday.

New Furniture in the Tudor Style

Tudor style furniture is the intelligent adaptation to present day requirements of the best and characteristic features of furniture made during the reigns of the English Tudors.

It has all the elements of merit possessed by the quaint Arts and Crafts pieces and it is characterized by the same refined simplicity. Its designs and finish lend themselves most appropriately to our California mission homes and bungalows.

It is made of first grade oak—heavy stock and of the solid wood—and being built according to the best principles known to modern cabinet making—it is even superior in durability to the sturdy antiques from which it draws its inspiration.

It is finished in "fumed oak"—a warm nut brown color—which penetrates the wood and is as lasting as the furniture itself.

The chairs and other seating pieces are provided with big comfortable cushions of German goatskin—which is very soft and finely grained and will not scuff nor crack.

It is economical furniture to buy, because it combines the very maximum of comfort with attractive beauty and lifelong service—and at very moderate cost.

We have a most complete collection of inviting pieces for the living room, library, dining room, hall and den. Every piece is marked in plain figures—one price to everybody—and that the lowest for which furniture of equal merit can possibly be sold.

One of our entire windows is devoted to a display of these new Tudor style pieces this week—but we want you to feel that you are as welcome to look at the pieces on our floors as the pieces in our windows—even though you may not be a buyer.

A STUDY IN CIVIC PROGRESS.

BY CARRIE L. GROUT.

If a Californian goes East it is not to find better place, perish the thought! It might be for business reasons, or it might be to visit friends or relations who are so devoted to old places and old ways that they would doubtless find it hard to leave if they were called to heaven, but whatever the pull may be it will set in stronger when the face is turned again westward.

A lover of Los Angeles, thrilling with the splendid possibilities of its future, studies eastern cities with a keen zest for comparison and suggestion. The truly good have lifted up warning voices against the wickedness and dangers of the city probably ever since the first villages huddled themselves together so that people could watch each other better, but since the truly good do not all live in the rural districts, it is evident they must find some compensation for the evils they deplore. The fact is, most of us like nature best with a judicious mixture of human nature and the mental and moral stimulus of the city is far and away ahead of the country and also ahead of its evil influences, be they bad as they are painted. If a city is proved to be fast in the grip of vice and graft, it is not safe to assume in these electric days that it will stay there. Pittsburgh was scientifically investigated in every department of its civic life and pronounced so bad that the report sent a shudder over the country; but it got right up and shook itself and straightway began to deserve a better reputation. Those who have met evil squarely face to face and have overcome it are the truly virtuous, not those who were never tempted.

Minneapolis is a lusty young city, hardly fifty years on the map, but registering several notches ahead of her older sister down the river, claiming a population of 300,000 last week, and seeing no earthly reason for stopping anywhere this side of eternity.

It was literally founded on a rock, the ledge of limestone resulting in St. Anthony's falls on the Mississippi being the determining factor in the choice of location, offering a magnificent water power and extending far enough to furnish the solid foundation of many buildings. The moral rock which has decided the individuality of the city and the trend of its progress was in the character of its early settlers, strong, intelligent, ambitious, far-seeing, law-abiding, they laid the foundation of all that is most admirable in the present metropolitan center.

The primeval forests which were adjacent to the noble river gave ample building material and furnished a profitable industry, and when agriculture brought its wheat and invention its mills, and the railroads put water transportation out of commission, and the forests began to disappear, the mines added their quota to the general prosperity, Minnesota is a rich State and Minneapolis is its center with the permission of St. Paul.

When the present Mayor was asked what was the best thing he could say for Minneapolis, he promptly answered, "The spirit and enterprise of the people," and no Mayor could ask for any better backing than that. All natural advantages and commercial opportunities come to naught when the people fail. Politically, the city is independent, which means thoughtful. There was a serious municipal scandal a few years ago which taught the citizens a lesson they are not likely to forget, and there has been a bracing up and tightening of legal cords and watchfulness which is producing excellent results. There is a practical civil service in the police department. The women, too, are not backward in attending to their share of the municipal housekeeping which usually means attention to important details as it does here.

The Commercial Club, numbering over a thousand men, is keenly alert in all things for the good of the city. These men believe in their city with might and main, sparing neither time nor brains in its service, and they are proving that high standards of living, morals, and art, bring quick returns both in money and satisfaction.

Minneapolis has the distinction of being the only large city in the country to have the State University within its limits, and it is lifted up accordingly. Culture thrives and blossoms, and attracts ever increasing numbers to its neighborhood. The campus is beautiful with its great oak trees and the river in the rear; but it became too crowded, and the alumni have been successful in procuring appropriations to increase it duly. The present buildings are somewhat incongruous, but the authorities know it, and it will be remedied. All these young things that grow so fast have trouble to keep their clothes made over appropriately. The entire city, and all our cities, are struggling with the same problem.

The tendency of education to become practical and serviceable is strong in this university, and one of its happiest expressions is in the department of political science. One of the professors giving a simple test in American government to a student desiring to make up an entrance condition, found such a woeful ignorance that it set him to thinking vigorously. He sent that test out on a search warrant, and was disgusted with the returns from high schools, and colleges and even universities, as to the most elementary principles of the government in which every man is expected to bear a part, and he is raising a disturbance which is likely to produce some changes in school schedules. Curiously enough, whether with or without knowledge of this agitation, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, Superintendent of Chicago Schools, announces that the study of algebra in the lower grades of the public schools of that city will be discontinued, and a course of study of the city of Chicago will be substituted. Minneapolis is preparing to do a similar service to its future citizens. Here's hoping this movement will spread even to the Pacific Coast.

There was a fine and useful custom started in one of the grade schools by a teacher who got tired of the monotony of standing by a hole in the ground prepared to receive a sprig of a tree on Arbor Day while somebody made remarks. That school determined to do something on its own hook to improve its environment. The school grounds were thoroughly cleaned up and Arbor Day was spent by the boys digging up the parking and sodding it. Afterwards they cleaned up the district, earned money and spent it for shrubbery and trees for the school grounds. The good work spread as good work will until now the Mayor appoints an annual cleaning-up day for the whole city.

Another outgrowth of the schools is the Handicraft Guild in its beautiful building. One of the art directors in the public schools had an idea and a few other ideas attached themselves to it, also some money and a house was leased, teachers secured and a summer school of applied designs started partly to help the teachers of art in the schools. There were courses in pottery, jewelry, metal, leather and woodwork, book-binding and water colors. It has in five years made of itself an art center with permanent exhibitions and salesrooms.

MUSICAL INVASION.

CITY WILL CAPITULATE TO SIEGE OF THIS NAPOLEON.

Miss Marjorie Hibbs.
Miss Ruth Rivers.

Two seminary girls in "Professor Napoleon."

At the head of an army of 720 maids, matrons, débutantes and club men "Professor Napoleon" will begin a four days' siege of the city on November 10 at the Auditorium. This will probably be the largest musical production ever attempted on a Los Angeles stage and a performance, which, for magnitude and gorgeousness, promises to eclipse anything ever before attempted here.

"Professor Napoleon" has a plot; it is more than a lot of songs and dances put together for an evening's entertainment. It is a comedy taken from college life with many musical numbers and dances. The music will be popular. It is already being whistled and hummed in many homes in the fashionable residence districts of the city.

The drilling and rehearsing day by day, has been in charge of the women interested and has accomplished promising results. These rehearsals have taken place in relays and by sections, afternoons and evenings, at the Friday Morning Club, the Hotel Alexandria and in various homes. The committee in charge of the rehearsals, of which Mrs. Albert Crutcher is chairman, is experiencing difficulty at present, on account of the many visitors who desire to see the rehearsals, which are private.

The rehearsals are quite as interesting as the performance itself. Choristers and dancers are brought on the stage in dozens and in scores. They go through with their parts, exit, and their places are immediately taken by other groups, equally as large. Word was sent out by the committee Friday that no one would be permitted at the daily rehearsals, except chaperones and reporters.

Commencing tomorrow afternoon the first and second acts will be rehearsed on alternate days throughout the week, as but little more than a week remains before "Professor Napoleon" is to be staged. The participants are counting the days until the initial performance.

Large stairways and spacious balconies, leading to the various classrooms, are shown. A bevy of students pass about in academic style. These balconies are necessarily very strong, so as to accommodate the hundreds who occupy them. Great pillars sustain the Gothic ceiling.

The second act represents the college campus by moonlight. The moon can be seen slowly rising above the chapel and the twinkling lights, seen through the windows of the dormitories, prove that the students are busily engaged at their evening studies. Terrace after terrace leads down from the college to the stage.

The stage effects are also attractive. In the Japanese scene the entire auditorium will be perfumed with Japanese incense. During the sailor scene a light effect is thrown upon the stage which seems to place the singers in the far distance for a moment and the next they are passing before the eyes of the audience.

During the tennis dance, several gross of tennis balls will be batted out into the audience each night of the performance and a realistic football and basketball game will be enacted upon the stage.

The leaders of the tennis dance are Mrs. H. E. Franklin and Miss Eulalie B. Rollins. The basketball leader is Miss Mae Hamilton. The leaders of the graduates' dance are Miss Fanny Todd Carpenter and Miss Helen Dickinson. Miss Irene Lowe has charge of the College Widows. Miss Coral C. Coles leads the sorority dance, while Miss Maude Morgan and Miss Gertrude Brands lead the High School Seniors and Juniors.

CHANCE FOR NEW INDUSTRY.

Why Not Convert the Mountains of Waste Tin Cans Into Valuable Commercial Product?

In talking of the enormous number of old tin cans that go to waste, Jacob Swallow of this city, who was formerly a resident of New Jersey, told how they have been utilized at his old home.

A number of years ago the Columbia Rolling Mills was dedicated at Jersey City, in the presence of many citizens of the city. The public ceremony was due to the fact that the mill, though bearing an ordinary name, was of an extraordinary nature, its mission being to convert old tin cans into "taggers iron," for the manufacture of buttons, tags, and like articles.

Up to that time all material of that kind had been imported from Europe, but for nearly a quarter of a century the Jersey City establishment has flourished, and Mr. Swallow asserts that it is the only mill of the kind in America today, producing taggers iron in large quantities.

Any one who has seen the mountain of old cans at the garbage incinerator in this city, and at the dumps along the river, which suggested the matter to Mr. Swallow, will at once be ready to wonder why Los Angeles might not have a mill for the manufacture of taggers iron.

The process is very simple, the cans first being heated in an oven raised to a very high temperature, which melt off the tin and lead. The thin sheets of iron that remain are first passed between rubber-coated rollers, and then between chilled iron rollers, leaving them smooth and flat. They are then annealed and trimmed, and that is taggers iron, ready for the market. The tin and lead are run into bars and sold, being a considerable source of revenue.

It need not be said that there is a steady demand for taggers iron, and the material from which it is produced costs practically nothing, and it should prove a profitable industry for Los Angeles.

Farms Reclaimed from Water.

The face of the country of Europe has been materially altered by human effort. Of the tillable land of Holland 10 per cent. has been wrested from the sea, and in Great Britain a work scarcely less has been done, for a third of the present land is said to have been bogs and marshes in the time of King Alfred. In the United States, where the work of reclaiming is just beginning, it is estimated that drainage will add 200,000 square miles to the farm land.—[Detroit News.

Lobsters Dig Wells.

"Lobsters dispel drought in Australia," said a traveler. "Australian colonists, at the height of a drought, often find their dried springs miraculously flowing again. Fresh water lobsters work that miracle. In every creek and spring, you see, there are large lobster settlements. If these lobsters fail to find moisture they perish; hence when their streams dry up they follow the water down into the earth. They dig, dig, dig—just like our Panama Canal workers—and in the end their strong claws pierce through the soft clay covering of some hidden spring, and a rill of sweet, fresh water bubbles up. Some thousands of lobster artesian well borers, working away frantically like that, day and night," he said, "are bound to discover enough springs to break any reasonable drought."—[Detroit-News-Tribune.

Mystery of Electricity.

Lots of other people would like to know what makes electricity, but nobody does know it. We know a good many things about electricity, just as we know a good many things about life. But we do not know what makes the difference between a dead tree and a live tree, although we know the difference perfectly. Just so we know that it is dangerous to touch what we call "a live wire," because electricity is passing through it, but we do not know what electricity is. We know how to make electricity do wonderful things for us, but we do not know what "makes electricity."—[St. Nicholas.

Miles of Fish.

On the last trip of the independent steamer American into Mobile the boat plowed through a school of shiners and minnows for several miles. The wheel of the boat hurled the fish onto the decks of the vessel and Capt. Lou Keene says that the fish were so thick on the sides of the boat that he had to put deck hands to work shoveling them back into the water. A number of good fish were carried back to the cookroom, and every one on board enjoyed a bit of fresh-water fish.—[Mobile Register.

YOUR LAME BACK WILL FEEL FINE

A few doses of Pape's Diuretic will clean and regulate your Kidneys, ending Backache and Urinary trouble. No man or woman of Los Angeles, whether old or young, can afford to neglect the slightest Kidney derangement.

The most effective and harmless way to cure backache and regulate out-of-order kidneys, or end bladder trouble, is to take several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

You will distinctly feel that your kidneys and urinary organs are being cleaned, healed and vitalized, and all the miserable symptoms, such as backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, inflamed or swollen eyelids, irritability, sleeplessness, or suppressed, painful or frequent urination (especially at night) and other distress, leaving after taking the first two doses.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or rheumatism, begin taking this harmless preparation as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a 50-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Don't be miserable or worried another moment with a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder misery. All this goes after you start taking Pape's Diuretic, and in a few days you feel and know that your kidneys, liver and urinary system are healthy, clean and normal, and all danger passed.

SCALP DISEASE PUZZLED DOCTORS

Began with a Little Pimple—Itched and Spread Till Whole Head was Raw—Hair Fell Out in Bunches—Suffered Three Years and Cure Seemed Impossible.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF AND EASY CURE BY CUTICURA

"My disease started with a little pimple on my head. Then it began to itch. The more I would scratch, the worse it grew until it spread all over my head. So I went to the doctor. I continued his treatment for some time but, finding no results, I decided to change and try some other remedy. Little warts began to grow on my head. I would wash it every day but it grew as raw as a piece of beef and my hair commenced to fall out in bunches. So I changed doctors. This doctor prescribed a wash and a salve. My head at this time was so sore I could not touch it. After trying several doctors and many patent medicines, nothing would cure it and I lost much time from work.

"Then I decided to go to the hospital. Several doctors were called in to look at it, and after some consultation they said that I had seborrhoea in its worst stage. They began to treat it but it improved very slowly. For over three years I was a sufferer from this disease. I thought all hopes of a permanent cure were impossible. A friend of mine, upon seeing the condition of my head—which was a mass of running corruption—asked me if I had tried the Cuticura Remedies. I told him nothing would do me any good; but being very anxious to be cured, I decided to try them. The first treatment (with Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills) brought immediate relief. My hair became alive and stopped falling out, all the scale left and now I am perfectly well and have a full head of hair. I can truthfully say that it was entirely due to the use of the Cuticura Remedies and I recommend them to all sufferers from any skin disease. George E. Jefferson, 1518 Reed St., Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 24, 1909."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. Mailed Free, 32-page Cuticura Book, an authority on the Care of Skin and Scalp and the Treatment of their Diseases.

I Cure PILES

FISTULA AND HERNIA
WITHOUT AN OPERATION
BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD
Without Cutting, Cauterizing or Injecting.

During the 25 years that I have been curing diseases of the Rectum and lower bowel, I have developed a non-surgical method that is far in advance of all others. I cure without surgery and my patients are never confined in bed and never lose a moment's time from their business.

With my method I absorb pile tumors by medication applied (or driven in) by a mild electric current. The piles are absorbed in a few treatments, leaving the rectum in a healthy, normal condition. There is absolutely no danger, no bad after-effects and no pain or soreness.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE EVERY CASE ACCEPTED FOR TREATMENT.

LITTLE GLIMPSES OF LOCAL LIFE.

BY THE GLIMPSER.

Mrs. Spondulix and her big, intelligent dog are almost inseparable companions. That isn't her right handle, but it's near enough. The dog's name is Bruno. He lives in a large house with his mistress, on the west side of town. He is a good-natured dog—part spaniel and the rest just dog. He's a peaceable dog—but was never known to show a yellow streak; that is, only just once, and then—but that has to do with the story.

One day last week the woman, accompanied by the dog, found herself in a strange part of the city. They passed a house where lived a dog with an unusually bad temper. He was vicious! He was the terror of the whole neighborhood, as was afterward learned.

He began using dog cuss words as soon as the woman came in sight. From the inside the picket fence he told Bruno what a measly coward he was, and double-dared him to come inside where the fighting was good. He also said some very uncomplimentary things about Bruno's mistress—inclined to make a respectable dog pretty hot under the collar—which wouldn't look good in print.

Mrs. Spondulix expected to see Bruno make about three mouthfuls of that sassy canine. To her surprise and disgust, however, Bruno began to whine and whimper, as if scared half to death. He tucked his tail comfortably away between his legs and crowded against his mistress' skirts between her and the fence. He nearly crowded her off the sidewalk. And he kept it up until they had passed the place by half a block. She couldn't understand it. It was the first time her dog had ever acknowledged, by whine or sign, that any beast on earth had anything on him when it came to a showdown. She was, what shall we say? Exceedingly displeased.

But Bruno was putting up a great bluff!

When they had gone far enough beyond the place, so that he figured his mistress was safe—far enough so that she wouldn't get any dust or dog fur on her tailor-made suit during the fracas, he stopped.

Bruno looked up intelligently, as if to say: "Now you wait here for about a minute, out of harm's way; I'll be back in no time!"

The woman declares that her dog winked at her, but she is probably prejudiced.

Anyway, she waited. Bruno went back to that yard and through the gate, and he gave that impudent cur one of the most complete and thorough lickings that has ever been recorded in dog history. And he wasn't long at it.

Now, who has the nerve to assert that a dog can't think; that he doesn't reason and exercise judgment? He'd better not try to argue with Mrs. Spondulix on the subject!

Of course the fairies may have been at work; or it may have been a witch, or a ghost, or the devil, or perhaps——

But there's no use trying to reason with a practical guy! He's got the [illegible] on a theory of his own as to how he came to be possessed of a new pair of trousers and a $10 gold piece, in place of the two-bit coin he had in his overalls.

Poor, suffering, little wife! He'd do anything for her! But next time he won't be so stingy with the gas. Still, half a cent's worth might have caused him to commit murder the other night. Who can tell?

This isn't exactly a glimpse; it's a hearsay—and it didn't come from the man.

He works nights. What he works at isn't material to the facts in the case. He might be a railroad man, or a janitor, or a night watchman, or a yeggman—but he isn't any of those. He wears overalls when he works. One night last week, for a particular reason, he went home early—very unusual—and quite unexpectedly in this instance.

He slipped into the house quietly, so as not to disturb his wife, who had been sleeping for hours—so he thought.

He tiptoed into the bedroom and took off his clothes with as little noise as possible. Just as he had slipped off his overalls he heard his wife groan pitifully. He was alarmed. "Is that you, dear? What's the matter?"

"Oh, John—" more groans——"My tooth—oh, my poor tooth!" More groans. "John, won't you hurry down to the drug store and get me some toothache gum? Please hurry! Don't stop to turn on the light!"

"Yes, dear; I'll hurry right back," and the man hastily redressed and hurried on his mission.

It was a long hike to the drug store and the cars were not running, but he hurried along, his thoughts with his poor wife and her sufferings. He hurried the owl clerk in getting the gum, and when it was ready for him he dug down in his pocket and pulled out the lone quarter that he knew was there. Then he turned to the door and took a long breath for the homeward marathon, when the clerk called him back.

Irritated at the delay, he inquired rather harshly: "What do you want; doesn't two-bits settle the bill?"

"Yes, but you've got $9.75 in change coming," replied the clerk.

"You're off your trolley! I only had a quarter, and—"

The clerk showed him the gold piece, which he had not yet put in the till. And about the same time the man caught a glimpse of himself in a mirror. He glanced down and took a hasty inventory.

He had on a pair of plaid trousers that he had never seen before! Then he waited for his change.

I was out the other evening with the Economical Citizen—the man who is always counting the costs. He is always figuring the details of his expense account, down to the fraction of a mill. We were talking about overcoats, and he remarked that thousands of citizens in Los Angeles never wear them—don't even own one.

"An overcoat in Los Angeles—even a cheap one—is an expensive luxury," he said.

"So?" I encouraged.

"I've got an overcoat, and I've got it figured out that it costs me a little over $1.85 every time I put it on. And it's a cheap one at that."

"I'd wear an Indian blanket if it cost me that much to wear an overcoat. I'd soon go broke during the rainy season," I remarked. But I was rather curious. The Economical Citizen had put me on the Curiosity Wagon several times before and his deductions always panned out interesting. I hit him up for the answer.

"Well," he said, "this overcoat of mine cost me sixteen bones when I bought it five years ago. I figure the useful life of a cheap overcoat, like this, could not be more than eight years, even with careful wear. The depreciation in value, therefore, would be two bones a year." I supplied the [illegible].

"So much for depreciation. My overcoat isn't insured, but that doesn't make any difference. I have to take the risk on it, anyway. I figure this is, at the very least, two-bits a year. That's not too much; is it?"

"Why, no," I replied wonderingly. I was beginning to catch his drift.

"Then you've got to figure interest on the investment," he remarked. I was about to cut in, but I didn't. I let him run on with a full head of steam. He figured the interest at 8 per cent., which came to $1.28 a year.

"Then," he continued, "there's the cold storage charges. I——

"Cold storage?"

"Yes, I keep my overcoat packed during the summer in a place down here where they keep the temperature below freezing point—so the moths can't get into the goods. That costs me $2 for the six months the coat is in pack. That has to be figured in."

He thought for a moment. "Seems as though there was something else I had figured in, but I can't recollect what it is. Well, let's see how these sums figure up." He took a pencil and a note book from his pocket and put down a list like this:

Overcoat cost $16.

Interest 8 per cent. for one year	$1.28
Depreciation in value, one year	2.00
Insurance, one year	.25
Cold storage charges	2.00
Total cost, per year	$5.53

"Well, your figures seem to be correct, but you haven't yet explained how it costs you $1.85 cents every time you wear this very expensive cheap overcoat," I remarked.

"During the last five years," said my friend, "I have worn it on an average of only three times a year. Divide this $5.53 by three and you get $1.84 and a fraction. See?"

"Yes, but——"

"Of course, you can't figure right down to the exact cost, because you can't compute every little thing that has to go in. Now, for instance, there's the wear and tear of putting the coat on each of those three times each year. That wouldn't amount to——"

"No, that would hardly be worth considering," I cut in rather dryly.

"But, of course, it would count, if you wanted to be exact," said the Economical Citizen. "Then, besides, I didn't figure in the car fare I spend each year to take the coat to the cold storage and to get it out. You see I didn't think that would be quite fair, because they advertise to come after the clothes if you notify them. Then, again, I——"

But I didn't wait to hear any more. My car was passing and I made a run for it.

LECTURES FOR WOMEN.

The first of a series of illustrated lectures at the Young Women's Christian Association, will be given on Monday evening, by Miss Cecelia White. It will be a travel lecture, under the tttle, "In the Shadow of the Pyramids," and will be followed by others on the first Monday night of each month, when there will also be a lecture on art by Miss Florence Housel. These lectures as well as the musical entertainments on the same night, are free to members, who are privileged to bring a friend.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN CALIFORNIA.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

California is doing great things for public school education. This is fully evidenced by the twenty-third biennial report of the State Department of Public Instruction, Edward Hyatt, superintendent, covering the years 1907 and 1908.

Statistically, the main record for 1908 is:

California has not another investment—even those running into hundreds of millions of dollars—that tells so much for good as this $36,000,000 invested in her public schools. Cash dividends, no matter how high their per cent., are not to be compared for one moment with the dividends in brains, culture, and good citizenship, annually added to the wealth of the State as the product of its public schools. "The bulwark of American liberty is the American public school." No outlay of the State is as cheerfully and wisely paid as is the $1,500,000 a month for the maintenance of those schools—California's best and most productive asset.

THE WORLD'S BANK NOTES.

[Finance:] The only paper money that is accepted practically all over the globe is not "money" at all, but the notes of the bank of England. These notes are simply printed in black ink on Irish linen water-lined paper, plain white, with ragged edges. The reason that a badly scrolled or worn Bank of England note is rarely seen is that notes which in any way find their way back to the bank are immediately canceled and new ones are isued. The notes of the Banque de France are made of white water-lined paper printed in black and white, with numerous mythological and allegorical pictures. They are in denominations of from f.25 to f.1000.

Bank of England notes are of a somewhat unhandy size—five by eight inches. South American currency resembles the bills of the United States, except that cinnamon brown and slate blue are the prevailing colors. German currency is printed in green and black, the notes being in denominations of from 5 to 1000 marks. The one-thousand-mark bills are printed on silk fiber paper.

It takes an expert or a native to distinguish a Chinese bill from a laundry ticket if the bill is of low denomination, or a firecracker label if for a larger amount, the print being in red on white or yellow on red, with much gilt and gorgeous devices. Italian notes are of all sizes, shapes and colors. The smaller bills, 5 and 10 lire, are printed on white paper in pink, blue and carmine inks.

The most striking paper currency in the world is the one-hundred-rouble note of Russia, which is barred from top to bottom with all the colors of the rainbow, blended as when a sun ray passes through a prism. In the center in bold relief is a finely executed vignette in black. The remainder of the engraving on the note is in dark and light brown ink.

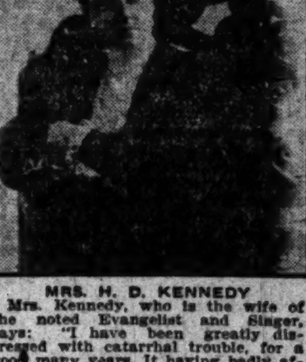
57 YEARS A SUFFERER FROM CATARRH IN ITS WORST FORM CURED.

F. E. De Merritt, 130 S. Fifth st., Alhambra, Cal., says: "I have been a terrible sufferer from catarrh of the head and throat. When I first came to Drs. Shores for treatment it had got so bad a piece of bone had come out of my left nostril and the odor was so bad it made me sick when I would stoop over. I had continual running into my throat and at night I could not breathe through my nose it was so stopped up. I have had catarrh ever since I was seventeen (17) years old. I am now in my seventy-fourth (74th) year. I have tried many kinds of catarrh remedies without benefit, and I want to say that after five (5) months' treatment from Drs. Shores & Shores I feel perfectly cured. I feel that the afflicted ought to know about Drs. Shores' wonderful treatment so that they can be cured as I have been. Any one doubting the truthfulness of this testimonial is at liberty to call on me and I will gladly verify the truthfulness of the same.

(Signed) "F. E. DE MERRITT."



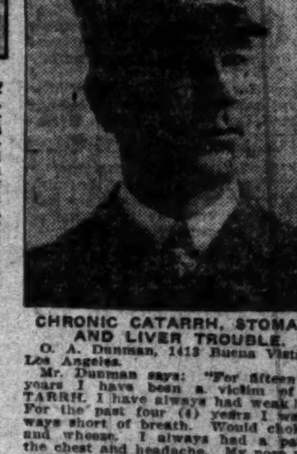
MRS. H. D. KENNEDY

Mrs. Kennedy, who is the wife of the noted Evangelist and Singer, says: "I have been greatly distressed with catarrhal trouble, for a good many years. It having badly affected one of my tonsils and I had all the usual symptoms that go with catarrhal trouble. I can truthfully say that after using Drs. Shores & Shores' treatment a little over a month I am greatly benefited. My voice is greatly improved and I feel better in every way.

"MRS. H. D. KENNEDY."

Another Week

We want every sufferer to have the chance to try our wonderful new treatment, and you well know that $3 is a very small price to pay for expert medical treatment for one month—and not a penny to pay for medicines. To all who apply this week we will TREAT YOU UNTIL CURED for $3 a month. Many are cured in one month. It may be possible to cure you in the same time.



CHRONIC CATARRH, STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLE.

O. A. Dunman, 1412 Buena Vista St., Los Angeles.

Mr. Dunman says: "For fifteen (15) years I have been a victim of CATARRH. I have always had weak lungs. For the past four (4) years I was always short of breath. Would choke up and wheeze. I always had a pain in the chest and headache. My nose would stop up until I was compelled to breathe through my mouth, and I would hawk and spit a great deal, especially when I would take cold, which was a great deal of the time. I also had trouble with my stomach and liver. I would bloat up and was always constipated. I was weak and run down in every way. This was my condition when I began Drs. Shores & Shores' treatment. I can say they have helped me in every way. I feel like a new man and take great pleasure in recommending Drs. Shores to all sufferers, for they have done wonders for me. Any one doubting this testimonial is at perfect liberty to call on me, for I feel sick people should know of Drs. Shores' great skill.

Stomach Bad?

If you have distress and bloating after eating don't neglect treatment. Catarrh of the stomach is a most common ailment and can be cured; but remember a cancer of the stomach is incurable. Don't neglect stomach trouble. Consult the doctors who know how to cure.

KELVIN'S NOW FALLEN STAR.

Ray's Big Mill to Be Away Eighteen Miles.

Place Is Little More Than Switching Point.

Court Stops Drainage Into the Rivers.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX, Oct. 28.—Up in the Gila Valley the developments of the fall time are changing the map. At one time it was believed that Kelvin was destined to become one of the largest camps in the territory. It was and will continue to be the junction point between the Phoenix and Eastern and the railroad of the Ray Consolidated and there had been expectation that the little Kelvin concentrating mill of the Ray company would be replaced by an enormous mill known to be in contemplation. This dream is past, however, and already Kelvin is little more than a casual switching point. The Rays' new mill will be about a mile from Winkleman and about that distance from the Gila River, from which water will be pumped, and will be about eighteen miles from Kelvin, which in turn is five miles from Ray. Part of the distance from Kelvin to the new concentrator will be made over the tracks of the Phoenix and Eastern but five miles of railroad will need to be constructed leading to the new mill site.

Ordinarily a concentrating mill, such as this will be, would be put close to the river edge, as at Clifton, where water and drainage could readily be had. But the decisions of Arizona courts of late hold that a concentrating mill is a pollution to any stream and by running the tailings into the Gila, it is probable the company would very soon have been in a losing lawsuit with the farmers around Florence, forty miles below. So the great mill is to be established in the foothills, where large ravines and small valleys are available into which to run the tailings, possibly for reworking after years of oxidization. A large force of men is employed building this side railroad and there can be no doubt that construction of the mill will commence as soon as the rails are laid. The company is broad-gauging its road between Kelvin and Ray.

The Ray company is not going blindly into the great work undertaken. According to the last report of President Aldrich, the development of the past ten months has resulted in showing up nearly forty million tons of ore, averaging 2.26 per cent. copper. In the experimental plant at Kelvin, copper values have been extracted of over 70 per cent. Only a small part of the company's thousand acres of mineral claims has been prospected.

The company is said to have about $4,000,000 available in its treasury. It has acquired about 4000 acres near Winkleman, together with a large amount of farming land in the valley, over which litigation might have arisen. Work upon the new plant is to be prosecuted with the utmost diligence. There seems to be indefiniteness with regard to the size, the reports of its daily capacity varying from 2000 to 5000 tons, but it is probable that the first unit, probably of 3000 tons capacity, will be ready for operation within a year. The company's officers stake their reputation on producing copper to market in New York at a gross expense of less than 9 cents per pound. A handsome profit is therefore expected even at the present bargain price of copper. There is some speculation concerning a possible coalition of the Ray company with a number of other mining corporations which own similar property in the near vicinity and which may desire to utilize the new concentrator, but no official intimation has been given that the Ray corporation has made any provision for the working of any ore save that from its own mines.

MOHAVE COUNTY.

In the outskirts of Kingman is the property of the Arizona Gold Mines Company, on which a ten-stamp mill has been running most of the current year. The ore body has been blocked nearly 800 feet long, 542 feet wide and about 100 feet deep within which, by a test of the average mill run for the year, the ore has a general value of $4.90 a ton in gold. The tonnage blocked out is estimated at 2,682,000 tons and there seems no doubt that the property is one of the most valuable of Arizona's gold mines. The deposit is in an old volcanic crater wherein it appears that the gold was brought up in solution by numerous springs of hot water.

The new 250-ton gold mill of the Gold Road mine in Mohave county was started during the week. It has forty stamps, two tube mills and a cyanide plant, with electric power brought from the Kingman power plant. It is asserted that in the mine about 1,000,000 tons of $15 ore are already developed and it is estimated that the mill should average production from now on of about $100,000 a month.

Engineers understood to be representing John Hays Hammond are examining the Cyclopic mine in Gold Basin district and the Bi-Metals mine. The latter company's ten-stamp mill has just cleaned up $2100 from an eighteen days' run and arrangements are being made to add thirty stamps to the plant.

At the Carter mine in San Francisco district of Mohave county it is claimed that six feet of ore has been uncovered on the 150-foot level that will mill better than $25 to the ton.

The history of nearly all Arizona silver camps has been that silver in the Southwest usually lies on a substratum of copper. This opinion is supported by late developments at depth in the Chloride district, where the percentage of copper is increasing as depth is attained.

In the Music mountains, east of Hackberry, the Nevada-Arizona Mines Company has started the building of a sixty-ton amalgamating mill.

A zinc concentrating mill is to be built on the Golconda mine in the Cerbat mountains of Mohave county, a property which is shipping about 1000 tons a month. The average of 6500 tons shipped is over 46 per cent. zinc, with gold and silver running from $9 to $16 a ton, the company netting $112,000 on the shipments. The lowest workings are 335 feet deep, with an ore chute from four to nine feet wide, of which one-half is shipping ore and the balance is entirely suitable for concentration. Of concentrating ore about 12,000 tons already are on the dumps with about 50,000 tons ready for stoping in the mine, where a parallel ledge, said to be of at least equal value, has hardly been touched. Power drills are to be installed and the production is to be increased at least 100 per cent.

AROUND PRESCOTT.

In the Sink-to-Rise mine, in Copper Basin district, below Prescott, has been cut an ore streak about two feet thick that assays about $40 in gold. The gold is found in a peculiar formation, apparently porphyry, scattered full of little garnets, and with a coloring that denotes the presence of cinnabar. Similar ore found in the neighborhood of Wickenburg carried vanadium in combination with lead and gold.

A five-foot Huntington mill is being operated on the Sunnyside group, near Senator, handling free gold ore. H. N. Coleman is in charge, having purchased the property from Enoch Williams.

David Shear, an Erie, Pa., capitalist, is interested in a project for building at Wickenburg a combined reduction plant, with a ten-stamp mill and a 100-ton smelting furnace. The stamp mill is now practically complete, and will be operated as soon as power can be secured from the Octave company's new electrical plant. Harry I. Klawans of Phoenix is in charge.

PARKER COUNTRY.

The bottom of the main shaft of the Little Butte mine near Bouse is 312 feet deep, within an ore body forty feet in width, with a pay streak of four feet. It is claimed that the entire width carries $4 in gold, in addition to paying copper percentages.

Grading has been completed on seventeen miles of the twenty-two-mile railroad between Bouse and Swansea, and steel is being laid. The Clara's 400-ton smelter at Swansea will be started as soon as the road arrives. To the furnace have been added a couple of Mitchell converters.

The claims of the Copper Mines Company of Arizona, near Clifton, are to be explored by means of a couple of large Keystone core drills.

TOMBSTONE MINES.

According to General Manager W. F. Staunton of the Tombstone Consolidated Mines Company, the company's pumps on the 1000-foot level still are under 200 feet of water, it having proved impracticable to pump much below the 800-foot level. Work has been continued since the summer-flood time, taking an ample supply of ore from the 800 and upper levels to supply the forty-stamp mill, and to supply silicious ores to the Sasco smelter converters. Only a small amount of development had been done on the 1000-foot level when the pumps were drowned because of an accident in the boiler-room above. But the company is determined to explore that and even lower levels, and so is about to lower new pumps, adding pumping capacity of 1500 gallons a minute. With this help, it is expected that the lowest set of pumps will soon be uncovered and set at work, thus giving an aggregate lifting power for 3500 gallons a minute, expected to insure against any repetition of the disastrous experience of the past few months.

COURTLAND STRIKE.

Rich, gold quartz has been brought to Bisbee from the neighborhood of Courtland. The story is that it was uncovered at the depth of seventeen feet by James Herron and Sam Berry, while they were doing assessment work on some copper claims. The two men proceeded promptly to stake out the ground in the vicinity, regardless of surface indications, besides picking up options on some claims already in other ownership. The gold is believed to be along a dike that has been traced for 1200 feet. Jack Jones, who had an interest with Herron and Berry, has sold out for $10,000. This find is about a mile north of Courtland townsite, at the foot of a high hill. Some of the assays run up beyond $1000.

PIOCHE.

NEVADA-UTAH CLOSES DOWN.

MANAGER RESIGNS, WATCHMAN IN CHARGE.

Railroad Puts Locomotives Away and Everything Comes to a Full Stop — Company May Center Work at Pioche With the Big Merger That Is Starting.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PIOCHE (Nev.) Oct. 29.—A complete change in the local management of the Nevada-Utah Mines and Smelters corporation is about to occur. The resignations of General Manager James P. Gaskill and his assistants has been forwarded to New York, and, in the meantime, the Day Mine at Jack Rabbit, where the company has centered its energy for several years, has been closed down tight. The magnificent plant at Jack Rabbit is in the hands of a watchman; the locomotives at the Pioche Pacific Railroad have been housed. In other words, Nevada-Utah has ceased operations altogether. It is said that the company proposes to center its energy in Pioche by joining with the Ohio-Kentucky forces in making the Consolidated Pioche a huge success.

Within sixty days the Consolidated Pioche mines will be in operation and by that time work will have been begun on the big mill which is to treat the ores from these properties. Such was the statement made yesterday morning by Anthony H. Godbe, president of the Ohio-Kentucky Company. Such advances have been made in the discovery of new processes within the past year, that had the two companies arrived at an agreement, a year ago, there would have been a mill which would now be considered out of date. The new process has been tried out with complete success on ore shipped from the Consolidated Pioche properties.

Ore sensationally rich—running into the thousands of ounces of silver—has been obtained from the incline shaft, within the past few days, but Superintendent Alex Colbath does not wish it understood that the breast exposed is all as good as that. Nevertheless he has had several assays taken, representing an average of the face which ran round $100 to the ton in gold, silver, and lead.

A very important strike has been made during the week on the Marcus A. Low claim, which is one of five claims on the Prince Consolidated side of the camp. These claims are owned by M. A. Low, Dean R. Low, C. H. Thompson and George E. Coxe. A force of men had been employed by Messrs. D. R. Lowe and Coxe to do the annual assessment on the claim. They started a shaft on a small seam or fissure and they had fairly good ore. At a depth of ten or twelve feet, the shaft cut into a solid mass of heavy manganese ore. Though now down to a depth of twenty feet, there is no indication of the foot wall. It looks as if it would be a bonanza property.

GOLDFIELD.

NEXT DIVIDEND MAY BE FORTY?

Consolidated Officials Do Not Confirm.

Over Three Million in Nine Months Only.

Million and a Half in the Treasury.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Oct. 29.—With the payment of the fourth dividend, the Goldfield Consolidated has disbursed $3,202,083.80 for the current year, and still holds a balance of over $1,500,000 in the treasury, or more than enough to insure the payment of another dividend for the ensuing three months. There is a strong sentiment undercurrent to the effect that the next dividend will be at the rate of 40 cents, but the officers decline to go on record, saying that the question of dividends is one that rests with the directors. The annual meeting occurs in January, but it is not likely that any changes will be forthcoming, as affairs have been handled with the keenest business acumen.

The ore in the Clermont shaft is growing richer as it descends, or it might be more properly stated that the rich values are holding out with depth in the area that is exploited through the Clermont. The story has been told of how the crosscuts through the ore from the hanging wall drift to the foot wall carried values of twenty-seven feet, ranging from $1000 to $2200 per ton by car samples from the entire break of the crosscut. In following the ore westward toward the Mohawk ground with a drift on the foot wall, the values still continued in the pictures for a considerable distance, and are still high-grade in the breast of the drift, but the climax was reached a few days ago, when in starting a raise on the ore above the back of the drift, about sixty feet ahead of where the first raise was run to connect with the crosscut from the Clermont to the Mohawk shafts on the 600 level, car samples from the entire break of the raise ran up to higher figures than the crosscut had shown. The raise was continued for fifteen feet, and then the work was suspended on account of the ore being so high-grade that a continued production from that point would run the mill headings so high that the values could not be saved. Arrangements are being made for stoping the big body of ore between the 730 and 600 levels, and a crosscut is being driven out into the country beyond the foot wall to start another raise through which the waste rock will be secured for backfilling as the stope progresses. The crosscut into Red Top territory on the 600 level is getting into values, and the prospect is rather promising.

DAISY GOES UNDER.

The end to the dreams of the Daisy has come, and every officer and director of local standing has resigned, leaving that once magnificent property in the hands of a clerk to watch the leasers, whose operations continue. The manager, Mr. Wilkinson, now of the Consolidated staff, says when he took charge, the Daisy was not known to be financially involved, and that he expected to bring it into production, until he found the claims against the company were so large that he could not expect to liquidate. At that stage of the game he resigned, and last night every one of his Goldfield associates did the same. This leaves the estate subject to an attachment by Frank Horton, and it is certain that the company will be foreclosed and reorganized by the original owner.

FLORENCE GOES ON.

The Florence mine and mill are in keeping with the new possibilities that were opened in the way of increased output by the enlargement of the mill and the daily tonnage is averaging about 160 tons. The grade going through the mill is somewhat better than it has been for some time past, averaging close to $30 a ton. The discovery made recently on the fourth level in the vicinity of the old Gem lease is being stoped for a width of from ten to fourteen feet between the walls, and the ore is of excellent grade, a large portion of the streak carrying values up to $100 per ton. Arrangements are being made within a short time to open the shoot on the fourth level to the south of the shaft between the Engineers and Little Florence lease.

Encouraging results are following developments on the Pittsburgh-Nevada property in the eastern section of the district, under the management of Donald Ferguson. The vein is being crosscut at a depth of 400 feet, and thus far has proven to be forty-three feet wide, and assays from $4 to $60. About twenty-four feet of the ore will average $14 per ton, and Mr. Ferguson expects to get better values by drifting. Additional sinking should bring the shaft to water level, at a depth of approximately 600 feet, where the management expects good shipping ore, if it is not encountered above.

SILVER PEAK PROPERTIES.

Silver Peak is to have the largest mill in Nevada. An addition of twenty stamps is planned for the Pittsburgh-Silver Peak mine at Blair, to increase its capacity 20 per cent., or, in other words, enable it to output $1,250,000 in gold every year. The mill has a capacity of 450 tons daily, but with the new stamps, 540 can be handled. This is the largest mill in the State, judging from the number of stamps, but the tonnage is exceeded by the Goldfield Consolidated, which now treats 650 tons, and will shortly increase to 900 daily. It is more than probable that the Silver Peak will eventually install 200 stamps, as the ore in sight is practically inexhaustible, and there is enough blocked to keep the mill going for the next ten years. The mine is situated three miles from the mill, with which it is connected by an aërial tramway. At present, 275 men are employed, but with the new stamps, fifty more will be found room underground.

C. R. Miller, manager of the Goldfield Silver Peak Company at Coyote Springs, a Los Angeles corporation, reports most favorably upon conditions under the changes that were effected there during the past three months. There is ample money in the treasury to prosecute development work. A large sum of money was injudiciously expended by the former management, but the present owners are going forward on a business-like basis, and there is no reason why they should not make a success of it. The property has a large body of low-grade, which has been demonstrated to be a good milling proposition. The Hoyt riffle boards installed in the ten-stamp mill have proven to be very satisfactory, effecting a saving of 80 per cent., and the cyanide plant will be abandoned. The mill is running with a single shift, but will begin to run double shifts next week. The shaft is down 225 feet, and will be sunk 200 feet further. Drifting from the lower level is in progress, and will be continued about 400 feet to the north end and about seventy-five feet to the south end. Eleven men are employed, but this force will be doubled when the mill force is increased.

BANNOCK DISCREDITED.

The discussion of the relative merits of Bannock, Lander county, does not abate. Returned prospectors and miners continue to declare against the so-called boom camp. Joe Maracci, one of the oldest and most reliable prospectors of the southern country, states that there is nothing to the camp but a huge gash vein that is said to make a good showing on the original or discovery claim that is controlled by Union Pacific officials. His story to the effect that the rich claim had been fenced in is verified by F. P. Crews of Manhattan, who dissects the pretensions of Bannock in the following manner: "When I arrived, I at once proceeded to the source of the find, fully expecting to be permitted to enter the treasure vault, but there was nothing doing. The excuse offered was that there had been too much high-grading. Next morning I started to make a survey, and found from hearsay that the discovery shaft was down twenty-two feet. The find was made over four weeks ago, and since that time the company has been successful in granting fourteen leases. These leasers have been busy trenching and opening small fissures that panned as high as $10 to the pan. For two miles the country is a diabase, though one hears many definitions, from a lime shale, andesite, silicified porphyry, quartzite or another term that an amateur miner can conjure. The country, for an area of four miles, has been staked out, regardless of patented ground, of which there is considerable. The leasers are very poor, and unless they strike it rich or capital comes to their help, the ground will have to be abandoned. The town that sprung up in a night, as the promoters described it, consists of four saloons, one restaurant, one hardware and grocery store, one meat shop and twenty-five tents." The speaker concluded with a warning to all miners seeking wages to remain away, as the outlook for making good was not propitious.

EXPANDING.

SEVEN HUNDRED TON SMELTER.

MITCHELL HAS GREAT FAITH IN THE CLARA.

Large New Equipment Ordered for Mine and Superintendent Reports Two and a Half Million Tons of Five Per Cent. Copper Ore as Being Blocked.

George Mitchell, president of the Clara Consolidated, who recently returned from Europe, has sent the following report to the stockholders:

"In view of the tonnage of ore exposed in the mines, it has been decided by the management to increase the capacity of the company smelter to 700 tons per day and the necessary machinery and structural material has been ordered for the earliest possible delivery. The converter plant and the structural buildings are now completed and ready for shipment. The date of shipment of this material is dependent upon the completion of the Arizona and Swansea Railroad, which is now being built from Bouse to the mines at Swansea, and from the present progress being made, we expect to be able to order the shipment of this material within the next few days. While this is a temporary delay it will be of considerable advantage to the company to await the completion of the railroad as the material can then be delivered direct from the railroad onto the site where it is to be erected. It will take from twenty to twenty-five days to complete the plant after the arrival of the material, as all foundations are finished. This delay in awaiting the completion of the railroad will mean an enormous saving in the handling of this heavy material.

"The company has already ordered forward its large electric lighting plant and electric equipment for operating the converters, relining and mixing plants. The converter plant when completed will consist of steel buildings with a forty-five ton overhead electric traveling crane, and two stands of converters of the largest type made, with a daily capacity of forty to forty-five tons of copper bullion, assaying from 99 to 99.3 per cent. copper. The plant will also be equipped with an electric railroad for conveying slag away from the smelting furnace, and with an electric tramway for hauling the ore from the mines to the smelter ore bins. All this material has been paid for and is only awaiting the completion of the railroad for its transportation and erection at the mines.

"Our latest report from Gen. Supt. Mr. H. L. Browne, as to the mine development, shows that we have approximately 2,500,000 tons of ore blocked out, giving a strong average assay of 5 per cent. Recent sampling shows an actual average of 5.8 per cent., but for the sake of conservatism we have considered it on a basis of 5 per cent. straight. The quantity of ore and the assay values given, are based upon the actual ore developed down to the 300 foot level. Our latest workings however give us much greater values, such as workings D-4 and D-7, which are producing ore assaying from 6 to 9 per cent.

"A report on the progress made in the construction of the Arizona and Swansea Railroad, which will connect your properties with the Arizona and California Railroad at Bouse (a branch of the Santa Fé system,) shows that the grade has been completed to a point within five miles of Swansea, all bridges and trestles completed and some track laid. The company is now awaiting the arrival of rails which are due in the next few days, to continue track laying. As soon as the track material arrives the road will be constructed much more rapidly and if no unexpected contingencies arise, it should be completed to Swansea by the latter part of next month. All necessary train equipment has been ordered and a portion has arrived at Bouse, the balance now being in route thereto.

"We expect to be able to start operations at the smelter within twenty or twenty-five days after the completion of the railroad. In view of the development at the mines, the advanced construction of the smelting plant and the early completion of the Arizona and Swansea Railroad, we consider that the future of the company is exceedingly bright and we believe that you have as good an investment as there is on the market, as the prospects for your company being a large dividend payer in the early future can not be overestimated. The company has an exceedingly low capitalization—$3,000,000, of which 500,000 shares remain in the treasury unissued.

"The company owns all its properties clear and free, without any incumbrances whatsoever and with no bonded indebtedness, its only obligations are those covered by the ordinary running expenses.

"As an asset, the company has about $40,000,000 worth of ore in sight."

MOHAVE COUNTY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Oct. 30.—James H. Hurin of Los Angeles, president of the Tennesee Mining Company, is in Chloride, looking over the property with a view of unwatering and resuming operations in mine and mill. Mr. Hurin has spent the past two months studying the most improved treatment in the lead and zinc districts of Missouri, Illinois, and Wisconsin, and thinks he has found the best method of extraction for the Tennessee ore.

The Tennessee mine, which is developed by a 600-foot shaft and several thousand feet of drifts, though idle for the past two years, has produced in the aggregate more than any mine in Chloride. The ledge is from six to twelve feet wide, on the lowest level the last work showed an ore shoot 300 feet long, and averaging eight feet in width, which, with the present price of zinc, will mill at a profit. Mr. Hurin also intends working over the present tailing dumps of about 20,000 tons, which, from careful sampling, are known to contain $4.50 in gold and silver, and 16½ per cent. zinc per ton.

In the Cottonwood district, eight miles from Hackberry, Jim Brown has struck two feet of $60 free-milling gold ore in the bottom of a twenty-foot shaft, and in the same vicinity McAbee and McBride at a depth of fifty feet, opened four feet of the same character; eighteen inches of this latter strike assays a little over $60, and the remainder is a good grade of milling ore. These properties are in a district made prominent a few years ago by the Copper Giant mine, where in the bottom of a 180-foot shaft seven feet assay 10 per cent. in copper, and from $8 to $12 in gold. The litigation which has stopped work in this mine will probably be settled out of court about January 1 from present indications, and this should result in a renewal of activity in the entire district.

In the Southwestern at Copperville, twenty-two miles east from Yucca, four feet of good milling ore have been encountered on the 300-foot level. The ore contains chalcopyrite carrying gold and silver values, and with the light quartz gangue is ideal for concentrating. As a result of the new find 200 feet of sinking will be started from the 300-foot level at once.

In the San Francisco district the Owl prospect, on which a strike of $108 ore was made a few weeks ago, has been bought by a group of Kingman men. The Owl adjoins the Ruth mine and the new owners intend sinking immediately.

A. C. Werden, representing Denver capital, arrived here a few days ago, and has started sinking on the Paddy Mullen property, which he bonded several weeks ago. The Mullen prospect is near the Tom Reed, and has a good showing. Mr. Werden is also preparing to install machinery on the Red Creek group, adjoining the Gold Road mine on the north. The Red Creek is developed by a shaft eighty feet deep, and the ledge at this point assays $15 per ton.

The Carter mine will start sinking November 1, and the shaft will be continued to a depth of 250 feet. Crosscutting on the west end of the ledge at 150 feet shows continued good ore.

At Mineral Park the Keystone mine, bonded by S. R. Porter of Los Angeles, a short time ago, is being unwatered and a contract has just been let for sinking.

SEARCHLIGHT.

New Year's Gift and Fourth of July Properties Progress Nicely.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) Oct. 29.—Monday night, the Crittenden Development Company, leasing the New Year's Gift, completed the last of the preparatory work, and everything was in shipshape, so that the shift Tuesday morning went to work underground. With President A. W. Crittenden in charge, it is only a question of getting the ore ready for extraction; and regular shipments can be looked for within the next sixty days.

General Manager F. W. Creswell is making good progress down at the White Rock. The lumber for new buildings is on the ground, as is also the machinery plant. In the mine development has been started.

Yesterday, the Cyrus Noble mill started running through twenty-five tons for Messrs. Con Crowley and J. R. Case. The ore comes from the Fourth of July mine, which is being worked under lease by these gentlemen. The run is expected to average $40.

The recent shipment to San Francisco of eigt tons netted a little better than $100 a ton.

The Fourth of July mine is owned by the Quartette Mining Company, and is located some five miles east of town, on the mountain bearing its name. Crowley and Case were given a year's lease on June 20, last, and since have been running two tunnels—on opposite sides of the hill—both faces of which are in about sixty feet.

The pay ore varies from four to eighteen inches in width. A rather remarkable condition has been found, in that the ore on the surface was base. To start with, about three tons of this ore were taken out, which went better than $200 to the ton. Then, in about five feet of depth, the ore changed from base to free milling—the silver values since then never exceeding two ounces.

The leasers are greatly pleased, both with the property and with the liberal treatment accorded them by the Quartette. If all goes well, a new tunnel is to be started on down the hill, which will give an immense amount of stoping ground.

After losing three successive holes, the drillers at the Philadelphia have abandoned the work. The work done averaged over $20 a foot, and was without results.

Hall & Coyle of Eldorado Cañon have completed a deal on their Cornucopia group. Quartz Sparks of Las Vegas is to furnish capital for devel-

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY AND CHEMISTRY.

To Correspondents:

This department is not conducted for pay. Its object is to convey reliable information of interest and value to the public, and it is not for the private benefit of any miner, collector, speculator or prospector. Correspondents are particularly cautioned to take careful note of the statements and injunctions contained in the paragraphs below.

(1.) Specimens must be small and bear a tag giving name and address of sender, and the general—not exact—locality from whence the specimen was taken, also the name of it as nearly as the sender knows. Send, also, with the specimen a clearly-written letter briefly describing the find and what the finder wishes done with it. The letter must be properly dated and plainly signed.

Letter and specimen must be in one package, not in separate inclosure.

(2.) No attention will be paid to anonymous letters or to letters signed merely with initials.

(3.) No examinations of samples or specimens will be made in cases where The Times may decide that the specimen and inquiry are not of public interest. This office does not undertake to perform the work of an assay office.

(4.) Inquiries relative to matters of purely personal interest will not be answered.

(5.) When no response to an inquiry made or specimens sent appears in these columns, the inquirer will understand that his inquiry does not come within the purview of this department.

(6.) It is impossible to return specimens, as they must necessarily be destroyed or impaired in the process of analysis.

Address invariably, The Times.

Touchstone.

Yours truly, W. R.

ANSWER: Sample No. 1 is banded, siliceous calcite. Specimen No. 2 is impure lydian stone. No. 3 (granular matter in tobacco sack) is a very impure mixture of decomposed slate and Fuller's earth.

Lydian stone is known also as basanite and touchstone, and when pure is velvet black in color. On account of its hardness it is used for testing precious metals, and the method is one of comparison, in part. The metal is scratched or rubbed on to the touchstone, and if it is an alloy it is compared with a scratch of a known alloy made on the touchstone; for example, if metallic copper be rubbed in streaks on the touchstone the streaks would somewhat resemble gold but a drop of nitric acid applied to the metallic streak would result in a bluish mixture with the acid (copper,) whereas, if the streak were occasioned by metallic gold, there would be no effect upon the gold with cold nitric acid. Boiling gold, however, in nitric acid tends to darken the metal only.

None of your samples was tested for gold or silver, should gold and silver be absent by assay the rock would be of no commercial value.

Trachyte and Calcite.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Three samples of Californi rock. A, B and C.

Yours truly, J. M. H.

ANSWER: "A" and "B" samples are trachyte, "C" is calcite.

Lodestone.

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] While prospecting two miles west of Bull Run, and near the Mt. Hood district, I ran across a lead of ore about twelve inches wide, and I am sending you samples. Please state in your "In the Earth" what kind of metal the samples are composed of. I believe it is some sort of uranium ore. Thanking you in advance, I am,

Yours respectfully, T. B.

ANSWER: The samples are magnetite (magnetic iron ore) in a state of magnetic polarity. The ore will pick up nails, needles, etc. It is named at the subheading, and is, in fact, a native magnet.

Tellurium Not Present.

FAIRVIEW P.O. (N. M.) Sept. 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Inclosed please find three samples. No. 1 is the hanging wall of vein. What kind of rock is it? No. 2 the country rock from next to the hanging wall above. What kind of rock is it? No. 3 ore. Is the black tellurium? It has high assay values in gold and silver. Thanking you in advance for the designations, as they will be of importance to Yours truly, L. M. G.

ANSWER: In passing over your specimens great care will be exercised in being guided by results from chemical analysis.

Sample No. 1 is somewhat feldspathic; but, in fact, it is impure, massive epidote (iron lime-alumina silicate.) Specimen No. 2, country rock? an impure alumina-silicate, with some pipe clay, and, withal, carrying microscopical pyrite (pyrite and pyrrhotite) iron disulphide. No. 3 does not react for tellurium. The black is (in part) pseudomorph after pyrite, and, also, after cubes of spathic iron, with manganese and antimony present in low percentages.

Your samples were delayed in transit, in reaching The Times.

Traces of Zinc Present.

LEASTALK (Cal.) Oct. 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Does the inclosed ore sample carry zinc? Found in the Crescent district, San Bernardino county. Yours truly,

W. A. T.

Baryte.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This sample comes from a two-inch streak running with the lead near Rincon. Is it baryte pure enough for paint base? I will confidently look for an answer in the "In the Earth." Yours truly,

W. B. Y.

ANSWER: You have named the specimen correctly. It is too impure—and the lead is too narrow—for the purpose suggested by you.

Uranium Not Present.

PASADENA, Oct. 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This sample is thought to contain uranium or something similar in value. It was found near Ord Mountain, San Bernardino county, Cal. The ledge is about 5 feet wide. Please let me hear through the "In the Earth" what it really is and oblige a regular subscriber.

Yours truly, S. J. S.

ANSWER: Granular sample carries iron oxide pebbles, including magnetite. Traces of copper are in the mass, as, also, vanadic acid, low percentage.

Mineralogically Named.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will you oblige a student by naming the inclosed rock samples? They were gathered in the Rocky Mountains in North Dakota. Thanking you now for your kindness, I am, yours truly, A. B.

ANSWER: The naming for you of samples submitted is a pleasure. No. 1 is banded-siliceous calcite. No. 2 is iron shale, properly. Some would indicate it as slate. We fail to find No. 3 in the package submitted. No. 4 is a banded shale colored with dumortierite (silicate of aluminum.) No. 5 is a hornblendic-calciferous slickenslide. None of your samples is a typical mineral.

Bismuth Not Present.

SAN FERNANDO, Oct. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The accompanying specimen comes from a property near San Fernando, Cal., that I am working. They contain, I believe, gold, silver, copper, lead and bismuth. I would like to know what values—if any—they contain.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

Very respectfully, N. K.

ANSWER: You submit one sample which is low-grade micaceous iron oxide—limonite and hematite. Pyrite, arsenical pyrite, and chalcopyrite are present in the mass, as, also, pseudomorph after pyrite. Not tested for gold and silver.

Interesting Minerals.

SHASTA SPRINGS, Oct. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have been on a trip with two prospectors, and am now sending you nine samples for identification, description, and chemical constituents. No. 1 is from Mt. Shasta and is known among prospectors as "pumice stone." I believe it to be trachyte. No. 2 comes from near the Pitt River, and is said to be "pitchblende." No. 3 is from near [illegible] son, and I am in doubt as to whether it is feldspar or marl. No. 4 is from a deposit near Pokegema. No. 5 [illegible] near Mt. Shasta. No. 6 is from [illegible] Hilt, and I would be glad to know whether or not the yellow contents [illegible] mica or gold. No. 7 is from the Klamath River at a point where I am told that "Indians gather the moss at low water mark and get gold by [illegible] the moss." No. 8 is from near [illegible] brook; is it cement rock? No. 9 [illegible] taken from a small lead on [illegible] Creek. Thanking you in advance for an answer, as requested, in your "In the Earth" columns, and assuring you that you will confer a favor not only on me, but also upon many prospectors at the localities stated by giving us as much information as your space will permit. Yours truly,

GEO. B. [illegible]

ANSWER: Sample No. 1 is a light (sp. gr.) porous, feldspathic [illegible] "with the pores capillary and parallel." It is pumice and not trachyte. On sample No. 2 we have [illegible] and, in these columns give [illegible] space; the sample is a [illegible] hematite (iron peroxide) with [illegible] (titanic iron,) and carries no [illegible] values. No. 3 is impure [illegible] purities—too great a per cent. of [illegible] oxide (limonite.) No. 4 is [illegible] pipe clay. No. 5 is hornblende [illegible] 6 is ferruginous quartz, with very microscopical colors of gold [illegible] No 7 is baryte—barium [illegible] heavy spar—and is very [illegible] crystallized.

It is a fact that moss [illegible] along the banks of the Klamath [illegible] but we have never obtained [illegible] it.

Sample No. 8 is impure [illegible] ment rock,) and No. 9 is a [illegible] specimen of pegmatite (graphic granite.)

Some Questions.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. [illegible]—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am a [illegible] —and yet have no teacher [illegible] istry and physics. I read [illegible] ure and benefit your "In the Earth" department. Upon careful [illegible] the paragraphs at the head of column 1 submit a few [illegible] which are of interest [illegible] answered by you might [illegible] to others situated as I am.

My first question is: What [illegible] by the term cohesive attraction? [illegible] second question was asked [illegible] of mine who could not [illegible] question himself; it follows: [illegible] represents the speed [illegible] and, question three: Please [illegible] scription of mineral geodes [illegible] you in advance for an [illegible] swer.

Yours gratefully, [illegible]

ANSWER: Glad to hear [illegible] Your questions are rather [illegible] able, especially the second [illegible] always a pleasure to aid [illegible] when possible, but there are [illegible] which, at times, arise [illegible] ciety, as by you stated, [illegible] one asking questions either [illegible] knowledge or is desirous of [illegible] the other fellow, as it were.

It would be well for you to [illegible] a copy of "Dana's Manual of Mineralogy," study it, and do not pay [illegible] attention as yet to over [illegible] from your friends.

Your question (No. 1) is a [illegible] one: "What is meant by the term cohesive attraction." "Cohesive attraction is, in fact, the organizing structure-making principle in inorganic nature. It produces [illegible] forms for each species of mineral, as life does for each living species."

(2.) What represents the speed of no return? We hope that we understand your question clearly, and answer: The speed of no return is the velocity a body must possess in leaving the earth so that it will not return. "It represents [illegible] about seven miles a second. Hydrogen gas is known to have a molecular velocity of over the necessary [illegible] and it is startling proof of the [illegible] that no free hydrogen is found in the atmosphere. The theory is that this gas, on being set free, rises on account of its lightness and when it gets to the outside edge of our ocean of air is left behind on one of its [illegible] earth going forward at a great [illegible] itself, something like [illegible] second."

Geodes are well defined in the following words: "When a cavity has been lined by the deposition of mineral matter, but not wholly filled, [illegible] closing mineral is called a geode. The mineral is often banded, owing to successive depositions of the [illegible] and frequently has its inner surface set with crystals. Agates [illegible] slices or fragments of geodes."

Chromite and Copper [illegible]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Oct. [illegible]—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am sending you in this package [illegible] of rocks and one sample [illegible] call white clay. Yours very truly [illegible]

ANSWER: Sample No. 1 is [illegible] (chromic iron.) Color [illegible] Streak dark brown. Of [illegible] luster (somewhat pitch-like). "In hardness 5.5, sp. gr., 4.4. "In [illegible] attractable by the magnet. [illegible] mate analysis: 32 per cent. [illegible] chromium sesquioxide [illegible] Infusible before the blowpipe [illegible] with borax yields a [illegible] bead. Sample No. 2 is [illegible] sulphide.) No. 3 is chalcocite [illegible] glance or vitreous copper [illegible] a handsome specimen and [illegible] 78 per cent. copper, with [illegible] 20 per cent. Dissolves in [illegible] acid, and from the solution [illegible] phur precipitates. Sample [illegible] impure calcite, with a low [illegible] of phosphoric acid present.

BAGHOUSE WILL CUT OUT FUMES.

SHASTA COUNTY FARMERS ARE SATISFIED.

Mammoth Company to Be Ready to Deal With Smoke by Next Spring—and Martinez Smelter Preparing Also to Propitiate Contra Costa Agriculturists.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

REDDING, Oct. 29.—The Mammoth Copper Company has commenced a [illegible] baghouse to eliminate objectionable fumes. Representatives of the Farmers' Association conferred a few days ago with Managing Director Fred Lyon of the Mammoth and there is no danger that any trouble will develop between them. The baghouse at Mammoth will be modeled after the one in use at the Garfield smelter, Utah, and is confidently expected to remove all cause for complaint. It will take several months in which to finish the baghouse, but during the winter the fumes will not cause any harm, hence the company has ample time in which to complete its work. It still remains for the Balaklala company to suppress the gases from its Coram plant, but it is believed here that the example of the Mammoth will be followed. The Mammoth plant is producing in excess of [illegible] pounds of blister copper monthly, and is understood to be realizing a profit of approximately $50,000 per month. The company is still in debt, but it will pay to erect a modern baghouse rather than be forced to suspend operations.

It is announced that the Mountain Copper Company will erect four additional stacks at its Martinez smelter. The stacks will be equipped with [illegible] for the condensing of the fumes, and will remove the cause of the unfriendly actions of the farmers of Contra Costa county. It is again reported that the company is quietly preparing to resume work at Keswick, and that the old smelter will be thoroughly repaired and placed in condition to take ores from the Hornet mine. Enormous quantities of ore have been developed in this property, but its low grade will not permit of shipments to the distant Martinez smelter. Accordingly it will have to be treated near Keswick. Several small companies are pushing explorative work in the Shasta copper belt. Over a dozen diamond drills are in commission, and a number of excellent properties are being proven.

TRINITY COUNTY.

The Butte Creek Consolidated Dredging Company of Los Angeles is arranging for the early installation of a dredge on the Pit River, between Minersville and Lewiston, Trinity county. Its representatives are inspecting the property and perfecting preliminaries. The gravel deposits are located in the heart of one of the richest placer regions in California, and have been thoroughly tested. The annual clean-up of the La Grange mine was made recently and amounted to $[illegible]00,000. This is in addition to the monthly clean-ups ranging from $[illegible]5,000 to $30,000 per month. The La Grange is located in Trinity county and is the largest hydraulic property in the world. The Trinity River [illegible] Company will commence the [illegible] mining of the bed of the Trinity within a short time. The entire [illegible] is flowing through the big tunnel and about a mile of the bed is [illegible].

AT OROVILLE.

The Oroville Dredging Company, Ltd., operating at Oroville, has transferred its holdings to the London Dredger. It embraces the former properties of the Bear River Dredging, the Boston-California, the Oroville Mining, and Oroville Gold Dredging companies. It is the plan of the new company to build larger dredges at Oroville and thoroughly develop the fields. In addition to its Oroville properties, the company has secured 22,000 acres of promising lands in Colombia, South America, and will install several dredges in that country. Most of the operators at Oroville are leveling their deposit of tailings and practically all cause of complaint against [illegible] ships have been removed by [illegible] of Oroville and other factors. Everything indicates that the yield of dredges for 1909 will be vastly in excess of all previous periods.

SIERRA COUNTY.

Alleghany was enlivened last week by sensational strikes. The first was made in the Twenty-one mine, and caused great excitement. The vein is approximately thirty inches wide, and is characteristic of the other rich veins opened in Alleghany mines. Considerable ore has been taken out and sacked for shipment. Developments are progressing steadily and the vein is holding splendidly. A strike was made at a point 700 feet from the [illegible] of the tunnel. A few days later a 15-inch phenomenally rich vein was opened in the tunnel of the Rainbow Extension 150 feet from the entrance. This strike is said even to rival the discovery in the Twenty-one and is expected greatly to stimulate interest in the district. The Twenty-one and Rainbow Extension are lower than any of the other [illegible] properties, and the recent strikes conclusively demonstrate the [illegible] nature of the veins of the district. The Gold Cañon also reports good ore, and is operating its mill at full capacity. Just [illegible] hills the South Fork continues to extract splendid ore. It is said that late developments are proving the persisting nature of the [illegible] recently opened. This is the mine controlled by Los Angeles people, which two weeks ago made the richest strike of many years in the For[illegible].

NEVADA AND NAPA.

The [illegible] mine at Grass Valley has cut a strong body of bonanza ore, and is sending the shaft down to open the vein at depth. It is [illegible] feet wide, and is the richest ever intersected on the property. [illegible] stockholders were on hand shortly after the strike was made and strongly favor sinking to depth as the North Star and other mines have conclusively demonstrated the permanency of the veins in that section. Manager H. G. A[illegible] of the Conlan Mining Company announced that operations will be resumed on this property at an early date. The Dana is working with a large force of men. Good ore has been opened. The Union Hill is developing two veins and producing good ore.

The [illegible] Belle Union quicksilver mines in Napa county have been taken over by Oakland capitalists, and will be extensively operated for the first time in thirty-two years. A careful examination revealed extensive deposits of high-grade ore, and the company is confident of developing the property into one of the leading quicksilver producers of the world. New machinery is being installed and a large force of men employed. If the results are all that are expected other properties in the district will receive attention.

TO PROTECT RIVERS.

The Anti-Debris Association held a meeting in Sacramento last week and decided to go after a number of hydraulic operators, who are said to be operating in the central counties in direct defiance of the regulations. Men will be sent into these districts, and if reports are found to be true, action will be instituted against the operators. Considerable attention will also be paid to dredge operators and actions commenced against all companies violating the laws. The recent activity of the association is explained by the fact that winter is coming on, and that many people in the valleys fear disastrous floods from the deposition of débris in the streams. It is said that particular attention will be paid by the association to mine operators at Dutch Flat, Placer county, who have been several times suspected of depositing débris in the rivers.

MONO COUNTY.

J.C. McCormack, said to be representing the Broken Hills Company of Goldfield, has purchased the Parret mine at Lundy, Mono county, for $30,000. The property has never been extensively worked, but is said to contain ten distinct veins all carrying good milling values. There are also several shoots of ore running into shipping grade. Some of the ore recently extracted is said to run from $100 to $700 per ton. The property adjoins the celebrated May Lundy mine, and contains the same vein system, according to every indication. Although only operated by primitive methods the mine is credited with a production of $50,000. Under the new management work on an extensive scale will be carried on, both on company account and by leasers. One lease has been already granted, and more will be in force at an early date.

Several companies are operating along the Mokelumne River and developing excellent properties. Among these are several concerns backed by Los Angeles capital. It is understood that several dredges will be placed in commission next spring.

ON THE COMSTOCK.

New Ore Body Is Opened in Overland Which Puts Mine on Feet Again.

VIRGINIA CITY, Oct. 29.—Reliable information comes from Virginia City today that a new ore body has been opened in the Overland mine in that thriving camp, the extent of which promises to put the mine on its feet again. The ore has been found in a west drift from the 700-foot level of the shaft and enough work had been done in the shoot to satisfy the superintendent that a good milling body was in sight. About four years ago the Overland property was taken over by eastern capitalists, and a two-compartment shaft sunk to the 500-foot level, an electric hoist and a ten-stamp mill installed. The upper levels have been well worked out, and the Overland has extracted and milled an average of 1000 tons a week, for the past two or three years. But the ore was not of high enough grade to return dividends. The mill has been hung up for four months. Excellent progress is being made on the new forty-stamp mill at Dayton, which is being put up on the site destroyed by fire last winter. The mill will probably be completed by the middle of January. Over thirty men are employed.

The new mill will be absolutely fireproof, sheet iron being substituted for wood at every point where feasible. The forty stamps will require the employment of many men and with the cyanide plants in full operation the company will have a large pay roll.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn and Dyspepsia go, and you will feel fine in five minutes.

There is not a single reader of The Times Who suffers from any form of stomach trouble who can afford to leave Diapepsin untried. There is no other preparation which gives such prompt and lasting relief.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrify in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

PIANOS

GREAT SALE OF Discontinued Agencies, Samples and Odd Styles

You can Buy on the Easiest Kind of Terms—$6 or More Monthly.

Since opening up our new building we have received samples and carload lots from a large number of piano manufacturers whom we do not regularly represent. We find that we must confine ourselves to a limited number of agencies—fairness and justice to the manufacturers demand that we release certain lines so that they may be placed elsewhere. We have therefore selected such makes as we can accommodate and shall close out, during the next few days, at a great sacrifice, many beautiful pianos—celebrated, time-tried, standard makes. We regret the necessity of dropping these lines, because every one is a piano of merit, well built, splendid toned instruments—a credit to any house. Among them are quite a number of

Hallett & Davis, Conway, Ernest Gabler, Schaeffer

These names stand for thoroughly reliable lifetime instruments. They are familiar to every man, woman and child in this section of the country where we have sold thousands of them.

An Avalanche of Piano Bargains

We have just completed a wonderful record-breaking sale—lasting ninety days—in which we sold more than 500 pianos—undoubtedly the largest number ever sold by a coast house in that length of time. In selling so many uprights, piano-players and grands we found it necessary to take in exchange many second-hand instruments of well known, reliable makes. Every one of these fine instruments are now in first-class condition, having gone through our repair shops. In this list you will find

BEAUTIFUL KRANICH & BACH GRAND
CHICKERING & SONS UPRIGHT
KNABE-ANGELUS (PLAYER-PIANO)

The Knabe-Angelus is practically new, having been purchased from a local dealer not many months ago and kept in our storage nearly all that time. It is priced extremely low.

There are many other such splendid snaps in this list. Together with the discontinued lines, samples and some old styles in our regular stock, it offers a selection that is genuinely attractive.

Player Pianos Sacrificed

We have about a dozen inside player pianos, well-known reliable makes, which go into this sale at sacrifice prices. You can get a player piano for as little as $466. And remember this, they are all the 88-note kind—the newest models from the best factories.

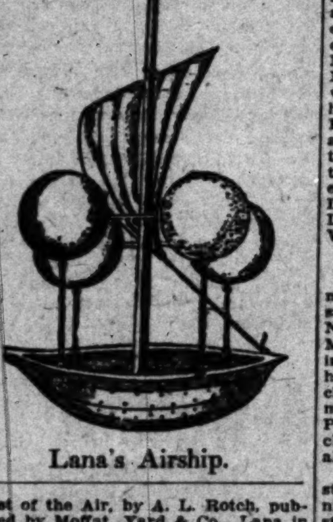
EARLY AIRSHIPS WERE FANTASTIC.

BY GEORGE SEIBEL,

In Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

The early history of aëronautics is full of strange devices, going along with prophecies that have been startlingly fulfilled. Roger Bacon, an English monk, who must not be confused with Francis Bacon, wrote that "there may be made some flying instruments, so that a man sitting in the middle of the instrument and turning some mechanism may put in motion some artificial wings which may beat the air like a bird flying." He also proposed a definite plan for aërial navigation. Frier Bacon being a philosopher whose discoveries and theories entitle him to be called the father of English scientists. He proposed "to fill a large hollow globe of copper, wrought extremely thin, with ethereal air or liquid fire, and to launch it from some elevated point into the atmosphere, where it will float like a vessel on the water." This is the idea of Montgolfier's balloon, although Bacon died in 1294 and Montgolfier's experiments were not made until 1783.

Perhaps the earliest attempt at an airship was that of the Jesuit father, Francis Lana, described in The Conquest of the Air, by A. L. Rotch, published by Moffat, Yard & Co. Lana in 1670 conceived that a vessel exhausted of air would weigh less than when full. So he proposed to construct four copper globes twenty feet in diameter and very thin, which would weigh less than the atmosphere after the air had been exhausted from them. A boat was to be attached to these globes, with a mast and sail to enable the aëronaut to direct his course.



Lana's Airship.

The principle of Father Lana's machine was correct enough, but there were practical difficulties which were insurmountable.

THE FIRST FLYING MACHINE.

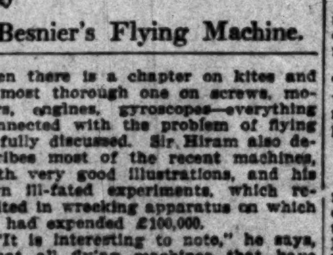
Lana's theory was set forth in 1670, and eight years later a locksmith named Besnier constructed the first heavier-than-air machine. The device consisted of "two pairs of wings, which opened and shut and oscillated about his shoulders by the action of feet and hands. Mr. Rotch's picture of this device is copied from the Journal des Scavans. Besnier made no claim of rising from the ground or long flight, but is reported to have used the wings to raise himself from one height to another, or to descend from a height across an obstacle like a river. Roughly speaking, his device may be compared to a parachute to assist him in jumping.

And now! A score of dirigible balloons, biplanes, monoplanes, etc., with as many inventors, are breaking records one day after another. "The Conquest of the Air," which is the title of Mr. Rotch's book, is no empty dream. No one is better qualified than he to write the story of this conquest, for he was one of the American delegates, Prof. Langley being the other, to the aëronautic congress connected with the Paris Exposition of 1900. His little book is a succinct record of the experiments and progress made by Langley, Santos-Dumont, Zeppelin, Lilienthal, Voisin, Chanute, the Wrights, Blériot and others.

SIR HIRAM MAXIM'S BOOK.

Among the earliest of these experimenters was Sir Hiram Maxim, who says in his book on "Artificial and Natural Flight," published by the Macmillan Company, that he became interested in flying machines in 1856, by his father's device, a helicopter machine. Sir Hiram makes the statement, which will astonish many, that Peter Cooper thought out a similar machine about the same time and actually commenced experiments.

Sir Hiram's book is an exhaustive study of the subject from the technical standpoint. He begins with a study of bird flight and air currents; then there is a chapter on kites and a most thorough one on screws, motors, engines, gyroscopes—everything connected with the problem of flying is fully discussed. Sir Hiram also describes most of the recent machines, with very good illustrations, and his own ill-fated experiments, which resulted in wrecking apparatus on which he had expended £100,000.



Besnier's Flying Machine.

"It is interesting to note," he says, "that all flying machines that have met with any success have been made on the same lines; all have superposed aëroplanes, all have fore and aft horizontal rudders, and all are propelled with screws; and in this respect they do not differ from the large machine that I made at Baldwyn's Park many years ago."

He answers the question as to whether man will ever be able to fly by quoting his own words to the men of wealth who first asked him whether it was possible to construct a flying flying machine. "Certainly," he said, "the domestic goose is able to fly, and why should not man be able to do as well as a goose."

Can Search Hubby's Pockets.

In disposing of the divorce case of Henry Mills and Mary Mills at Omaha Judge Crawford made this declaration: "Under the laws of Nebraska a wife has a legal and undisputed right to go through the pockets of her husband, providing she does so without first putting him in fear."

Mills had brought suit against his wife, alleging cruelty. Among other things he charged that after he had gone to bed his wife went through his pockets and extracted the coin that he had earned as his daily wage. This, he averred, she retained, giving him only an allowance of 15 cents per day, 10 cents for car fare to and from his work and 5 cents to spend in riotous living. The balance of the money, averaging about $1.85 per day, she retained.

A Lost Opportunity.

Small boys are not always as sympathetic as their relatives wish, but, on the other hand, they are seldom as heartless as they sometimes appear.

"Why are you crying so, Tommy?" inquired one of the boy's aunts, who found her small nephew seated on the doorstep lifting up his voice in loud wails.

"The b-baby fell d-downstairs;" blubbered Tommy.

"Oh, that's too bad," said the aunt, stepping over him and opening the door. "I do hope the little dear wasn't much hurt!"

"S-she's only hurt a little!" wailed Tommy. "But Dorothy s-saw her fall, while I'd gone to the g-grocery! I never see anything!"—[Youth's Companion.

The North Pole Game.

Bronx schoolboys have invented a new game. A stake is set up in the center of the playground and becomes the North Pole. One boy personates Peary and another Cook. The other little fellows are Eskimos and dogs. At a given signal, the two boys race for the pole. The one who reaches it first yells "I've found it." Then the other one jumps upon him and there is a free fight.—[Minneapolis Journal.

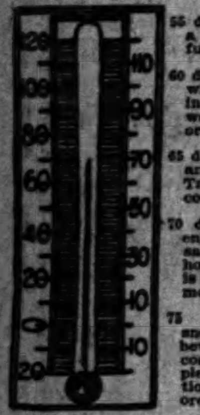
Weather Service

Temperature Variable

If you have any fault to find with the weather, send a wireless "back home," and the contrast will convince you your opinion needs revision.



55 degrees means that a set of rich, glossy furs are in order.

60 degrees — Motoring will be a pleasure in one of the big, warm Auto Coats or Capes.

65 degrees — If bright and clear a clever Tailored Suit is the correct thing.

70 degrees—If threatening, it's not necessary to stay at home, all you need is a smart silk or moire Rain Coat.

75 degrees — Dainty, snowy neckwear, a bewitching Veil and correct Gloves complete the fascination of the "Tailored Maid."

Whatever the weather, you will always find just the article of attire you are in need of at "The Style Shop of Los Angeles," The New York Cloak and Suit House, 337-339 South Broadway.

No one will ever know how many times a man's affection is influenced by a woman's taste in millinery.

A tourist just returned from Paris asserts that the millinery and costumes displayed by The New York Cloak and Suit House of this city would be "above par" in the French capital. At this rate Paris and Los Angeles will soon be close friends unless jealousy interferes.

SINCERITY

Means Confidence and Assurance

In every phase of life SINCERITY of word and deed commands the instant respect and confidence of men and women. Just as it is the life blood of all religious and social life, so it is the keystone of all commercial success.

Newspaper announcements which play upon a patron's credulity, the effort to attract by resorting to flimsy subterfuge, the quoting of fictitious values—in a word, the FAKE advertising with which too many men strive in vain to bolster up their trade and patch up their reputation, is not only futile, but is a positive insult to the intelligence of the reading public.

Are People Misled

By the countless so-called "Sample Shops," which quote such alluring prices on "sample" millinery, "sample" coats and suits, "sample" shoes, "sample" this and "sample" that. People read—a few actually believe the claims made. They mount to the second, third or fourth story, where the "sample" salesroom is located — and what do they find? "Samples?" Hardly! The tag ends of left-over stocks factory seconds, shop-worn, passe goods. Imagine a traveling man being offered such goods as "samples" to take on the road! Such methods are not only detestable, but are a detriment to every honest, straightforward business man in the city.

In a Recent Conversation

With Mr. Haggerty, proprietor of the New York Cloak and Suit House, known and quoted all over the country as one of the most successful women's specialty stores in the United States today, he said: "It's merchandise that counts! If you have the RIGHT styles, the RIGHT qualities, the RIGHT prices AT THE RIGHT TIME—that is success in the garment business.

"People believe their own eyes. They see the very latest of Parisian, London, Berlin and New York styles in our windows every day, and when they want stylish clothes they come here for them. And they get what they want every time!

"Advertising is all right! We don't tolerate any romancing or buncombe in our advertising. It is confined to absolute facts. But every one can't know that.

Merchandise Never Lies

"If a garment is stylish, a woman can see it! If the material is good, one has prima facie evidence of the fact. If the tailoring is perfect, it shows in every line. If her last year's suit was absolutely satisfactory, she comes here again this year."

This illustrates the point exactly. SINCERITY in advertising, TOGETHER WITH SINCERITY in merchandising, brings it own inevitable reward — the confidence of the public!

WEDDED

After Many Years Wins at Last

For long years Style looked with disdain upon any overtures which Service made to her. She held herself daintily aloof from all things practical. But Service persevered and Style has had a change of heart. Service has finally won her. That is why some of the smartest and cleverest coats, suits and street frocks are also the most serviceable. Style and Service have joined forces. May their wedded life be long and happy.

BIG DIVORCE SCANDAL IN HIGH LIFE

So Common It Scarce Stirs a Woman's Interest

But when fickle Fashion bids adieu forever to the styles she fondly embraced last season and introduces to the public her latest favorite, then women grow excited and scan the papers eagerly for every detail.

Naturally, a woman wishes to ascertain where her waist line is supposed to be located during the coming season, whether it will be just under her arms or down in the vicinity of her knees. It is quite easy to understand her interest in the proper size of her sleeves, the possibilities varying from a voluminous puffed affair whose construction requires several yards of costly silk, to the style which so forcibly reminds one of an umbrella case in its extreme snugness. Then, too, with rumors of a revival of the hoopskirts, who can blame a woman for "holding her breath" till she knows the worst;

These and a hundred other details concerning correct gowns and costumes for Autumn and Winter, which would be tiresome in print, are delightfully interesting as illustrated in the scores of charming models in the French room on the second floor of the New York Cloak and Suit House. They have unquestionably the largest and most authentic fashion display in the city, which is kept right up to the minute by daily arrivals from famous New York and Paris designers.

NEWS FOR MONDAY SHOPPERS.

Probably the most important items picked up at random from the various departments of The New York Store are those given us by the manager of the Suit Department, who assured us he would be prepared to offer some astonishingly good values in street frocks at two special prices—$19.50 and $25.00.

Also he said that some really handsome all-silk Jersey dresses would be out for only $15.00. These are plain and embroidered.

In tailored suits one will have choice of an unusually fine assortment of correct, well-tailored models at $19.50.

Better tailored suits at $25.00, and others still higher in price and finer in quality.

There is much of interest for the Monday shopper in the Millinery Department, where beaver hats are attractively priced from $3.00 up.

Untrimmed shapes of silk, velvet, bengaline and felt in all the new shades for $3.50 and $2.25.

Tailored hats for street wear at $5.00 and $6.50.

On the third floor you will find clever and practical street coats at $12.50 and $15.00.

Capes are out for Monday in wonderful variety at $7.50 and $12.50.

A French woman considers it a crime to be plain. We agree that her perfect gowning makes it entirely unnecessary.

BLIZZARD OR NO BLIZZARD

Women Wear Furs

A woman who doesn't look interesting in furs is hopeless! There is something wonderfully softening and brightening about a rich, glossy fur that gives an added charm to any face. Paris has, as usual, gone to extremes in her fondness for furs, and is using it in all sorts of possible and impossible ways. When the weather offers no reasonable excuse for enveloping herself completely in a fur coat, she adds bands, collars and cuffs of warm, cosy fur to her suits, coats and costumes. Then, of course, she wears fur hats, muffs and stoles or collarettes. Recent visitors to Paris confirm the report that fur, whenever and wherever you can manage to have it appear in your costume, is the thing to wear!

Not one hour behind the times is Los Angeles, and The New York Store, being cognizant through their close touch with Paris, of the popularity of furs in every shape and form, prepared in a most thorough and comprehensive way to cater to the needs of Los Angeles women in this regard. Here may be found a marvellously complete assortment of fine furs, from the popular-priced neck pieces and muffs at $2.50 up, to the most luxurious sets of ermine, black lynx, black, white and silver fox and dark mink.

FUR HATS, TOO.

A Woman Who Weighed 300 Pounds

Had a Question to Ask

She was tall, she was good looking, and she walked into the Skirt Department of The New York Store and shot a question at one of the clerks exactly as though she expected to be contradicted.

"Can you fit me in a ready-to-wear skirt?"

Quite unexpectedly to her came the answer, quickly and positively:

"Certainly I can, madam."

Still unconvinced, she waited further developments. Quietly and deftly the saleswoman selected a model, slipped it on the lady, suggested some slight alterations and the sale was made.

The skirt, when finished, fitted faultlessly, and the lady was perfectly delighted. She had been told in other stores that she was "too large to be properly fitted in a ready-made skirt."

Such instances could be cited indefinitely, for this store really does carry both the suits and the skirts for which stout ladies have for so long sighed in vain.

Curly Locks and Bobbed Heads

Will be more winsome than ever in the jaunty hats that have been planned for their crowning these cool Autumn days. Every style that is pretty, becoming and in accord with Fashion's Fall fancies has been gathered together at the New York Store, where any little tot can be quickly fitted with just the right hat for school or "best."

SHALL WOMEN VOTE

Women's Rights and Wrongs Discussed by One Who Knows

In his able address on this vital subject, among other instructive and inspiring sentiments, the speaker said: "Everything a woman does should be right. If it isn't right, we should think it's right, anyway. That's what men have been doing since Adam first endorsed Eve's opinion on the apple question. I don't say but what a man sometimes gets into trouble following this course (as Adam did), but it's not half as bad as the trouble he'd get into if he didn't. (Applause by the men.) The Christian Scientists have the right idea exactly, and the way to deal with a woman's wrongs is to make her believe she hasn't any. Now just look at this thing in a sane and sensible way. Everyone knows it is a woman's inalienable right to be pretty, to be happy, to wear becoming clothes, to be admired by all and beloved by one. Now, you take any one of these women who want to vote. Ten to one she hasn't had a new hat for two years, the chances are her suit went out of date two season's ago, while her coat was probably bought the year before that. If she happens to be your wife, the thing to do is to take her to the finest shop for women there is in town. Take her to The New York Store and spend a couple of hours strolling about with her. Start in with the Millinery Department. No woman could resist that. Then take her to the Suit and Costume floor, through the French room. Have her try on some of the delightfully feminine capes. Or, if she insists upon being practical, have her choose a tailored waist, a skirt and a sweater. Let her pick out anything she wants. That's a woman's right! Then send her home, and when you get there at night she'll have her hair dressed a new way that makes her look ten years younger, and she won't mind a bit if you tell her so. She may not care to get mixed up with the crowd at the polls, but there will be one man who will be glad to have her stay at home while he does the voting. Every woman has a "right" to have one man who feels that way about her. (Applause by the women.)"

RIGHT AUTO

Let the Men Decide That Question

Here in Southern California where miles and miles of boulevards stretch invitingly out and away in every direction, bordered by beautiful homes from the tiniest artistic bungalow to the almost palatial estate, here motoring has reached the height of its popularity.

To a man the car itself is all important, but to a woman her personal comfort makes or mars the pleasure of a motor trip to a very large extent. The proper apparel for this purpose, such as Motor Coats, Motor Hats, Motor Gloves and Motor Veils, is to her of the utmost interest. There is no place on the Coast better fitted to supply her needs in this regard than the New York Store. This statement can be easily verified by asking any one of the thousands of well dressed women who are customers of the "Style Shop of Los Angeles."

LOVELL ALICE TAYLOR

APPEARING THIS WEEK IN "BROWN OF HARVARD."

Theatrical People Apt Critics of Beauty and Art in Stylish Costumes.

Miss Lovell Alice Taylor of the Burbank Stock Co. has proven beyond a doubt that it is not necessary for an actress to relinquish in the least her distinctly feminine charm and womanly sweetness when appearing before the footlights. She has not only won an enviable place in her chosen profession, but is beloved alike by the people who know her only as she appears on the stage, by the members of the stock company, with whom she is a prime favorite and by her own wide circle of personal friends.

Miss Taylor has the reputation of being one of the best-dressed actresses in any local stock company. The accompanying photograph shows her in a rich gown imported by the New York Cloak and Suit House of this city, who make a specialty of imported gowns, costumes and suits and are largely patronized by theatrical people who are particularly appreciative of what is exclusive and artistic in stylish apparel. If one could peep into one of Miss Taylor's capacious trunks, it would reveal several other importations of exquisite design procured for her by "The Style Shop of Los Angeles."

BON VOYAGE!

How often we say it to our friends. Yet, happily, most of the partings mean meetings later on, for California holds a fascination too strong for most travelers to resist. They like us! They like our climate, our scenery, our amusements—and they like our CLOTHES! This is proven every hour of the day by the New York Store, where tourists seem to feel thoroughly at home. They come here for coats, for suits, for hats and gloves, for furs, and other things, knowing they will find the latest and most correct attire at moderate prices.

A WOMAN WITHOUT HANDS

Is the Only Woman Who Would Not Be Interested in These Gloves.

And any woman who has hands will be proud of them when she dons any of the smart new street gloves shown by The New York Store. Only the best known and most reliable makes are represented, insuring the perfect fitting qualities of any pair she may select.

Girls Who Engage in Outdoor Sports.

Lots of them want simple tailored skirts and natty linen waists. Above all, they find a world of comfort in the sweaters that are so smart and stylish, never in the way, easy to carry and satisfactory in every way. There are dozens of classy new weaves and color combinations to please such girls. Third floor, New York Store.

LUCK LIMITED TO 225 WOMEN.

You would run no chances of not being included in that lucky 225 if you knew just how good these silk petticoats are that will be sold for $4.75 on Monday by The New York Store. There are rich plain or changeable shades to match every new Autumn gown in town. Also brocaded silks.

Physicians Often Fight Needless Battles.

With the rainy season at hand, doctors should issue a warning to careless, indifferent women who risk their health by failing to provide themselves with suitable protection against the damp and cold. Rain coats are stylish and cost little. Every woman should have one.

DIVING FOR EARL JEWELS.

MEDIUM "LOCATED" NECKLACE OF MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE.

Told Her It Was on the Sea Bottom at Avalon—Exhaustive Search Fails to Find Gems—Gumshoe Men and Trance Clairvoyants Employed to no Avail.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

AVALON, Oct. 30.—Still clinging to the faint hope that some day they will find the lost pearl necklace, Mrs. E. T. Earl of Los Angeles yesterday sent two divers to search the marine depths and around the piling where the steamer Cabrillo usually docks at Avalon.

Four months ago Mrs. Earl was said to have lost a family necklace valued at from $9000 to to $30,000. Before she left her home in Los Angeles she said that she had pinned to her clothing a small bag containing the necklace and other jewels, but when she arrived at Avalon the contents of the bag were missing. Although the divers have searched the bottom for some distance no necklace has been found. The search still continues, and is providing much amusement for visitors who are watching it through glass-bottomed boats. In the clear crystalline depths of the water the divers can plainly be seen creeping around on their hands and knees.

As a last resort, Mrs. Earl visited a "lady medium." Graphically when in her trance the medium portrayed the "exact location" of the necklace, which was said to have been between two long piles under a wharf, and in water very clear and not very deep. Resuming her mediumistic attitude the lady then went on to describe picturesquely the beautiful little village of Avalon. So plain was the description given that Mrs. Earle was fully confident that if divers were sent to this spot—no difficulty would prevent the simple action of picking the jewels from the bottom of the ocean. Friends say that after she was told this that her necklace was lying at the sea bottom, Mrs. Earl's joy knew no bounds, and that the divers weer urged to go immediately to Avalon and recover the jewel. A story similar to this was told by another medium several weeks ago, and divers were sent to San Pedro, where the quest proved unsuccessful.

For the past four months a constant search has been kept up. Secret-service men have been employed, and every spot between Los Angeles and Avalon where it was possible for the treasures to be hidden, have been ransacked from top to bottom.

Notwithstanding the "accurate description" given by the medium, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Earl believe that the search will fail.

Tobacco in France.

French smokers, from whom the new Minister of Finance hopes to extract another £2,600,000 a year, are more restricted in their field of choice than tobacco lovers in this country. The state manufactures only six different qualities of tobacco, and of these, two brands are sold solely in the form of cigarettes, while the number of foreign packet tobaccos which may be sold in France is limited to eight. Cigar smokers, however, have the run of fifteen brands of French cigars, ranging in price from 5 to 50 centimes, and of 142 brands from Cuba, four from Manila and fifteen from Mexico. If it be true, as reported, that the increased taxation on the cheaper tobacco is to be levied by lessening the weight of the packets, there will be many protests from pipe smokers. As it is, the 40-gramme packet of Maryland tobacco rarely weighs more than 36 grammes, inclusive of paper.—[London Chronicle.

Liked Japanese Costumes.

Baron Wyishi, who died in Tokio, Japan, a few weeks ago, left $5000 to three little German girls on condition of their wearing Japanese costumes until each reaches the age of 14 years. The Baron formerly was attached to the Japanese Embassy in Berlin. He went bathing at a German summer rest, and Hans Kressler, a mercantile clerk, the father of the girls, saved him from drowning. Kressler refused to accept any gift, but lightly remarked that the Baron might remember the girls in his will.—[Detroit News.

SOUTHLAND BEAUTIES.

TRACES OF SPANISH BLOOD MAKE THESE WOMEN FAIR.

SPANISH beauty of the fine Castilian type, famous the world over, has by no means passed with the coming of the Anglo-Saxon hosts that have almost obscured other outward evidences of the old days in Southern California. Dark eyes, masses of glossy hair, olive tints of skin and a certain fascinating grace, proclaim the traces of Spanish blood of the blue-blooded descendants of the old dons.

There were less than ten of the original Spanish families of wealth in the immediate vicinity of Los Angeles, and many of the most marked types of Spanish beauty in the Southwest today are still to be traced to these aristocrats of the Camino Real. There were the Lugos, the Sepulvedas, the Yorbas, the Dominguezes, the Verdugos, and a number of others whose names are little less familiar, attached as they are to points of interest or towns that have grown up on the old grants.

There is, in the blood of some of the best families in Los Angeles, the hereditary trace of some of the characteristics of these people, and it seldom fails to carry with it beauty among the women. There are other families who have kept the pure Castilian blood, and there, too, are to be found some of the most beautiful women of the Southwest.

Members of the Yorba family, still living in and about Los Angeles, are among the most numerous of the lineal descendants of the original families. They go back to Bernardo Yorba and José Maria Lugo, who owned broad acres reaching from San Bernardino to the sea. Bernardo Yorba had three sons, one of whom was Heseus. Two of the grand-daughters of Heseus Yorba are among the prettiest Spanish girls in Los Angeles.

Miss Viola Yorba is the daughter of Señora Piedad Yorba y Sowl, and Miss Angelaño Arguello, the daughter of Santiago Arguello, who married a daughter of Heseus. Santiago Arguello was himself a famous character in this city, having ridden into the river on horseback during a flood and rescued several people from drowning. Miss Viola Yorba is one of the most accomplished of the younger members of the Spanish colony in the old-time songs and dances.

Another handsome woman, who is a descendant of the Yorba family is Mrs. Ida Fallon of No. 1051 West Washington street. Mrs. Fallon is the daughter of Consolacion Sepulveda and the late Capt. Charles Ketler, once a prominent citizen and land owner. She is a grand-daughter of Don José Loretto de Sepulveda, who owned the famous Rancho de los Palos Verdes, and who maintained a position as the head of one of the wealthiest and most aristocratic families of the State. Mrs. Fallon is also a niece of one of the Lan Francos, a family famous for its beautiful women.

Among the members who have joined the Spanish colony in more recent years than the days of the padres are the three beautiful daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Orosco of No. 215 South Hancock street. They come from one of the best-known families, but did not migrate in the days of the dons. Misses Sadie and Alvira Orosco are the grand-daughters of Maria Otero and the great-grand-daughters of Ramona Ortega, of the Ortego family in Lower California.

There are scores of beautiful women and girls, of whom these few offer types. They are among the charms of the sunny Southland, which appeal to the visitor from colder climes, less rich and luxurious in flowers and fair women.

COALINGA'S BEST OFFER

The above heading is not a mere catch phrase we have thought of as an attractive heading for this advertisement. It means just what it says—"COALINGA'S BEST OFFER," and we believe sincerely that in this advertisement we are making an offer of stock that is the best Coalinga has to offer. Read this advertisement and we will leave it to you to decide for yourself whether it is or not.

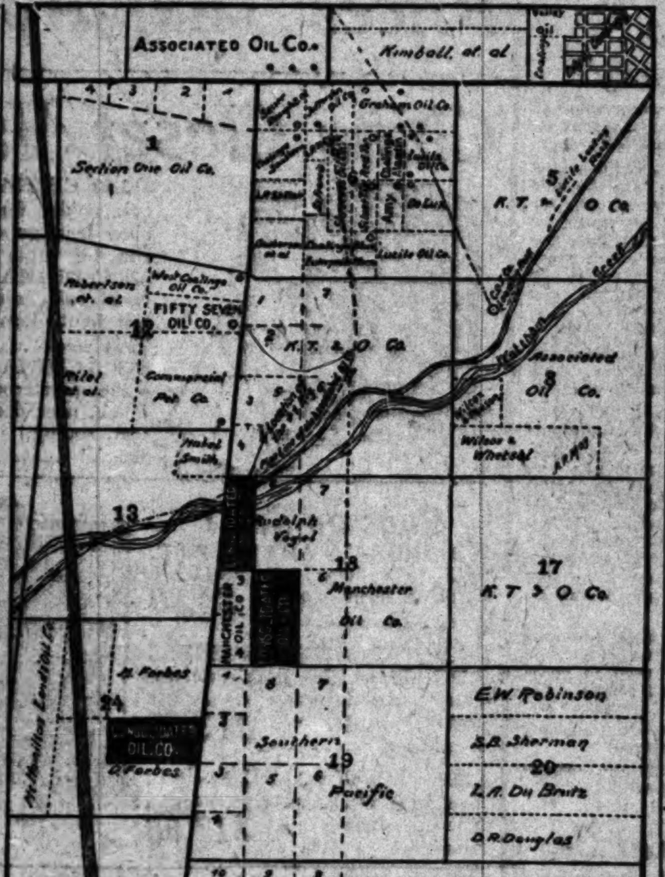
CONSOLIDATED OIL CO. OF COALINGA

PROPERTY

Owns outright 92 acres in Section 18-21-15, holds under six months option an additional 18 acres adjoining, and also owns outright 80 acres in Section 24-21-14, making the total holdings of the Company 190 acres—the largest holdings of any individual company in the field offering stock today.

LOCATION

This map shows the location of the property controlled by this company. By looking at this map you will see that it is separated from the famous Section Six, with its Lucile, Aladdin, De Luxe, Amy.



Silver Tip and Blue Moon, by only one Section of land, being just one mile South in a direct line with the trend of this oil sand. It is predicted that Section 18 will equal Section 6 in production, and it is the absolute opinion of experts that the oil will be of a much lighter gravity. And the Consolidated Oil Company holds the choicest part of Section 18, anybody can tell you that.

Capitalization

The Company is capitalized for 1,000,000 shares (par value $1.00,) organized under the laws of Arizona and licensed to do business in the State of California. Understand that when you buy stock in this Company there will be no assessments. It is fully paid for and non-assessable when once issued to you, and will always be yours. You have an interest in the vested and equitable titles to the property itself. There are no bonds or any other kind of stock that come ahead of yours. You have an interest in every dollar's earnings that this Company ever makes, and you will receive in dividends your pro-rata share of the total net earnings of the Company. 750,000 shares of stock have been placed in the Treasury of the Company, and is the working capital of the Company, and so much of it will be sold from time to time as may be necessary to develop the property on which there is ample room for sixty wells.

Comparison

Now then, with the absolute ownership of 172 acres of this choice oil land, with no rent or royalties to pay, this offering of Consolidated Oil Company stock at twenty-five cents per share is the best proposition in the Coalinga field today. Compare it with other propositions now being offered from this field—compare the number of acres—compare the location of the property, and don't forget that this is an absolute ownership proposition, and not a lease.

"Owing to the fact that the Consolidated Company is now fully and completely financed, and drilling operations are well under way, our first well having reached a depth of over 200 feet, a limited allotment only of the remaining treasury stock will be sold at 25 cents per share, (special discount allowed on quantity purchases.)"

If you want to be "shown," immediately come to Coalinga. We will take you through the field in our automobile and show you all there is to see. We know you will be interested, and must see this proposition as we do. A visit is really necessary to fully realize and appreciate this exceptional opportunity. If you can come and you can if you only think so, wire or write us when you will arrive so that we can reserve a room for you. The town is full of people. Beds are at a premium.

If you will fill out the information coupon printed below, we will go into this matter in detail with you by mail, but as we expect subscriptions for this stock at 25 cents per share to be extremely heavy, we suggest that when you send in the coupon below for additional information, that you also fill in the amount of this stock you want to purchase in the event of a satisfactory investigation on your part.

Now, we want you to carefully consider the information we have given you in this advertisement, and if you feel as though the merits of this proposition warrant you in investing, let us have your order by mail for as large an amount of this stock as you can possibly take, making use of the subscription blank printed below.

Delivery of stock will be made to any responsible Bank with draft attached.

Telegrams may be sent at our expense.

Equipment

The property is equipped with a complete standard drilling rig, and actual drilling operations are now under way on Well No. 1. In ninety days from date at the outside this well should be producing. It is estimated that the main body of the producing oil sand will be reached at a depth of about 1360 feet. The profile of our property is ideal for economic development and is crossed by both the railroad and the pipe line. It is the prediction of those here in the "know" that in six months from now Section 18 will be the scene of an oil excitement and activity equal to, if not greater, than that in today Section 6.

AN ELECTRIC WOND

Doctor's Invention Cures When Dru

There's no need of ruining your stomach with drugs, trying to conquer a pain or overcome some chronic ailment. No need of doctor and drug bills, for here is a remedy that helps nature cure.

You know that electricity is life — the mysterious force that digests your food and converts it into blood and bone, tissue and muscle, and supplies the brain with power to think. It is electricity that keeps your heart going, your blood circulating and the various organs performing their functions like so many machines.

If you are sick or weak — if you have rheumatism, lumbago, nervous debility, loss of power, or stomach, liver, kidney or bowel trouble, it means that some part of your body machinery needs electric energy. Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt will restore it.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt is a scientific appliance for saturating the body with electricity while you sleep. It is not like faradic batteries and other shocking machines you may have seen or used. Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt does not shock or burn. The current is powerful in its action, but is soothing and pleasant to the nerves. For hours at a time Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt sends the glowing electric fire coursing through the nerves and vitals, renewing their energy and giving to every weak organ the power to do its work as nature intended.

Let me prove to you that Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt does all I claim for it. What better evidence could you ask for than the testimony of honest men and women whom it cured?

The same amount of oil is carried in a tank on the front of the engine. Many miles can be covered without replenishment of the supply.

ECONOMICAL OPERATION.

The twist of a lever dumps the contents of the cars, and practically the only manual labor required is that of a few laborers who spread the rock in place, ready for the application of the oil and the roller. For economy of operation, this is said to be the greatest outfit that ever came to the Pacific Coast. A. de Grellier Greive, manager of the Oil Macadam Company, believes that his concern has revolutionized the business of road-making in this section, and he naturally expects to have much to do in the building of many more miles of county highways.

The Oil Macadam Company has the contract for about seven miles of the Long Beach boulevard, extending from a point just south of Compton to within half a mile of the northern city limits of Long Beach, on American avenue. One Los Angeles connection with this boulevard will be through the towns of Watts and Compton, which will do the work at their own expense, the county paying only for those portions outside the limits of incorporated cities. Another Los Angeles connection will extend from Compton straight north through Huntington Park and thence into this city.

ANOTHER LABOR SAVER.

Grading has been completed on most of the road south of Compton, and just north of the southerly end another big traction engine is operating an excavator that just now is making a deep cut. This outfit is another mechanical marvel. Trailing the engine is a plow that eats deep into the ground, discharging the loose dirt on a belt that carries it above and discharges it into wagons that are driven close to the machine. One of these wagons is loaded every minute and horses haul the load a short distance to a low spot that is being filled.

Just a little south of Compton the boulevard crosses the Los Angeles River, which at that point is the dividing line between the big Bixby and Dominguez ranches. The Mercereau Bridge and Construction Company has the contract for building this structure, which is to be of reinforced concrete. Most of the reinforced concrete piles have been driven and part of the heavy floor is in place. This is said to be but the second instance in Southern California where piles of this nature have been used; the first was in connection with the great new pier at Santa Monica.

BRIDGE A FEATURE.

This bridge will be a feature of the drive from Los Angeles to Long Beach over the new boulevard. It will be 220 feet long and of such strength as to resist any onslaughts of the river on its periodical winter rampages. Each pile is twenty-six feet long, fifteen inches in diameter at the top, nine inches at the bottom, and weighs 3600 pounds. They are sent into place in the oozy bed of the river with a two-ton hammer, a stream of water first opening the way. Wide wings of concrete at either end of the bridge will serve to keep the river in its channel, and as a further protection, thousands of willow trees have been removed from the river bottom below the bridge, in order that the stream may have an unobstructed passage to the sea.

From Compton south the Long Beach boulevard passes over land that is high and well drained. In no place will the rains of winter interfere with travel thereon. Were it not for the delay in the delivery of crushed rock, the road might be complete and ready for use this winter. But the right kind of rock in sufficient quantities cannot be had until the county's quarries at San Dimas and Pacoima are in full operation and it is believed now that the new road will not be delivered by the contractors until next March.

This is one of the few county boulevards that will connect with paved streets in Los Angeles, and, because of the charm of the scenery for most of its length, it promises to be among the most popular drives to the sea. At the same time it passes through a rich dairying and farming country and will be of great benefit to ranchers.

DOCTOR-DENTISTS

The ordinary dental company is run by a fakir who is neither an M.D. nor a D.D.S. He hires operators who may have diplomas or may not. In administering anesthetics they call in the young lady stenographer. If you die under their hands, your heirs can have the quacks thrown in jail, but that won't help YOU much.

Ours is an institution of physicians and surgeons, every one a qualified graduate, and a licensed practitioner. Every one, moreover, is a specialist in his own department. We have the best mechanical dentist in Los Angeles in charge of our laboratory. We have the most skillful dental surgeons in charge of our operating rooms. Our dental department is the only dental office where a practicing physician is constantly in attendance.

If tooth trouble is complicated with diseases of the mouth—as often happens—we diagnose and treat correctly. If anesthetics are desired, we administer with skill, insuring painless dentistry and no ill effects.

I. Children and ladies who fear to go to other dentists are so gently treated here that they like to come again.

II. Our practice of dentistry makes it seem a relief to be hastened to, not a torture to be shrunk from.

III. Our dentistry beautifies the mouth, and our artificial products cannot be distinguished from Nature's finest toothcraft.

IV. We guarantee the materials which we use to last for years, and always to be worn with comfort.

V. Dollar for dollar we give you more value than any other dentists in the city. Ours is the only Dental office in Los Angeles which offers FREE EXAMINATIONS—FREE EXTRACTIONS—FREE CLEANING—FREE MEDICAL ADVICE.

HENEQUIN CROP TO BE LARGE.

Mexico Taking Her Place in World's Fiber Market.

Argentina Is Investigating Plant's Possibilities.

Republic Now Making Heavy Orange Shipments.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Henequin is coming into its own as one of the chief products of Mexico. The republic is gradually taking its rightful place in the fiber market, planters are raising their crops upon a more scientific basis, and the government is lending every encouragement to outside capital looking for investment in the industry.

Jacinto Sixto Garcia, who is chargé d'affaires of the Argentine legation in Mexico, is visiting Yucatan for the special purpose of studying the henequin industry, believing that his republic would do well to emulate Mexico, and realizing that nowhere else can he get a better knowledge of the business. His report to his government will be forthcoming shortly.

Yucatan will be on hand with its usually large henequin crop this season, and it is predicted that the price will be higher than the former average, owing to the fact that a New York concern some time ago attempted to corral the entire supply, partially succeeding and forcing competitors to loftier bids.

ASK EXPERT ADVICE.

In the official opinion of the Ministry of Fomento, the Choapam district of the State of Oaxaca may yet rival Yucatan in production of henequin. Oaxaca has sent to the Department of Agriculture of the United States samples of various fibrous plants, asking an opinion as to their desirability for rope manufacture, making special requests for exhaustive investigation into the malvon, ixtle and pita plants. Experiments in Oaxaca thus far have been eminently successful. The government believes henequin will reclaim vast stretches of Oaxaca land now all but useless, since the hardy plant will thrive on ground almost barren.

The present product of Oaxaca is consumed largely within that State, though early in this year several fiber shipments were made to New York. The local use is confined to manufacture of coarse brushes, cordage, saddle girths and sacks, while the export product is used almost entirely in the making of binder twine.

Rio Verde district, State of San Luis Potosi, is marketing its season's crop of about eighty carloads of oranges, practically the whole offering going to New Orleans. Eighty carloads is 288,000 dozen, and this class of fruit retails in New Orleans at 40 cents, footing up 230,400 pesos to be distributed among the growers, transportation lines, middlemen and merchants. Terrific storms have played havoc with the Louisiana crop, and California is supplying the markets of Chicago and Minneapolis. New York is getting hers from California and Cordoba, and Rio Verde has accordingly been left the alternative of the Crescent City.

HEAVY PECAN SHIPMENTS.

Mexico is shipping an average of forty carloads of pecans to America every year. At current prices the nuts fetch an annual total of 224,000 pesos in New York, St. Louis and Chicago, going thither via the port of Vera Cruz from Pachuca, Guadalajara, Monterey, Monclova and San Luis Potosi. Local buyers count on 1 cent duty per pound, 1 cent freight from Mexico and 1 cent net profit, pecans retailing in New York at 20 cents.

Spanish interests among the sugar planters of Oaxaca are forming a merger whose objects will be a reduction in number of high-salaried employés, and an advance in the price of the product.

By order of the court the properties of the Missouri Coffee Growers' Association, in the State of Oaxaca, estimated to be worth about 64,000 pesos, have been sold to satisfy a judgment taken by the United States Banking Company of the City of Oaxaca.

For the first time in history, Oaxaca has been obliged to import American cotton, having shipped in four carloads to supply the deficit caused by largely increased mill demands. American cotton costs 6 to 9 cents more than the same grade of the local product.

H. G. Colton and C. V. Cooper of Portland, Or., have made an examination of their rubber plantation at Castillos, State of Vera Cruz, finding the property in excellent shape, the trees beginning to run freely in milk, though the tapping season has not arrived for many of the younger growth.

MAY GROW TEA.

Charles D. Miller, a London coffee, tea and sugar man, who has been in the business all his adult life, after a careful study of conditions in the Tepic region of Mexico, where he has large farm holdings, declares that the growing of tea can be made as profitable in Mexico as in India or Ceylon, with the conditions of both of which countries he is familiar by long experience. Mr. Miller, with English associates, is negotiating for the purchase of a tract of 500,000 acres of agricultural land seven miles from the town of Tepic.

American colonists in Southern Mexico are paying much attention to the up-breeding of cattle, importing from the United States the finest beef and milk strains, and using greatest care in improvement of grades. M. L. McCullough of Mexico and Fayette, Mo., has just delivered a carload of fine shorthorns.

Contract for the sale of 1,500,000 pesos' worth of beef hides has been closed with an English shoe manufacturing house by the Mexican National Packing Company, in which Sir Thomas Lipton is a stockholder. This company is shipping large quantities of meat and meat products to England, where the exports are handled by the house of Lipton. The local packing company sells an average of 400 hides a day, worth about 2400 pesos.

The Governor of the State of Puebla presided over the ceremonies of inauguration of the State garden of plant propagation, established for the cultivation of plants and flowers and for experiments designed to be of use to horticulture in general.

President Diaz and members of his Cabinet attended the exhibit of the National School of Agriculture, opened for several days. There was the best display ever offered at such an exhibit. Especial interest attached to demonstrations of application of vaccine to animals.

GIGANTIC PROJECTS AFOOT.

ACTIVITY IN REPUBLIC.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—Gigantic Mexico land deals, involving millions in acres and gold, turned on short notice, and most often including the American farmer or colonizer as the party of the first part, are of weekly record and growing more numerous with the appreciably better times in the United States, and increased knowledge among Americans of the opportunities for investment presented by the undeveloped resources of this republic.

E. T. Jones, president of the International Development Company, headquarters at St. Louis, has bought from J. Brownell Pedicord, formerly from Kentucky, 50,000 acres of tropical land on the line of the Pan-American Railway, in the State of Chiapas. Orders have been placed for milling machinery to make into lumber the valuable hardwoods growing on the tract, it being estimated that this product alone will reimburse the buyers for their cash outlay. Denuded of timber, the domain will be colonized by pilgrims from the United States, the country being ideally adapted to agriculture and the growing of tropical fruits. Cattle thrive in that region, and the soil can be made to produce four crops of corn a year, each crop good for sixty bushels to the acre.

Illinois people, represented by C. R. Bradley, a citizen of Dwight, and their emissary, are taking over a big acreage near Mapastepec, State of Chiapas, four miles from the line of the Pan-American, where 150 families from the Sucker State will take up their residence. Mr. Bradley, president of the First National Bank of Dwight, being in close touch with conditions in the Middle States, where good agricultural land is worth $200 an acre, is enthusiastic in the belief that Mexico will prove the solution in the case of farmers not rich enough to own their own acres in the more thickly-populated regions of America.

EUROPEANS ACTIVE.

A trade is on for the acquisition of a vast area of farming and grazing land in the State of Chiapas by J. J. Somerville, a large land owner of Butte, Mont., who has spent some recent weeks in quiet investigation. It is the intention of the Butte man and some of his associates to stock their isthmus tract with fine cattle and sheep from their Montana ranges.

Count John Bernstorff, heading a party of sixteen wealthy men from England and Germany, is in the republic to negotiate a land dicker involving broad acres and fat fortunes. No definite announcement of results has been made, the investors having not yet finished their investigations. Count Bernstorff, a native of London, and formerly identified with the German Embassy there, is a son of the late Count Albrecht Bernstorff, once German Ambassador to England. He married Miss Jeanne Luckemeyer of New York, and has traveled extensively on this continent.

The Jantha Plantation Company of Pittsburgh is dividing a tract of 1100 acres of land, near El Hule, State of Vera Cruz, into small pieces, which are being taken up by Americans for colonization purposes, the settlers to plant the ground in Jamaica bananas. The same company is planting in this fruit 20,000 acres now, and will extend the industry steadily as the plants, imported from Jamaica, mature. The estates lie along the banks of the navigable river of Blanco, and it is the purpose of the promoters ultimately to establish a line of steamers to carry the products down stream to the port of Alvarado, whence they can be transported to New York. The Mexican government will lend assistance to the dredging of the river and establishment of port works at Alvarado.

At Union Hidalgo, State of Oaxaca, the Mexican Lands Development Company has decided to plant 2600 acres in caravonica, otherwise known as Australian tree cotton. To handle the crop a gin will be built and this will be the largest caravonica project ever yet undertaken on the American continent. This same company, of which George W. Decker of St. Louis is president, and Henry S. Pulse is secretary and manager, has completed the survey of 100,000 acres purchased in that neighborhood for colonization purposes.

MANY GREAT PROJECTS.

Manuel Cuesta of Guadalajara has bought outright for $2,200,000 gold, three ranches, aggregating 65,000 acres, in the States of Michoacan and Jalisco. A portion of the land will be transferred to the Chapala Hydro Electric and Irrigation Company, of which Mr. Cuesta is a heavy stockholder and which will undertake the irrigation of the new estates.

This Chapala company has been technically merged with the New Guadalajara Railway, Light and Power Company, capitalized at $14,000,000. A valuable asset is control of a concession to drain and redeem many thousands of acres of fine land at the east end of Lake Chapala, converting the now submerged area into haciendas and irrigating a vast domain farther east.

S. Pearson & Sons have secured from the Canadian projectors the contract to build the irrigation and power dam of the Mexican Northern Power Company across the Conchos River, State of Chihuahua, for $7,500,000 gold. The same construction company will also build for the same people twenty miles of standard-gauge railway to connect the dam with the Mexican Central line of the National Railways of Mexico, at Santa Rosalia. The Conchos River's semi-annual flow is estimated at 1,751,000,000 cubic meters, and the dam to be built will be able to impound 1,840,000,000 cubic meters, which is 180,000,000 cubic meters more than the capacity of the great Tonto Basin dam in Arizona. Besides irrigating an enormous area of fine agricultural land, the dam builders will give an initial supply of 25,000 horse power of electric energy to mining camps and cities in that section of the republic.

OAXACA TO BUILD DAM.

To irrigate 10,000 acres the State of Oaxaca will build a dam near the city of Nochixtlan to hold back 818,000 cubic meters of water in a reservoir covering thirty-seven acres.

A Mexico City corporation will soon begin construction of a system of irrigation canals to convey the waters of the Tula River over a big stretch of country between the towns of Tula and Actopan, in the Pachuca neighborhood.

Unprecedented frosts of late September caused a loss to crops, especially to the corn supply, which is still the subject of conjecture and concern among government officials and transportation agencies. Government statisticians estimate the actual loss at about $9,000,000 gold, and yet there are good guessers who claim there is nearly as much corn in the country as in October of last year. While the government's calculation that the loss amounts to 20 per cent. is probably accurate, it is a fact that on many of the largest ranches the crop of this season was twice as large as the average, thus leaving a margin in favor of 1909. Next to corn, beans and chile were most severely injured by the cold snap. Corn regions reporting the heaviest losses are Guanajuato, Queretaro, Jalisco, Aguascalientes, Nuevo Leon, Zacatecas, Durango, Tlaxcala, Chihuahua, San Luis Potosi, Guadalajara, Lafos, La Barca, Teocaldiche, Jerecuaro and Manuel Doblado. Seven districts of Jalisco lost half their corp crops, and Guanajuato estimates that it will take 200,000 bushels in imports to meet her deficit.

H. M. Thompson of San Antonio, Tex., recently visited the State of Chiapas, where four crops of corn are harvested every year, and is inclined to discount the stories of threatened famine. Another optimist is L. H. Henschel, treasurer of the Mexican Land Securities Company, who has come to the capital from the Palomares region on the Tehuantepec National railway, where corn is standing twelve feet high, convinced that the shortage in the entire republic will be only nominal.

DUTY OFF ON CORN.

Thus far in October only twenty-five carloads of corn have been imported to make good the alleged shortage, these shipments having come from Kansas City via Laredo. Commission men are not sure any considerable tonnage will be needed and are also timid of large orders because of the uncertainty as to whether the government may take a direct hand in the market.

While the Banco Central Mexicano is negotiating with an Argentine representative for 30,000 tons of the cereal, it is believed the entire amount of corn to be imported will come from Kansas City and St. Louis, the government having annulle the duty and the railroads having lowered their freight rates from $19.09 to $16.25, Mexican money, from ports of entry to Mexico City, per thousand kilos.

With the duty called off and the freight thus reduced to $16.25 per thousand kilos, corn of the No. 2 white grade can be laid down in Mexico City from Kansas City and Missouri at less than $6, gold, per cargo of 150 kilos. The government has named a junta to take charge of the distribution of such grain as it may be found expedient to buy. Congress has passed a bill authorizing the purchase of cereals and sale to the poor at reasonable prices.

An English company, now carrying bananas home from the Canary islands, will invade the Mexican field so soon as the Frontera bar into the Grijalva and Usumachina rivers shall have been dredged to a depth of eighteen feet and the growers in this gulf coast isthmian territory can guarantee regular production of 4000 tons of the fruit per month. Banana producers are organizing to meet this demand and the Britishers are ready to sign up contracts for the entire crop for several years to come. The Englishmen are represented here by John De Land, who believes Mexico is destined to become the greatest banana country on earth. The Canary Islands supply to Britain, he says, is deteriorating in both quantity and quality.

Mr. De Land is president of the Chacamax Plantation Company, which has 11,000 acres of banana land, and also manages a plantation of 80,000 acres which is owned by an English syndicate. He states that at fewest fifteen ships will be placed in commission for the Mexico banana trade, when conditions are ripe, as prescribed. De Land lives in Seattle and his statements are indorsed by Santiago Robinson, manager of the Montecristo Plantation Company, with estates in the State of Tabasco, and also owner on his personal account of a big plantation.

BANANA CULTURE.

Judge W. L. Pierce, of Spokane, is planning to move to Mexico for permanent residence and to go into banana culture on a large scale. He has visited several favorable sections and will likely locate in the Tampico region.

B. H. Bollinger, of Zalina, Mo., has bought 4600 acres of land near Tonala, on the Pan-American line, and will raise hogs for the market, feeding them bananas, acting upon the well proved theory that this fruit is better food and makes beter pork than corn. Twenty thousand banana palms will be planted at once for no other purpose.

It is denied by John T. Owsley, president of the Mexican Tropical Fruit Company and also of the Port Arthur-Mexican Steamship Company, that he latter corporation and the Southern Steamship Company are warring to the knife over the banana trade of Tabasco. V. Mistretta is president of the Southern Steamship Company.

POSITION OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Francis J. Heney Is a Grossly Unfit Person to Hold It, and Should Be Defeated.

[From the San Francisco Chronicle.]

For the past two years Francis J. Heney has been waging a campaign of abuse and billingsgate from every rostrum to which he could gain access and against every person who would not burn incense before him and worship at his feet. The Chronicle will not engage in a stinkpot campaign against Mr. Heney or any one else, but we propose to state the reasons why he is unfit to be intrusted with any office, and especially that of District Attorney.

He has made an utter botch of the prosecution of the graft cases by abandoning the prosecution of those against whom there was legal evidence and endeavoring to convict by public opinion, in the absence of evidence, certain persons who happen to be personal enemies of those who were footing his bills. In the hope to accomplish this he gave out for publication the verbatim testimony given before the grand jury, which the spirit of the law most carefully conceals, thereby disqualifying for jury service every intelligent person in San Francisco.

In this attempt to substitute public opinion for legal evidence this man puts in jeopardy the life and liberty of any man against whom Heney or those behind him entertain a grudge. If that course can be pursued against one, it may be taken against another, and the foundations of liberty are broken up. No crime can be so heinous, nor any criminol so debased as to justify the substitution of popular clamor and prejudiced juries for judicial procedure and impartial juries. Nor can anything justify the infamous practice or dogging the steps of decent citizens summoned for possible jury service by a mob of alleged detectives dragged out from the underworld and employed at high prices, hardly one of whom can be believed on oath. Such persons are the most contemptible of men, for none but the most contemptible can be secured for such work, and their employment would endanger conviction even when evidence was clear. If a District Attorney can employ an army of spies for one purpose, he can do it for another, and the fact that Heney has done it once is conclusive proof that he should never be given another opportunity.

By his consuming vanity, his malignant spirit, his repeated falsehoods, his abuse of all who would not cringe before him, his insults to the judicial dignity of the courts, his demanstrated ignorance of law, his disregard for decency and his open attacks on judges of higher courts, whose judicial oaths compelled them to set aside convictions secured by prejudice in disregard of the law, the man Heney has utterly alienated the public sympathy which at first was wholly with the prosecution of the graft cases and brought shame on the city and courts. It is false to assert that any decent man desires the escape of any criminal against whom there is evidence to convict, but it is true that all decent men would prefer the escape even of the worst evil-doers to the break-up of the foundations of justice and liberty by convictions obtained by the Heney methods.

That is the man who seeks for the next two years to be intrusted with the prosecution not only of the graft cases, in which there is no hope of conviction, but of every person, guilty or innocent, who may be accused of crime; and such are the methods that he will employ, if elected, to the extent that a complaisant Board of Supervisors will tax the people to pay the bills. It would destroy all respect for the administration of justice and turn San Franisco into a hell upon earth.

Men!

Stop Taking Poison

Have you ever noticed the man who goes to the drug store ever so often for his bottle of "nerve tonic," "invigorator," kidney dope or other mixtures? Ever see him cured? No—he keeps taking it, down and out, and he's getting worse every day. But the dope deceives his senses and he thinks it helps him, and he puts his stomach out of order and ruins his health in every way, but he doesn't realize it. Why? Because the drug dopes away the pain so the feeling, and the alcohol in the mixture produces a false stimulation. You see him going to the drug store every day or two, the measure of his dope, and he thinks he is paying for it, but he isn't. The price he will come after a while, when the ruin of his system is complete and the drug habit has a firm hold on him—then he will suffer with all kinds of complaints and nothing will give him relief—that's the time the drug superstition gets its full pay—another man doomed to end his days a WRECK. All the foulest products of earth's decomposition, disease matter are raised over to make the drugs; all the poisonous plants and nasty insects of disease infected lands are gathered for their POISON, and the poison is fed to a human being simply because he is weak or has some other poison in his system. A fine practice, isn't it, and eminently respectable, no matter where the man could. BUT THE MAN WHO THINKS FOR HIMSELF will think well before he swallows some mysterious mixture. He wants to know why he is taking it and what he is taking it for, and HOW IT IS GOING TO BENEFIT HIM. We want to talk to that man, to give or send him our free book, which tells HOW to get strong and vigorous and HEALTHY without a drop of medicine.

"The word health now means a normal supply of electricity in the body, and the word disease means an insufficiency of that power."

The basis of energy in the human body is Electricity. All the organs, every function of the body and the health of the individual depend upon the Electricity possessed by the nerves, and pain, weakness, despondency, lost energy and ambition denote a lack of it. If the stomach fails to digest the food that is given it, if the nerves are weak, kidneys inactive or any organ fails to do its work, it can be restored to perfect health by the proper use of it.

The greatest proof of the value of Electricity and how it is replacing drugs for a weak, broken down system is the fact that physicians who a few years ago scoffed at the idea of Electricity as a cure are now applying it in preference to drugs. The results of experiments conducted by the greatest scientists in the country show that the action of the organs, the basis of life in the body, is Electricity, and where it has been wasted by overwork, indiscretions or disease, it can be replaced by the proper application.

People who have squandered fortunes in search of health and have tried every medium known have in the end been willing to consider what the electric theory of disease could do for them. No sooner do we explain it to them than they are astonished at the simplicity and the directness of our treatment.

They wonder that it has never occurred to them before that disease was but the result of the disturbance and derangement of the vital force; that the only way to restore an organ of the body to healthy action is to bring to that organ the electro-nervous force that shall cause it to discharge its functions without permitting stagnation, decay and consequent death.

Activity is the law of life.

Our Electric Vitaliz dry cell body battery or electric belt restores strength and health in a natural way. Call or write for our free book explaining how and why it cures. It's written for thinking men—men who want to know what they are getting and that it is correct.

Gen. Howard took part in the great battles under Grant at Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, and was afterward in command of the Fourth Army Corps, which accompanied Sherman in his epoch-making march from Atlanta to the sea, where his command constituted the right wing of Sherman's army.

After the war Gen. Howard, who was known to have a deeply religious nature, and which was highly respected by his comrades in arms, became identified with various religious, educational and philanthropic movements, and was appointed commissioner of the important Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, subsequently becoming a trustee of the Howard University for colored persons, named in honor of its founder.

Gen. Howard took part in the great battles under Grant at Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, and was afterward in command of the Fourth Army Corps, which accompanied Sherman in his epoch-making march from Atlanta to the sea, where his command constituted the right wing of Sherman's army.

After the war Gen. Howard, who was known to have a deeply religious nature, and which was highly respected by his comrades in arms, became identified with various religious, educational and philanthropic movements, and was appointed commissioner of the important Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, subsequently becoming a trustee of the Howard University for colored persons, named in honor of its founder.

LIMBS IN THREE STATES.

Only last year, at the age of 78, he visited his university located in the mountains at Cumberland Gap. Five miles from the campus, on a high outlook, is the point where the boundaries of three States meet. Thither he proceeded on horseback, and is reported to have swung himself into the saddle like a veteran. There, seated on a boulder marking the spot, with boyish enthusiasm he thrust one leg out over Kentucky, the other over Tennessee, while his only available arm rested on Virginia territory.

His son, Guy, was killed in the Spanish War of 1898, and Gen. Granville E. Dodge, who had served under him and cherished an affectionate regard for him in affliction, wrote a letter of condolence. When, a few weeks later he was in New York, he called on the general, and with tears in his eyes, said: "Dodge, although it is hard to bear, you and I have no right to complain. It is what we have been educated to, and what we might expect and must always be prepared to meet."

He was always noted for his deeply religious nature, and his reply to a remark of Gen. Joe Wheeler was highly characteristic. Wheeler said to him, "You prayed before the battle in the famous fight with Stonewall Jackson?"

"Yes," he answered. "And Jackson was a praying man; he prayed also?"

"Yes," he assented.

"Then how was it that he gained the victory? Did that mean that the Union cause was wrong?"

Very gently the old general replied: "Both our prayers were answered. Jackson prayed for immediate victory, and I for the ultimate triumph of our cause. We both got what we prayed for."

It is related that at one time when a religious wave was sweeping over the army under Howard's command, a teamster approached him and said in a deprecating tone, "General, I'd like to be a Christian, but who'd drive the mules?" In his limited experience that feat could not be successfully performed without the use of certain expletives for which dashes are usually substituted on the printed page.

On one occasion Howard visited the Storrs Colored School in Atlanta. At the close of his remarks he said he was going North and would meet many little folks, and what message should he give them? There was a dead silence for a moment, and then one little fellow spoke up: "Massa, tell 'em we's risin'—we's risin'." The incident was sent to Whittier and he made it a text for one of his stirring poems.

GREAT IN PEACE.

In a banquet tendered to Gen. Howard at the Waldorf-Astoria in 1900, ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, with unusually impassioned words said, "The martial face and figure of our distinguished guest throws open to me many a great theme wonderful beyond compare. The greatness of the Civil War, with its noble principles and its splendid results, would be an easy thing to rehearse. Our guest has been so much a part and parcel of the great battles and mighty sieges that you cannot touch upon them without making his heart beat stronger with the lofty memories of those days of storm and stress. In himself Gen. Howard is an inspiration. But he does not have to rest on his military glory, for his life in peace has been as great as his life in war. In the noble life he has led as a citizen his uniform played no part, and for this reason we have assembled to do him the honor he deserves."

Booker T. Washington was present and acknowledged the indebtedness of his race to Gen. Howard. He remarked that it is the only race that has come to America on a very pressing invitation. Continuing, he said there was a time when any kind of a black man was worth $1000, while you would not give 50 cents for any kind of a white man, not even for the gentleman who was presiding at this feast. The name of Howard, he said, is in the hearts of the negro race beside those of Garrison and Lincoln.

In Gen. Howard's response to the warm eulogiums pronounced by these and other orators in commemoration of his 70th birthday anniversary was one phrase which struck an answering echo in every breast—"Remember that where our flag flies, there is liberty."

MAGNANIMITY CONSPICUOUS.

The magnanimity of Gen. Howard—a trait of all great minds—was conspicuously shown on the return of Sherman's victorious army to Washington, at which time a grand review of the troops was planned. Although it was Howard's right to ride at the head of the army on that historic event, at an appeal from Sherman he waived his right in order to gratify the ambition of Gen. Logan. But he yielded the honor with such cheerful self-abnegation that Gen. Sherman was touched and insisted that he should ride by his (Sherman's) side at the head of the army [illegible] same evening.

UNITED.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY SURE AT THE COMING ELECTION.

Confidence in the Grand Old Party Brings Order in Campaign Which Has Been Somewhat Chaotic Because of the New-fangled Ideas of a Bunch of Hypocritical Upstarts.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR MAYOR	GEORGE A. SMITH
CITY CLERK	H. J. LELANDE
CITY ATTORNEY	L. R. HEWITT
TREASURER	R. HEFFELFINGER
AUDITOR	E. E. BOSTWICK
TAX COLLECTOR	E. E. JOHNSON
ASSESSOR	ROB'T F. HAYHURST

COUNCILMEN AT LARGE.
(Vote for Nine)

CHARLES J. LETTS	FIRST WARD
W. E. McKEE	SECOND WARD
S. C. DODGE	THIRD WARD
PERCY W. ROSS	FOURTH WARD
W. H. O'CONNELL	FIFTH WARD
H. H. YONKIN	SIXTH WARD
HENRY H. LYON	SEVENTH WARD
BERNARD HEALY	EIGHTH WARD
R. E. WIRSCHING	NINTH WARD

United Republican strength will win the victory at the primary election of November 10 and at the general municipal election of December 7. With just ten days intervening before the primaries, the Republican party holds the strategic position. A short and sharp campaign of a little more than a week will concentrate the vote, and when it is cast there will be but two Mayoralty candidates in the field. One of them will be George A. Smith, the choice of the Republican party; the other may be Alexander of the Good Government Organization, or Mushet or Farish, Independents. The indications are that Alexander is the only man who can muster enough votes to get on the ballot with Smith.

Within the last few days there has been a general slump in the Mushet and Farish talk. Neither of these candidates has anything like a working organization behind him. Both are making loud noises and are trying to make it appear that they are blown-in-the-bottle candidates, but neither is attending to the very important matter of getting out the votes in the 200 precincts of the city.

WORKERS EVERYWHERE.

The Republican party has a committeeman in each precinct; more than that, it has scores of active workers in each of these subdivisions of the city. On top of all, it has a central organization, with chairman, secretary and Executive Committee, which is working as a unit for party success.

The only other political organization which will cut any figure in the campaign is that of the "Goo-Goos," who have a boss and a select list of underlings that he was permitted to choose.

While the Republican City Central Committee was selected at a convention of 200 delegates, chosen by the people, the Good Government Organization committee was named by Boss Lissner, and in no way is representative of the city or any subdivision thereof.

The Republican committee is unanimous in its support of the party ticket; the "Goo-Goo" committee, after many weeks of squabbling, has come out at last for the slate prepared by its boss, but this action was by no means unanimous, and it has only the weak support of those outside the inner circle.

PARTY MEN FLOCKING.

In the last few days, Republicans have been flocking by hundreds to the support of the party ticket. They held off until nearly the last minute, because of the confusion caused by the multiplicity of candidates for the various offices. Of the seventy-seven aspirants for places in the Council, the great majority is made up of Republicans. The others are "Goo-Goos" or nondescripts. The bulk of party supporters evidently have come to the conclusion that the convention acted wisely in picking the timber, and there is every assurance that the nine candidates for the Council, and the candidates indorsed by the convention for the rest of the city offices, will receive the full party support, together with that of voters who are not satisfied with the slate of the Good Government machine.

From this time forth it is a band-wagon campaign; the Republicans are driving the wagon, and there is a scramble on all side to get into the vehicle that is to roll through the primaries and the municipal election with the winning candidates. Party workers who "got off wrong" at the start are clambering aboard, and there have been large accessions to the ranks from among the aspirants for county and State offices, who realize that the State direct primary law recognizes party lines and that party defeat in the city election will place them in a bad position next year.

"GOO-GOO" DISRUPTION.

Disruption of the ranks of the "Goo-Goos" because of the failure to indorse a ticket for the Council, while centering on Mayor and the rest of the ticket, is winning many votes for the Republican party. Candidates who confidently expected support from the Lissner machine, and who at the last minute were told that they should concentrate their efforts on the election of Alexander, are deserting the leaking ship and getting back into the party ranks. Some of the G.G.O. candidates for Council already have given up the fight and are turning their following in support of the Republican ticket.

The Mushet and Farish campaigns for the Mayoralty are fraying out at the ends. Neither candidate has any Council ticket, and both of them are attempting to win votes by pretending to be for everybody that is running for Council or for other city offices. A few weak-kneed Republicans who at first lent their support to the Mushet movement now find themselves high in the air, and most of them are looking for soft places for alighting on straight party ground.

SUCCESS ASSURED.

Chairman Casselman of the Republican City Central Committee stated yesterday that flattering assurances of party success are made by committeemen in the 200 city precincts. Each of these workers is making a canvass of his particular territory, and, so far as it has progressed, the canvass indicates that the Republican ticket will win by a large margin at both the primary and general elections.

Many of the reports from precincts where there is normally a heavy Democratic vote indicate that Farish, the only Democrat running for Mayor, will poll but few votes. Democracy's experience with Harper has weaned away most of its strength; the majority of voters of that party are turning the leaf completely over and are going for the Republican ticket, while the Farish, or silk-stocking end, is divided between him and Alexander.

Conservative business men, who seek only an administration free of fads and fancies, irrespective of party lines, are flocking into the Republican band wagon and are piling up thousands of votes for that ticket.

How Indians Poisoned Arrows.

Indains took a fresh deer liver, fastened it to a long pole, and then went to certain places where they knew they would find rattlesnakes.

The bucks would poke the first rattler with the liver. The snake would repeatedly strike at the liver with its fangs until its poison was all used up.

Then the pole was carried home and fastened upright until the liver became as dry as a bone. The liver was pounded to a fine powder and placed in a buckskin bag. This powder would stick like glue to any moistened surface, and was used to poison arrows.—[Denver Field and Farm.

POWER PLANS FALL THROUGH.

Engineer Declares There Is Not Water Enough.

Gila Valley Road Thought Now Under Way.

Kills Apache Caught Robbing Camp.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Oct. 28.—According to a report just filed by Engineer H. A. Barry, there is small hope that the power enterprise, projected by Globe capitalists in the Gila River Cañon below San Carlos will be financed. Mr. Barry investigated both the irrigation and power aspects of the scheme. He found the irrigation features commendable and worthy of more thorough investigation.

The most serious question found was the fact that during the dry season, when farmers would require the greatest amount of water, the flow of the river is so small that there would not be sufficient running water from the dam to generate the minimum power requirements. To draw heavily on the fourteen miles of back water "would give the minimum quantity, but would so lower the power head as to make power generation unprofitable.

It had been hoped that the deficiency from the power end would be more than made up by the immense revenue to be derived from the irrigation feature, but according to Mr. Barry, "the minimum flow of the river for late years, as shown by recent tests made by the Reclamation Service, together with the fact that the consumers of power will not entertain so small a minimum supply, has decided us to abandon the project."

ENGINEERS AT WORK.

A corps of engineers is reported working eastward from Solomonville up the Gila River toward Guthrie, apparently laying out the long projected line of the Southern Pacific from the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern road at Solomonville, through Guthrie, to a new connection near Lordsburg, with a probable branch to Clifton. For a half dozen miles this new line would pass through a very narrow and very precipitous box cañon, necessitating enormous expenditures for excavation at some places, and possibly the hanging of the road to the cañon wall.

From Clifton report has come that the Arizona Copper Company is not assisting in the building of the Shannon Railroad from below Clifton into the Metcalf district on Upper Chase Creek. The bottom of the cañon is occupied by a narrow-gauge road owned by the Arizona company, and it is said that repairs have suddenly been found necessary upon it, especially in places where trestle work of the Shannon road would be injured by blasting, or where annoyance is incidentally given to the construction corporation. The Shannon contractors are said to have eagerly taken up the fray, and to be retaliating in every possible manner.

SHOOTS INDIAN ROBBER.

On Wednesday D. E. Mabin shot and killed an Apache Indian, as the Indian was robbing the camp of Eugene Barrow in the Pinal Mountains. Mabin tells that he found three Apaches within the tent trying to break open a provision box; that two of the Indians hastily complied with his request to elevate their hands, but that the third made a motion as though to draw a weapon, this action being attended with fatal results to himself. The Indian managed to run from the camp, but his dead body was found next morning in a ravine a short distance away. The Indian is known only as "T. A. 24," his reservation designation. It is claimed that he and the other Indians, who have been jailed, have robbed a dozen camps of late.

Nick Bush, an old Dominion miner, was knocked to the ground from a railroad car by a projecting obstacle and so injured that it is possible he may die.

DIVORCED AND WEDDED.

At Solomonville Saturday, Henrietta A. Hegla was granted a decree of divorce from Fred Hegla, her third husband. Two hours later she was married to Leonard Smith. With her go three children, one from each of her former marriages.

Because of the discovery of three cases of scarlet fever, the city schools of Globe have been ordered closed for a week.

The Gila county assessment roll just completed, shows a taxable valuation of $5,936,834.

While returning by automobile from Phoenix, Postmaster Ralph Sturgis lost his grip on the crank of his machine, and sustained a bad fracture of the arm.

Samuel Spada is the latest victim in this district of the fate that comes to the unwary miner. He fell eighty-five feet into a winze on the lower levels of the Old Dominion, and was so injured that he died in a hospital a few hours later.

SERVICE BEGINS.

Yesterday was inaugurated regular passenger service on the new Miami branch of the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railroad.

The Globe Chamber of Commerce is asking for the immediate installation of a sewer system in this city, as something essential to the preservation of health. A movement is being made toward utilizing a part of the water pumped from the Old Dominion mines for sewer flushing, fire protection, sprinkling and for gardens. The water is not suitable for domestic uses. There is a movement toward the consolidation of the Chamber of Commerce with the local Saguaro Club, and for the establishment of regular headquarters, with a paid secretary in charge.

NO LIBEL, SAYS GRAND JURY.

MAYOR HENEY LOSES HIS CASE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

TUCSON, Oct. 27.—The Pima county grand jury yesterday dismissed three libel cases against General Manager W. B. Kelley of the Tucson Star, and one case against the State Consolidated Publishing Company, which publishes the Star. It had been alleged that the Star had maliciously sought to discredit Mayor Heney in the work of his office, and that daily articles reflecting upon the Mayor's actions were libelous.

The Star denies that it ever intended to libel Mr. Heney, saying: "It would have been a troublesome thing to have done, considering the capers and gyrations he has cut since his unfortunate selection to head the municipal government of the old town. He has made himself the laughing stock of the community, not once, but many times, and is still climbing the pole in that direction. He needs to be saved from himself, and the sooner the City Council removes him from office, the better the municipality would be for it."

SINGLE BLOW KILLS.

The grand jury has found a true bill for murder against Leonardo Moreno, who, in a drunken quarrel, killed a Papago Indian a couple of months ago. An odd feature developed by the inquest was that the Indian had been killed by a single blow with the fist, the effect being to split the man's liver.

Two Papago Indians, José Pedro and Joe Pablo, also were indicted for murder, for the slaying of a squaw, who had been stoned to death, in retaliation, it is claimed, for the killing of the son of one of the murderers by the son of the Indian woman slain.

At Nogales last week Casimiro Romero was sentenced to imprisonment for life in the Territorial penitentiary for the killing of Edward Egan, a prominent and wealthy citizen, last June.

The Indian Bureau of the Interior Department is said to be contemplating the subdivision of the Pima and Papago reservations, for it has sent Ralph Aspaas, a departmental expert on reservation subdivision, to Tucson. It is understood that the San Xavier reservation, south of Tucson, containing about forty square miles, will be allotted in severalty very soon to the peaceful and agricultural Papagoes, who reside thereon.

The task of subdividing the Pima reservation will be very much greater. The reserve is over 100 miles long, lying along the Gila River from near Florence to the junction of the Gila with the Salt. Resident upon it are about 4000 Pima and Maricopa Indians, nearly all making a livelihood through agriculture.

WATER FOR INDIANS.

In combination with the United States Reclamation Service, the Indian Bureau, near Sacatan, is sinking a number of wells, from which, with power from the Roosevelt reservoir, it is proposed to electrically pump enough water for the irrigation of about 10,000 acres. The flow of the Gila River has been cut off, during the summer months, by the drafts made upon the stream by white farmers in Graham county, and the Indians have suffered thereby. It is now proposed that the Indians shall secure water from the Gila whenever possible, but that the pumps will be resorted to in all times of drouth. This action, it is expected, will make the Pimas wealthy, but it must lead to the allotment of lands in severalty among the tribesmen.

The Tucson Chamber of Commerce is much interested in the plan to explore the ground beneath the city, in the hope of striking artesian water, and will raise $2000 for an experimental well. The city is surrounded by high mountains, within which the winter snowfall is heavy, and there is little doubt that great stores of artesian water can be struck if the proper effort be made.

EXIT SLOT MACHINES.

Upon warning by the Sheriff, slot machines have disappeared in the town of Tucson, and the Territorial ordinance against them will be enforced strictly hereafter.

Mrs. Otto Crouse has been elected president and Mrs. H. Drachman, secretary of the Arizona Health League, a local charitable organization, which cares for the destitute sick within the city, mainly comprising strangers who have sought Arizona as a health resort, though unprovided with sufficient funds for maintaining them.

Mrs. Nannie Lewis, wife of Albert Lewis, died at Silver Bell last Tuesday. She had been in Arizona only six weeks. The body was returned to her former home at Hemet, Cal.

SOLUTION OF THE BEET BILGHT.

The cause of the beet blight is the "Eutettix tenella," a small, active, whitish leaf hopper about one-eighth of an inch long, which feeds on the young beets and injects some injurious substance into the plant's tissue.

This is the conclusion reached by R. L. Adams of the Spreckels experiment station after three seasons' direct experimentation and investigation. Beets placed under cages with the insects developed blight in three experiments, whereas beets similarly treated, but without the insects, remained entirely healthy. And out of several hundred experiments of different kinds these were absolutely the only ones where blight was produced. In these cases it was unmistakable.

This discovery means much to the beet-sugar men, not only of California, but of every beet-sugar producing State where this dreaded disease has appeared. Moreover, the discovery of a definite cause opens the way for a speedy solution for the trouble.

Talks on Snake Culture

The Keen Appetite

The gods never gave man a finer gift than a good appetite. If the sound of the dinner horn is sweeter to your ears than the music that is made when the morning stars sing together, you are all right. You are fit for the world's battles, fit to overcome obstacles and do a grown man's stunt in the world. You are also fit to shake off troubles, for worry doesn't camp long in the dooryard of the man who has an appetite like a cross cut saw. There is no greater happiness than to sit down to the groaning board, appetite and all, and stow away a large assortment of plain and fancy groceries, meats, fish, and oysters in their season. The first thing that old John Barleycorn does to a man is to put his appetite out of commission, and thus the great solace of eating is lost to him.

When he has fooled around with old John for a considerable time, he acquires an imitation appetite, that craves pickles, and slaw, and rank cheese, and old leather, and glue, and such things. A good, wholesome, old-fashioned meal, that would make a healthy man yell for joy brings goose-flesh to the victim of old John, and he sidesteps it and goes around to the village smithy, where he can eat a handful of iron filings. When your genuine appetite is gone, and the imitation appetite takes its place, old John has got you, sure enough, and your scalp is hanging from his belt. If you don't believe this, go into a booze parlor and look at the free lunch. Size up the rubbish that men eat when the real appetite is ditched.

YOUR DOCTOR WILL ADVISE YOU TO USE MAIER'S "SELECT"

BECAUSE

It is a perfectly brewed beer, properly aged; because it is absolutely pure. We use only the choicest Bohemian hops and selected barley malt, and every step in the brewing process is watched by keen-eyed inspectors who work under the direction of one of the most famous brew masters of the world. Finally, your doctor will advise the use of Maier's "Select" because he knows its food value and that it is a sure muscle developer and a system tonic.

MAIER'S "SELECT" BEER

"THE BEER OF QUALITY"

Why Pay Freight On Inferior Eastern Beers? "Select" Is Better and Costs Less

You will find Maier's "Select" at most first-class cafes, clubs and hotels, and on dining cars and steamships. Demand it everywhere. Don't let your dealer or anyone else sell you a beer that he buys cheaper and sells at a greater profit; demand "Select"—the guaranteed brew. FRANCIS JAWBONE.

CAN HENEY WIN BY CAMPAIGN OF VICIOUS BLATHERSKITING?

Last Week of the Municipal Contest in San Francisco Leaves Situation in Doubt; But Republican Figurers Are Confident—Obvious Game of Heney Is Attempt to Capture Labor Union Vote.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—The festivities attending Portola week produced a total eclipse of the politicians and local politics. Indeed, the eclipse was so total that for at least ten days it even obscured Heney and his jawbones. No greater tribute than this could be paid to the all-absorbing character of the arrival and departure of Don Gaspar de Portola since a celebration capable of even casting a shadow upon the "great prosecutor" and his wonderful jaw must be ponderous and stupendous. So far as I could observe through the dust agitated by the minions of Don Gaspar and Queen Virgilia, the only politician who kept himself in evidence was Pin Head McCarthy. He has an electric sign at the corner of Market and Kearny streets which, in colored alternating letters, reads: "Now all together—P. H. McCarthy for Mayor." During the whole week this contrivance glared at the crowds which congregated around Lotta's Fountain, thus loudly testifying that, whatever the future may have in store for Pat, at least he does not propose to be ignored in the present.

This the last week of the municipal campaign, though still to some extent burdened with the effects of the Portola dissipation, is mainly interesting because of the contest for District Attorney. It is difficult, however, to get a line on the issue which will determine that battle. If blatherskiting, which outdoes all blatherskiting heretofore known anywhere, can win, Heney ought to carry the city by an overwhelming majority. He has from the beginning treated his audiences as a pack of fools, misrepresenting the facts, dodging the issues, torturing the record and ignoring the plain demands of the situation. Two years ago, in the course of more than twenty speeches for Langdon, Heney declared that no immunity had been offered to Ruef, and that any man that said it had been was a liar. Within thirty days after Langdon's election Heney himself published a contract of immunity with Ruef to which his own name was signed.

HENEY'S ANSWER.

Here was a plain falsehood nailed. Yet, notwithstanding Fickert has called on Heney a dozen times to explain this lie, the "great prosecutor" has ignored him. So also does he ignore all questions as to that fee of $42,500 from the Contra Costa Water Company. Almost nightly some one in his audiences brings up the subject. The reply of Heney invariably is that the questioner is a "paid" emmissary of Pat Calhoun.

He treats references to his government grab in the same way. Early in the campaign he charged Fickert with being in the pay of Calhoun and challenged him to a joint debate. Fickert offered to appear on the same platform with Heney, but not until the "great prosecutor" had explained how he drew $42,500 from the Contra Costa Water Company for $1000 worth of work, and $65,000 from the government for no work at all; and, in the absence of an explanation, Fickert declared that Heney was not sufficiently respectable to appear in debate with any honest man. Yet Heney ignored this point also.

Aided by Theodore A. Bell, who, since his advent here has earned among the politicians the sobriquet of "Billingsgate Bell," night after night Heney has hurled anathema at his opponents. Notwithstanding the prison room of the city is limited since the fire, he declares that if elected he will fill the jails with his opponents, convert the police force into a gumshoe brigade and prosecute every citizen who has anything to do with a public service corporation—presumably, of course, excepting any corporation in which Rudolph Spreckels, his employer, is interested.

HIS GAME.

Although this sort of blather is meaningless to a sane man, there is danger that among a certain class it is having effect. Heney makes no concealment of his purpose. By frantically denouncing Calhoun he hopes to gain the support of the labor unions. It is well known that there is still a bitter feeling among these organizations against the United Railroads Company over the disastrous street car strike of 1906, and if Heney can capitalize this feeling, he will undoubtedly draw a few votes away from Fickert. He remembers that two years ago 10,000 laborites left McGowan, the union labor candidate for District Attorney, on this issue; and the Spreckels-Phelan machine, as appears in all its work in this campaign, figures on holding some if not all of this vote on the Calhoun issue.

It is this element which makes the result doubtful. Two years ago Langdon had the Democratic, Good Government League and Republican nominations. He defeated McGowan, with the single union labor nomination, by about 10,000 votes. At that time the graft issue was acute; the people were surprised and indignant at the corruption of Ruef and Schmitz, and Heney's incompetency as a lawyer and a prosecutor was then unknown. Now Fickert has the Republican and union labor nominations as against Heney's Democratic and Good Government League indorsements; the graft issue is not now acute, and Heney's reputation as a legal and political faker is established. Manifestly, there is a difference in the situation.

Heney charges the business men of the city with favoring the suppression of the graft prosecution because it "hurts business," a statement that has made and is making for him hosts of enemies. It is evident that if he expected any support from the business men of the town he would hardly promulgate such a slander; yet it is said that even among the Jews—who as a race he insults almost every night—there are many who intend to vote for him. In the Union League Club, our stalwart Republican organization, it is not difficult to find gentlemen who say they intend voting the Good Government League ticket. George Hewlett, who is managing the Fickert campaign, on the other hand, avers that by means of a postal-card canvas he has enrolled 25,000 citizens, who have promised to vote for his candidate. This statement may, however, be merely a campaign effort intended for campaign consumption; but if it be true Fickert will certainly defeat Heney by a large majority.

SOME FIGURES.

Coming down to approximate figures, the contest for District Attorney may be cast up in this manner: Normally there are 25,000 Republican votes which may be counted for the regular candidate; there are 15,000 which may be counted for the regular Union Labor ticket; there are between 8000 and 10,000 Democrats in this city who vote their party ticket. This totals about 50,000. There are still about 15,000 citizens who vote in municipal campaigns, mostly Republicans, who shift from one side to the other, according to the issue. If Heney should capture all of these he would still be defeated. Therefore, he must not only take a large block of Fickert's regular Republican vote away from him, but he must also break into the union labor camp. The tenor of his speeches indicates that this latter is the point at which he is aiming. There is a difference of opinion as to whether in this connection Heney is doing good or bad politics. His demagogy is exasperating and contemptible. I do not think, in view of his record as a prosecutor that it can succeed. Still, it may.

There is, however, one point that is not escaping public attention. As a matter of self-defense, the responsible portion of the population of San Francisco feel that Heney must be defeated at all hazards, since if he is elected thousands of our fellow-citizens will have to go to jail. He solemnly declares in every speech he makes that nothing will prevent the incarceration of most of those who oppose him politically, all of the editors who have failed to support him, and—I presume without violence—nearly all of the citizens who vote against him. This is an appalling prospect; yet it is not without hope. As Heney has never yet succeeded in permanently putting anybody in jail, there is a chance that even if he is elected some of us may escape.

AT LAST.

DIGNITY OF TRADE RECOGNIZED BY EUROPE'S ARISTOCRACY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, Oct. 20.—Emperor Francis Joseph's act in conferring the title of Count on Baron d'Aerenthal, the Austrian Foreign Minister, marks the final transformation of an old bourgeois family into a noble one, and the recognition by the most exclusive aristocracy in Europe of the dignity of commerce. Count d'Aerenthal's ancestors were merchants of Prague and one of them, John Antoine Lexa, founded the first company of fire insurance and insurance against hail in the Austrian, or, as it was then, the Holy Roman Empire. He was ennobled by the Emperor Joseph II, and received the title of Baron Aerenthal, and his descendants continued to enrich themselves by trade, and obtained fresh titles in recognition of their wealth. The first of them to render direct service to the state in return for which a title was bestowed is the new Count.

In most of the continental countries, as in England, the ranks of the nobility have at all times been largely recruited from the trading classes. The line of division was and is sharply drawn between nobles and bourgeois, but there never was a moment when a wealthy man could not step over it when he chose. The reason that all the wealthy citizens in some continental empires and kingdoms did not step over this line when real privileges were attached to noble rank is that real duties were also attached to it, and comfortable burghers did not care to be obliged to raise regiments or companies of soldiers and personally lead them into the field. When the payment of taxes could not be otherwise avoided the wealthiest merchants took the risk of war and accepted nobility, but wherever they were strong enough the trading communities made themselves "free cities" and thus obtained the greatest of the privileges of nobility, freedom from taxation, without its heaviest burden, army service.

In France, the majority of what remains of the old nobility, the nobility existing before the revolution, is descended from ennobled merchants and magistrates. Under the old regime, magisterial and civil office carried noble rank and its tax-exempting privilege with it. Nobility in France was recognized as of three kinds: nobility of the sword, nobility of the gown (the magistracy,) and nobility of aldermanship, or, municipal office. More often than not, nobility of the gown and aldermanship was not hereditary in theory, but it was hereditary in fact, for in the old days every occupation was closed to outsiders, and magistrates and aldermen took good care that their sons obtained the reversion of their offices.

It is calculated there were a hundred thousand nobles in France of the legal and trading class on August 4, 1789, the day on which the Constituent Assembly abolished every feudal privilege. Since then, nobility has had no privilege in France and every one who is descended from a man who held noble rank, or whose name resembles that of such a man, calls himself noble and generally decorates his name with a title. It is illegal under the republic for a man to change his surname, and it is also illegal for a man to bear a title he has no right to, but there is no check on self-created titles, for, given a noble name it is practically impossible to prove that the bearer of it is not a descendant of some nobleman who bore it.

In Germany, Austria, and the other countries where hereditary rank is still officially recognized, strict records are kept of the national nobility; but the use of foreign titles is not forbidden, and even in these countries it is open to any one who chooses to give himself a title. Penniless adventurers do so. All others who desire to step across the boundary line from the bourgeoisie into the nobility, and who cannot claim to be ennobled for service to the state, buy their title. If they are Roman Catholics they buy them from the Pope, if they are Protestants they buy them in Portugal, by aiding some of the financial schemes with which the government or its leading members are connected. The tariff varies with the rank, but it is not high.

The titles given by the Pope are not those of the Holy Roman Empire which was the old Austrian Empire swept away by Napoleon. The titles conferred by the Pope are "Roman" titles. That conferred on Count Aerenthal is an Austrian one, while the first received by his family were Bohemian titles, for, according to the strict heraldic law, a man might be noble in Bohemia and not in Austria. Long before his new dignity was conferred on him, the Austrian Foreign Minister was allied with the higher nobility, his wife being Countess Pauline Szechenyi.

Ashes for Coal Mine Pillers.

The use of ashes for replacing pillars in coal mines is being extensively practiced in the anthracite region in the vicinity of Scranton, Pa. At a number of large power plants in these mining regions the ashes are flushed into the vacated workings by water carried in wooden troughs, which are diverted to fill abandoned breasts or gangways. After this filling it is usually found possible to remove the pillars of coal which were left during the mining.—[Detroit News.

GROWTH OF BEER TRADE.

Average Sales Amount to Twenty-one Gallons a Head for Whole Population of United States.

[Indianapolis Star:] Practically all the alcohol sold as a drink in this country is in two main forms—distilled liquors and beer. For the last fifty years the per capita consummation of distilled liquors has been about stationary. The whisky business sells, as it did forty and fifty years ago, a little less than three quarts of pure alcohol yearly for each person in the United States.

In the same period the sale of alcohol in beer has grown from practically nothing to a quantity greater than is sold in distilled liquor. In 1860 the sale of beer in the United States was 3.22 gallons a head; in 1908 it was 21 gallons—two-thirds of a barrel. The alcohol sold in this form was a little less than a pint a head in 1860; in 1908 it was a little more than three quarts. Since 1850 the volume of this remarkable new industry has increased fifty times; it is eighteen times larger than it was in 1860. This growth of the American beer trade has constituted one of the wonders of the liquor business—commented on in trade circles all over the world.

The capital invested in it is over ten times that invested in distilleries, and the value of its produce two and a half times as great.

But the demand for this new drink is not evenly distributed across the country. It is limited very largely to about a quarter of the population—the residents of cities. Four-fifths of the 55,000,000 barrels of beer made in the United States is consumed in cities, and at least three-fourths of it by the population of cities themselves. The brewing trade statistics show that every man, woman and child in cities of over 25,000 can safely be credited

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

CONSUMPTION WAS HIGHEST.

September Addition to the Stocks Small.

Production Larger, Moving the Problem.

Fewer Wells Added and Less New Development.

Final figures show that the storage of California petroleum above ground up to October 1 had increased only 2,004,912 barrels since January 1. Should the next three months show no greater proportion than this the year's final addition to the storage will be only about 2,800,000, instead of 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 expected in the spring. October's accumulation has been comparatively small. It is too soon to predict for November, but if the transportation facilities were adequate at Kern and Coalinga the situation would be greatly changed.

The actual increase in stocks was 301,111 barrels in thirty days, against an increase of 507,251 for thirty-one days in August; September daily increase, 10,037, August's, 16,366, decline in daily surplus, 6329. In May the increase was at the rate of 22,000 a day, the highest figure of the year.

This small increase of stocks is in the face of a substantial gain in output. The total for September was 4,960,450 barrels, daily average, 165,348; for August, 4,834,700; daily average, 155,978; daily increase 10,370 barrels.

Consumption was very large, about the highest record to date 4,659,339 barrels for thirty days, daily average 155,311. August's consumption was the lowest of the year only 4,327,349; daily average 139,592, making September's increase 332,101, a daily average growth of 15,719.

The totals of production are higher than earlier figures indicated. The gain over August was general. Practically every district increased its daily average and many enhanced their month's total with one day less to yield.

The total number of producing wells in the State was increased by sixty-two, but the number completed in the month was thirty-three less than in August while there were six less strings drilling and nineteen less new rigs erected.

The State's total for nine months of 1909 reached 42,195,950 barrels; daily average 159,726 for 273 days. If September's rate be maintained for three months the State's total for 1909 will be 57,235,960 barrels, an increase of about 9,000,000 over 1908's highest figures, and nearly 12,000,000 more than the United States Geological Survey's statistics for last year. No other State is likely to be within 10,000,000 barrels of this amount, and Russia alone can possibly approach it.

The increase in producing wells at the end of September as compared with August in the various fields was as follows: Kern River, 30; McKittrick, 20; Midway, 16; Sunset, 0; Coalinga, 10; Watsonville-Sargents, 0; Arroyo Grande, 0; Lompoc-Santa Maria, 5 less; Summerland, 0; Santa Paula-Newhall, 15; Newhall (Standard,) 7 less; Salt Lake-Sherman, 5; Los Angeles city, 0; Whittier-Coyotes, 0; Puente, 0; Fullerton-Brea Cañon, 0.

The following table shows the data in detail:

FRANCIS JAWBONE.

CAN HENEY WIN BY CAMPAIGN OF VICIOUS BLATHERSKITING?

Last Week of the Municipal Contest in San Francisco Leaves Situation in Doubt; But Republican Figurers Are Confident—Obvious Game of Heney Is Attempt to Capture Labor Union Vote.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—The festivities attending Portola week produced a total eclipse of the politicians and local politics. Indeed, the eclipse was so total that for at least ten days it even obscured Heney and his jawbones. No greater tribute than this could be paid to the all-absorbing character of the arrival and departure of Don Gaspar de Portola since a celebration capable of even casting a shadow upon the "great prosecutor" and his wonderful jaw must be ponderous and stupendous. So far as I could observe through the dust agitated by the minions of Don Gaspar and Queen Virgilia, the only politician who kept himself in evidence was Pin Head McCarthy. He has an electric sign at the corner of Market and Kearny streets which, in colored alternating letters, reads: "Now all together—P. H. McCarthy for Mayor." During the whole week this contrivance glared at the crowds which congregated around Lotta's Fountain, thus loudly testifying that, whatever the future may have in store for Pat, at least he does not propose to be ignored in the present.

This the last week of the municipal campaign, though still to some extent burdened with the effects of the Portola dissipation, is mainly interesting because of the contest for District Attorney. It is difficult, however, to get a line on the issue which will determine that battle. If blatherskiting, which outdoes all blatherskiting heretofore known anywhere, can win, Heney ought to carry the city by an overwhelming majority. He has from the beginning treated his audiences as a pack of fools, misrepresenting the facts, dodging the issues, torturing the record and ignoring the plain demands of the situation. Two years ago, in the course of more than twenty speeches for Langdon, Heney declared that no immunity had been offered to Ruef, and that any man that said it had been was a liar. Within thirty days after Langdon's election Heney himself published a contract of immunity with Ruef to which his own name was signed.

HENEY'S ANSWER.

Here was a plain falsehood nailed. Yet, notwithstanding Fickert has called on Heney a dozen times to explain this lie, the "great prosecutor" has ignored him. So also does he ignore all questions as to that fee of $42,500 from the Contra Costa Water Company. Almost nightly some one in his audiences brings up the subject. The reply of Heney invariably is that the questioner is a "paid" emmissary of Pat Calhoun.

He treats references to his government grab in the same way. Early in the campaign he charged Fickert with being in the pay of Calhoun and challenged him to a joint debate. Fickert offered to appear on the same platform with Heney, but not until the "great prosecutor" had explained how he drew $42,500 from the Contra Costa Water Company for $1000 worth of work, and $65,000 from the government for no work at all; and, in the absence of an explanation, Fickert declared that Heney was not sufficiently respectable to appear in debate with any honest man. Yet Heney ignored this point also.

Aided by Theodore A. Bell, who, since his advent here has earned among the politicians the sobriquet of "Billingsgate Bell," night after night Heney has hurled anathema at his opponents. Notwithstanding the prison room of the city is limited since the fire, he declares that if elected he will fill the jails with his opponents, convert the police force into a gumshoe brigade and prosecute every citizen who has anything to do with a public service corporation—presumably, of course, excepting any corporation in which Rudolph Spreckels, his employer, is interested.

HIS GAME.

Although this sort of blather is meaningless to a sane man, there is danger that among a certain class it is having effect. Heney makes no concealment of his purpose. By frantically denouncing Calhoun he hopes to gain the support of the labor unions. It is well known that there is still a bitter feeling among these organizations against the United Railroads Company over the disastrous street car strike of 1906, and if Heney can capitalize this feeling, he will undoubtedly draw a few votes away from Fickert. He remembers that two years ago 10,000 laborites left McGowan, the union labor candidate for District Attorney, on this issue; and the Spreckels-Phelan machine, as appears in all its work in this campaign, figures on holding some if not all of this vote on the Calhoun issue.

It is this element which makes the result doubtful. Two years ago Langdon had the Democratic, Good Government League and Republican nominations. He defeated McGowan, with the single union labor nomination, by about 10,000 votes. At that time the graft issue was acute; the people were surprised and indignant at the corruption of Ruef and Schmitz, and Heney's incompetency as a lawyer and a prosecutor was then unknown. Now Fickert has the Republican and union labor nominations as against Heney's Democratic and Good Government League indorsements; the graft issue is not now acute, and Heney's reputation as a legal and political faker is established. Manifestly, there is a difference in the situation.

Heney charges the business men of the city with favoring the suppression of the graft prosecution because it "hurts business," a statement that has made and is making for him hosts of enemies. It is evident that if he expected any support from the business men of the town he would hardly promulgate such a slander; yet it is said that even among the Jews—who as a race he insults almost every night—there are many who intend to vote for him. In the Union League Club, our stalwart Republican organization, it is not difficult to find gentlemen who say they intend voting the Good Government League ticket. George Hewlett, who is managing the Fickert campagn, on the other hand, avers that by means of a postal-card canvas he has enrolled 25,000 citizens, who have promised to vote for his candidate. This statement may, however, be merely a campaign effort intended for campaign consumption; but if it be true Fickert will certainly defeat Heney by a large majority.

SOME FIGURES.

Coming down to approximate figures, the contest for District Attorney may be cast up in this manner: Normally there are 25,000 Republican votes which may be counted for the regular candidate; there are 15,000 which may be counted for the regular Union Labor ticket; there are between 8000 and 10,000 Democrats in this city who vote their party ticket. This totals about 50,000. There are still about 15,000 citizens who vote in municipal campaigns, mostly Republicans, who shift from one side to the other, according to the issue. If Heney should capture all of these he would still be defeated. Therefore, he must not only take a large block of Fickert's regular Republican vote away from him, but he must also break into the union labor camp. The tenor of his speeches indicates that this latter is the point at which he is aiming. There is a difference of opinion as to whether in this connection Heney is doing good or bad politics. His demagogy is exasperating and contemptible. I do not think, in view of his record as a prosecutor that it can succeed. Still, it may.

There is, however, one point that is not escaping public attention. As a matter of self-defense, the responsible portion of the population of San Francisco feel that Heney must be defeated at all hazards, since if he is elected thousands of our fellow-citizens will have to go to jail. He solemnly declares in every speech he makes that nothing will prevent the incarceration of most of those who oppose him politically, all of the editors who have failed to support him, and—I presume without violence—nearly all of the citizens who vote against him. This is an appalling prospect; yet it is not without hope. As Heney has never yet succeeded in permanently putting anybody in jail, there is a chance that even if he is elected some of us may escape.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

CONSUMPTION WAS HIGHEST.

September Addition to the Stocks Small.

Production Larger, Moving the Problem.

Fewer Wells Added and Less New Development.

Final figures show that the storage of California petroleum above ground up to October 1 had increased only 2,094,913 barrels since January 1. Should the next three months show no greater proportion than this the year's final addition to the storage will be only about 2,800,000, instead of 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 expected in the spring. October's accumulation has been comparatively small. It is too soon to predict for November, but if the transportation facilities were adequate at Kern and Coalinga the situation would be greatly changed.

The actual increase in stocks was 301,111 barrels in thirty days, against an increase of 507,351 for thirty-one days in August; September daily increase, 10,037, August's, 16,366, decline in daily surplus, 6329. In May the increase was at the rate of 22,000 a day, the highest figure of the year.

This small increase of stocks is in the face of a substantial gain in output. The total for September was 4,990,450 barrels, daily average, 166,348; for August, 4,834,700; daily average, 155,978; daily increase 10,370 barrels.

Consumption was very large, about the highest record to date 4,689,339 barrels for thirty days, daily average 156,311. August's consumption was the lowest of the year only 4,337,349; daily average 139,892, making September's increase 652,101, a daily average growth of 16,719.

The totals of production are higher than earlier figures indicated. The gain over August was general. Practically every district increased its daily average and many enhanced their month's total with one day less to yield.

The total number of producing wells in the State was increased by sixty-two, but the number completed in the month was thirty-three less than in August while there were six less strings drilling and nineteen less new rigs erected.

The State's total for nine months of 1909 reached 42,195,950 barrels; daily average 159,725 for 273 days. If September's rate be maintained for three months the State's total for 1909 will be 57,335,960 barrels, an increase of about 9,000,000 over 1908's highest figures, and nearly 12,000,000 more than the United States Geological Survey's statistics for last year. No other State is likely to be within 10,000,000 barrels of this amount, and Russia alone can possibly approach it.

The increase in producing wells at the end of September as compared with August in the various fields was as follows: Kern River, 20; McKittrick, 20; Midway, 16; Sunset, 0; Coalinga, 10; Watsonville-Sargents, 0; Arroyo Grande, 0; Lompoc-Santa Maria, 5 less; Summerland, 0; Santa Paula-Newhall, 15; Newhall (Standard,) 7 less; Salt Lake-Sherman, 5; Los Angeles city, 0; Whittier-Coyotes, 0; Puente, 0; Fullerton-Brea Cañon, 6.

APPEALS TO TOURISTS

Easterners Delighted With the Many Advantages of Mt. Washington.

The view from Mt. Washington creates a strong and lasting impression on the many tourists who have recently visited the high district. When they realize that all the wonderful scenic features of this country—mountains, hills, valleys and ocean, may be seen from Mt. Washington in one sweeping glance, they are solidly captivated.

The Mt. Washington Hotel will be open for business about December 15th.

The L. A. & Mt. Washington Ry. Co. did a heavy business last Sunday.

Plans are now under way for the erection of several fine residences.

Let the rains come—Mt. Washington is perfectly drained—and free from mud.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Mt. Washington

Sightly villa lots from 75x150 to two and three acres.

Rich, "responsive" soil. Fine opportunities for the amateur or professional florist and gardener.

Pure water developed on the property from the company's own plant is piped to each lot.

Magnificent boulevard and parkway system.

Desirable building restrictions.

Fifty miles of mountain ranges, three great valleys, a half dozen cities and the ocean, are visible from Mt. Washington.

The coming "show place" of Los Angeles.

Requests for maps and price lists will receive prompt attention. Send postal card with name and address, or call at office of Robert Marsh & Co., general agents for Mt. Washington, No. 140 W. 5th St., Security Bldg.

WILL BUILD FINE HOME.

Dr. Carl C. Warden Will Build Beautiful Residence on Riverside Drive.

Dr. Carl C. Warden, a prominent Los Angeles specialist, has practically completed plans for the building of a beautiful residence on Riverside Drive. This is one of the finest building sites on Mt. Washington. It overlooks the entire San Fernando Valley and commands a magnificent view of the ocean. The residence will be two stories, and will cost about $5000.

No Speculation.

Mt. Washington is purely a homebuilder's proposition. The speculative element has been entirely eliminated from this beautiful subdivision. Those who are buying today are buying with the sole idea of building a cosy nest on this lofty spot and enjoying its charming privileges to the full.

MOUNTAIN PEAKS.

—Absolute freedom from fog, dust, smoke and noise.

—Ideal villa lots from 75x150 to two and three acres.

—Destined to become as famous as Mount Lowe, Catalina and other noted points of interest.

50 MEN AT WORK ON GAS MAINS

L. A. Gas and Electric Co. Rushing the Work to Completion.

The big task of establishing gas mains on lofty Mt. Washington is being vigorously prosecuted by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. A force of fifty men are now at work and it is expected that everything will be completed within a week. The fact that the big public utility companies have so quickly responded to the needs of Mt. Washington proves that the property has been recognized as having more than ordinary merit.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

CONSUMPTION WAS HIGHEST.

September Addition to the Stocks Small.

Production Larger, Moving the Problem.

Fewer Wells Added and Less New Development.

Final figures show that the storage of California petroleum above ground up to October 1 had increased only 2,604,853 barrels since January 1. Should the next three months show no greater proportion than this the year's final addition to the storage will be only about 2,800,000, instead of 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 expected in the spring. October's accumulation has been comparatively small. It is too soon to predict for November, but if the transportation facilities were adequate at Kern and Coalinga the situation would be greatly changed.

The actual increase in stocks was [illegible] barrels in thirty days, against an increase of 507,351 for thirty-one days in August; September daily increase, 10,037, August's, 16,366, decline in daily surplus, 6329. In May the increase was at the rate of 22,000 a day, the highest figure of the year.

This small increase of stocks is in the face of a substantial gain in output. The total for September was 4,900,450 barrels, daily average, 166,345; for August, 4,834,700; daily average, 155,975; daily increase 10,370 barrels.

Consumption was very large, about the highest record to date 4,689,339 barrels for thirty days, daily average 156,311. August's consumption was the lowest of the year only 4,327,349; daily average 139,592, making September's increase 362,101, a daily average growth of 16,719.

The totals of production are higher than earlier figures indicated. The gain over August was general. Practically every district increased its daily average and many enhanced their month's total with one day less to [illegible].

The total number of producing wells in the State was increased by sixty-[illegible], but the number completed in the month was thirty-three less than in August while there were six less rigs drilling and nineteen less new [illegible] erected.

The State's total for nine months of 1909 reached 42,135,950 barrels; daily average 153,736 for 273 days. If September's rate be maintained for three months the State's total for 1909 will be [illegible] barrels, an increase of about 1,000,000 over 1908's highest figure, and nearly 12,000,000 more than the United States Geological Survey's statistics for last year. No other State is likely to be within 10,000,000 barrels of this amount, and Russia alone can possibly approach it.

The increase in producing wells at the end of September as compared with August in the various fields was as follows: Kern River, 20; McKittrick, [illegible]; Midway, 16; Sunset, 0; Coalinga, [illegible]; Watsonville-Sargents, 0; Arroyo Grande, 0; Lompoc-Santa Maria, 5; Summerland, 0; Santa Paula-Newhall, 15; Newhall (Standard,) 7; Salt Lake-Sherman, 5; Los Angeles city, 0; Whittier-Coyotes, 0; Puente, 0; Fullerton-Brea Cañon, 0.

TONOPAH.

UP-TO-DATE MILL CONTEMPLATED.

TONOPAH MAY GET HOME PLANT FOR LOW-GRADE.

United Water Company Considering Its Erection as It Has Lots of Spare Water and Investment Should Pay Well—Belmont Has a Mysterious Strike.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

TONOPAH, Oct. 29.—A project which will mean a great deal to the future of Tonopah is being considered by a number of local mining people, and an ultimate decision will doubtless be reached before a great length of time has passed. The proposition is the cause of the present visit of Col. E. G. Wheeler, president of the United Water Company, with headquarters in Philadelphia. It is to build a mill in Tonopah, with such modern methods that exceedingly low grade ore can be worked with a handsome profit. If the plant is installed, there are quite a number of dumps which will yield an enormous tonnage for milling.

"I have conferred with quite a number of mining men," said Mr. Wheeler, "and all say such a plant in Tonopah would save or regain no small sum by the treating of low-grade ores. Before leaving the East, I conferred with men of large means, and all were ready to advance financial aid for the project which promises such big returns.

"The proposition will call for numerous examinations of mines and dumps in the district. The main factor in the milling industry of Southern Nevada, and particularly in Tonopah, of the present day, is the water supply.

"We have a capacity of 800,000 gallons daily; consumption is only 100,000. The use will be increased with the starting of the Extension mill, but it will in no way prove a bar to the building of additional mills. The mine operators would save a handsome sum through our mill by not having to pay transportation charges."

Walter Lamb has been in Manhattan for the past week erecting the machinery on his leases on the Union No. 9 and the Little Grey. Mr. Lamb has had a force at work at the Cañon mill this week, and he states that preparations are being made to start the plant immediately. The mill's water supply has been improved by a new engine and pump at the company's well. Several ore contracts from leasers have been secured, and the mill will be temporarily run on custom ores.

BELMONT'S STRIKE.

Some unusual and highly satisfactory development has taken place on the Belmont's lower levels is admitted by Director Cal Brougher of San Francisco, who has been here in close consultation with Manager S. H. Brady. It is said that a rich streak has been opened in the 1100 level, but beyond that rumor it is impossible to go. Good headway is being made with the Crane washer and picking belt, all the heavy timbers being in place. The machinery was shipped from Denver last week and should be in operation within five weeks. It is expected that this addition will save much in ore handling. The company has had considerable trouble with swelling ground and once during the week the huge three-compartment shaft stuck at the half-way point. Before the engineer realized what had happened he allowed several coils of cable to descend into the cage, but fortunately there was no one aboard. Then when the engineer started to take in his slack two of the guides were pulled out, necessitating a day's suspension for repairs.

IN THE TONOPAH.

The most notable change in the Tonopah was in the north crosscut in the west drift from the Red Plume shaft, where, at a point seventy feet in from the drift and about 100 feet northwest from the shaft, a body of ore was encountered showing a width of four feet and carrying good milling values, the full extent of which will not be known until prospected and opened. In several parts of the mine promising stringers and veins are being opened and followed in the hope of encountering commercial values. Regarding the older workings there is nothing to say, the tonnage that is sent to the 100-stamp mill telling what is going on.

The partial result of the first half of this month's production was sent out last Wednesday to Selby's, being the result of semi-monthly melt of the cyanide precipitates, the shipment amounting to twenty-four bars of gold and silver bullion, or nearly a ton of the precious metal. To these shipments of bullion twice a month must be added the returns from the concentrates, of which there are from 100 to 150 tons sent out every month, making in all a most satisfactory production and one of sufficient profit to add a nice lump to the treasury, now that all indebtedness is wiped off the books. The mill continues to do excellent work and the forty stamps are dropping constantly on ore from their own mine, crushing weekly from 900 to 1000 tons. In the prospecting work the Montana has been successful in finding parallel veins to those already opened and the development of which has yielded a good portion of the ore sent to the mill, besides blocking considerable ground for stoping purposes.

ELLENDALE'S FALL.

The second shipment of ore from Ellendale was received and forwarded to the smelter without going through the local sampler. It is admitted that this lot is not as rich as the first shipment, which netted $30,000 for a six-horse load, but it is claimed by the owners that the rock will bring in $25,000 for two ten-horse loads, which is satisfactory if the showing can be maintained. There is no sign of a revival of interest in the youngest camp in this section, as most of the leasers have quit their blocks and gone elsewhere.

WANTS REAL RESTRAINT.

Local Tradesman Would Contribute a Part of Fund to Prosecute Auto Speeders.

Fearing daily menace to his life and lacking confidence in the administrators of the law in Los Angeles, H. L. Simmonds, an antique dealer at No. 1948 South Grand avenue, proposes to be the first member of an organization to stop reckless automobile speeding.

"I will gladly start a citizens' fund with $20," said Mr. Simmonds yesterday, "and will contribute the same amount yearly just to see that the danger from reckless drivers, no matter who they are, is reduced to the minimum. Just now I am in fear of my life to venture on the streets because of the heedless way in which motor cars are driven. They are in charge of racing chauffeurs or mere children and I have seen many instances where it was not the action of the drivers that prevented injury or death.

"Among my customers are many who own autos. Many of them agree with me that the danger is great and deplore it. They even feel their own danger when in the streets and would like to see reckless driving and high speeding cease.

"My son has a motor, and uses it, but if he is guilty of the gross negligence that I have many times lately witnessed I want him punished without favor.

"The dismissal of dangerous transgressors with small fines is a travesty and the police do not seem to be effectual. I would have 1000 citizens join me in an organization that would employ men and means to wage war on crazy speeding."

Mr. Simmonds makes annual trips to England and returned from one last month. He says recklessness of the kind visible everywhere here would not be permitted there and that the driving is with real care for the rights of pedestrians and other vehicles.

FAITH.

HARTMAN IS BRAVE PIONEER.

NATIVE ENTERPRISE HAS GREAT FUTURE, HE SAYS.

Realism the Coming Factor in Musical Plays, According to His Argument, With the Acme of Art in a Lifelike Combination of Humor and Pathos.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Ferris Hartman is going to have a new theater. He says so himself.

Just where, or exactly when, he does not say.

The other afternoon, in his little upstairs office at the Grand Operahouse, we were discussing ways and means—the entirely independable way of public taste, and the sometimes limited means of managers to properly meet that taste.

"I believe in Los Angeles," said Hartman, "to the extent that I believe Los Angeles believes, and will continue to believe, in me.

"But, as Joe Weber says, 'let me hurry to 'explanation it.' I don't mean that I want them to believe so much in my personal endeavors, or the exact week-by-week production, as in my determination to give the town a musical stock company, and to maintain here a light-opera repertoire of the highest standard.

"I am pretty sure I have a theater coming. I have people interested. I am considering several good locations. When I get a theater I can make productions more elaborate. I can have more art put into costuming. I can get better results generally."

Mr. Hartman is a brave pioneer, and absolutely the only unselfish man I ever knew to embark on musical-comedy seas.

Hartman is a fanatic, if you like—at any rate, a man obsessed by one idea: to maintain his company, to hold it, to devote everything but his living to that company, to keep it in shape for the eventual big city that is now marching down the corridor of the future right in our direction.

"We have shortcomings," says he, "but are endeavoring to form the nucleus of future greatness. The testimonial of public appreciation that we have received so far this season is the best indication of our advance in the quality of productions, and likewise our brightest hope for the future."

While in the East a year ago I visited a number of cities, in some of which there were musical stock companies, or organizations alleged to be musical stock companies. I saw none comparing with Hartman's, either in general efficiency or usual smoothness of performance.

Therefore I assert, and without much fear of contradiction, that Hartman has the best organization of its kind in the country today.

Last year Mr. Hartman was handicapped by a lack of pieces. This season he has overcome that handicap, and has the best repertoire open for stock purposes.

All things really distinctive and worth while are one-man enterprises. By that I mean that they feel the characterizing, dominating influence of one man, at least. Hartman's company is distinctive and original. It is unique. It is Hartman.

Hartman is the nicest comedian I ever met. Most comedians, when they have attained the reputation and experience of our subject, usually retire turtle-like within themselves, and of them their associates speak only evil.

The average well-known comedian, off-stage, is apt to be one of three things: a distinctly superior being, a grouch, or a person of such eccentric conduct that he is open to the charge of perpetually acting. The comedy star is indeed a star to his company, twinkling afar, retiring to his summer home at the end of the season, condescending to consult with his managers late in the summer, and rowing with resident property men, electricians and orchestra leaders through the dreary winter.

Mr. Hartman, however, is a sort of father-confessor to his organization. The Hartman company is a family affair, and when I say that I'm not indicating Mrs. Josie Hart-Hartman, nor brother-in-law Walter de Leon, nor cute little sister-in-law Muggins Davies—but rather an organization knit closely together by the bonds of kindly companionship.

Some of our ethical lecturers, you know, find the horror unspeakable, morally concerned, to be a musical playhouse.

Just for their own edification, I wish that some of these had cognizance of the Hartman system. If any over-bold mash-notes ever got across those footlights it is because somebody forgot to watch. Not that the actor-manager makes a round of stern parental chaperonage each day—not at all! But it is understood that all people who enter his company are, primarily, ladies and gentlemen, attending to the business of acting in a businesslike way, and not lingering in the glare of the festive spot because of some constant and profitable attendant on the other side of the orchestra.

This is the sort of thing that makes the average musical company an absolutely impossible herd when artistic representations are attempted. You may get a coterie of bald-heads when the ponies and the show-girls have "friends in front," but you won't get good results on the stage. At least, this is Hartman's theory, and it is a pretty sound one.

"I'm glad to see that the form of light musical entertainment is changing from absurdity to realism," said he, after we had discussed many other things for and against.

"It is now possible for a musical comedian to be a human being, wear honest-to-life clothes and express some semblance of sanity in his lines.

"You know the old recipe for comic opera was always the same—a desert isle or a tropical isle; a cannibal king, a doddering prime minister, a stranded naval lieutenant, a cranky maiden aunt with a parrot, natives galore in fez or fuzz, the timely crew of civilized sailors, and of course a 'beauchus creechure' whose principal duty it was to warble and fall into the lieutenant's arms at the critical, climactic moment.

"Now, isn't it a wonder that reality never suggested itself as having humorous possibilities to those old-style comic-opera makers? Nowadays we build our musical pieces on a street, in a store, in an office, at a summer resort—at any rate, somewhere that's real, with a subject that is at least possible and contemporaneous, and with action such as human beings have occasionally been known to indulge in.

"Furthermore, reality is getting pretty close to art in some cases. In 'The Girl from Kay's' Sam Bernard played 'Piggy' Hoggenheimer, a character with a touch of something other than mere burlesque humor about him.

"In Europe recently I saw 'Der Rastelbinder,' in which the chief character is a quaint, realistic old Jew—not only humorous, but pathetic—and there you have the ideal possibility, for humor and pathos combined offer the mightiest possibilities to any actor of any description."

THE LOCAL WEEK.

This week at the Auditorium the Shuberts will present "The Ringmaster," but a few weeks from the Theater Maxine Elliott, New York. The play is by Miss Olive Porter, a young woman with literary tendencies, who for some time was employed in the capacity of secretary by a leading Broadway brokerage firm. Here she gathered the material for "The Ringmaster." The play was tried out by a stock company at the Bijou Theater, Brooklyn, and was immediately transferred to New York.

The story deals with the financial battle raged between one Hillary, who is designated as the Ringmaster, and one Le Baron, a good-natured but idle young chap who is in love with his daughter. The daughter refuses La Baron, but persuades him to enter business. He does so, and is presently asked to join forces with Hillary in putting through a gigantic deal. Le Baron discovers that Hillary's methods are dishonest, and refuses to have anything to do with the matter. Hillary agrees to stop, and takes passage for Europe on a liner, while Le Baron goes a-voyaging on his own yacht with some friends. A message from Hillary to his associates in New York, picked up by accident on Le Baron's wireless instrument, reveals the true state of affairs, and the battle is on.

In the end right triumphs—and the fellow "gets the girl." A company of worth is promised.

"Fifty Miles from Boston," George M. Cohan's comedy, will be presented, for the first time in Los Angeles, at Hamburger's Majestic Theater tonight, and with Wednesday and Saturday matinées.

The cast will be headed by Grace King, who played Sadie Woodis all last season in the eastern company.

Among the support are Edward O'Connor, for the past two seasons with the Rogers Brothers; Frank Buoman and Dan Bruce, both members of the original company; Laura Bennett, Richard Bartlett, James B. Gentry, Ben Bloom, Edwin Belden, Bobby Wagner—the fat boy—Flossie Martin, May Maurice, Helen Young and Chester Young.

The scenes are laid in the little town of Brookfield, Mass., about fifty miles from Boston, and as Mr. Cohan has spent a number of summers there, he knows whereof he writes.

The play concerns itself with the trials and triumphs of the demure little postmistress, who is also the village beauty, and who falls in love with the hero of the Harvard baseball club. The entire village immediately takes a hand in the game, and it looks for awhile as if poor Cupid and the postmistress would come out losers. The usual rivalry for the postmistress' favor furnishes screamingly funny situations and brings in all the village characters, from the shy little postmistress herself, and the complacent owner of the solitary village department store, to the haughty heiress, who went to school in Boston.

The Belasco company will give the first performance in the West, Monday night, of "The Regeneration," Owen Kildare's play of New York East Side life.

In the Belasco production Lewis S. Stone will have the role of Owen Conway, the part that was created by Mr. Daly. Conway is the leader of a band of ruffians and he also tries his hand at Tammany politics. Introduced early in the play are a crowd of sightseers, and a young slum worker and schoolteacher, Marie Deering by name. The story of the play centers around the efforts of this teacher to further the education and moral salvation of Conway, and while the termination of the drama may not be exactly what every playgoer might wish, it is the logical end of such a story.

Thais Magrane will have the role of Marie Deering, the young school teacher, and Frank Camp will have an opportunity to distinguish himself in the part of Skinny, typical member of an East Side gang.

"Brown of Harvard," one of the most recent of a long list of college plays, will be presented at the Burbank during the week beginning this afternoon. The piece was written by Rida Johnson Young.

Like most plays of college life, athletics are much to the fore in "Brown of Harvard." In "Strongheart" and in "The College Widow," football entered into the plots. In "Brown of Harvard," it is rowing. One scene of the play shows the Harvard boat clubhouse on the day of a big international race, when Brown, in the face of all sorts of discouragements, strokes the crimson eight to victory.

The play, however, concerns itself chiefly with the love story of Tom Brown and Evelyn Kenyon, a romance that refuses to run smoothly until the very last, when the rascality of Miss Kenyon's brother is found to be responsible for all of the trouble into which Brown has been plunged in his efforts to extricate the boy from his difficulties.

The cast is a long one, numbering no fewer than twenty-eight speaking parts, in addition to many extra players representing college boys and "visiting" girls.

A. Byron Beasley will be seen as Brown, and Miss Blanche Hall as Evelyn Kenyon, the character played in who will have important parts in this week's productions. An especially interesting figure should be Lewis Stone, at the Belasco, in the Arnold Daly role in "The Regeneration."

New York by that clever Californian, Laura Hope Crews.

James Young, last season leading man with Viola Allen, will be the Orpheum headliner this week. Mr. Young's vehicle is called "Wanted—a Sister," and is by the author of "Brown of Harvard." A little company supports Mr. Young, with Lorayne Osborne as his leading woman.

Mary Norman will return in a series of impersonations, "Some Women I Have Met." Several of her new types are quite original, among them the emotional actress, a lovely weepy heroine before the curtain—and whiny and disagreeable "back." Another is the stage villianess, a kind and motherly being with directly opposite qualities.

Commencing with the matinée this afternoon, Ferris Hartman will present at the Grand the first production in this city by a stock organization of James T. Power's recent "The Blue Moon." The opening Sunday will also serve to introduce Miss Dorothy Morton, who will sing the leading role of Chandra Nil.

The story tells of the efforts of Private Taylor of the Royal Musservemuggers to be regarded as a hero, which his arrant cowardice makes difficult for him to do. His various adventures all have ludicrous terminations, but he is finally successful in winning the hand of Millicent Leroy, a serving maid, and convincing her of his bravery. The plot centers upon Chandra Nil, a singing girl, who, under the care of her foster father, Mooli raj, is betrothed to an Indian Prince, but who is in love with Lieut. Jack Ormsby. The course of true love meets with the usual obstacles and setbacks, but is finally smoothed over through the efforts of the valiant Private Taylor, who wins promotion thereby.

Mr. Hartman as Private Taylor and Miss Morton as Chandra Nil will be ably assisted by Tenor Oscar Walch as Lieut. Ormsby, by Walter DeLeon as Bobbie Scott, a young journalist; by Walter Catlett as Mooiraj, an idol maker, juggler and marriage broker; by Josie Hart as Lady Angela Brabasham, and by "Muggins" Davies as Millicent, dashing little serving maid.

The new bill opening at the Los Angeles Theater has a most inviting appearance.

The "Merry McGregors" are offering a Scotch singing act, "A Breeze from Bonny Scotland," in which they have scored all over the Sullivan and Considine circuit. The company is composed of Miss Terese Baldwin, Palmer Hines, Bruce Smith, Will Rothacker and Will Herman, and special scenery is carried for its presentation.

Alda Woolcott and her company will also appear on the new bill in their one-act farce, "A Fisherman's Luck," and Buckley's trained dogs will be another feature. Fay Carranza, "The Spanish Nightingale," will appear. Concluding the bill will be the three LaDarros in their ladder equilibristic act, and Pritzkow and Blanchard in a character singing, yodling and comedy skit entitled "A Mixed Affair."

The Mason Operahouse will be occupied by local attractions this week, following which will come George Broadhurst's "The Man of the Hour," with a company including Felix Haney.

The Cohans—all of them—will be due Thanksgiving week, in the Yankee Doodle comedian's latest vehicle for personal use, "The Yankee Prince." A big production is promised.

In the Spotlight.

"The Harvest Moon," by Augustus Thomas, is to have its first production at Atlantic City.

William Gillette, who wrote "Held By the Enemy" and "Secret Service," is writing another play on the Civil War.

"The Earth," James Bernard Fagan's play, is to have its first American production early next month in Chicago.

The object of Henry Miller's angry denunciation of bad manners in the theater during a performance of "The Great Divide" in London last week was Lady Paget, the American wife of Gen. Sir Arthur Paget.

Clyde Fitch died intestate, and his property in New York and Connecticut will go to his heir-at-law, his father, Capt. William Fitch of Hartford, Ct. The size of the fortune has been variously estimated.

The title of Miss Mary Mannering's new play by Rachel Crothers is to be changed from "Kiddie" to "A Man's World." The original title was that of the story from which the play is taken.

Annie Russell has forsaken the stage temporarily to become an editor. She has joined the staff of the Ladies' Home Journal in Philadelphia, and will conduct a theatrical department in a publication which tells us how to plant seeds, sew on buttons and abstain from drink

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

By Julian Johnson

The Municipal Band, under the direction of Harley Hamilton, will become a verity on Thursday afternoon of this week. Good luck to it and to its leader!

The first group of programmes will be given in Central Park, and the opening programme includes Sousa's "Gladiator" march, excerpts from "Faust," Penn's "Valse Carissimee," the sextette from "Lucia," Suppe's "Die Frau Meisterin" overture, Pryor's "After Sunset" intermezzo, Nesvadba's paraphrase on "The Loreley," Depret's "Souvenir of April" waltz, and Watson's "Morris Dance," concluding with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The second programme will be given in the same place next Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Von Stein is going ahead with his conservatory plans, having purchased during the past week, for $20,000, the property at the corner of Seventeenth and Georgia streets.

When Mr. Von Stein announced his plans for a large new conservatory, several months ago, there were many doubters. However, work on a three-story college building will commence within a few weeks, and the enlarged school hopes to be installed in its new quarters by the beginning of summer.

Among his heads of departments will be Wenzel Kopta, professor of violin; Alfredo Wyld-Vitrel, a Spanish piano virtuoso, and Miss Juliet Von Stein, an excellent player and a teacher with a large following.

Archibald Sessions's seventy-sixth organ recital—the first of this year's Christ Church series—will be given at that church on Wednesday evening. Harry Clifford Lott will assist.

Mr. Sessions will play Rheinberger's Op. 65 Fantasia-Sonata, Bairstow's "Evening Song," a Callaerts intermezzo, two impromptus and the fugue in D minor by Bach, and the Caesar Franck B-flat Finale.

Mr. Lott will sing the five Biblical songs of Dvorak.

Sousa will take his farewell of Southern California, for this tour, at Long Beach today. In the pier auditorium he will give matinée and evening programmes of fine caliber, employing all his soloists.

Bruce Gordon Kingsley will commence his series of organ lecture-recitals at the Auditorium, Friday afternoon, November 12.

On Tuesday evening, November 23, Bertha Hirsch Baruch will give her lecture on "The Ministry of Music" at Simpson Auditorium.

Mrs. Baruch is well known in the fields of lecturing and essayistic literature throughout the West, and her new topic has been handled in a vitally interesting manner.

She will be assisted by Mme. Bertha Vaughan, soprano, and William Edson Strobridge, pianist.

At the Auditorium on Monday evening, November 8, Ellen Beach Yaw will be heard in recital, assisted by Jay Plowe, flutist, and Mrs. T. Newman, pianist.

Immediately after this recital Miss Yaw will leave for an extended southwestern tour.

Season ticket sales for the Philharmonic course and the symphony season are progressing very satisfactorily. The symphony work here is of really remarkable caliber, and is unequaled, for resources, anywhere in the world. Eastern orchestras—in the few places where they are fortunate enough to maintain them—are not attempted on less than a subsidy of $50,000 to $100,000 for each institution, whereas here we do practically the same work on a ticket-sale guarantee alone.

Dr. Ludwig Wullner, who is shortly to give a lecture-recital here, gave his first recital in New York for this season about a week ago, and scored the same large and one might almost say sensational success as attended his last year's efforts.

HAPPIER ON TWO A DAY.

Caruso Says His Present Celebrity and the Demands Upon His Time Restrict His Liberty.

Does greatness as a singer make for happiness?

The world's greatest tenor says not. Not even his enormous earnings and the savor of his audiences' enthusiasm in his incomparable voice can compensate Enrico Caruso for the penalties that fame attaches to itself and for the nervous strain that his work implies. At any rate, that is Caruso's own statement of his feelings in the matter.

"People, I suppose, think I am the happiest man on earth with all my successes and large earnings," said the singer in a recent interview. "To tell you the real honest truth, I was much happier when I was a nobody earning $2 a day. Now I have no liberty at all. My smallest action is criticised, every word commented upon. Even my private affairs are made public. When I had my operation I was pestered night and day with reporters and because I refused to disclose details which I considered absolutely personal, the press in general spoke so malignantly about it that serious business complications might have followed had I not recovered as quickly as I did. Because I am a celebrated tenor have I not the right to have the feelings of an ordinary man? What did I care at the time for the curiosity of the world when my whole career was at stake?

"Often advertisers use my name to boom their goods. All sorts of stories are invented about me, some of these causing me any amount of trouble. Lately I have even been made fun of for dressing in a light colored suit at the seaside and for wearing a brown evening suit. I like colors, that is all.

"Do you know that before each public appearance I spend a sleepless night and long hours of indescribable moral pain? I have never been able to get familiar with the public, every time is for me as a début. At my last concert at Manchester a few days ago I fainted immediately after my last song.

"In my dressing-room at the Metropolitan, New York, when waiting for my call, I tremble like a child frightened by a ghost. Only when I am actually on the stage do I succeed in pulling myself together. The thousands of eager eyes and opera glasses fixed on me have the same effect on me as a red rag on a bull. I feel the challenge of the audience and attack the first notes in a fighting mood until the music holds me and I feel my part; yet all the time I am possessed with the fear that my voice may fail.

"The memory of Naudin, the tenor, who after such an experience at the San Carlo, Naples, years ago, shot himself in his dressing-room, haunts me always, and every minute on the stage counts as a year of my life.

"Lately an Italian Socialist paper attacked me fiercely, on account of the large fees I draw. Could they only understand my task they would know every cent I get is deservedly earned.

"No, people ought not to grudge me my success. Through my own energy and pluck I have worked up from the lowest rung of the ladder, and it has not been an easy matter.

"Now I am delighted with my contract for another three years in the States. I like America and the Americans, and although well satisfied with my European tour I am looking forward to sailing for New York on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

COMING EVENTS.

MISS ETHEL FRASER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Fraser of Ocean Park, announcement of whose engagement to Edward Prentiss of Denver, was one of the recent social sensations, has been much feted. One delightful affair planned in her honor will be the large bridge party, to be given the afternoon of Thursday by Mrs. Walter Pomeroy Eaton of the Cambria Union apartments. About forty-five guests have been invited and the hostess will be assisted by her sister, Mrs. Emil Ducommun, Mrs. Charles E. Groesbeck and Miss Grace Carr. The card tables will be placed in the ball-room, which will be attractive with chrysanthemums and potted plants.

Another affair for Miss Fraser will be the dinner party to be given by Mrs. Groesbeck and Mrs. Ben Hunter after the arrival of Mr. Prentiss from Denver.

Eastern Trip Ends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse F. Waterman have returned from an extended trip through Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Washington and other places of interest. Mrs. Waterman will be at home to friends on Thursdays.

Engagement Announcement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Emily Paulsen, daughter of Mrs. John Paulsen of No. 1355 Walnut street, to Alroy Farmer. The wedding will be solemnized next month.

To Receive.

Mrs. J. Sidle Lawrence, No. 1527 Council street, will be at home to friends informally the first Sundays during the winter.

For Miss Fraser.

In honor of Miss Ethel Fraser, members of the Shirt Waist Club of Ocean Park will entertain with a breakfast at Christopher's, followed by a theater party at the Orpheum Saturday.

Winter's Fun.

Miss Carolyn Bruns of East Thirty-fifth street will be among the younger hostesses this winter. Miss Bruns's home is a meeting place for the younger crowd, and each winter she presides at most delightful affairs.

PAST EVENTS.

Lieut.-Gen. and Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee of No. 987 Magnolia avenue entertained with a dinner party recently in compliment to Mrs. James H. Van Marter of England, who has been the guest of Mrs. Henry Albers. Mrs. Van Marter is the mother-in-law of the Earl of Tankerville and is a most charming woman. Plates were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Albers, Mrs. Edith Merchant, Maj. and Mrs. H. T. Lee, Judge and Mrs. Cochran, Judge Silent and George Ennis.

Has Returned.

Miss Pearl Herndon of No. 128 Whitley avenue, Hollywood, returned yesterday from Riverside, where she assisted at a musical given by Miss Ida Trapt of No. 756 Chesnut Place.

Mrs. Hagan Hostess.

Mrs. Ralph Hagan entertained at her home on Lake street last week with two bridge parties. The first was given Wednesday and the hostess was assisted in entertaining her guests by Mrs. J. Crampton Anderson, Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, Mrs. F. W. Braun, Mrs. Charles Orville Canfield and Mrs. Dick Ferris. On Thursday Mrs. Hagan was assisted by Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mrs. E. J. Brent, Mrs. Frank Boswell, Mrs. Frank Bowles, Mrs. Ona Morton, Mrs. W. Mackie and Miss Blanche Hall. The home was enlivened with large yellow chrysanthemums. About 150 guests responded to invitations.

Mrs. Kiefer Hostess.

An enjoyable affair of last week was the tea party given by Mrs. Hugo A. Kiefer at her home, No. 2214 West Twentieth street, in honor of her guest, Mrs. Charles Hastings Davis of San Francisco. Mrs. Kiefer was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Celina Campbell, and Mrs. E. R. Bradley. In the tea-room Miss Estella Williamson and Miss Marguerite Kiefer of San Diego presided. An interesting programme of music was rendered by Mrs. Grace Hammond, Paul Kiefer, Miss Lillian Williamson and Merrel Crawford of Pasadena. The decorations were simple but attractive. In the library chrysanthemums were banked, and in the living-room the mantel was concealed with geraniums, and roses were arranged in vases. Scarlet carnations and roses adorned the dining-room.

Orvieto Club.

H. E. Myers had as guests Thursday evening members of the Orvieto Club. The home was decorated in unique designs suggestive of Halloween. The guests were Miss Maybelle Gird, Miss Elizabeth Weber, Miss Carlyn King, Miss Mildred Adams, Miss Mamie Bennett, Miss Edna Merz, Miss Inez Heaton, Miss Frances Basselman, Miss Reber Anderson, Miss Bessie Kramer, E. Gillmore, Vane P. Chase, Clarence S. Whomes, A. H. Stutsman, Jr., J. M. Hillis, E. F. Rauer, U. L. Doig, Harold M. Budd, H. E. Myers and Warren Cane.

Miss Mellus Hostess.

Miss Grace Mellus of Alvarado street entertained with a theater party, followed by tea at Hotel Alexandria. Covers were laid for Mrs. Walter Miller Clark, Mrs. Henry Carlton Lee, Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., Mrs. Marie Reed and Mrs. Law.

Whist Club.

Members of the O.T.W.W. Whist Club were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morris, No. 808 East Twenty-eighth street. The members are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Goldsborough, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Ellithrope, Dr. and Mrs. George B. Walrath, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Winter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Harrod, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Munn, Miss Ida M. Cullom and Charles D. Cullom.

Club Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ryon of West Adams Heights had as guests Friday evening members of the Friday Evening Bridge Club. Handsome prizes were awarded. Among the guests were Judge and Mrs. W. H. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Armstrong, Dr. and Mrs. Frank P. Yound, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Harbison, Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Odell, Mrs. Harry Purdon, Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Messer and Mrs. Marion Cornwall.

Home Wedding.

Saturday week a pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Swiggert of No. 728 West Forty-fifth street, when Mrs. Swiggert's sister, Mary Zach, became the bride of Edward C. Kennicott. Rev. H. G. L. Trew read the service in the presence of about fifty friends.

The bride wore a becoming gown of white embroidered messaline, made semi-princess. Her bouquet was of pink carnations and ferns. Henry Erb had charge of the music.

The young people stood for the ceremony beneath a large bell of white blossoms and greenery. Both bride and groom are well-known in this city and are extremely popular.

At the conclusion of a honeymoon trip in the Yosemite Valley, they will be at home to friends at No. 425 North Hill street.

Bride Honored.

Mrs. T. S. Milburn entertained Thursday with a luncheon at her new bungalow home, No. 456 West Forty-fifth street. About twenty guests were present and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dick Greenhow and Mrs. J. E. Nichols.

Interesting News.

Miss Mabel Gertrude Foster of Los Angeles, who is well known in college circles, for high marks obtained at Leland Stanford University, was married in Lowell, Mass., Friday, to Duncan H. Pierce of Rochester, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Tomkinson at his home in Parkview avenue. The young couple will make their home in Boston, where Mr. Pierce is engaged as a chemist. Mr. Pierce is a graduate of Rochester University. Mrs. Foster has an aunt living in Boston, Mrs. A. A. Folsom, at whose home she has been visiting for the last few weeks.

Mrs. Langdon Hostess.

Mrs. Frederick S. Langdon, No. 1800 South Flower street, was hostess, Friday, at a card party to which thirty-six guests were present.

Entertained Tuesday.

Mrs. Freeman G. Teed, No. 1312 West Forty-first Place, entertained, Tuesday, with a card party. Yellow chrysanthemums and ferns were decked in the living-room, and white flowers were arranged in the den. Potted plants and roses formed a pretty decorative scheme in the dining-room. The invited guests were Mrs. M. Silbee, Mrs. J. A. Anderson, Mrs. T. Abbott, Mrs. J. H. Blagge, Mrs. Bleecker, Mrs. T. Bryan, Mrs. M. A. Bresee, Mrs. May H. Banning, Mrs. J. H. Call, Mrs. O. H. Left Thursday.

Mrs. Bruce Hatch, No. 1848 Gramercy Place, left Thursday for La Jolla, where she will remain until December 1.

Surprise Party.

Twelve friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Clatworthy, No. 2348 West Twentieth street, gathered at their home, Wednesday last, in celebration of the fourth month of their wedding. Whist and dancing were features of the evening, and prizes were captured by Miss Eva Danziger and Dale Walker. The affair was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Clatworthy.

Whist Party.

Mrs. Fred Hutchins of No. 2916 Halldale avenue gave a whist party, Thursday afternoon, having as guests Mrs. I. R. Miller, Mrs. Burke, Mrs. W. Schurz, Mrs. G. Wiengarth, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Lockwood, Mrs. C. S. Ramsey, Mrs. H. Wanamaker, Mrs. R. Van Zandt, Mrs. E. M. Smith, Mrs. J. McEnnis, Mrs. George Lister and Mrs. Ralph C. Hamlin.

To Mexico City.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett R. Bates, who were recently married, have gone to Mexico City, where Mr. Bates, who is a mining enginer, will make his headquarters.

Luncheon and Bridge.

A luncheon and bridge party had as its hostess, Friday afternoon, Mrs. Carl Kurtz of No. 1129 South Alvarado street, the affair being the second of a series with which she is entertaining. The guests were Mrs. Matthew S. Robertson, Mrs. Henry J. Woolacott, Mrs. Charles W. Hinchcliffe, Mrs. C. T. Howland, Mrs. Frank D. Hudson, Mrs. C. E. Stoner, Mrs. Samuel Jackson Whitmore, Mrs. J. T. Lichtenberger, Mrs. George Litchenberger, Mrs. Alfred Bayer, Mrs. C. J. Kubach, Mrs. J. W. Kemp and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth.

Visits Her Father.

Mrs. C. S. Marston, wife of Lieut. Marston of the British army, who is stationed at Victoria Barracks, Vancouver, B. C., arrived at the Van Nuys during the latter part of the week. She was formerly the daughter of Col. A. G. Gassen of San Diego, and is visiting her father, who is also at the Van Nuys. Previous to her marriage, which took place just a few months ago, Mrs. Marston was well known in local social circles.

At "Old Adobe."

Miss Sally Seav of South Pasadena entertained informally at the "Old Adobe" on Garfield avenue, the historic place where Fremont signed the treaty with the Indians, Friday evening. The majority of her guests were from this city, and numbered about thirty. The house was ornamented with a profusion of roses and ferns. Refreshments were served. Music and games were enjoyed.

Emanon Club.

The Emanon Club was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. G. Close, No. 2207 West Thirtieth street. Yellow chrysanthemums and ferns were utilized in a pretty decorative scheme for the home. The first prize was won by Mrs. Rose Nettleton, and the second by Mrs. R. M. Pearson. Tables were arranged for Mmes. Burwell A Holmes, E. J. Salyer, LeRoy K. Daniels, Hugh J. Crawford, George R. Hand, A. B. Close, B. F. Kierulff and the Misses Zara Anderson, Mamie Luce, Hortense Barnhart Jones, Emmie Luentzel, Helen Bettis, Frances Bartelle and Alice Atwell.

Another Wedding.

Of interest to many Los Angeles friends was the wedding of Miss Nellie M. Curtis of Pasadena and Raymond R. Killion of this city, which was solemnized last week at the Third Presbyterian Church in the presence of a large number of guests. Rev. Herbert H. Fisher, the pastor, read the service. The bride wore a dainty gown of sheer white material and carried a bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. Miss Hazel Curtis, the bride's sister, assisted as maid of honor. Her dress was lavender cloth, with gold trimmings. She carried a bouquet of violets.

Alfred E. Kurrie stood with the groom. Little Edith Losey was flower girl. White carnations and greenery transformed the church into a pretty bower. Following the church service a reception was held in Beverly. After an absence of several weeks the young people will reside in this city.

Interesting Wedding.

Of interest to many friends in this city will be the announcement of the marriage of Miss Marie Louise Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Kate Fair Nelson and sister of Mrs. Albert Woollacott of this city, to George Kingman of Mexico City.

For the last year Miss Nelson has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Gaston

Mrs. W. W. Liddlecross, No. 955 Alvarado street, entertained members of the Thimble Club, of which she is a member, Thursday. Violets and maidenhair ferns adorned the home. The guests were Mrs. H. F. Wolfskill, Mrs. Charles Anderson, Mrs. W. F. Brown, Mrs. A. W. Fisher, Mrs. Oscar Robert, Mrs. L. H. Mitchell, Mrs. S. F. Shepard, Mrs. W. F. Cronmiller, Mrs. D. R. Mitchell, Miss Moorehead, Mrs. Renner, Mrs. R. J. Hutchison and Mrs. S. C. Langdon.

In the City.

Mrs. D. C. Jenkins, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Searcy, have moved from their home in Sierra Madre, and are located in this city at No. 3211 Sixth avenue.

Has Returned.

Miss M. M. Bennett has returned from an extended eastern trip. She was accompanied home by her niece, Miss Juanita Ballor of South Dakota, who will attend school here this winter.

Miss Foy's Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Reed of Sacramento, are guests of Miss Florence Foy of the San Rafael ranch. Mrs. Warren was formerly Miss Ethel Hall, and was a classmate of Miss Foy's at Stanford.

Pleasant Trip Planned.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Patterson left last week for an enjoyable eastern trip. While away they will visit Mrs. Patterson's brother, in Crockett, Tex., and also other cities in the South.

Matinee Party.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. H. F. Vollmer, No. 614 Coronado street, entertained with a matinée party and luncheon in honor of the Misses Edna and Gladys Letts, who returned recently from an extended tour through Europe. The afternoon was also in honor of their house guest, Miss Mildred Williams of York, Pa. Other guests were Mrs. Arthur Letts, Mrs. W. W. Mines and Miss Pauline Vollmer.

To Spend Winter.

For Miss Hoegee.

Mrs. A. N. Flinn of Finley avenue, Hollywood, charmingly entertained with a shower last week for Miss Annetta Hoegee, a bride-to-be. The home was decorated in a red, white and green color scheme. Miss Hoegee's presents were showered upon her in the garden, where the young guests gathered while the fair bride-elect unwrapped the gifts.

Week-End Party.

The prominent Angeleños who spent the week end at Hotel Virginia include Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bohn, Mrs. A. N. Kreamer and Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Tomblin.

Motor Party.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Ramsey motored to Coronado last week and registered at Hotel del Coronado.

Home Again.

Carl Stanley of Hotel Virginia, has returned from San Francisco, where he went for the Portola festival.

Have Returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Emerson of Davenport, Iowa, who spent last winter in this city, have returned and are at the Louvre. Mr. Emerson sold his handsome residence, motor car, houseboat and yacht, and with his wife, expects to reside in this city.

Halloween Party.

Miss Julia B. Alderson of Garland avenue, and her brother, Dr. Charles M. Alderson, entertained Thursday evening with a very enjoyable Hallowe'en party. The living-room was transformed into a campfire scene with ferns and chrysanthemums in profusion, where the guests gathered around the fire and, with no light save the glowing coals, listened to weird ghost stories. In the supper-room the tables were tastefully decorated, the color scheme being in white and red. Musical selections were rendered by Miss Lillian Van Vranken and dancing and games were features of the evening's entertainment. Among those present were Mrs. C. R. Alderson, Miss Helyn Henry, Miss Lucile Burch, Miss Lillian Van Vranken, Miss Margaret Orth, Miss Meta Ferguson, Miss Georgia Cary, Miss Margery Burch, Fletcher Bowron, William Widenham, Harold Floeter, Paul Cowles, Charles Sewall, Lloyd Burton.

Whist Luncheon.

Mrs. Ling, who made a charming hostess, entertained with a whist luncheon in the "Blue Room" at Christopher's Tuesday afternoon, in honor of Miss Mabel Tenery of Sacramento, and Mrs. Evaline Olmstead and Mrs. Anita Olmstead of San Mateo. Decorations for the luncheon table were entirely in white and yellow chrysanthemums, gracing the center of the tables, ferns strewed over the cloth, and yellow shaded candelabra appearing in the artistic scheme. Hand-painted Hallowe'en place cards marked places. Mmes. Frank Civille, E. J. Fleming, J. R. Hyans, Walter Tenery, D. V. Ambrose, Herbert Ament and the Misses Constance Lister and Anna Louise Gilman. Prizes were won by Miss Lister, Mrs. Ament, Mrs. Tenery and Miss Gilman.

From Oregon.

Mrs. J. T. Hansen of Ellendale Place, who has been spending the last two months in Oregon, has returned home.

Whist and Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hubbard entertained the Friday Evening Whist Club for dinner and whist afterwards. Chrysanthemums were used to enliven the bungalow and prizes were captured by Dr. D. C. Barber, and Mrs. Charles Baker. Members present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott, Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bisbee, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hobert, of South Pasadena, and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ellis of La Canyada.

House Guests.

Mrs. Clyde Johnson and little daughter, of Valencia street, are the house guests of her sister, Mrs. Edward Hobert of South Pasadena.

Informal Evening.

Complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. J. Ehlers and Miss Thomas of Wheeling, W. Va., who are [illegible] in Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. [illegible]clay, No. 429 West [illegible] street, entertained informally [illegible] evening.

Chafing-Dish Supper.

Mrs. Nellie Meigs entertained Thursday evening with a chafing dish supper at her apartments in the New Maryton Hotel, a jolly party of young people, who had attended the Elks dance the fore part of the evening. They were Mr. and Mrs. T. Docker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harbert, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hardy, Miss Lois Cook and George Shattuck of Pomona.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY

Pasadena.

NOTEWORTHY among functions of the week was the card party given at Hotel Maryland, Friday afternoon, which was attended by 250 women devotees of bridge and five hundred. Tables were arranged in the music room and Japanese reception-room which were flower decorated for the occasion. The affair was for charity, given by the Emergency League and 500 invitations were extended. Handsome prizes were awarded and refreshments were served. Mmes. William Franklin Knight, J. Dawson Thomson, Adelbert Fenyes, Revel English, F. A. Gaylord and Anna M. Luckey were patronesses receiving. Misses Florence Thomson, Katherine and Mary Wadsworth, Elizabeth McMeechen, Margaret Sherk, Louise Hawkins, Mildred Harrah, Marguerite Torrey and Bessie Mattison were the unbonneted girls assisting.

Mrs. Edwin D. White of Oakland avenue gave a pleasant ante-nuptial musicale and card party, Wednesday afternoon, complimentary to Miss Alice Crawford whose marriage to Edgar Fawcett of Alhambra will occur, Tuesday. White roses and white chrysanthemums were used in adorning the rooms and refreshments were served at the card tables. Previous to the game Miss True Patterson and Miss Shank gave several vocal solos. Those present were Mmes. Verde Hutchins, Frank Metcalfe, T. Park Upton, J. Strothard White, Harold Dale, Howard Sadler, S. W. Carson, Misses True Batterson, Gavina Roshrig, Clara Vaughn, Gertrude Machin, Laura Wood, Hazel Severy, Alice Nicholas, Gertrude Green, Susie Shank and Elizabeth Caldwell.

The Neighborhood Club was entertained Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Garrison of South Marengo avenue. The living-room, where the card tables were arranged for five hundred, was prettily ornamented with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Refreshments were served at the small tables after the games. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Machin, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. George Pedley, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Severy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCament, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Ray B. Hollister, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Ward, Dr. and Mrs. Ed B. King.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of South Hudson avenue, entertained Tuesday evening with a nut party, several games being played in which the securing of nuts was an important feature. Nuts were combined with the floral decorations and entered into the refreshments served. The affair ended with a peanut hunt in which Miss Floy Wakeley and Mr. Williams won the prizes. There were sixty present.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Chanitz of North Pasadena avenue gave a Halloween party Tuesday evening. Jack-'o-lanterns were conspicuous in the decorations and appropriate old-fashioned games entertained the guests. These were Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Uttyenhove, Mr. and Mrs. George Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green, Misses Green, Agnes Green, Beatrice Brown, Messrs. James Kelley, Fred Phillips, Hal Brown, Frank Harlow and William Whitlo.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Merritt gave a large dinner party at their home on Terrace Drive, Tuesday evening, in celebration of the fortieth anniversary of their wedding day. The house was profusely decorated with flowers and ferns and in the dining-room American Beauty roses were used. Place cards bore water-color sketches of baskets of lilies of the valley. Covers were laid for forty, all family friends and connections.

Mrs. John D. Mersereau of North Madison avenue entertained in honor of Mrs. Frederick Jewell Laird of Berkeley and Mrs. John S. Swift of San Francisco, Friday afternoon, with an informal tea, the guests being all Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Hubert F. Ives was the hostess Thursday afternoon at a small thimble party given at her home on South Marengo avenue. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock, and the table was attractively decorated with Cecil Brunner roses. Covers were laid for Mmes. Charles S. Woodbury, Lucius Jarvis, Albert Deike, T. A. Barnes, H. C. Prinz, George Frost and Benjamin Huntington. After luncheon, the guests employed themselves with Christmas fancy work.

Mmes. James A. White and T. Park Upton gave a pretty party Thursday evening at the home of the former on South Marengo avenue, in honor of Miss Alice Crawford and Edgar Fawcett, whose marriage will occur this week. Halloween furnished the central idea in decoration and amusements, and fortunes were told from shadow pictures, Messrs. Claude Braden and Edwin White forecasting the future. Supper was served after the frolic. Those present were Dr. and Mrs. J. S. White, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. Howard White, Misses Esther Hughes, Gertrude Machin, Lulu Wright, Lillian Coffman, Ana Machin, Clara Vaughn, Messrs. Claude Braden, Ernest Crawford, Joseph Deck, Roy White, Paul Judson, Spencer Machin, Sylvanus Marston and Edwin White.

Miss Annie Tyler of Bradford street was the recipient of a pleasant surprise party Wednesday afternoon, when twenty of her young friends brought their needlework, flowers and refreshments and spent the afternoon. Tea was served in the dining-room at 5 o'clock, Miss Margaret Tyler presiding over the tea cups.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark of Arroyo Drive are entertaining Miss Roher and Miss Winifred Roher of Long Beach and Miss Winifred Davis of Ohio. Several small functions were given in honor of these guests last week.

A Young Mother's Discovery

The baby was plump and apparently healthy, but it was peevish and fretful and cried most of the night. The young mother couldn't understand it. To be sure, baby's skin was red and rough, but she thought all babies were that way.

Finally she went to see her mother about it, and that wise and experienced person simply said: "Use Hay's Harfina Soap for the baby's bath—always." Now the baby crows and chuckles all day, sleeps like a top, and its skin is white, clear, velvety and free from all roughness and irritation. Try this wonderful soap for your baby—and for your own bath. It is pure, healing, soothing and antiseptic.

It thoroughly cleanses the skin, and makes it soft, white and healthy. Ask your druggist or any of the following druggists for this splendid soap. 25c a cake, or sent by mail on receipt of 25c. Send for book "The Care of the Skin."

END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That Heals and Hides Skin Imperfections.

A peculiar feature of poslam, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. The Owl Drug Co. makes a specialty of it. 50c worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

Any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York, can secure, by mail free of charge, a supply sufficient to cure a small eczema surface or clear a complexion overnight and remove pimples in twenty-four hours.

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS

When properly used, gin is one of the best remedies for kidney and bladder trouble. Best results are secured when used in the following prescription: "Six ounces good pure gin, one-half ounce Murax compound, one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu." Take in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day after meals.

Backache, frequent and scanty urination, highly colored urine, pain in the hip or groin, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, rheumatic pains, are symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble which should have prompt attention to prevent chronic rheumatism, Bright's disease or diabetes. Any good druggist can furnish or mix the above ingredients.

Mid-Season Clearance

TRIMMED HATS

While our sales this season have been phenomenal, we are overstocked in Trimmed Hats--due to continued warm weather, and to the fact that our early purchases were unusually heavy. It's a happy coincidence that we're forced to UNLOAD, just at the time when most women are ready to buy--which means a remarkable money-saving opportunity--Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Trimmed Fur Turbans—"The Hat of the Hour"—are here, and will go in the sale at $5.95—actually worth $7.50 to $9.00—but you'll have to hurry.

All $3.75 and $4.50 Trimmed Hats at $2.95
All $5.00 and $6.00 Trimmed Hats at $3.95
All $7.50 and $9.00 Trimmed Hats at $5.95
All $10.00 and $11.50 Trimmed Hats at $7.95

Tailored and Dress styles—the season's smartest models—small, medium and large shapes; braid and velvet hand-made hats; also of pressed felt; all are beautifully trimmed—many of them quite elaborate. Free and unrestricted choice of entire stock.

PATTERN HATS 1/4 UNDER PRICE

"Pattern Hats at One-Fourth Less Than Marked Prices"—that's the slogan of this Mid-Season Clearance. Compare these models with the most Exclusive Productions shown in other shops at $12.50, $15.00, $17.50 and up to $25.00—look at the price-tags, and then figure the saving.

These Hats are hand-made—of corded silk, fur felt, bengaline, velvet and moire—exquisitely trimmed with fruit, roses, aigrettes, ostrich, ribbon, cut steel and jet ornaments—and are worth every penny of regular prices. Come tomorrow if you can.

BITS OF VERSE.

Instinct.

There are numerous fish in the sea
And the big fellows swallow the small,
And the next in size
Seek a weaker prize,
And the minnow has no show at all.

There are numerous fowls in the air
And they chatter and croak and sing,
And the biggest swoop
On the barnyard coop,
Or the bird with a wounded wing.

There are numerous beasts in the field,
They bellow or bleat or bray;
And the stronger strives
For the weaklings' lives,
And scorns to evade the fray.

There are numerous men in the street,
And we try to be good and kind;
But we'll evolute
O'er a good, long route,
Ere we leave all the rest behind.

—[Washington Star.

At Twilight.

At twilight when the day is done,
We take our homeward way,
To rest secure in peaceful dreams
And sing an humble lay;
At twilight, if we bore our cross
Without complaint through all,
We greet the evening melodies
And hear the children call.

Across the miles of things that are
We somehow seem to see
The pleasant promise of all things
As they are apt to be.
Our dreams obscure the thoughts of toil,
Our hopes all banish sighs,
And he who sings to peaceful rest
Is heir to Paradise.

Mayhap a friend came in our life
To cheer us in our path,
Mayhap a simple song was heard
Which lightened woe and wrath,
Perchance the one we loved the best
Kept faith and made us glad,
If so the twilight brings no gloom,
Nor is our spirit sad.

To go the way in simple faith,
And sing the songs of cheer,
To hearken when grim duty calls,
Or smile when days are drear,
This were the way to silent bliss,
This were the way to peace,
When twilight ushers in the night,
And worldly battles cease.

Fair land of slumber, rising where
The shadows gladly bend,
Far distant isle of Better Days
Where toil and sorrow end,
We speed an humble prayer to thee,
A song within our breast,
And twilight whispers, "Toil is o'er,"
And heaven echoes, "Rest."

—[St. Louis Star.

The Victor.

Not he alone who worldly power
And honor bore,
Nor he who for some talent rare
The laurel wore;
But he to whom hard luck was all
Fate chose to send,
Yet who maintained a dauntless fight
Unto the end.

—[Charlotte Becker.

After Eden.

After Eden comes the rain,
After gladness comes the pain,
After dreams in days of gold
Tropic gale and thunder rolled,
Sleet and snow, and then good-by
To the soft, blue Eden-sky!

Days of dream on feet of song,
But they never last too long;
After Eden, wail and wing
Of the wild geese seeking spring,
As in gray wedge through the night
They go southward to the light.

Falls the leaf and fades the gleam;
After Eden lies the dream.
In the pelting of the rain
As it patters on the pane;
While the gypsy blooms, ah, they,
Fold their flags and wait the May!

LOST GOLD COINS.

Large Amount of French Coinage Unredeemed Is Believed to Be in India.

No five-franc gold pieces have been coined in France since 1869, and, although 233,000,000 francs were coined, it has never been possible to retire more that 122,000,000. The remaining 111,000,000 francs are believed to be in India. The reason for this belief is that when a follower of Brahma dies, before he is burned on the funeral pyre a piece of gold is deposited on his tongue, as an offering to insure his spiritual safety after the flames consume his body. Formerly the faithful in India employed English sovereigns or half-sovereigns for this pious purpose. But when their attention was turned to the French five-franc gold piece and they realized that it was the smallest coin in that metal of which any great number was available in the world, the economic instinct made the demand for it insistent and pressing. It is not a convenient coin for circulation, being so easily overlooked or lost. For a long time India was able to get it at par or only a little above. Now, however, it is evident that the 111,000,000 francs uncounted for must nearly all have been taken out of France.

There is another use to which small gold coins are also put ni the East—the making of chaplets and necklaces; but these, again, are despoiled whenever a Hindu family possessing them is in need of a gift to Brahma in behalf of one of their dead.

ONGRESSIONAL STORY-TELLERS.

Cover a Warm Heart.

Beveridge was criticising the speeches of a certain up- hot-headed Congressman. does make queer blunders, he," said Senator Beveridge. you heard his latest?" it seems that a constituent, him recently, complained of of a pair of ink-stained trousers that he had on. of your position,' said the reproachfully, 'ought to handsomer trousers than those.' Congressman, offended, answered fully: trousers may be shabby, but a warm and honest heart.'" Inquirer.

Grim Humor.

Tillman was praising the of a Republican Congressman. "His humor, however," he concluded, "is rather grim. I told him the other day about a mutual acquaintance who had died, a man he had never liked. 'And his wife is dead, too,' I said. 'He himself died on Monday. His wife died two days later. The papers didn't say what killed her.' 'She was tickled to death, I guess,' said the Congressman, grimly."

Took Physical Exercise.

Comparing notes on physical exercise, some one asked Congressman Paul Howland what he did in that direction.

"Who, me?" he exclaimed, with a good deal of warmth. "I have little need of any artificial form of exercise. I live on the sunset side of the river, you know, in West Fifty-seventh street, and my exercise consists in building the fire every morning."

The answer quite convinced all hands but one, a professional skeptic, who wanted to know, you know, "What sort of fire do you build?" he inquired. "Wood or coal?"

"Neither," replied the Congressman. "We use gas and I have to scratch a match every time I light the fire."—[Cleveland Leader.

The Senator Confesses.

As every lawyer knows, Senator Daniel is the author of a comprehensive treatise on negotiable instruments, which is generally considered to be the leading authority on the subject. A friend one day inquired how it was that in the midst of his arduous political duties, which must have demanded his constant attention, he found the time to write two such exhaustive volumes.

"Well," replied the Senator, "it happened this way: A young fellow I know, came up to me one day and said, 'Say, Mr. Daniel, does a sight draft bear interest?' And—would you believe it?—I couldn't answer that simple question. So I determined then and there to find out all about it. It took me a long time, but I did it."

"Well, Senator," observed the friend after a short pause, "does a sight draft bear interest?"

There was a moment's silence.

"Hanged if I know!" was the abrupt reply.—[Lippincott's.

INSURANCE WORLD.

The right of life insurance agents to write policies on their own lives and accept commissions on the same was decided by the Attorney-General of Illinois along the lines of his recent decision on the same question for fire insurance companies. It was decided that they had a right to write policies on their own lives and to make proper deductions from the gross premiums for their commissions, and that this would not violate the anti-discriminatory law of the State.

The question whether the ordinary insurance policy insures a man against death by legal hanging is raised in the case of the Mutual Life Insurance Company against J. William McCue and others, which was presented to the Supreme Court of the United States. McCue is one of the children of the late J Samuel McCue, who, while serving a term as Mayor of Charlottesville, Va., was found guilty of murdering his wife and hanged for the offense in 1905. About a year previous to the crime McCue took out an insurance policy of $15,000 in the Mutual Life. The company refused to pay the policy on the ground that "the death of the insured by hanging under sentence of a court of justice annulled the contract of insurance." The case was tried in the United States Circuit Court for the western district of Virginia, which gave a verdict in favor of the company, but that verdict was reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the fourth circuit. The insurance company now asks the Supreme Court to review the decision on a writ of certiorari.

President Rittenhouse of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society calls attention to the number of deaths from heart, kidney and other non-communicable maladies, and asks why States and cities through their health departments should not make some effort to check the same. The death rate from these diseases has in some cities and States more than doubled during the past thirty years. A large number of these deaths could have been prevented if the existence of these diseases had been known in time. Some of the statistics upon this subject are indeed startling. Deaths from diseases of the kidneys have increased in Chicago, since 1875, 641 per cent.; in Connecticut since 1878, 411 per cent.; in United States registration areas since 1880, 149.9 per cent.; in Greater New York, since 1880, 73 per cent., and the story is almost the same with diseases of the heart, arteries and brain The increase is so general throughout the country that it cannot be charged to inaccuracy of reports.

In St. Louis the insurance rates on automobiles of large horse power in the touring-car class have been advanced. With the change of rates a uniform standard commission of 15 per cent. for brokers has been adopted. The new rating is the same as in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago.

The new plan of the Metropolitan life, under which it furnishes free nurses for any of its industrial policy-holders who may require such assistance, is reported as working very satisfactorily and is much appreciated by the policy-holders. Some of the Chicago districts receive five and six applications a day, and the nurses report that prompt and early attention has prevented several cases that might have developed into serious illness. The service is on the visiting-nurse plan, permanent nurses not being furnished.

The Western Union Life Insurance Company of Spokane, organized three years ago, has now in full force policies to the amount of $10,000,000. The company is erecting a $100,000 building for its own use.

Singular Electric Plant.

A singular electric plant is said to grow in the forests of India. Plucking its leaves gives a shock, and it affects a magnetic needle twenty feet away. The energy is greatest about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, nearly disappearing at night. The intensity often increases greatly in storms, but in heavy rains it becomes so inert as to have no influence on the compass. No magnetic metals are found near. Birds and insects seem to have an instinctive dread of the plant, and are never known to alight on it.—[Detroit News.

UNCLE SAM STEADILY INVADING FOREIGN MARTS.

Maj. Carson Tells of Our Great Efforts to Extend Trade Into Other Lands.

BY JAMES B. MORROW.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 20.—Anciently, the wit and statesmanship of kings were exercised in keeping their vassals busy.

Perhaps the pyramids of Ghizeh, made of cut stone laid in mortar, were inspired by something more than the mere vanity of the Pharaohs for stupendous places of burial.

When he came to die, Henry IV, a driving man, who threw Richard II into prison and hunted Hotspur, the rebel, to his death, cautioned his son and successor not to permit the English long to enjoy the dangerous idleness of peace.

"Fight the foreigners," he said, in effect, "that the restless Britons may have work to do."

So Henry V, mindful of his father's admonition, invaded France, married the king's daughter, and became regent and heir of the Gallic empire.

Going back into the twilight of history, it has been known to all the generations that the people of Israel, dawdling in camp while Moses was on Mount Sinai, made a calf of gold and bowed down to it and sung to it with a tremendous noise.

Coming into the present, the whole of civilization is seen grappled in a savage conflict for business—for work and wages that men and women may be happy, prosperous and—tranquil.

MUST SELL ABROAD.

The United States, having its own mouths to feed, its own bodies to clothe and its own heads to shelter, once took no heed of the foreign market. It is not so any more. There is frequently a surplus of steel, as ordinarily there is an over-supply of cotton and wheat. More shoes are manufactured than can be sold at home. Europe is eating bread baked of the flour ground from the grain planted on the spot, cut and thrashed by American farm machinery. Uncle Sam's sewing machines are making shirts for the Hottentots, and his kerosene is lighting the huts of heathendom. And now his cotton-seed oil is driving the olive out of Sicily. It is smoother and sweeter, and its old odor has vanished, chemically.

Nationally, the world-wide contest for employment and the creature comforts and necessities for daily living, was recognized by the creation of another department to the government of Washington. The first suggestion went no further than for a Cabinet officer charged with the duty of stimulating commerce. Labor was properly and logically included when, as some one has said, a man waved a pair of overalls in the gallery and stampeded both branches of Congress.

MAJ. CARSON AT THE HEAD.

Thus the challenge of battle was openly accepted by the United States. Since then, the trade scouts of the country have penetrated into every land. Maj. John Miller Carson is captain of the band, although in registers and directories he is known as the Chief of the Bureau of Manufactures. President Roosevelt asked him to take the place.

In the length and honor of his service—and in age, because he is 71 years old—as well as in character, dignity, courtesy, kindliness and attainments, Maj. Carson is the respected and beloved dean of the newspaper correspondents in Washington. A reporter in Philadelphia, where he had also been a printer, he was commissioned an officer in the Union army during the Civil War. He came to this city thirty-six years ago, and after that, until he accepted public office, was in the employment of but two newspapers, the New York Times and the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Now, after a life of usefulness, industry, and moral excellence, Maj. Carson is as slender, erect and graceful as a lieutenant in the artillery. He was clerk of the Ways and Means Committee that wrote the tariff bill of 1882, and of the McKinley Committee that prepared the famous measure of 1890. Yet Maj. Carson is not a statistician, but an accomplished newspaper man with practical ideas, the talent for constructive work, and the essential journalistic habit of doing business with energy and without an instant of unnecessary delay. He made the Bureau of Manufactures. Furthermore, as captain of the scouts, he knows how to get information.

"What country," I asked him, "offers the best opportunity for the development of American trade?"

FOREIGN MARKET OVERLOOKED.

"In a sense," was the answer, "the whole world remains to be explored by our men of business. We have been so profitably occupied among ourselves that we have overlooked the foreign market. Our ignorance of commercial geography is oftentimes amusing. I shall always remember an optimistic and pushing man who came tearing into my office after a night ride from New England. He made a good watch and a mighty cheap watch, he said, and he wanted to introduce it into every vest pocket in China, not as a resultant benefit to himself, but as a blessing to the Orient. He didn't know if the Chinese had watches, he didn't understand their tastes or customs, but he was convinced that he could conquer their country benevolently and annex it to his factory.

"I told him that my own knowledge was pretty scant with respect to the economic conditions in China, but I could safely say that the Chinese was a conservative. Now, that he worshiped his grandfather, and that he probably carried his grandfather's watch, provided that august individual ever had one. Moreover, according to the best of my belief, and so far as I could see, the Chinese was not supplied with that occidental ornament and convenience known as the vest pocket. It seemed to me, I ventured to observe, that definite knowledge ought to precede the prospective invasion, and that a few experimental watches might be introduced as a test of the situation.

"'Well,' said the man, with a laugh, 'that's common sense, but I shouldn't have traveled all the way to Washington in order to get it.'

GOING INTO ALL MARTS.

"Today," Maj. Carson continued, "American watches outsell all other kinds in the Celestial Empire. We need kindergarten instruction in this country, concerning the trade circumstances and characteristics of the rest of the world. Other nations, producing more than they consume, have been tramping up and down the earth, and are skilled, alert, and sagacious. We are not alone clumsy and ignorant, but until recently we have been self-centered and indifferent.

"Take China with its 420,050,000 people," Maj. Carson went on to say. "What do we know about it commercially? Around the accessible edges are some settlements of Europeans. The interior of the country is a sealed book to our manufacturers and merchants. A cotton spinner, having more goods than he can sell, suddenly thinks of China. He hurries off his surplus to Peking, Shanghai, Canton or Hongkong. But the goods were not made for the Chinese market. The man who wants dots in his shirt won't buy stripes. If a woman goes downtown for a green handkerchief, she will not purchase a yellow one. 'But,' we say to the Chinese merchant, 'the cotton prints you like went out of fashion forty years ago.'

Major John M. Carson.

"'No matter,' the merchant complacently replied, 'we want what we want, and not something else.'

"'Your taste,' we exclaim, in the tone of a teacher of color values, harmony, and esthetics, 'is barbarous.'

"'Possibly,' the merchant smilingly answers; 'and still we have the cash in hand to gratify it.'

ENGLAND OUTSELLS US.

"Why, do you know," Maj. Carson asked, with energy and patriotic disgust, "that although we grow 70 per cent. of the world's cotton supply England annually sells $70,000,000 of cotton goods and yarns to China, while our sales amount to only $10,000,000? England comes here in its own ships, hauls our raw cotton across the Atlantic, turns it into fabrics at Manchester, and then beats us to death in the Chinese markets.

"And it is so everywhere. England sells $470,000,000 of cotton manufacturers a year. Our sales aggregate but $40,000,000. England sells more cotton goods to Argentina than we sell in the whole of South America. It is the same in Cuba, which we liberated; in the Philippines, which we benevolently assimilated, and in Mexico, which is our next-door neighbor. I sent a man to Manchester that he might learn British conditions and methods. A firm there doubled his salary, and he stayed.

"England makes what the African and the Asiatic want. It doesn't try to thrust its ideas on a strange country and to be educational and artistic. Instead, it gets the money of the African and the Asiatic that its mills may be kept going and that its people may have work. Englishmen are able manufacturers, successful salesmen, and shrewd buyers. Australia and India show no trade favors to the mother country, but patronize the best and the cheapest market, regardless of blood and geography.

PROGRESS IN GERMANY.

"Oh, Germany, of course," Maj. Carson quickly answered. "Germany is foremost among all the nations of the earth in the economics of manufacturing. Our men find Germans everywhere diligently searching the isolated corners of the world for customers. Industrially, Germany is capable, assiduous, tenacious, methodical and unscrupulous. German manufacturers will initiate anything we make, and then counterfeit our name. No shoes are equal in style, finish, and wearing quality to our own. Germany copies our shoes and then falsely says on the labels that they were made in the United States. Technical colleges are scattered all over the empire, and hundreds of strong young men are graduated each year and are immediately taken into iron and steel works, factories, shipyards, and other manufactories.

"Moreover, the German who has served his period in the army, where he is taught order, cleanliness, obedience, patriotism, and self-respect, is a steady, thrifty, and competent workman, whom all employers of labor are eager to get. Emperor William has sent commercial attachés to his embassies and to most of his important legations—two of whom are stationed in New York (and they report to Berlin by cable—not by letter, mind you, as is done by our agents abroad) whenever there is an opportunity to promote German business interests. Indeed, Germany is smoking and roaring like a gigantic factory, and is threatening the industrial prosperity of the rest of mankind. The courage, daring, and talent once given to wars and military science are now largely concentrated upon the pursuits of peace. German methods, too, are worked out scientifically and by the rules of common sense and mathematics.

TRADE TREATIES NEEDED.

"When a treaty is written in this country the Secretary of State does the work. He and the President discuss the situation, and the document goes to the Senate for ratification or rejection. In Germany the Foreign Minister calls around him the Minister of Commerce and the Minister of Agriculture. Experts in all of the departments are put to the task. In course of time, and plenty of time is taken, a treaty is prepared that is as perfect from a German standpoint as human wisdom, foresight, and skill can make it. And in every line of the contract are the words, 'Germany forever.'"

"Can the United States," I inquired, "successfully compete with those countries where the standard of wages is lower than that which prevails in America?"

"The inequality in wages is overcome by our greater capacity, man for man," Maj. Carson answered. "The Americans do more than anybody else. Each country, moreover, has its own natural or acquired advantages. Good wages create impulse and give an energetic swing to trade and industry. Besides ours is a nation of adaptable, resourceful, and ingenious people. In my opinion, American has greater advantages than has any part of Europe. Yet the law of general average in its distribution of favors and opportunities, while preventing any one country from monoplizing that which is needful, makes competition pretty general, and thus quickens the pace and sharpens the wits of everybody. We make linen—so do other countries—but no linen is so good as that produced in Ireland, where water, soil, and climate fix the quality of the flax. So each nation has its own peculiar advantages, but the United States, as I have said, has more than any of the rest."

"Is Great Britain losing its rank as the leading industrial country of the world?"

GERMANY IS GAINING.

"It is losing to Germany and to us in certain directions, but it is a very powerful nation for all that, and its business men are wonderfully able and watchful and even daring in their enterprise. Nothing is too little for the English if it contains any of the elements of value, and everything new is given a fair trial. One of our agents visited a dairy in Scotland and saw seventy-five cows milked by machinery in less than an hour and a half. At the celebrated Smithfield Cattle Show in London he examined a motor that he is inclined to believe will revolutionize farming. He saw it draw loads on the highway and drive all sorts of agricultural machinery. In an official contest it plowed twenty-one and one-half acres of land in twenty-four hours at a cost of 69 cents an acre, including labor, fuel, interest on the investment and depreciation of capital. Nevertheless, we think of England simply as a manufacturing country. Industrially, commercially and agriculturally, in some respects, Great Britain will continue to surprise and challenge Europe and America.

"While giving some facts from foreign lands," Maj. Carson said, "let me tell you what another of our agents saw in Russia. At a factory employing 1200 men, owned by Germans and run by an Englishman born in Vienna, were lathes from Hamilton, O.; crank planes from Providence, R. I.; woodworking tools from Cincinnati, and bulldozers from Moline, Ill. One of the products of the factory was a machine for thrashing sunflowers. Not far away immense tracts of oats were being cradled by hand, women were binding the sheaves, and one-horse wagons with wooden axles were taking the grain from the fields. A strange contrast, you say, but it illustrates the universality of modern business and its amazing and tremendous sweep, as well as the opportunities that remain for profitable development in the future."

"Are American exports of iron and steel increasing?"

MAKING STEEL CHEAPLY.

"Yes. We make better and cheaper steel than Germany or England. Large quantities of structural steel are going abroad, and Americans recently completed a great bridge in India, getting the contract in competition with English builders. However, we are doing but a poor fraction of the business that we could get in all kinds of manufactures were we as aggressive, for example, as are the Germans or English."

"Does the United States import anything that could be made as well and as cheaply at home?"

"I have referred to cotton goods. You must remember that our navy, our army, the cost of our entire government, in fact, is mostly supported by the duty we collect on foreign goods brought into the country. The value of our imports last year was considerably more than $1,000,000,000. The phantom wall that shuts in our coast fails to prevent our own workmen from losing vast sums in the matter of daily wages."

COTTON-SEED OIL.

"Is it true that cotton-seed oil and cheese are shipped to Europe and then returned to the United States pasted over with foreign labels?"

"I don't believe anything of the kind is being done. Cotton-seed oil is going abroad, but it is consumed, and is not sent back. The cotton-oil industry is one of the romances of modern business, and I am glad you have given me the chance to say that seed, worthless only a few years ago, now is as four are to six in the aggregate value of our yearly cotton crop. More than $100,000,000 has been invested in the business, and $40,000,000 of cotton-seed products—oil cake, oil meal, and shortening for domestic uses—are exported annually. Cotton-seed oil ought to go on the bills of fare at all of our best hotels, so that people could choose between it and the less palatable oil made of olives. When there is a shortage of the olive crop cotton seed may be used to fill the vacuum; but it is eaten in Europe, and not here."

"Tell me about the daily paper that you publish."

"The reports of our consular officers stationed in every quarter of the globe are edited down to the bare facts, when relating to trade matters, and are mailed to 10,000 business men in this country. Under the heading 'Foreign Trade Opportunities' we print specific information respecting chances abroad to sell particular things. Thus Americans supplied the Sultan of Oman, a kingdom in Arabia, with a system of waterworks for his palace; steam plowing machines were shipped to South America; wireless telegraph apparatus was sent to Europe and Asia, and a man at Painesville, O., so he wrote to me some days ago, sold sixteen carloads of machinery in Russia."

"Are idols for the heathen," I inquired, "still being manufactured in the United States?"

"That question, sir, is a reflection on the piety of the American people," Maj. Carson answered.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

MARY COONIE is the name of the Arctic circle Hetty Green, whose wealth is something phenomenal for that part of the world. She can neither read nor write, but she has so much money that she hires a secretary in the person of an Englishman, a graduate of Oxford. She is a full-blooded Eskimo herself, but has acquired mining claims, and has the largest private reindeer herd in the world, 2000 bearing her brand. She is quite fond of dress, however, in contrast to Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Bennett, who lives up at Saskatchewan, is a woman railroad contractor, probably the only one of her sex. She is at present grading roadways near Regina and for the last two years has taken small grading contracts, but this is her first railroad work of importance. In the section which she is building her whole family is at work, her husband included. She is a graduate of a normal school at LaCrosse, Wis. She went up there in search of health and has evidently found it.

Miss Helen Donovan, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., has been elected by the Milwaukee Board of Education to take charge of the new trade school for girls which is soon to be opened. For the last few years Miss Donovan has been teaching dressmaking in the State Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa. At one time she was at the head of the dressmaking department of the Mechanics' Institute of Rochester.

Miss Marie Sperber, secretary to M. Bleriot's representative in this country, has announced that she is going to make a trial trip in a duplicate of the famous Bleriot machine which was recently received at New York, thus capturing the honor of being the first woman aviator in this country.

Mrs. W. J. Beggs of Seattle, Wash., has succeeded in producing the first rose ever grown without a thorn.

Jules Jurgensen Watches Are Above the Competitive Class

For 200 years the makers of Jules Jurgensen watches have steadfastly held out against the ever-increasing tendencies to lower standards of quality, and have constantly striven for the betterment of their product.

The result is that today Jules Jurgensen watches are rightly recognized as the highest-grade watches in the world. They are above the competitive class.

Before leaving the factory, every Jules Jurgensen watch is rated in different positions and temperatures, to the finest possible degree of accuracy. And this official rating accompanies every watch when it is sold.

The selling of these famous watches in Southern California is controlled entirely by this house. We show them in both hunting style and open-face cases of 18-kt. solid gold at $250.00 to $600.00.

And we also control the sale in Los Angeles of Gruen Precision watches—the celebrated "Verithin" models, in solid gold and in enamel cases, for both ladies and gentlemen—priced from $25.00 to $1500.00. The higher-priced models are ladies' watches, paved with diamonds. To match these paved watches we have the diamond chains or pins.

It matters not whether you are prepared to spend $5.00 or $1500.00 for a watch, you will find here the widest assortments and best values obtainable. And whatever watch you buy here—you can rely will give you honest, satisfactory service.

At $11.00 we offer a splendid value in a gentlemen's open face watch, thin model, 12 size, gold filled, warranted for 20 years, set with jeweled full nickel "Elgin" movement.

WALSH'S SENSATIONAL CAREER AND HIS WATERLOO.

Colossal Schemes of the Old Chicago Banker, Who Must Go to the Penitentiary.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—John R. Walsh is the Charles W. Morse of Chicago, Charles W. Morse is the John R. Walsh of New York. The stories of the alleged crimes of the two men are more alike than their names. When it comes to the matter of the law's dealing with them there begins to be a sharp divergence.

Charles W. Morse already has tasted of the bitterness of imprisonment. John R. Walsh has not spent an hour in jail although the crime of which he was convicted and is now under sentence, five years' imprisonment in the Federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kan., was committed four years ago. Morse, through the devotion of his wife, regained his liberty only to be thrust back behind the bars. It was a long and hard task to procure the bond in the first place. It served only as a temporary expedient.

Walsh goes to his office in Chicago every day when his 72 years will allow him to go, and that is most of the time. In spite of his three-score years and twelve he still has a lot of the energy and fight that made him in the former days one of the most conspicuous capitalists and financiers in the West. He has been privileged to live with his devoted family whose loyalty in a quieter way is as beautiful as that of Mrs. Morse toward the Wall Street banker. He is as welcome as in the old days to the clubs. Those to whose debt he is to the extent of millions are about the last men in Chicago to say for publication anything against the man who wrecked the Chicago National Bank and its allied institutions.

Morse and Walsh both were charged with transgressing the banking laws. They used the money of others in a

In any event many lawyers of Chicago and elsewhere consider that the one great striking feature of the Walsh case is that for four years after the commission of his alleged criminal acts the accused man has managed to go about his usual business in about the usual way. The long delay has set lawyer and layman to thinking of the leaden feet of justice.

It was on the morning of December 18, 1905, that the Chicago National Bank, the Home Savings Bank and the Equitable Trust Company, ceased to do business, and closed their doors. That was on a Monday morning. Far into the night of Sunday—in fact, till almost the coming of dawn—representatives of the other banks in the Chicago Clearinghouse were in conference trying to devise a way to save the banks from wreck and the city from a financial panic. Walsh and his advisers were in that conference. The man who had presided as the financial genius over the trio of banking institutions protested long and loudly that if he were given one more opportunity he would ward off collapse.

Over the business of the banks went experts. They scrutinized this account and that. They observed with alarm the long list of menacing obligations, gasped with surprise when informed of the manner in which the funds of the bank—the money of the depositors—were being used to promote private enterprises. They reckoned up the securities for liabilities, figured closely on the conversion possibilities of collateral at hand. They were disposed to be eminently fair, but when they were through canvassing the situation its general aspect was so forbidden that closing the doors of the institutions was decided on.

THE CLIMAX.

That was the beginning of the end. The next morning, which was Monday, there were notices on the Walsh banks which told their tale briefly. The newspapers, which had been purposely let into the secret to help save Chicago from a panic, contained long stories of the fall of the Walsh banks. Every story was quick to say that the associated banks had agreed in conference to guarantee the payment of all deposits, dollar for dollar. All the depositor had to do was to find out what his balance was and write out a check for the amount to another bank chosen for the doing of his future business. He would be given credit for the amount. Those who preferred might take their books to the failed banks after they reopened and get their money there.

Something new in banking experience had been offered by Chicago. The intervention of the associated banks was heralded far and wide as a piece of philanthropy which might well be emulated in future in similar cases. Officers of the other banks were quick to disavow any spirit of philanthropy. It was purely a matter of business with them, they said. In saving the depositors from losing a cent in the Walsh banks, the institutions coming to the rescue were saving themselves the burden of a "scare" which might have far-reaching consequences and precipitate other crashes. Moreover, by making the Walsh collapse as light as possible for the public, Chicago would be saved the stigma of attack on her financial system.

On October 5, 1909, nearly four years after that memorable Monday morning, the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the sentence of five years running against Mr. Walsh, who had been duly convicted in the lower Federal Court of violating the banking laws. At the time the sentence was affirmed, as already stated, Mr. Walsh owed the banks which stood between his institutions and a local financial panic over $7,000,000 secured by the stock and bond issues of certain corporations in which Walsh was interested.

It is generally considered by lawyers intimate with the case, and with the procedure in court, that the trial of Mr. Walsh before Judge Anderson of the United States Circuit Court was one of the most thorough pieces of work in that line in the history of such affairs. So far as concerns the popular conception of such an offense, Walsh's conviction was unquestionably regarded as a just [illegible].

WHAT WALSH DID.

"Reduced to its simplest terms, the case of Mr. Walsh is that he used the money of other persons deposited in his banks to carry out his own private undertakings to the extent of many millions of dollars," says one conversant with the details of the bad mess. "These moneys were invested in certain railroad and industrial undertakings of a hazardous character, out of which Mr. Walsh expected to make profits for his own pockets. The risk ran against the depositors, whose money he was betting. The gain all ran to him, had there been any gain. He utterly disregarded one of the most sacred obligations known to business life, the obligation of a trustee.

"One need not go elaborately into questions of morals in this connection. It is worth while to note, however, that some of the ablest men in the world, careful in all other respects, of penetrating intellect, of keen perception, have failed to see the most compelling principle of commercial life, that is, the necessity of fidelity to business obligations. Mr. Walsh failed to grasp this principle. It is believed that all through his career he had only a vague conception of it. But, unquestionably able as he was, surpassing most other bankers in business sagacity, he yet had not enough power to overcome the workings of this principle, which after these many years has brought him to the gates of the penitentiary. He thought to increase his already large fortune by illegitimate operations, covering those operations as he went along by thin disguises, which were readily penetrated by expert searchers."

Three months after his banks closed their doors, Walsh was arrested on the charge of making a false bank statement. The case was continued so many times and delayed so long that Senator Tillman demanded that the United States make an inquiry into the whole bad business. The South Carolina gentleman made one of his characteristic utterances, in which the Chicago financier was bitterly scored. The Senate did not vote an inquiry, but Senator Tillman had served one of his purposes in giving the Walsh bank failure and the Walsh methods a good airing.

Walsh meantime had opened a private office to look after his large interests. Shortly afterward a mortgage of $6,000,000 was placed on his Southern Indiana Railroad, and the property increased in value when it was learned that arrangements had been made for entrance into Chicago.

In January, 1907, one year after the failure, a grand jury began to investigate Walsh's financiering. Stories of forged notes were brought at that time, one, G. Paradis, alleging that a note for $100,000 bearing his signature, had been forged. A Walsh memorandum system, which seemed altogether unique in banking business, was disclosed. On certain loose memoranda were carried records of various transactions involving large amounts. Attorneys for the government denounced the methods, but the jury adjourned without having voted an indictment. Counsel for the defense admitted that an elaborate system of spies had been devised to watch everybody whose testimony might have a bearing on the case.

Indictment finally was voted, of which there were 182 counts. The defense sought to have the indictment quashed on the technical ground of irregularity. They had not yet seen fit to try to defend the methods of Walsh. A plea in abatement was dismissed and a demurrer overruled, and finally trial was set for October 15, 1907. Shortly afterward another indictment was returned. Bond was promptly given in each case, and the defendant went free. For the purpose of bringing his road into Chicago, a syndicate was organized and a loan of $7,000,000 was negotiated.

THE SPY SYSTEM.

The spy system went merrily on its way, and before the postponed trial came on valuable documents bearing on the case were stolen from the office of the District Attorney. This incident furnished plenty of excitement prior to the opening of the trial on November 13, at which time Attorney Fletcher Dobyns made an address reviewing the whole case. In the trial there were disclosed some expert juggling of accounts between the banks and the Walsh enterprises, entries of odd transactions, renewal of notes in fictitious names at the request of Walsh, stories of how notes were converted into cash, and an endless chain system of juggling funds, of the manipulation of railroad properties. On January 19, 1908, Walsh was convicted of the charge of misapplying the funds of the Chicago National Bank.

More alleged technicalities were then invoked to save the bank wrecker. A new trial was asked for on the ground of irregularities in the jury-room. Pressure was brought upon President Roosevelt in vain to put an end to the prosecution. Another trial was denied, and sentence of five years was imposed. Thence the case went to the Court of Appeals, which affirmed the verdict and sentence, and there it rests until the Supreme Court takes it up at some indeterminate time in the future.

John R. Walsh is the subject of one of the romances which feature American business life. He was born in Ireland, and came to this country when he was a lad of 12 years. He came to Chicago to lay the foundations of his fortune. It was his indomitable energy and his natural capacity more than a kind fate that made him prosperous. His first earned dollar was earned as a newsboy. He had a faculty for leadership, and soon dominated the other boys in the business just as, in later years, he dominated most of the men with whom he came in contact. It was only a short while until he had established a news stand of his own. From this base of operations his career began to expand.

AS A BOY.

He was a boy who used his noodle and it struck him one day that the business of distributing magazines, newspapers and books on railroad trains should be centralized for the best results. This idea of his gave birth to the Western News Company, now known all over the country. This business grew to large proportions, but it still was too narrow for the horizon of Mr. Walsh. He invested his income judiciously in various ways and in a few years was rated as a man of means.

He began to appreciate that political influence oftentimes is a good asset for a financier, and that publicity also has its value. The force of the man made him a power in local politics and his shrewdness qualified him for advice to the party leaders. He came into control of the Chicago Herald and founded the Evening Post. Both of these properties he sold subsequently, but he had learned the lesson of publicity and later established the Chicago Chronicle, which he published for months after his banks had collapsed.

When that financial crash came the newsboy had evolved into the man who was credited with a fortune of $6,000,000. In addition to establishing his three banks, he had built up a system of railroads and had invested large amounts in stone quarries and coal mines. The motive for the railroad system was the tapping of the natural resources of Indiana, Illinois and Missouri primarily. Ultimately the system was to be extended into Michigan and Wisconsin. To develop this ambitious railroad scheme required more millions than Walsh had. But he had a source from which to draw for funds—his banks. He was not long getting busy with this money. As each piece of property needed capital he would sell to the Chicago National Bank the bonds of the enterprise at 90 up to par. The enterprises got the money and the bank got the security.

At the time of his indictment Walsh had under operation the Illinois Southern, the Southern Indiana and his coal mines and stone quarries. The Southern Indiana was to have entrance into Chicago over the right of way of the Chicago Southern and would connect with the Lake Michigan Car and Ferry Transportation Company, and finally with the Wisconsin and Michigan Railway at Peshtigo Harbor.

Character portraitures of Walsh by men who have known him intimately, show him as a man of austere disposition, not inclined to extend to others the "grace" or the indulgence and mercy which he asks for himself. Years ago, when Chicago was the scene of a disastrous bank failure, brought about by illegal methods, Walsh was one of the few who insisted on showing no mercy to the guilty man. His demand for right methods of banking at that time was impressive. For a long time it gave him a reputation which the subsequent court proceedings in his own case indicate he did not merit.

His spirit has not been broken by his conviction. He is still the John R. Walsh he was in the prime of his political and financial power. There is no sign of his giving up an uneven struggle until the force of circumstances absolutely demands surrender.

Prices Too High.

It was a Sunday morning sale in Petticoat Lane.

"I say," said a young man, holding up before the dealer a pair of trousers, "wot price for these?"

"Sixpence," the dealer answered.

The other threw the trousers back into the barrow.

"Garn!" he said, "I don't want a pair for Sundays. I want 'em for workin' in."—[London Saturday Journal.

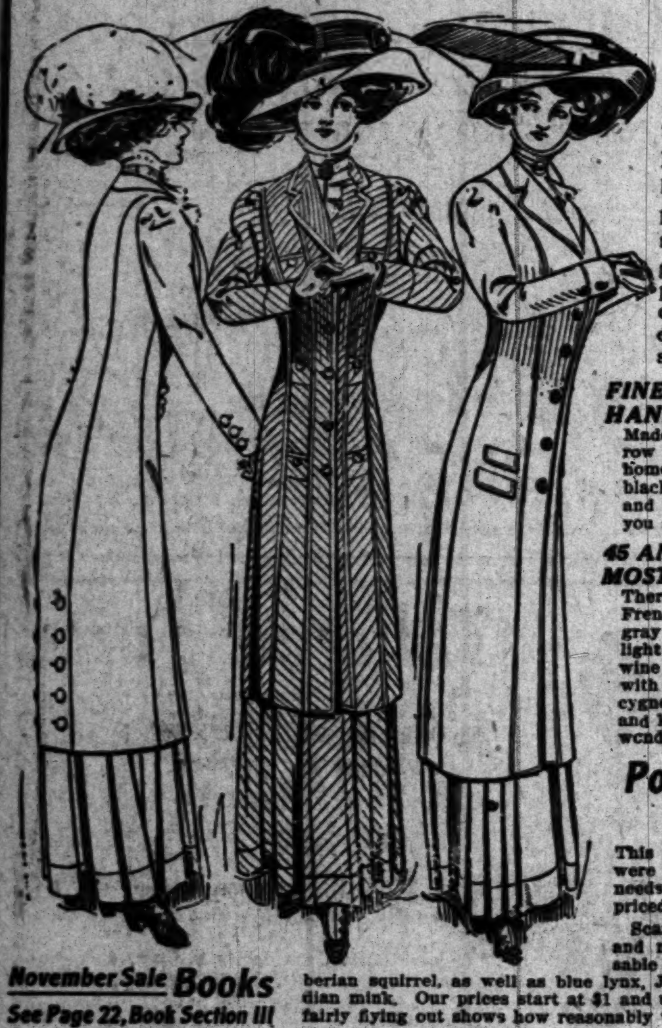
Annual Thanksgiving Sale Fine Linens



November Sale High Class Suits 45 and 50 In. Coat Lengths $22.50 and $27.50

Two prices claim your attention in the suit section Monday. Two prices that stand out bold in the value light. Garments that the makers are proud to display, because of the beauty of material and the cleverness of workmanship. Distinctive, refined tailored garments at prices that are out of all reason in comparison to the offering. Its a sale to begin the first days of November, another one of those important events that will still further demonstrate the leadership of this garment section.

FINE TAILORED SUITS HANDSOMELY MADE $22.50

Made of those wiry serges in both wide and narrow wale patterns; gray diagonals and English homespuns. All the prevailing shades, as well as black. And they're lined with the best of satins and peau de cygne. You'll be enthusiastic when you see them, and the price $22.50.

45 AND 50-INCH SUITS MOST FAVORED MATERIALS $27.50

There's a choice of chiffon broadcloths, French serges, fine homespuns, and gray worsteds, in navy, blue, black, light gray, medium and dark gray, wine and artichoke. Coats are lined with guaranteed satin and peau de cygne. Skirts in the new cluster pleats and kilted style. Wonderful suits at a wonderful price.

Popular Prices For Popular Furs

This is indeed a fur season, and we were never better able to supply the needs of every woman for popular priced furs.

Scarfs, throws, small neck pieces and muffs of black and sable coney, sable opposum, Belgian Lynx and Siberian squirrel, as well as blue lynx, Jap mink, brook mink and Canadian mink. Thanksgiving.

For the lifting up of mountains,
In brightness and in dread;
For the peaks where snow and sunshine
Alone have dared to tread;
For the dark of silent gorges,
Where mighty cedars nod;
For the majesty of mountains
I thank thee, O my God!

Pictures from Guatemala.

Undoubtedly Carl Oscar Borg was born to adventure as well as to the brush. The brush he has carried with him from his early childhood in Sweden, and adventure has dogged his footsteps everywhere.

When, exactly a year ago this month, his friends heard that the young Los Angeles artist was about to sail for Honduras on an extended sketching trip, they knew he would bring back with him striking reminiscences of hair-breadth escapes as well as striking sketches. And we were not disappointed. He brought exactly what we had expected.

Mr. Borg started for the little restless republic of Honduras, but he did not remain there long. Going farther, he discovered two other republics, Guatemala and El Salvador, with far greater artistic possibilities than Honduras. In Guatemala he came upon Antigua, once one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of the cities of the New World. Today Antigua is a most interesting relic of a picturesque period—el tiempo de los conquistadores.

The adventures, by the way, were exciting and numerous. The artist and his camera were arrested many times, being taken for spies by the nervous southern republicans. Even his brushes and paint tubes were considered circumstantial evidence of a highly suspicious nature—for the painter of pictures is a rare bird in Central America.

The industrious young artist, loaded down with sketches, started back for the United States in June. But Fate lent a hand and did not let him get very far before asserting her sovereignty over his destiny. The Pacific mail steamer Indiana, which carried him and his spoils of conquest, split on a rock in a dense fog thirty miles out from Magdalena Bay. There were about seventy-five passengers on board, mostly women and children. The unlucky steamer hung in two sections on the rock, and in less than two hours there was sixteen feet of water in her engine room. All this time Mr. Borg, if you please, was busily making sketches of the Indiana's succession of predicaments.

At last the cruiser Albany came to the rescue, carrying the unhappy passengers and the happy artist to the battleship California, which brought them straight to San Francisco, where Mr. Borg's sketches made superb illustrations for the feature stories of the daily papers. Even so does Fate help those who help themselves.

The painter has spent all summer away from us, sketching around Santa Barbara and San Francisco. He made a number of studies of Mt. Shasta. In the spring he will hold an exhibition of his Guatemala pictures in San Francisco, and probably one here. In the meantime you may see five of them in the exhibition of the Painters' Club, which opens at the Blanchard gallery tomorrow. Four others have gone to enrich the collection of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst.

Mr. Borg has returned to Los Angeles, and expresses his intention of remaining with us till spring—when, of course, the wanderlust will call him away again, probably to Mexico.

The most unique and the most interesting of the sketches and pictures which Mr. Borg brought back with him are those painted among the wonderfully beautiful ruins of Antigua, that most unfortunate of cities, which, founded in 1527, was overturned by an earthquake only a few years later, and buried in an avalanche in 1541. It was rebuilt a few miles away, but Agua and Fuego gave it no rest, shaking it up in 1565, 1576, 1577, and again in 1581. Other temblors occurred in 1585, 1586, 1607, 1651, 1689, 1705 and 1717. In 1751 came an earthquake which partly laid Antigua in ruins. None, however, can compare with the terrible one of 1773. This mighty trembling of the earth laid the beautifully rebuilt city in hopeless ruins, so shattering the eighty noble churches and numerous palaces that no attempt has been made to rebuild Antigua again. Today the city has about twenty-five thousand inhabitants, most of whom are of Spanish and Indian descent.

There are ruins and crumbling walls everywhere, overgrown with grass and weeds and flowers. They are absolutely unique, in that everything seems to have been built with a view to resisting instead of yielding to the earthquake shocks. The walls are low and massive, the pillars grotesquely stumpy and gigantic in girth, the domes of the churches depressed and the arches of the convents flat. But every ingenious precaution proved to be of no avail, for the quake of 1773 demolished all the buildings and killed nearly 10,000 of the city's inhabitants.

It would seem, to judge from the ruins, that nothing less august than palaces and churches were ever built in the old capital of Guatemala. You can hardly find a street that has not an image of a saint or a picture in the niche of some crumbling wall. In almost every instance, however, the image is broken and the picture blurred and faded.

Antigua is virtually a dead city now. All its business is transacted upon the plaza. The Indians camp in the ruins of churches and palaces and convents. Nothing new is ever built, nothing repaired. Everything remains as it was left by the earthquake a century and a half ago.

But crumbling walls and tottering towers may hold beauties of color and line never vouchsafed to the building that was complete and erect. Nature always seeks to cover her tragedies and catastrophes in some lovely and noble way. The half is often more picturesque than the whole—the blurred suggestion more satisfying than the clear statement.

So. Mr. Borg painted the ruins of Antigua, and put into his pictures the accumulated knowledge of his years of patient research and study—all his artistic enthusiasm, his genius for dignified and unhackneyed composition, his feeling for color, his large and sympathetic way of seeing, his sentiment and his ideality. He loves humanity as well as nature, and the men and women he introduces into his pictures are sturdily real, even though their bizarre surroundings are as fantastic as half-remembered dreams.

To those who have watched with interested eyes our young painter's rapid progress in art, these pictures from Guatemala mark a milestone in the journey, and they feel confident that he will reach his high goal before many years have passed. Indeed, he is very near it now—for his strides are gigantic, and he never stands still.

Yet to me his promise is still greater than his performance—so highly do I rate his talent.

ART NOTES.

The second annual exhibition of paintings by the Los Angeles Painters' Club opens in the Blanchard gallery tomorrow evening with a private view from 8 to 10. The gallery will open to the general public on Tuesday, November 2, till the thirteenth of the month. The posters for the exhibition, which are now being shown in various parts of the city will not be sold at auction as previously reported, but will remain the property of their respective designers.

An exhibition of the recent work of Elmer Wachtel and Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel will be held at the studio of the artists, No. 315 West Avenue 42, beginning tomorrow and continuing till Saturday, November 6. The hour is from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. After Saturday next the studio will be open every Sunday afternoon. Pictures from sketches made at Cajon Pass, Matilija Cañon, Ojai Valley and San Bernardino Valley will be shown, all painted during the past summer.

William Swift Daniell, the water-color landscape painter, has returned from New York to Los Angeles, after an absence of two years. His wife comes with him, and both will now remain here permanently. Their young daughter has begun her studies in Vassar. It is Mr. Daniell's intention to start a sketching class at once, and to hold an exhibition at Long Beach in the very near future.

An article on the work of William Lees Judson, with illustrations, appears in the first number of the Twentieth Century Magazine, a continuation of the Arena.

Stanley McGinnis and George F. Clifton gave an interesting lecture on color photography in Symphony Hall, Blanchard building, last Thursday evening, and showed many beautiful slides from their very successful experiments in this branch of photographic art. Pictures, in full color, from nature and from paintings by famous artists, were shown.

A free exhibition of Japanese color prints is now being held at the studio of Maude Eighmey McVickar, on Townsend avenue, Eagle Rock. The studio will be open at 10 a.m. every day during November.

An exhibition of drawings by masters of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries is now held by Frederick Keppel & Company, No. 4, East Thirty-ninth street New York. The exhibition closes November 6.

Men Authorized to Shoot.

Many of the tobacco growers of the Kentucky-Tennessee region have for several years been trying to maintain a "pool" for the purpose of forcing the price of tobacco up and restricting the dictation of the tobacco trust. A large number of the planters, however, have refused to join in this pool—some on the ground that they do not believe in monopolies, and others on the ground that they can do better to act independently. In many places "night riders" have committed fiendish outrages on these independent growers, in order to force them to knuckle under to the pool. Gov. Willson of Kentucky has been receiving bushels of letters from growers who have been threatened, asking what they are to do to protect themselves and whether the government of a free country is going to permit such outlawry to go on.

The Governor has issued a significant statement on the subject. He advises citizens who are attacked by night riders to repel them with force, and says he will pardon any one who kills an assailant under such conditions. No one is required to join any pool or combination against his will, he says. Unfortunately the nigh riders generally so outnumber their victims that the latter have little chance to use the "force" which the Governor recommends.—[The Pathfinder.

Seven Rules of Life.

Live upstairs if you wish to be in good health. "Up how many flights?" Only one flight of seven steps. I will describe them.

First step—Eat, wheat, oats, corn, fruits, beef, mutton, plainly cooked, in moderate quantity, and but two meals a day.

Second step—Breathe good air day and night.

Third step—Exercise freely in the open air.

Fourth step—Retire early and rise early.

Fifth step—Wear flannel next your skin every day of the year, and so dispose your dress that your limbs shall be kept warm. Bathe frequently.

Sixth step—Live in the sunshine. Let your bedroom be one which receives a flood of light and spend your days either out in the sunlight or in a room which is well lighted.

Seventh step—Cultivate a cheerful temper. Seek the society of jolly people. Absolutely refuse to worry, and above all, don't be afraid to laugh. Live above. Sickness cannot crawl up there. Disease prowls about in the basement, rarely does it get "upstairs."—[Dr. F. G. Butler, in Chicago Journal.

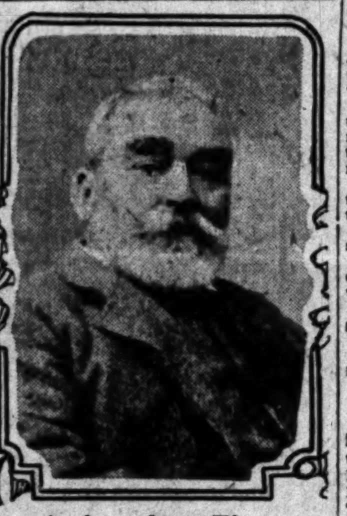
AUTHOR OF ONE HUNDRED PLAYS STILL AT WORK.

Sir Francis Burnand England's Veteran Humorist Hard at Work on "The Book of Words" for the Forthcoming Drury Lane Pantomime, "Aladdin."

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Sir Francis C. Burnand, who is still best remembered as ex-editor of London Punch, is busily engaged at present writing the book of words of the forthcoming Drury Lane pantomime, "Aladdin." Sir Francis was part author of "Cinderella" at the Lane, in 1805, and his clever daughter, Miss Winnie Burnand, has written and illustrated several of Drury Lane's pantomime booklets.



Author of 100 Plays.
Sir Francis Burnand, playright and humorist, who is now busy on the Drury Lane pantomime.

In his green old age—for he is 72—Sir Francis will prove to "Druriolaners that he still retains his special faculty of being funny without being vulgar. The jovial veteran has been associated with the theater's lighter side since his school and college days—in fact, he actually started the famous Cambridge Amateur Dramatic Club. He has been writing plays ever since, and now his record stands at over 100 stage productions, mostly farces and burlesques.

Three of these pieces secured phenomenal popularity. "Black-Eyed Susan" ran for 800 nights, "Betsy" was acted in London and the provinces for years, and "The Colonel," a satire on the esthetic craze of the eighties, created a catchword, "Why, certainly," which became almost as much a nuisance as the "What, never," of "Pinafore." He was also a collaborator with Sir Arthur Sullivan in two comic operas, "Contrabandists" and "The Chieftain," and in the musical version of "Box and Cox."

When Sir Francis was studying for the Roman Catholic priesthood he remarked to Cardinal Manning that he thought his true vocation was the stage rather than the church.

"You might as well say," replied the cardinal, "that you have a vocation for cobbling."

"In that case," replied Burnand, "I should still have a cure of soles."

A fellow dramatist, W. S. Gilbert once trapped Sir Francis very neatly when he was editing Punch.

"I suppose," said Gilbert, "you never get good things sent by outsiders?"

"Oh, yes, often," was the reply.

"Then why don't you use 'em?" rapped out Gilbert.

Seek King David's Tomb.

Interesting excavations are proceeding at Jerusalem under the superintendence of Capt. Parker, brother of Earl Morley, by Messrs. Wilson and Duff and Hon. Cyril Ward, with two Turkish officials, on behalf of the Turkish government which has granted extraordinary rights.

On the side of the slope above the Virgin's fountain, at the south end of Ophel, where stood the city of David, a hitherto unknown tunnel has been discovered. Two deep shafts were sunk. It is hoped to find the tombs of David and of the kings of Judah.

Biblical scholars of Jerusalem are confident of success, and that there will be unearthed not only the tombs but the sacred furniture and vessels of the successive temples built by Solomon and Zerubbabel.—[London Dispatch to Washington Star.

Hawkes Cut Glass
Cut From The Solid Blanks

All other makers of cut glass are using pressed blanks. The Hawkes Co. use the solid blanks exclusively.

The difference in the finished article is unmistakable. The pressed blank cut glass is devoid of luster and brilliancy.

HAWKES cut glass is free from all defects, is perfectly smooth on the inside, its brilliancy is equaled only by that of the diamond, and when held to the light it is as clear as crystal.

No cut glass compares with HAWKES—its quality is supreme.

We carry the largest and best selected stock of this fine product in the city.

We illustrate one of the new 14-inch HAWKES vases. Price $12. Other sizes from $8 up.

For your Thanksgiving table and for holiday gifts we highly recommend HAWKES cut glass.

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

BY MALCOLM WATSON.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Lewis Waller has returned to town this week, and the hearts of the K.O.W.'s—the letters represent a little band of enthusiasts mainly composed of women whose boast it is to be "Keen On Waller"—are once more overflowing with joy. He has brought with him a new romantic play, "Sir Walter Raleigh," by William Devereux, author of Fred Terry's latest success, "Henry of Navarre." The piece was received with frantic shouts of delight at its first performance at the Lyric last Wednesday evening, but such demonstrations whenever Waller presents a novelty, are so customary as to have become practically valueless.

"Sir Walter Raleigh" is very much on a level with Devereux's former work, and seems likely to answer Waller's purpose for some little time to come. It is melodrama, set in a framework of history, of the usual good go-ahead, "capa y espada" order, full of patriotic bombast and flowery rhetoric, but possessing no literary distinction. The question now engaging the attention of Waller and his advisers is that—"Will the piece serve for an American tour?" He has made an arrangement with Harrison Grey Fiske to cross the Atlantic in the fall of next year, but the arrangement is of the most accommodating character, seeing that either party can, within a given time, call off the bargain should he desire to do so. Waller himself is extremely anxious to visit the United States; his only difficulty is the dearth of good plays. And "Sir Walter Raleigh" has this decided demerit that the part of Queen Elizabeth, played, and very finely played at the Lyric by Winifred Emery, overtops that of the adventurous hero himself. In America, where the "star" system flourishes so amazingly, this, of course, would never do, and so, it appears to me, Waller will have to put off his projected visit until he has bagged a few more suitable pieces.

Devereux is fast making a corner in plays of the "Raleigh" and "Navarre" kind. He is a most industrious writer and a close student of history, or rather of those particular phases of history which may be turned usefully to account on the stage. He began life as an actor; unfortunately he has never made much of a mark in that particular department, although his great ambition is to shine therein. Many years ago he published a small volume of poems, conspicuous for their lyrical finish and for no little measure of imaginative insight. He has tried his hand at all sorts of pieces, farce, comedy and melodrama. But so far his success has been limited to the romantic, pseudo-historical play. He is a pleasant companion and a keen golfer.

I have already said something about "Don," Rudolf Besier's new three-act comedy, produced by Herbert Trench at the Haymarket on Tuesday last. The piece came out, in performance, exactly as I judged it would after reading the manuscript. It is everything by turn and nothing long, and if the author really believes that his characters are genuine creatures of flesh and blood, I can only envy him his powers of self-deception. There can be no doubt that Besier possesses ability, but he has still a good deal to learn regarding the stage. Belonging to the younger school of playwrights he has already shown such decided promise that his future cannot but be watched with lively interest.

Up to recently he was a journalist, writing chiefly for the Daily Express, and also acting as subeditor of a monthly magazine. When Trench started at the Haymarket he offered Besier the post of reader and patcher-up of plays, at a salary of $2500 a year. This was just the thing for a man whose one desire was to live in the atmosphere of the theater and to devote his life to working for the stage. At the same time, Trench took an option on particularly favorable terms on all the plays Besier might write. Hence the production of "Don," as the first of the series.

After a little more than a month's career, "The Great Divide" is to be withdrawn at the Adelphi at the close of next week. Monday, the 25th inst., it will be replaced by Charles Rann Kennedy's "The Servant in the House," with Henry Miller as Bob Smith, Jack Barnes as the lord bishop of Lancashire, Guy Standing as the vicar, Edith Wynne Matthison as his wife, her original role, and Sydney Valentine as Manson. My own impression is that the Adelphi is much too big a theater for a play of this class, and that its chances of success would have been materially increased had a smaller house been selected. That, however, is Charles Frohman and George Edwardes's business, not mine. Whatever may be the fate of Kennedy's play, its successor has already been arranged for. I think I told you that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle himself put up a large proportion of the sum necessary to produce and to run "Fires of Fate" at the Lyric. As it happens he did pretty well by the deal, and—unlike so many who have burned their fingers in theatrical speculations—he has had no reason to regret his temerity. Encouraged by the results he is now determined to have another shy at West End management.

Some years ago he wrote a drama founded upon his well-known novel, "Rodney Stone." The piece has been hawked about a good deal and at one time Doyle had great hopes that Arthur Collins would do it at Drury Lane. That, however, was not to be, and the manuscript, after many wanderings, eventually found its way back to his hands. Confident that it contains the elements of success, he has decided to back his opinion with his own money and is putting up $15,000 in order to stage the play. As usual, he has a moral to point. In this instance the truth he endeavors to inculcate is that England owes much of her greatness to the spirit which in the days of Tom and Jerry animated the professional pugilist. It is, then, according to arrangements concluded this week, "Rodney Stone" that will follow "The Servant in the House" at the Adelphi.

Both J. M. Barrie and Evie Greene have, during the last two days, obtained a divorce from their respective partners. In the case of the former a strenuous attempt was made to keep all the proceedings secret, a letter signed by a noble lord on behalf of a number of distinguished literary gentlemen having been addressed to the editors of the principal London papers begging that no reference to the subject should be permitted in their columns. Of course, the letter was generally regarded as an impertinence; nevertheless no unusual prominence has, except in very rare cases, been given to the matter. I understand that Barrie has behaved very handsomely toward his wife, having seen to it that she is well provided for. Gilbert Cannan, the co-respondent, has also bound himself to marry her as soon as the prescribed interval of six months has expired. As to Evie Greene's suit, it is a very commonplace story. In 1898 she married young Richard Temple, who in 1902 went to America, whence he addressed a letter to his expectant wife saying that he was wholly indifferent as to what course she might

Sir Charles Wyndham is again in town and yesterday I ran across him at the Garrick Club.

"I am enjoying my masterly inactivity," he said, "and have at present no intention of appearing in London at any rate. The chances are, however, that I and Mary Moore will make another trip to America before or about the end of the year. But even that is still indefinite."

By the bye, there was a distinct attempt made to bring Sir Charles and Mary Moore back to the west-end stage only a week or two ago. The time is approaching when "Madame X" at the Globe must be withdrawn, but in order to give "Dot" Boucicault a rest—he has had more than enough to do lately superintending Frohman's various productions—it was proposed, pending the presentation of a new play, to have a revival of "Mrs. Dane's Defense" with Sir Charles, Mary Moore and Lena Ashwell in their original parts. Wyndham took such a long time to make up his mind that the scheme had to be abandoned, and yesterday a new play was read to the company. It is called "The Great Mrs. Alloway." The author signs himself Douglas Murray, but this is a pseudonym covering the identity of a writer who prefers for the moment to remain unknown. "The Great Mrs. Alloway" belongs to the school of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray." The heroine is a lady of very doubtful reputation who has notoriously been the chère amie of various distinguished officers in India, where she has played the part of garrison hack for many years. It is not exactly a pleasant character, but the author contrives somehow to give his story a happy ending. The part has been assigned to Lena Ashwell, who seems destined to be associated with roles of a morbid and depressing nature.

"False Gods" at His Majesty's has had rather a heavy drop and Tree, consequently, is now considering what his next production is to be. A revival of "Pinkie and the Fairies" is due on December 16, so a stop-gap is all that is required. His choice at present lies between "Beethoven," adapted by Louis N. Parker from the French; "Israel," in which Constance Collier appears in New York this autumn, and "King John," but it is about a hundred to one that the first named will be finally selected. A description of the play I must hold over till next week, as I have already exceeded my limits.

A Unionite.

"What are you doing here?"

"Waitin' for the wagon."

"Well, it's in the ditch, far down the road. Better go and help it out."

"My friend," replied the lazy one. "My task is to wait for the wagon—not to play hoss to it."—[Atlanta Constitution.

THE EVER YOUNG.

ELIZABETH AKERS ALLEN, who wrote the famous poem, "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," fifty years ago, is 77 years old. Born in Maine, she began to write when she was a girl of 15.

Capt. Charles E. Shillaber, who is building a canal from Tampico to Tuxpam for the Mexican government, is 70 years old. He was a sailor twenty-three years and his great-grandfather, William Shillaber, was on the Bon Homme Richard with Paul Jones when he captured the Serapis in the English Channel after a desperate fight.

At 73, it is announced Sir William Schwenck Gilbert is at work on a new comic opera which will shortly be produced at the Savoy Theater in London. The hopes of a generation which first witnessed the production of the series a piece by Gilbert and Sullivan, and have since mourned that golden age of the stage, will be raised by the news.

For fifty-one years Isaac W. Hallam has served the same telegraph company at Wilmington, Del. During all that time he has not missed a day at his desk, with the exception of a furlough of one week that he took in 1864 for a honeymoon. Mr. Hallam is now in his eighty-second year. He entered the service of the Western Union Company in 1858, at the age of 30. During the Civil War he was pressed into his country's telegraph work. He prizes an honorable discharge from the military telegraph service.

D. O. Mills, who is now 84 years old, was elected vice-president of the Bank of New York recently. So far as could be learned, Mr. Mills is the oldest man ever elected to such a high position in a large New York bank. Despite his age he is actively engaged in business and is a director of thirty important corporations.

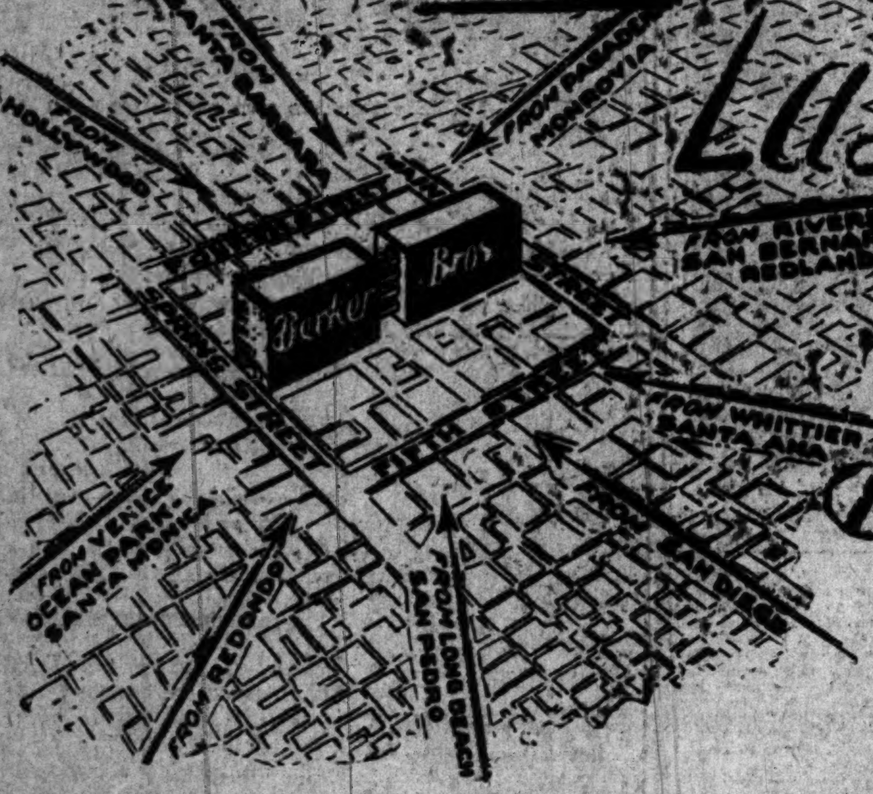
The oldest college janitor in this country, Harlow Raymond, who has been caretaker of the Wesleyan University building for forty-five years, has sent in his resignation, to take effect next March. November 12 he will be 80 years old, and is still hale and hearty. To several generations of Wesleyan men he is affectionately known as "Doc" Raymond.

Riding on the cowcatcher of a fast passenger locomotive, Frank Lutz, 70 yearsold, of Sunbury, Md., had what he termed a delightful experience, recently. Lutz crawled on the front of the engine at South Danville and was arrested for illegal car riding when he alighted in Sunbury.

Killed by Wild Beasts.

A careful record is kept of the persons killed in India by wild beasts, etc., each year. The figures for the last year have just been given out, and they are appalling. Here they are: Number killed by snakebites, 21,400; by tigers, 800; by other wild beasts, 1200; total, 23,400. There were also about 100,000 cattle reported killed by beasts and snakes. A large part of these sacrifices are chargeable to the Hindu religion and customs, which forbid the people to take the life of animals.—[The Pathfinder

Come NOW—From Far and Near!



Last two weeks of Barker Bros' Big Removal Sale

The bargains you'll find here this week—and next—will more than repay your coming. That's a big message in fewest possible words. Take it at its full face value—just as emphatically as you please—and you'll not be disappointed.

¶ November 15 we must be ready for business in our new Broadway store. During the next two weeks we want to sell every piece of household furniture in our present display line—and at prices you'll not be likely to duplicate again.

¶ Since our sweeping Removal Sale began, we've practically "turned over" our stock. With very few exceptions, everything now on our floors is new this season. But even though this stock is new, we do not want to move a piece of it to our new store, for in our warehouse we have another complete new sample line ready to go into our new building. We therefore wish to close out our present stock absolutely and without reserve, and shall make every effort to accomplish our object to the fullest possible point.

REVOLUTION DRAMA IN GREECE CENTERS AROUND CROWN PRINCE.

Why the Army Refuses to Have Him for Its Commander-in-Chief, and Why Poor Old King George Thinks Seriously of Abdicating.

[illegible] [SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

ATHENS, Oct. 18.—Four actors are taking part in the latest Grecian drama—a King, a Crown Prince, an ex-Prime Minister, and a soldier. The soldier, Col. Zorbas, head of the "Officers' Union," is the man of the day at Athens, where the scene is laid. It is he who led the coup d'état of a few weeks back, when the officers demanded the reform of their own army and the discharge of their commander-in-chief—or diadoque.

The fact that the diadoque is no less a personage than the Crown Prince—better known abroad as Constantine, Duke of Sparta—and was made commander-in-chief by act of Parliament, nine years ago, renders the situation more exciting. He was told by his subordinates that he must leave the country at once and take his brother with him.

The Prime Minister, M. Theotokis, said "Nonsense," and M. Theotokis was forced to resign. He did so, but has not done talking yet.

The only man who says nothing is the King, who lets the others, with their followers, quarrel around him. They say he will abdicate; but for a few weeks hence nothing will be known for certain. The plot of this play—which may involve a crown, and certainly concerns a nation closely, is this:

The diadoque was appointed commander-in-chief of the army, with instructions from the nation to reform it. He was to bring a distinguished foreign officer to help him. So far, no foreign officer has come, and, so Col. Zorbas says, the state of the army is far worse than it was nine years ago. The Greek army has compulsory service, and, nominally, 22,000 men. But, as there is no money in the treasury, they are discharged from June 1 to November 1 every year, and, thereby, lose any good they might get from maneuvers. They have no guns, no ammunition, no uniform and no staff. The War Office and Minister, the "union" says, have been abolished, and the diadoque has given all the colonelcies, generalships and staff appointments to favorites, who have had no military training, while men who have served since 1882 are still captains.

A "UNION."

All this has caused great discontent in the army, and the "Union of Officers" was the result. They have sworn to carry out reforms at all costs, and all their men have sworn to go with them. Even the people, and what is more, the politicians, uphold them. "Greece's days are numbered with such an army as we have now," they say. "The Turks or Bulgarians can take us whenever they wish." And the Hellenic nation is thoroughly alarmed at the prospect of another period of bondage.

The "union" does not stop at blaming the diadoque. To its mind, M. Theotokis is equally to blame. It accuses him of mismanaging public money and behaving as a traitor. Its leaders brought all their soldiers out of barracks, and refused to return till he was dimissed from power, and the King had promised to convoke the Chamber of Deputies early in the autumn. The date was fixed for October 3, but has now been postponed. When this takes place, the "union," with Zorbas to lead it, has promised to begin reforms, not only in the army, but in the government as well.

Col. Zorbas is an outspoken, bluff soldier. He declares himelf to be absolutely loyal, and, in a proclamation he recently addressed to the Hellenes, urges them to show every respect toward the dynasty and Constitution. In the course of an interview he said:

"The miserable state of the country since her deliverance, all the depravity of parties and perversion of politics have had disastrous results, and led the country to ruin, beyond any conception that could have been formed. Our poor country has had to suffer humiliations worse than death itself. We soldiers have felt these humiliations more than any other part of the nation. The evil reached a pitch that could only find vent in revolution. Nevertheless, this movement is not essentially a military one. It is a national act, because it voices what the nation has been feeling, but was too weak to express, for a very long time. We want to change the whole political machine, which has shown itself quite out of gear. Our demands are not in the least anti-dynastic. Even our resolution to abolish the commander-in-chief is purely a professional one.

"The whole nation is devoted to King George and his family, and so is the army. When the news came that he had signed the amnesty, the first thing every officer did was to cry 'Long live the King,' a cry which was enthusiastically repeated by the whole army. I do not know what the King thinks at present, but he is clear-headed, and knows how to sum up events at their right value. My conviction is that he will not abdicate, but will assure the reëstablishment of a normal situation by his spirit of economy.

DESPERATE.

"But we are determined to stick at nothing in carrying out our programme of reforms. We can put up no longer with the present state of affairs. Rather than do that, we will face civil war, foreign occupation, anything. Either the nation will be delivered, or she will perish completely. We will destroy all the parties who strive to ruin our king, for we must save our country and set our people free, because they are more enslaved than the Young Turks were under the old régime. We know perfectly well that we have transgressed, the law and that our coup d'etat was unconstitutional. But what are we to do? Extraordinary circumstances call for extraordinary measures. For the rest, King George has given us reasons and approved of them in forming a new cabinet."

Constantine, Duke of Sparta, the Diadoque, was born in Athens forty-one years ago. His wife is Sophia, Duchess of Prussia. He is said to be far more of a German than a Greek in his tastes. Indeed, he is only a Hellene inasmuch as he was born in Greece, for his father is a Dane and his mother a Russian. He is now in Germany, where the "Officers' Union" say he should remain for at least two years. But at Brindisi, where he stayed for a short time en route for Berlin, he told the representative of a Roman paper that he fully intended to return to Greece when the Chamber of Deputies opens. He said to some officers who went to bid him good-by:

"I have always worked for the good of the army. If I have been strict at times it was because discipline required it. But the fact that the whole army has revolted proves that it has some just grievance. Time alone will show where the truth lies. They accuse me of having favorites. I wish they would show them to me as well as those to whom I have been unfavorable or unjust."

IN THE DARK.

The "Union" demands that he should be deprived of his command, and the army has so plainly showed it does not want him that M. Theotokis urged the King to send him away on long leave. As the post he fills can only be abolished by act of the chamber, his duties are nominally fulfilled by a Gen. Smolensky; but practically the country is in the hands of the military dictatorship.

He not only says a great deal himself, but authorizes M. Theotokis to say a good deal more for him. The King has only spoken once, and his subjects infer, from what he says, that he has been kept in ignorance of the true state of affairs. The occasion on which he spoke was this: A distinguished naval officer was received by His Majesty. One of the first questions asked was whether the officer approved of and had taken part in the recent coup d'etat. When the officer answered in the affirmative, King George asked:

"What have I and my children done to arouse such exasperation among the officers?" The officer assured him that the movement was directed neither against the King nor the princes, at which the King said:

"But these things could have been done quietly by means of a committee of officers who could have come to me and put me in touch with their demands and the situation. Those who informed me of the movement represented it as of no importance—a thing confined to a hundred officers and by no means representative of the whole corps. They are at fault inasmuch as they did not bring their complaints to the commander-in-chief. I have always done all I could for the country. I hope that the new chamber will adopt all the measures that the government will present to it. I prefer to abdicate rather than push the nation toward a catastrophe."

In Russian diplomatic circles it is said that King George has often spoken of his abdication lately. M. Theotokis, who has been His Majesty's adviser for so many years, has thrown down the gauntlet to the army by declaring that he and his party will never vote for the abolition of the commandership-in-chief.

"All these reforms," he says, "are but mid-summer madness. They will fade away as soon as the autumn session comes. It is impossible to find millions by magic—and how else do you intend to reorganize our army and navy?" This statement was noised abroad and produced a letter from a Gen. Botzan (one of the "Union's" most active members) headed: "Make your will." The letter is too long to give in extenso, but the following points in it throw much light on the situation and the way controversy is carried on in Greece. It will be borne in mind that it is as if the general in command of the American army wrote thus to President Taft.

THE THREATENING LETTER.

"The only thing left for you to do," the letter runs, "since a generous Hellenic people allows you to exist, is to shut yourself up in a monastery where, with prayers and lamentations, you can ask God to forgive you for all the sins and treasons you have been guilty of during the past twelve years.

"The fact that Greece has no army today is your work. More than that, Greece is without administration, without justice, without security, while you have swallowed one hundred and thirty millions of drachmas" (a drachma is worth about 20 cents.) The letter concludes with:

"It is true that the Constitution allows you to enter the chamber so long as the nation has not yet ordered your hanging; but the Constitution does not suppose that you are going to enter it in order to commit new sins and continue your work of treason by faithfully serving the country's enemies. George Theotokis! If you come into the capital to overturn a government, beloved by King and people, and to continue your disastrous work, make your will before coming here, because, before trying to accomplish your infamous ideas, you must reckon with the people, the King, and the army."

In the meantime the situation of their country has attracted the attention of patriotic Greeks abroad. M. Corgialegno, one of the most prominent members of the Greek community in London, has telegraphed to King George putting at his disposal $100,000 as "a first installment for military and other reforms."

He adds in his telegram that he expects that these reforms "will have as their corner-stone the strengthening and prestige of the dynasty" and hopes that other patriots will follow his example.

A Fair Mountain Climber.

Alma Hollingsworth of Portland, Or., has made one of the fastest of all ascents of Mount Hood. She has far surpassed the climbing records of other women who have gone up the mountain, and only three men have beaten her speed, both on snow line and on the descent. With three friends and a guide she reached the snow line in the afternoon. There part of the night was spent, and in a few hours the party began to go through the five miles of snow to the summit. The start was made at 2:30 a.m., and the crest was reached at noon. Here an hour was spent and then the descent began. It was continued all the way down the mountain and on to a hotel, reached at 11 p.m., giving a total distance for the day of twenty-eight miles. A dance was in progress in the hotel and Miss Hollingsworth had enough energy left for a lively two-step.—[Detroit News.

Of Our Going Into Business Falls On

Wednesday, November 3

On that day we will give a 10 per cent. discount on all cash sales over 50c. Goods sold at this special reduction will not afterwards be exchanged.

Twenty years ago we opened business with thirty feet of space, occupying only half of the store on Second street, between Spring and Broadway. At this time we carried only art needlework. Today we occupy the entire four floors of our present location and have not only greatly enlarged our art department, but have added a complete and perfectly equipped line of "Infants' and Juvenile Clothing," the largest "Toy Room" in the city and a "Dressmaking Establishment" for ladies and children.

It has always been our policy to offer superior and high class goods and we have never allowed quality to suffer in order to create low prices. We thank our friends for enabling us to carry out this resolution and for giving us their confidence and support.

It Pays to Advertise—the Truth

Newspaper advertising has not lost its value as a medium of reaching large numbers of people quickly, economically and effectively. If we knew of a better way we most certainly would take advantage of it. Our newspaper advertising pays and we believe there is a reason why.

The newspapers furnish the conveyance to carry our story of Good Furniture, Business Policy and Store Methods direct to the people. It is a cheap, effective form of transportation.

It is up to us, however, to place in that space, which we buy, trade arguments that will appeal to the good judgment of the reader. Our advertisements must be creditable. Aside from any question of moral ethics we do not feel that we can afford to misrepresent or mislead in the slightest particular in any of our statements regarding our goods or our prices.

When we went into business we naturally asked for patronage and we felt that the public had a right to know something of us, our merchandise and what we were willing to do. It was for this reason that we felt called upon to disclose our manner of doing business and in these business talks we have had some rather plain things to say about the furniture business. We have not been criticising men but methods.

We believe that Los Angeles has as high integrity among its merchants as is to be found in any other city in America. The misrepresentation in advertising which we have been called upon to denounce is not confined to Los Angeles or California alone—it is a sort of disease that has spread throughout the country.

We are glad to note that many firms are now publishing more rational statements and we predict that the time is not far distant when advertisements will breathe a spirit of fairness and honesty and things will be called by their right names.

When you are ready to purchase anything in our line, whether it be a single chair or a rug, furnish a cottage or a mansion, remember Pease Brothers. Remember what we have said regarding "Discount Sales." Remember what we have said about so-called "Leaders." Remember what we have said about "Rational Credit." Remember what we have said about "Guaranteed Merchandise."

Remember that we have ONE PRICE and that price is reasonable and lower than you can buy the same grade of merchandise elsewhere. Remember that our credit prices are the same as our cash prices except that you lose the 2 per cent. cash discount and pay a moderate rate of interest on deferred payments. Give us the benefit of any doubt which you may have and come and see us. We invite the most careful comparison of goods and prices.

BREEDING.

FLOCKMEN RAISING A NEW KIND OF SHEEP ON WESTERN RANGE.

Interesting Experiment at Laramie, Wyoming, Where Government Experts Hope to Produce a Typically American Sheep—Will Save Thousands of Dollars Spent Abroad in Keeping Up Standard of Flocks.

A Buck Raised Among Range Conditions at Laramie Experiment Station.

LARAMIE (Wyo.) Oct. 25.—One of the most interesting and vital experiments ever carried on in the live stock field by the United States government is under way at the University of Wyoming experiment station, on the Laramie plains, where Uncle Sam is endeavoring to raise a kind of sheep that may properly be called typically American.

Millions of dollars are lost by American flockmasters every year through the deterioration of imported breeds of sheep. The fancy sheep brought in from other countries do not seem to thrive under the conditions found on the far western sheep range. What is wanted is a kind of sheep that will stand the hard winters without an appreciable loss in weight and wool clip. It is believed that, through proper breeding and acclimatizing, an entirely new breed of sheep can be raised that will answer every requirement.

This interesting experiment was begun some four years ago, and sufficient progress has been made to indicate that the experts in charge of the work are on the right trail and that a splendid new type of sheep—typically western range animal—will result. The experiment is being conducted by the Departmen of Agriculture, with the assistance of experts from the University of Wyoming, which is located at Laramie. The old Wyoming State Penitentiary, which stands out on the plains a short distance from Laramie, is being used as an experiment station, and here the fine sheep that form the basis of the "sheep of the future" are closely watched and cared for.

The Laramie plains, on which the experiment station is located, are in the midst of the greatest sheep country in the United States. Last year Wyoming distanced its nearest competitor, Montana, in its production of mutton and wool. A few years ago the cattle industry was the chief business of Wyoming stockmen, but lately the balance has moved in favor of sheep. Hundreds of stockmen have gone out of the cattle business and have taken up the raising of sheep. The rapid restriction of the range is one of the chief reasons for the change. Cattle require a wide range, whereas sheep are "close feeders," and nibble off every bit of grass as they go along. Inasmuch as the range is rapidly being settled by ranchmen, this one characteristic goes a long way toward explaining Wyoming's sudden change from a cattle to a sheep State. Hundreds of thousands of sheep graze on the plains surrounding Laramie. The sheep are kept in bands of about 2500 in charge of herders. In the summer they move to the mountains to the west, but as winter comes on they return to the winter range on the plains. The herders live in canvas-covered wagons, and are comfortable even in the severe storms which occasionally sweep across the plains.

The grass on the high plains in the Rocky Mountain region is highly nutritious, and is very beneficial to sheep as well as cattle. It is short, and cures on the stalk, and there is no reason why the plains country should not be the greatest sheep producing locality in the world. But several things have kept America from gaining supremacy as a sheep producing country. The chief thing is the rapid deterioration of imported sheep under new conditions. Every factor in the environment of the sheep is changed. The high-priced sheep brought to this country from abroad to improve the American stock are used to a well wooded, well watered and comparatively humid climate. They are moved to a country that is treeless and where the water supply is scarce. The conditions are in every way different from the environments to which the sheep are accustomed.

Sheep are the most sensitive of animals, in feeling any change of environment, and it is not long before they show the effect of their sudden transplanting to a treeless country, where there is more sunshine and more extreme change in temperature, and where the soil is entirely different, being dryer and richer in minerals and alkali salts. The feed consists of scanty, short grasses and forage which contains less moisture, more mineral matter, more protein, greater digestibility and less variation in their nutritive qualities throughout the year.

The vegetation in this western country is more difficult to obtain than the luxurious vegetation of humid countries, and more exercise is required in the process of feeding. This is a tax on the constitution to which the range sheep must become accustomed. There is no protection of trees, fences or buildings, and the sheep must withstand great climate changes in winter and summer.

Every year western stockmen spend many thousands of dollars importing fine sheep from abroad to increase the quality of their flocks. This is made necessary by the rapid deterioration of sheep under range conditions. For instance, the Rambouillet sheep, brought from France or the humid East to the Western range, begin to undergo a physical change at once. If the range conditions are not of the best they lose weight, and much of the oil that goes to produce a heavy fleece is consumed in giving warmth to the body. After a year or more, when the sheep has begun to get used to its conditions in a measure, there seems to be a marked variation in the amount of wool. Their offspring are given larger bone, because the mineral elements in the feed are extensive, and, in short, the Rambouillet sheep is going through the first stages of a course of evolution.

The average stockmen, however, does not have time nor opportunity to follow out the course nature has begun to plan. He must get his sheep to market. He brings in new imported sheep to keep his wool clip to the highest point of profit, and can not afford to follow the evolution of the sheep beyond its first stages. It is with the idea of carrying out the course of evolution to its natural conclusion that Uncle Sam steps in and conducts this sheep experiment at Laramie.

At the experiment station there are splendid examples of the finest varieties of sheep. The finest were taken to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition this summer, and were awarded forty-six first premiums, seventeen second premiums and eleven minor awards, breaking all records for experiment stations. These sheep are being fed under typical range conditions, and the changes are being recorded with the minutest care. A physical change is noticeable today, as well as constant change in the quality and amount of the wool produced by the sheep. Eventually, there is every reason to believe, a typical range animal will be produced—a sheep that will thrive under western conditions and that will put America in the forefront of all sheep and wool producing countries.

It is difficult for the uninitiated to realize what is meant to the nation by a light increase in the wool clip alone. Several years ago a sheepman of Southern Wyoming began importing fine Rambouillet sheep for the improvement of his stock. He spent thousands of dollars every year, and brought over the finest sheep he could buy in France. Every year he went abroad and personally superintended the purchase of these fine rams. As a result, he more than doubled the wool clip from his flock. He brought his fleeces from a scant eight pounds average to fifteen pounds—something unheard of in Wyoming, where the severe winters tend to lighten the amount of oil in the wool, thereby lessening the wool clip. By constant importation, however, this Wyoming flockmaster was able to bring his average wool fleece to the high average attained by winters result in giving the sheep a very heavy fleece.

Such instances demonstrate that sheep, despite the fact that they have been domesticated so long, being the first animals to be bred and cared for by man, are still plastic and capable of very important changes, which will make them more suitable to the conditions under which they are being produced.

The experiment, now being quietly carried on under the frowning penitentiary walls that housed so many "bad men" in the days of Wyoming as a frontier State, means a revolution in the sheep business in the West if it fulfills the expectations of the government experts who are behind it. When the typical range sheep has been produced a sheep that will yield the greatest amount of wool and the greatest amount of mutton, and that will not have to be "built up" by constant and expensive importations—all the sheep States in the West will be benefited. Sheep men will improve their flocks with the new American sheep, instead of sending abroad and eventually all the flocks on the range will be composed of typical range animals, having characteristics all their own and thriving under the conditions peculiar to our western range.

The sheep experiment is much like the important experiment being carried on by the government at Fort Collins, Colo., where an American carriage horse is being developed under the same plains environment. Horse raisers in this country, like sheep raisers, are compelled to send abroad in order to keep up the standard of their stock, and the government is experimenting with a view of obviating this necessity and giving the American stockman a horse that will be typical of the country in which it is raised.

His Circumspect Period.

Two ladies, previously unacquainted, were conversing at a reception. After a few conversational remarks the younger exclaimed: "I cannot think what has upset that tall blond man over there. He was so attentive a little while ago, and he won't look at me now."

"Perhaps," said the other, "he saw me come in. He's my husband."—[Philadelphia Inquirer

DIRIGIBLE WAR BALLOONS.

BY H. BELLOC.

The theory of the dirigible balloon has been studied thoroughly enough to need no further discussion of its action in time of war.

The interest of the moment is that this theory has for the first time been tested in practice, or at least in partial practice, during the great continental maneuvers which have just concluded, and it may not be without interest for the public if one who has just watched the action of a dirigible and heard the criticisms passed upon that instrument of war by those competent to judge should summarize the lessons which observation and experience have drawn from the action of balloons in those maneuvers.

THE FOUR MAIN POINTS.

There are four main points of interest. First, what is the role of such instrument of war; that is, what advantage are they capable of giving to the army to which they are attached? Secondly, what are the limitations to their action? Thirdly, what is their degree of vulnerability? And fourthly, what are the methods, if any, whereby their action in the hands of an enemy can be guarded against short of direct attack?

ROLE OF A DIRIGIBLE.

As to the first of these, it should be clearly seized that the chief, and one might say the only, role of the dirigible balloon is to survey the position of the enemy just before or immediately after contact. The great armies of modern powers, the rapidity with which modern news can be transmitted, the necessity for the use of railways in mobilization, and twenty other modern conditions do not make the general scheme of mobilization and concentration at the front a matter of supreme and secret interest to an opponent. There are certain lines on which, for instance, the German forces must move in the preliminaries of mobilization and concentration towards the West in case of a war with France, and there are certain other lines upon which the French forces must move towards the east under such conditions. But what every commander must try to hide and what it is most his business to keep secret are the last dispositions before combat; it is the discovery of these which has formed for generations the whole art of scouting, reconnoitering, and reconnoissance. It is this which has made all great commanders say of cavalry that it is the eyes and the ears of an army. Now it is evident that from a balloon in clear weather and by daylight these dispositions as they are now arranged must lie clearly open, and the next thing to appreciate is that the discovery of them is not only facile, it is also immediate; the score or more of points in which cavalry used tentatively to guess at what lay behind the heads or outposts they had discovered are now replaced by a plain map lying below one upon which the whole arrangement of the enemy's forces lies visibly plotted out. Where a very broad sweep of country is concerned, and where—as would seem necessary under modern conditions—a very broad front is involved, two to three hours at the most suffice for the business.

LIMITATIONS IN USE.

If the simplest and handiest form of balloon be chosen, and the simplest and most mechanical means for the transmission of the information it has gathered, what are the limitations to its action? They are the weather, and the unreliability of its machine; to which may be added the greater or less necessity under which it may lie in the matter of anchorage and protection. The refilling of the bag, another important point, is hardly a limitation under the conditions of Western Europe. It could always be refilled at or near the headquarters to which it is attached. But the other limitations apply everywhere. The reliability of the machine is mainly a question of weight. The accidents to which balloons and aëroplanes have been subject in the past in this regard have for the most part proceeded from the attempt to cut down weight to a dangerous limit. And the general conclusion here is in a line with that which one reaches in other aspects of the problem, to wit, that simplicity and reliability are in war so immeasurably important that it is well to sacrifice to them in a military machine what might not perhaps be sacrificed under peace or civilian conditions; and that the designer of the machine to be used upon a war balloon should never endanger the reliability of his engine from too close a consideration of weight. It may be urged that caution in this respect is paid for in speed. This is true; all design, nautical or aërial, is a compromise between various factors of efficiency; but undoubtedly, considering the very high speeds obtainable in any case, and conversely, the impossibility of using these machines, at present, at least, in very windy weather, against which a slight extra speed is no advantage, the cost in speed is well repaid by a certitude of smooth and reliable working. An argument that should not be omitted at this point is to the effect that a dirigible, if it has trouble with its machinery in its flight over an enemy's territory, can secure itself by throwing out ballast and immediately rising beyond any possible danger. But such a maneuver would not guarantee final safety; it would put the balloon out of touch with its own headquarters (the conveyance of information to which is the whole reason of its existence) and it would leave the instrument at the mercy of higher currents as well.

No one who has seen the evolution of one of these implements of war over a body of troops can doubt that their chief security lies in speed and certitude of evolution. To be able to go where they want to go, to turn rapidly, to be able to dart away from danger, and to be certain all the while that your machinery will continue to serve you are the conditions of safety, and therefore of efficiency. The factor of weather has already been alluded to in these columns, and is perhaps too obvious to need any lengthy detail. One or two points, however, which appeared during the recent maneuvers on the continent are worth remarking, as, for instance, that there is a type of weather with low misty clouds, and the air fairly clear between them and the earth, during which the dirigible is particularly useful, and it is a type of weather fairly common in England. In it (as was clearly apparent during the second day's maneuvers of the "Republique," under the command of and at the service of General Robert) a dirigible possesses a sort of natural cover of which it can take advantage; and can, in certain cases, actually see without being seen, or at least can see long before it is seen. No statistical abstract has yet been drawn up of the proportion of time during which a dirigible balloon could be of use in England's climate or that of Northern France or Western Germany. It has indeed been estimated that so far as the force of the wind is concerned it would not be out of action more than one day in three. But to this very rough calculation would have to be added statistics of fog, of heavy rain, and of the times whether of light or of darkness during which conditions inimical to the use of the dirigible prevailed. It has been roughly guessed that more than a third perhaps, but considerably less than a half, of the total daylight in the year was suitable for these operations in the present state of the art.

VULNERABILITY OF DIRIGIBLE.

As to the vulnerability of the dirigibile, it may be said that attack by artillery might in most cases be disregarded, and that danger from rifle fire is in practice very much less than the mere statistics of the case might give the theoretician to believe. And this comparative immunity is due to three factors: The lack of any objects by which to judge the range, the rapidity of movement attainable by the mark, and the perpendicular or nearly perpendicular line of fire. There still remains, however, very debatable ground between the 2000 or 2100 feet of the French estimates and the 2500 or even 4000 of certain German experts. These last, of course, provide absolute immunity; but the real point of interest is to determine the minimum of safety, for the lower the balloon can go (within certain limits) the more detailed and accurate the observations. There is certainly a fixed conviction in the French service that the limit can be placed far lower than had hitherto been imagined. Certitude, however, can only be attained upon active service. There must necessarily develop in the near future the action of dirigible against dirigible. That is certain. It arises from the very nature of the instrument, and it is further certain that when this has to be faced, speed not armament will decide that issue.

CONVERTED.

FLITS FROM THE STAGE TO JOIN SALVATION ARMY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—Madame Hedwig Wangel, the brilliantly clever and charming character actress of the Deutsches Theater, Berlin's leading playhouse, who, at the height of a magnificent stage career, has just abandoned the boards to join the Salvation Army, has disappeared, leaving the public agog with excitement and her strange determination the subject of universal speculation.

She separated from her husband a month ago, and had gradually begun to dispose of the art treasures with which her luxuriously furnished apartment was filled. When, the day after Hedwig Wangel sent her letter announcing her retirement from the stage to her management, a fellow-actress called to see her, she found her with a Salvation Army officer and her maid in prayer. Now she has vanished, but a few intimates know the remote spot whither she has retired to prepare to devote her life to religion. Save for the fact that she admits her conversion was brought about by the Heilsarmee as the Germans call the Salvation Army, and that she has been in frequent touch with Salvationists it is not known whether she will become an active officer. The Berlin headquarters have not yet been told that she is to join in the work of rescue and evangelization in the haunts of vice and misery of the German capital. The actress herself declares she does not know what path she will follow: "God will show me the way," is her cry.

Poke Bonnet to Take the Place of This Hat.
Favorite photograph of Hedwig Wangel, the Berlin actress, who has abandoned the stage for the Salvation Army.

It was on August 27, last, that Hedwig Wangel, acting in the Deutsches Theater company, which was giving a series of performances from its famous repertory of the classics, Shakespeare, Schiller and Goethe, at the International Aëronautic Exhibition at Frankfurt-on-Main, took her extraordinary resolve. She was the best German character actress living; in comedy roles in particular, she excelled, and her infectious laugh, her effervescent humor and her perfect naturalness formed a combination which the German public found irresistible. Especially in make-up she was a mistress of her art. Absolutely without conceit, she cheerfully disfigured her laughing features, blacking out her pearly white teeth, scraping back her hair and hunching up her body till no one who was not acquainted with her little mannerisms would have recognised in the wrinkled old hag the magnetic personality and physical attraction of the actress.

Strolling through the Frankfurt streets with her mother this August afternoon, she went into a Salvation Army "review," where Commander Oliphant, the Berlin head officer, a tall striking figure with long waving black beard and flashing eyes, was haranguing a great throng. When the commander spoke of aëroplanes and airships in the metaphorical language beloved of the "army," the fair Hedwig smiled, but when with a voice thrilling with inner feeling he told of the Salvation homes of rescue, the suicide bureau, and the cases of misery and misfortune, which daily come the way of Gen. Booth's officers, she smiled no more.

"We don't ask you 'What's your religion?'" cried the preacher, "but 'Are you hungry?'" and Hedwig almost wept. Then an old man with white hair mounted the pulpit and prayed with a wealth of gesture, opening wide his arms as if to gather in the penitents. And the first two to leave the ranks of spectators were Hedwig and her mother. They advanced to the penitents' bench, to which at the end of every Salvation Army meeting, all present, who repent are invited to come, and knelt down. That evening after playing her part as Martha, the foul old pander in "Faust," she went to Commander Olliphant and told him of her momentous resolve. And it was not long before her fellow-actors and actresses at the theater noticed the change that had come over "Hedwig of the golden laughter," as people called her. She would pray in her dressing-room and distribute tracts to dressers and scene shifters, until one evening, again after playing her part in "Faust," she wrote to the management and announced her retirement from the stage.

Before she vanished into retreat she opened her heart to an old friend. He said to her: "How could you take so sudden a farewell from a profession which brought you success and honor?" And she replied:

"The stage and honor? A woman who has served the theater as heroically as I have must eventually lose her soul. Do you know what the stage is? It is corruption. Why was my decision so sudden? It was not sudden. For the past two years I have been thinking of leaving the stage and the world and devoting myself altogether to the Saviour. How I shall set about it, I don't yet know. I don't know that I shall enter the Salvation Army.

"It was my awakener that day I attended the meeting, but not my leader. The change I was undergoing was nourished but I do not know yet the path I shall tread; God will show me the way. I follow Christ, He has made His voice heard within me. He will call me and I will follow Him. I have cast off everything worldly, nothing restrains me longer and now that I have given up my home, and my family to serve God, it will not be hard to abandon my art in which I saw so much sin. Yes, I have cast off everything of this world, everything, everything—yet, yet—" And then for a moment the old Hedwig Wangel peeped out, the laughing actress, the coquette. "Please," she said, "please correct a false statement, they are making about me. I am not 37, as the papers say, nor have I been only seven years on the stage. I am only 34—yesterday was my birthday—and I have been acting for eighteen years. The Urania in Berlin was my first playhouse as the Deutsches Theater is my last."

"My resolve finally to relinquish everything earthly and to consecrate myself wholly to Christ and the love of God he preached was strengthened by the death of our advisory manager, Alexander Strakosch. His passing was sudden and to the last his life was rich in earthly pleasures. He had to leave the world without preparation. In the hour of death he recognized the ingratitude of men and King Lear's words 'Ingratitude, ingratitude,' which he muttered, were directed at one of his pupils, who has now become a famous artiste. And when at the funeral, I saw them all there, the reconciled and the irreconciled, in real and feigned grief, as I saw them lower the Jew Strakosch, from whom the knowledge and love of the Lord were withheld, into his grave at the Jewish cemetery, I felt a horror of the ways of men. I had found the right way, the way I had so often sought after, the way which leaves all behind me, which leads me to the pure heights of the Lord. God will show me how I must go my way, but one thing is certain, that I will pursue it and never leave it, nor return to that which, in glad and repentant recognition, I have abandoned."

The Winds.

From the north and south, from the east and west,
The winds came forth one day;
They stopped a while to chat and rest,
Ere going on their way.

The North Wind roared: "In winter time
I reign alone, a king;
I drive the snow and off we go;
We whistle and we sing.
I enter into every house
Through weather strip and crack;
Though people face their flaming fires,
I chill them in the back."

"When I start out," the East Wind said,
"I carry April showers
And send them down into the ground
To waken all the flowers.
And as I leave I hear the birdies
Trying hard to sing,
While little green things gayly nod
Because they feel the spring."

The South Wind murmured soft and low:
"From places warm and fair
I come, where fragrant blossoms
Throw their perfume on the air,
I travel 'neath a cloudless sky;
I make no noise or din,
And with my gentle zephyrs' help
I blow the summer in."

The West Wind drew a sigh: "With you
I'll stay, and we together."
He said, "May gladen weary hearts
By making pleasant weather."

Preached in a Beer Garden.

Because the board of trustees decided that burning lights for Sunday-evening services during the summer was a useless expense, the Rev. Jacob E. Meeker of the Compton Heights Congregational Church, St. Louis, went to a summer garden and preached a fifteen-minute sermon to the pleasure-seekers. Patrons applauded.

The minister occupied a platform facing numerous beer tables, a theater and a dancing pavilion. He declared a week ago that if the people would not come to hear him preach he would go where the people congregated and preach to them anyhow. About 1500 persons heard tonight's sermon.—[Chicago Record-Herald

The Herpicide Girl

With More Advice on the Care of the Hair

If every woman would do as I tell her, the makers of puffs, switches, transformations, rats, etc., would have to go out of business.

Wash the hair frequently, using Herpicide Soap. Apply Newbro's Herpicide regularly, twice or three times every week and watch the results. The change will be a most surprising one.

Let me show you a letter from my friend, Mrs. Dr. Best of Cottage Grove, Oregon. She says:

"I can say from experience that Newbro's Herpicide is the most wonderful hair grower and dandruff remover that was ever made. After using it for some time will say that I am greatly pleased. Herpicide is a splendid preparation."

Herpicides makes the hair beautiful allowing it to grow naturally and luxuriantly. Other preparations are claimed to be "just as good," but Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy. It kills the dandruff germ, prevents falling hair, stops itching of the scalp. Ask for genuine Herpicide and be sure you get it.

The announcement been made only to relatives and mate friends, and the wedding l be celebrated November 4.

ss Robinson is a niece of Col. Theodore Roosevelt and has been in society three years. Two years ago she passed a winter in Rome with her parents, where she was much admired. The wedding will be a very simple one, owing to the family being in mourning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and their son, Monroe Robinson, will leave soon after the wedding for a tour of the world.

HEREABOUTS.

VERY city has its social dictator. Some of these dictators manage to do other things than pink teas and fashionable . One of the dictators belonging the latter class and one well throughout the West, is Ed L. Howe of Portland, and Chi. He is dictator of the Portland contingent and has his princi business connections in Chicago. the recent western trip of the sident, Mr. Howe was chosen by citizens of Portland to take ge of the entertainment of the inguished guest, and arrange a gramme worth while. Reports ch followed the visit, showed how Mr. Howe carried out his plans. is owner of the famous "Lehowe" ranch, which this year prod nearly 15,000 boxes of apples which netted the owner a trifle than $40,000, an explanation of Mr. Howe has an unlimited faith the great Northwest. Mr. Howe at present a guest at the Van ys.

Dr. E. A. Starke of San Francisco guest at the Van Nuys. Dr. rke, or "Doc," as he is more faliarly known, is one of the leading erologists of the Standard Oil pany. His say means the opening ew fields. The Standard Oil Comy relies implicitly on his judgt as to the value of a new find. n his counsel is given for a cer district, the company proceeds to for oil. There are very few innces, if any, according to promi oil men, when the judgment of c" Starke has gone wrong in casting the outcome of a certain district.

F. McClean, a representative of Hudson Bay Company at Ken, Alaska, registered at the Lankim the past week. He is one of old-time adventurers of the thland, one who is still connected h a company which had its origin vious to the time of the Revolution d is still a big factor in the fur iness of the world. Mr. McClean ght tell stories by the hour of ird happenings in the land of snow. hen questioned about his being th the company, Mr. McClean said his father had been engaged in e fur business, and his father before m. "You can readily see that we ve come by our profession natally. Love of Alaska, the great thwestern reaches of Canada and the wilds in general, have kept r family in the forests." Despite s fact, Mr. McClean is well versed the ways of the city. He has travd not only in this country, but in rope and is a linguist of no mean ility.

"The call of Los Angeles to one o has lived there at one time or other, is as strong as the call to me," said Stan Norris, who with wife, is registered at the Hayard, from Brooklyn, where he is nager of a shoe factory. Previous going East, Mr. Norris was enged with the Broadway Department ore as chief buyer of the shoe dertment. "It is to get back and visit d f and particularly to resit the places of beauty about Los ngeles, that Mrs. Norris and myself cided on taking a trip West for a w weeks," said he. "The soft air, e balmy days of fall and the deghtful period of the present, was e lure that brought us all the way cross the country."

The gay life of the large cities of merica is oftentimes a cause of concernment for the foreign tourists, cording to Paul Wohl, who has en a guest at the Westminster ring the past week and whose me is in Nuremberg, Germany. He as been a resident of Chicago a ar, while studying American architure at the University of Chicago. nce the completion of the last rm, Mr. Wohl has been on a tour the country, visiting the larger ties. "We live in the opinion that merican cities are merely places here great wealth is accumulated. some inexplicable way, Europeans ve grown to believe there is little musement for the ordinary classes the large communities on the ther side of the water. A trip rough the United States soon dispates this belief. There are just as any theaters, nearly as many parks nd also great art galleries in this ountry, all of which would equal the ame variety of places in Europe." r. Wohl was particularly delighted n the homes of Los Angeles. Their architecture is more diversified than that of any other city in the United States," he said.

The story of a first visit, a return and finally the purchase of a home place in Southern California is aptly illustrated in the case of J. A. Wilson, a Chicago capitalist, who has been a guest at the Westminster the past week. Mr. Wilson came here about four years ago. He liked it and brought his family the following winter. Last winter he was on hand again and at that time invested in a large orange grove near Upland. At the close of the school year, when his son and daughter left the U. S. C., where they had attended, he returned to Chicago. This year the entire family will come again and will probably never return to the Windy City for residence.

Southern California is soon to have another hot springs hotel, according to John T. Ritchey, owner of Lithia Springs, near San Jacinto, who has been at the Hollenbeck for some time, while arranging plans for a new structure. "There are nine springs in a group, none of which have ever been developed to any extent. The Indians in years gone by, made the springs their camping grounds. At present, frequent finds of Indian utensils are made. They realized the curative powers of the waters and evidently used them considerably. The nine springs all carry different kinds of water, mostly various solutions of lithia from which they derived their names."

Arriving in Denver at the time of the great mining period, when the surrounding country was still young, H. H. Thomas, a well-known capitalist of that city, spoke graphically of the rise of the town to a modern community. It was his foresight in this rise that brought him a snug fortune and made it possible for him to indulge in recent years in the sport in which J. D. Rockefeller excels, namely golf. He is also an able violinist and has been gratifying his tastes for sport and music in Southern California a few weeks. He has been at the Lankershim, accompanied by his daughter-in-law and grand-daughter.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

RODMAN WANAMAKER has created the Wingate trophy for the Public Schools Athletic League in New York City, which is to be a perpetual prize for the school attaining the best standing in athletics each year. It is named for Gen. George W. Wingate, the founder of the league and well known for his sturdy citizenship.

Wilfred Stevens of Shakopee, Minn., translator in the service of the United States government, has a working knowledge of twenty-odd languages and can converse in as many dialects of various other tongues as may be demanded of him. He knows more diplomatic secrets than any official of the government, with the possible exception of the President and Secretary of State. In his capacity of chief translator of the State Department, he practically reads every secret message that comes to Washington from other governments. When he entered the State Department as a translator a little more than five years ago, he was familiar with nine languages, and since that time has mastered every language of political importance in the world. Mr. Stevens has recently perfected an entirely original classification of all the Chinese characters, whereby he is able to place his finger instantly on any one of the 12,000—something which is said to be impossible under any other classification now in use.

Hudson Maxim, the famous inventor of the deadly explosive, Maximite powder, is taking apart, piece by piece, the little wooden house in which he was born at Abbott, Me., and is removing it to his palatial summer home at Lake Hopatcong, and there setting it up as a reminder of the struggle he has had with life.

Henry Jaeger, an insurance man of St. Louis, is a French count by descent, through his mother from Charlemagne, and from the Bourbon kings of France. Nevertheless he has never used the title and cannot understand the craze of American women for such distinctions.

Dr. John A. Brashear of Pittsburgh is probably the most famous maker of optical instruments in the country. He started life as a roofing-mill machinist.

Michael Idvorsky Pupin, known as the inventor of wireless telephony, and who, according to report, received $800,000 for an invention which is used in long distance telephoning, worked his way through Columbia College. When Pupin came to this country from his native land of Hungary, he was without money, but he wanted an education and found employment. After his term at college he was able to earn funds enough as an electrician to permit him to study physics with Helmholz at the University of Berlin. Within five years after his graduation from Columbia he had gained the attention of some of the greater men of science by a brilliant article upon a very difficult and technical scientific question relating to one feature of electricity.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN.

GEN. OLIVER Assistant Secretary of War, and now acting as Secretary of tha tdepartment in the absence of Secretary Dickinson, has shown his interest in the movement to encourage rifle practice and the military spirit generally among the youth of the country by offering a special prize to be competed for by the High School Corps of Cadets of the District of Columbia.

Capt. Reginald F. Nicholson, U.S.N., has been selected for the post of Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, and will assume his new duties about December 1. He was formerly detail officer of the Bureau of Navigation, and is now a member of the board of inspection and survey.

Capt. Nathaniel R. Usher, at present Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, will be ordered to command the new battleship Michigan. Commander William R. Shoemaker, now on duty in the Bureau of Navigation, will command the Chester, and Capt. Arthur F. Fechtler has been selected for the command of the new battleship South Carolina, which will soon be placed in commission.

Rear-Admiral Gottfried Blocklinger and Rear-Admiral Thomas C. McLean are to go on the retired list this month on account of age. The former has had over twenty-one years' service at sea, and the latter about seventeen years.

First Lieut. George Ruhlen, Jr., Coast Artillery Corps, now at Crescent City, Cal., has completed the portion of field work in connection with the progressive military map of the United States, which was assigned to him, and will return to his proper station at Fort Baker, Cal.

Lieutenant-Commander Philip Andrews, now on duty at the Naval War College, Newport, R. I., has been ordered to Washington for duty as naval aid to Secretary Meyer, filling a vacancy that has been open for some time. Commander Andrews's last sea duty was on the Kansas during the trip around the world of the Atlantic fleet. He was assigned to the Naval War College in March.

CHURCHMEN.

DOVER, Del., has a ministerial inventor in Rev. W. D. Lefevre, who has perfected a flying machine. Together with his brother, Enoch S. Lefevre, of Littlestown, Pa., the clergyman has secured a patent on the invention. The airship has a vertical mast, fastened to the bottom. The inventor declares it will lift more than any other in existence.

For the fourth time, the Very Rev. Lawrence L. Kearney, O.P., of Zanesville, O., has been elected provincial of the Dominican Order in the United States. The election is held every four years. The provincial chapter met in Washington, and Father Kearney was elected unanimously.

Rev. Calvin B. Moody, for the last six years pastor of the First Congregational Church, Bristol, Ct., has resigned the pastorate to accept the presidency of Kingfisher College, at Kingfisher, Okla. Mr. Moody will take up his new duties in December. He is a graduate of Middlebury College and the Hartford Theological Seminary.

Dr. Amy Tanner, formerly a professor at Wilson College, has been chosen to supervise the work of measuring and testing defective children at the Institute for Child Study, which has just been opened at Clark University, Worcester, Mass. The institute is to be devoted entirely to the study of children, and will eventually have five departments, each supervised by an expert.

Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, one of the most prominent ministers of the denomination in Pennsylvania, and twice candidate for the moderatorship of the General Assembly, has been elected to the chair of homiletics in Princeton Theological Seminary. He has taken the offer under consideration.

Harold A. Oberg, son of ex-Chief of Police Oberg, of Astoria, Or., has sailed for Korea, where he goes as a missionary of the Seventh Day Adventist church. Two years ago, a number of young men attending the Walla Walla College of that denomination formed a foreign missionary band. Two are now in Alaska, one is in South America, another is at the boundary of Persia, waiting to get in, the fifth is studying the language in Germany, preparatory to work, and the sixth, young Oberg, is on the Pacific, en route to his destination.

POLITICIANS, STATESMEN.

FORMER UNITED STATES SENATOR FORAKER has been presented a beautiful gold medal by a committee of fifteen negro men from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, representing the negro citizens of Fairbanks, Alaska. The medal is in recognition of his efforts in behalf of the negro soldiers who were dismissed from the United States Army for alleged participation in the Brownsville (Tex.) riot.

Champ Clark of Missouri, minority leader in the last Congress, has declared himself a candidate for Speaker Cannon's position. At the same time he declares his belief that the next House will be Democratic.

The Hisgen family of Springfield and Albany takes naturaly to politics. George C. Hisgen, brother of Thomas L., Independence League candidate for President a year ago, is to be nominated for Mayor of Albany by the Democrats and Independents.

OVER THE SEA.

PRINCE EDWARD of Wales, future King of England, is compelled to live a pretty abstemious life. Until a few weeks ago, he received only 24 cents per week for pocket money while in residence at Osborne Naval College.

Mme. Lillian Blauvelt, formerly conspicuous as a singer, who is the only woman in the world to have received the coveted Order of St. Cecelia, is under religious instruction for reception into the Roman Catholic church.

Miss May Morris, daughter of the English artist and poet, William Morris, is coming to the United States to lecture on arts and crafts.

Joseph Chamberlain, in his young days, had a strong taste for amateur theatricals, in which he played more than once with marked success. For one performance he wrote a one-act play entitled "Who's Who," in which he himself performed the part of a Frenchman. He is also said to have written a three-act modern comedy of political life, but no amount of money will persuade him to give the world this unacted piece

Beautiful Broadcloths

—have been brought out to meet the demand—soft, rich, satiny weaves, heavy, firm magnificent weights in the myriad shades that "1909" has made her own—

—and the height of Broadcloth elegance is at Bullock's, for a lover of Broadcloth has put his heart into the work of selecting hundreds and hundreds of yards in such a resultful way it seems almost as though he must have called magic methods to his command—

—For 54 inch Broadcloths are here in black, at $2.50 and $3.00 yard, that radiate the supremacy of their value—

And Colored Broadcloths at $2.50.

—that will make you stop, and wonder and watch eagerly as the salesman drapes them, "How perfectly they fall in billowy folds," $2.50 yard. Yes, women who have seen them have gone wild over them and all the new shades are here, the Mustard tones, Wistaria, Taupe, Artichoke, Asparagus, Ivy, Raisin, Catawba, Old Rose, Reseda, Tan, $2.50 yard—

And the Broadcloths are merely one reason for the supremacy of Bullock's Dress Goods Display—Storm Serges $1 yd. in Black and Navy, and a world of other Dress Goods, Fashion's latest fancies.

The Reigning Silk "Cashmere de Soie" $1.95

—It was never meant to sell at $1.95, when its sponsor started looms to flying and master weavers, watching to see that no harm befall the beautiful idea that was being brought to life—

—The silk surpassed his expectation and he named it CASHMERE DE SOIE" and sent it out into the world's best stores to win the hearts of women, and then, disaster after disaster seemed to overtake him—He cudgeled his wits and did the only thing he could do—

—Hundreds of yards of his favorite, his heart-work, the silk that has taken the country by storm "CASHMERE DE SOIE" has come to Bullock's with all the magnificent qualities which make it individual—so we can we put it out Monday at $1.95 yd., 36 inches wide, in Rose, Green, Blue, Catawba, Reseda, Carrot, Cream and Black, an exceptional offering—

SIDE GLANCES AT CURRENT LITERATURE.

An American Medici.

The remarkable position held by J. Pierpont Morgan as an art collector and connoisseur cannot be passed over with the mere recollection of his millions.

What Mr. Morgan has done for art, and with art, has been done with the consistency of a constructive purpose, and to an extent that has not been approached from the days of the Medici to our own. It is significant that an Italian writer in La Lettura, one of the foremost Latin literary journals, should have chosen "The Florentine Morgans of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Centuries" as his title for an article on the art-loving Medici; and that a Russian editor should have referred to Mr. Morgan as "the Medici of America" in turn.

Perhaps no collector of modern times has had such varied art interests as Mr. Morgan. Not only are the objects he has collected interesting and representative, but they are masterpieces as well, coveted by the world's museums. That seems to have been the keynote of his desire to form a notable collection—to acquire veritable and authentic masterpieces in all branches of the fine and industrial arts. Many of these things he has presented, or has lent, to great museums and public institutions; others are housed in his American and English houses; and still others are stored abroad. It would take a building the size of the Metropolitan Museum to hold them all, properly displayed.—Gardner Teall, in Putnam's Magazine.

Greatest Zoo in the World.

Through a combination of private generosity and municipal support, wise provisions of nature and good management, imperial New York has created in ten years' time, and now presents to her people and to the world an institution that three distinguished foreign critics have openly declared to be the foremost vivarium of the world. These critics were Lord Northcliffe, Sir Harry Johnston, the African explorer, and F. G. Aflalo, a qualified expert on zoological gardens, and writer of outdoor books.

Every perfectly appointed zoological garden is a haven of rest to overwrought nerves with the gentle and healthful stimulus of restful interest in new and different lines of thought. At 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when the housekeeping of the day has been finished, and before the daily crowd has begun to arrive, a well-appointed zoological garden—with a good showing of flowers—comes as near to being an earthly paradise as the skill of man ever can produce within reach of the busy haunts of men. Of all the brain-weary business and professional men of New York, how many are there who know that during the whole forenoon of every day in the year, and all day on pay days, the Jungle Walk in the Zoölogical Park offers a balm of rare quality?

On Sunday afternoons, even the sight of the crowd is inspiring. It is good to see, at one sweep of the eyes over Baird Court and the region below it on the west, fully 20,000 well-dressed people, one-third of whom are well behaved and attractive children, busily enjoying the beauties of the place, and the band music. It is good to learn, on every Monday morning in summer, from the records of the turnstiles, that on the previous day between 20,000 and 40,000 people have enjoyed the temples and shrines of Nature that God and man together have created for the benefit of the toiling millions in South Bronx Park.—[William T. Hornaday, in Scribner's Magazine.

Value of the Hand Grenade.

Peking was fortified; the Boxers held the gates. Outside the walls of the city, the allied legions clamored for admission, knowing that, within, the members of the foreign legations, fortified, in their turn, against the Chinese, were awaiting with breathless anxiety the arrival of the friendly armies.

But the gates could not be rushed.

Suddenly, three or four soldiers, in the Japanese uniform, dashed forward up to the gates.

A shower of bullets greeted them. They fell. But their work was done. The hand grenades which they had hurled against the gates had exploded, battering them down.

Peking had fallen.

Very recently at Faversham, Eng., the representatives of eleven governments watched the testing of a new grenade invented by an Englishman, Marten Hale.

With this weapon, as demonstrations satisfactorily proved, the sacrifice of the lives of those heroic Japs before Peking would have been wholly unnecessary.

Mr. Hale's grenade may be fired from a rifle. These advantages are, therefore, secured: Power, distance and range, and safety for the user. It is adaptable to the service rifle of the various nations, and is propelled with ordinary cartridges.

It may be fired from the shoulder or with the butt end of the rifle resting on the ground. The fire of the grenade does not in any way injure nor does it interfere with firing ball cartridges, nor in the use of the bayonet. It is capable of scattering twenty-four rectangular pieces of steel with jagged edges in all directions with great velocity. The concussion of the explosion would kill or stun any life within a wide radius. The grenades themselves weigh one pound, six ounces, and six or eight may be carried on a waist belt without any inconvenience. The Japanese made good use of the hand grenades before Port Arthur.—[From "Grenade Fired From a Rifle," in Technical World Magazine.

Operating a Phonograph.

One need not be afraid of operating a machine too constantly, as there is little danger of wearing it out; and the motor will give better service when used frequently than when allowed to stand unused. In all cases, avoid winding the spring too tightly; stop when it offers strong resistance. In many cases, it is specifically stated that the needles should not be used more than once, and these directions should be observed.

follow them means almost certain damage to the records. The machine should be kept well oiled; otherwise its motion will become sluggish. Sewing-machine oil may be used for that purpose. The records should be kept free from dust, as dirt clogs the sound-wave grooves and tends to give a scratchy sound to the reproduction. A good record cleaner may be made by gluing a small piece of velvet carpet to a wooden block. Such a cleaner always should be used on dusty records before they are placed on the machine.—[Suburban Life.

Why I Left the Woman's Club.

In these days of suffragist furor the story of a former clubwoman, told in Woman's Home Companion for November, is particularly interesting.

This woman has taken a prominent part in club work. The following story of a club election shows why she resigned in disgust.

"Never so long as I live will I forget that election day! Precinct workers and ward heelers may employ less refined methods, but certainly not less effective. The opposition lost. Delegate after delegate cast a vote opposed to her sense of right and wrong, yes, and her own wishes, because she lacked the courage of her convictions, because she was afraid of a woman who said 'I will rule at any cost.'

"The closing of the polls was marked by scenes that would have been funny if, to the earnest clubwoman, they had not been so pathetic. As one of the tellers I had full benefit of all that happened. I saw hysterical women weep on the neck of our defeated candidate, who had herself well in hand. I heard members accuse each other of treachery—and worse. I saw husbands come and take their disheveled and tearful wives home in cabs. And I heard the successful candidate say, with teeth almost locked:

"'I'll teach the women of —— to interfere with my plans!'

"No successful political leader of a graft-cursed municipality ever settled election accounts more systematically than did Mrs. Smith. Every plum went to her supporters. No member of the opposition received the slightest recognition. The party whip snapped on the air at each announcement of a new appointment."

Why the Duck Takes to Water.

It has turned out, under the searching experimentation of recent years, that much that we have supposed to be instinct in animals is not instinct at all. For example, the young duck proves to have no instinctive impulse to enter the water; does not recognize the element by sight; is, in short, in precisely the same situation as a chick—until, by happy chance, it gets its legs wet. Wet legs, however, and the lift of the water on the body at once start up the swimming reaction; and away sails the duckling, as chicks and children do not.

The chick, on its part, has a definite instinct to peck at any small object that catches its eye. That takes care of its feeding. But the chick has no corresponding instinct to drink, and would die of thirst before it would recognize water by sight alone. Drinking it has to learn for itself, by pecking at dewdrops or spots of light on the surface of the water, or particles at the bottom of its cup. Even the hen, contrary to general belief, proves to have no instinctive fear of the water for her offspring. A hen that has raised a few broods of ducks and seen them take to the water becomes highly distressed when a subsequent hatch of chickens do not swim. In fact, hens have been reported, under these circumstances, to lead their chicks to the waterside and push them in.—[McClure's Magazine.

Stimulants and Cancer.

Malignant disease has increased very rapidly during the last thirty years, following the increased consumption of tea or coffee, which both contain practically the same poison. Thus tea was a little more than doubled in England between 1864 and 1900, cancer also a little more than doubled. Flesh and tea are now given to children as they never were before. Consequently, in the Registrar-General's report for 1902, we find that cancer is fast increasing "at each of the six age groups below 35 years." This is most significant, for cancer is especially a disease of old age, and depends not only on irritation, but on the senescence of some part of the body. In other countries the same thing has occurred, but wherever the consumption of toxic drinks and of flesh and tobacco has been small, the cancer rate has kept comparatively low.

The beer-drinking districts of France and Australia and Germany have a higher cancer mortality compared with other districts. Bavaria, Stuttgart, Copenhagen and Saltburg have about the highest rate in the world. Beer is well known to produce gouty and rheumatic poisons in the system.

The exemption of tribes of negroes and of other natives has been described by medical observers. In the most recent report of the cancer research fund the general absence of cancer among Papuan, Melanesian and Australian natives is confirmed. Chronic irritative processes do not produce new growths; this is a remarkable exemption. They do become affected in "some obscure way" when living like Europeans. Surely in diet and smoking lies the only important difference. The Australians are not vegetarians. The common occurrence of cancer among the backwoodsmen of North America and Norway was surprising, considering their strenuous outdoor life. But it appeared from an article, not on this subject, which I happened to read, that their fare in North America is very large quantities of pork, bacon, molasses, etc., and of tea black as ink, day and night; the Norwegians consume huge portions of coffee; such drinks are destructive. Nansen, speaking the Greenlanders, declared coffee to contribute not a little to the decline in the race.

Exactly contrary to these are the habits of religious communities such as the monastery of the Grand Trappe, where, for a long period, there was no case of cancer, gout, aneurism or apoplexy. Rheumatism and heart trouble precede many cases of cancer, and excessive flesh, beer, tea and coffee increase these diseases.—[British Health Review.

Kind Hearts--Good Deeds

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Mrs. A. Atthowe of San Anselmo braved death herself in order to rescue her two children, aged 2 and 3 years, from being burned to death. The children were asleep in an upper room of her home. The wind blew a lace curtain in the dining-room over a lamp and immediately the flimsy hanging was ablaze. Almost as quickly the woodwork was on fire and the flames were spreading through the house. Mrs. Atthowe was in the front yard and the house was blazing fiercely before she saw the fire. She dashed through the flames upstairs to the rescue of her children, and carried them down through the smoke and flames to safety at her own great peril. The house was a total loss. A few moments more delay and the children would have perished with the house.

The Times is in receipt of the following letter from Theora Carter, president of the "Society of Good Cheer (Inc.)" of No. 131 West Seventy-fourth street, New York City:

"Editor, Los Angeles Times. Dear Sir: Could your paper inform me as to some reliable real estate dealer in your city? The Society of Good Cheer is about to institute a colony for convalescents and may purchase or lease about 500 acres in or about Los Angeles. I would prefer to correspond with owners of the property, but in case your paper knows of no owner, I would like to hear of some prominent dealer.

"The Society of Good Cheer has been chartered under the State laws of New York by a group of young women of the upper West Side of New York City.

"Our objects are to cheer and buoy the convalescent.

"We call at hospitals, boarding-houses and homes, reading magazines to the patients, distributing flowers, taking toys to children, etc. Our work is to take interest after the doctor leaves and the nurse is gone—the loneliest period of any illness.

"One of the strict rules of our society is that the young ladies shall call in pairs or groups. It is time we give, not money, so it is a society of good fellowship rather than charity. After giving you information as to our aims, I hope you will be able to give me the desired information.

"I was ill myself in Chicago, while taking a post-graduate course, so being alone with only a doctor and the nurses to see me each day I realized the utter dreariness of a lonely convalescence, away from home and mother, and also realized that the only way to reach such people was by forming an organization which would do systematic work in calling on patients in public places, the members of which organization were in touch with doctors and ministers who could help them to reach the deserving and anxious ones. We are friends to all convalescents. So I founded this society, with the result that we have several of the best women of the land as our patrons, and men of influence and wealth who are ever ready to aid the cause."

The will of the late Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes of New York makes a number of specific requests of a charitable character, and then provides for the creation of a board of trustees who shall use the rest of her $5,000,000 estate for the building of model tenements in New York City. Among the charitable bequests were to Dr. C. B. Atterbury, a cousin, who is engaged in medical missionary work at Peking, China, $30,000 for the benefit of his work; to the Ansonia Library in Ansonia, Conn., $20,000; American Humane Educational Society, $20,000; Burnham Industrial Farm at Cannan, N. Y., $10,000; Calhoun Colored School, $10,000; Peabody Home in New York, $10,000; Tuskogee Institute, $10,000; Hampton Institute of Hampton $10,000.

Thousands of hearts in the various public homes for young and old throughout San Francisco have been made glad by the distribution of a carload of grapes sent by the vineyardists of Lodi. The distribution was made by the Associated Charities. The 2000 and more baskets of fruit were originally intended for the Portola Committee, and it was through the kindness of the committee that the grapes were diverted. The institutions benefiting are sixteen orphan asylums, four old people's homes, the Relief Home and the Fruit and Flower Mission.

A big-hearted man is Dr. John Morgan of Boston. Having recently realized $7,000,000 through the sale of some properties, he asked his brother, Dr. E. B. Morgan of Paterson, N. J., to accept a share of his good fortune in the form of a $1,000,000 gift.

Fresh Literature: Reviews of the Newest Books.

FICTION.

"The Veil." By Ethel Stefana Stevens. The plot of this romance of Tunis concerns a young Sicilian who becomes involved in a political intrigue; and a strange Mohammedan saint plays a leading part. Frederick A. Stokes & Co. Price $1.50.

"Open Country." A comedy with a sting. By Maurice Hewlett. A novel of contemporary life, having for its hero the wandering philosopher, botanist and lover of the open, Senhouse, who appeared in Mr. Hewlett's former novel, "Halfway House." It is about Senhouse's earlier life that this new story centers, its whole action preceding that of "Halfway House." Charles Scribner's Sons. Price $1.50.

"Mr. Justice Raffles." By E. W. Hornung. Said to be the most exciting of all the adventures of the inimitable Raffles and Bunny. Charles Scribner's Sons. Price $1.50.

"Bella Donna." By Robert Hichens. The scene opens in London, but quickly changes to the Nile and the Egyptian pyramids, temples and desert—the setting of Mr. Hichens's earlier and best novel, "The Garden of Allah." J. B. Lippincott Company. Price $1.50.

"Daphne in Fitzroy Street" By E. Nesbit. A charming girl's escapades in a French boarding school, and subsequent experiences in an artists' colony, where she falls hopelessly in love with a delightful but unstable young artist. With frontispiece, 417 pages. Doubleday, Page & Co. Price $1.50.

"Beechy; or the Lordship of Love." By Bettina von Hutton. The heroine, as charming as the famous "Pam," rises from a childhood of obscure poverty to greatness as a singer, and regenerates one of England's gayest Lotharios through the power of her love. With frontispiece in color. Frederick A. Stokes Company. Price $1.50.

"Where Snow is Sovereign." A romance of the glaciers. By Rudolph Stratz; translated by Mary J. Safford. The love story of a society woman and a man of rugged, primitive strength, set in the vast spaces of the Alps. Illustrated. Dodd, Mead Co. Price $1.50.

"The Leopard and the Lily." By Marjorie Bowen. A dramatic tale of the Middle Ages, in which "La Rose Rouge," the embodiment of all that was fierce and lawless in the medieval nobleman, plays a leading part; 372 pages. Doubleday, Page & Co Price $1.20.

"Treasure Trove." By C A Dawson-Scott A burglar frightened away from the house he was robbing, left behind a package of jewels he had stolen elsewhere. Their return by their finder and a thief's search for them makes some first-rate melodramatic situations and makes interesting reading. Duffield & Co. Price $1.50.

"Stradella." By F Marion Crawford. This novel is the last which Mr. Crawford wrote before his death. The scene is laid in the seventeenth century, and the story deals with the love affair of a young Neopolitan musicion, the basis for which was found in some ancient Venetian chronicles. MacMillan Company. Price $1.50.

"Martin Eden." By Jack London. The story is that of a man, illiterate, uneducated, who, through his own perseverance, rises to a position of fame and influence. The story is probably meant to be autobiographical. It starts out interestingly enough, but rather peters out. There is a very strong love story running through the book, and to the object of this love the hero owes much of his advancement, which in fiction is quite interesting, but which in real life is not found. The MacMillan Company. Price $1.50.

"Melchicedoc." By Ramsey Benson. A quarter-blood Indian waif who is somewhat of a mystic, leaves his northern wilds, believing that he has been chosen for the ministry. A love affair comes pretty near spoiling his ambition. Henry Holt Company. Price $1.50.

"The Stolen Signet." By Sidney Fredericks. The book is a series of adventures which surround the purloining of a signet ring which belonged to the Moroccan pretender. The ubiquitous American girl gets mixed up in the usual way with the adventures. Duffield & Co. Price $1.50.

"They and I." By Jerome K. Jerome. A leisurely, genial and sometimes humorous account of three young people and an older one. Dodd, Mead & Co. Price $1.50.

"As It Happened." By Ashton Hilliers. This story takes place in 1778 and 1779, the period in which England was rebelling under the misrule of King George the Deplorable. The heroine is an English girl. The story is full of action. G P. Putnam's Sons. Price $1.35 net.

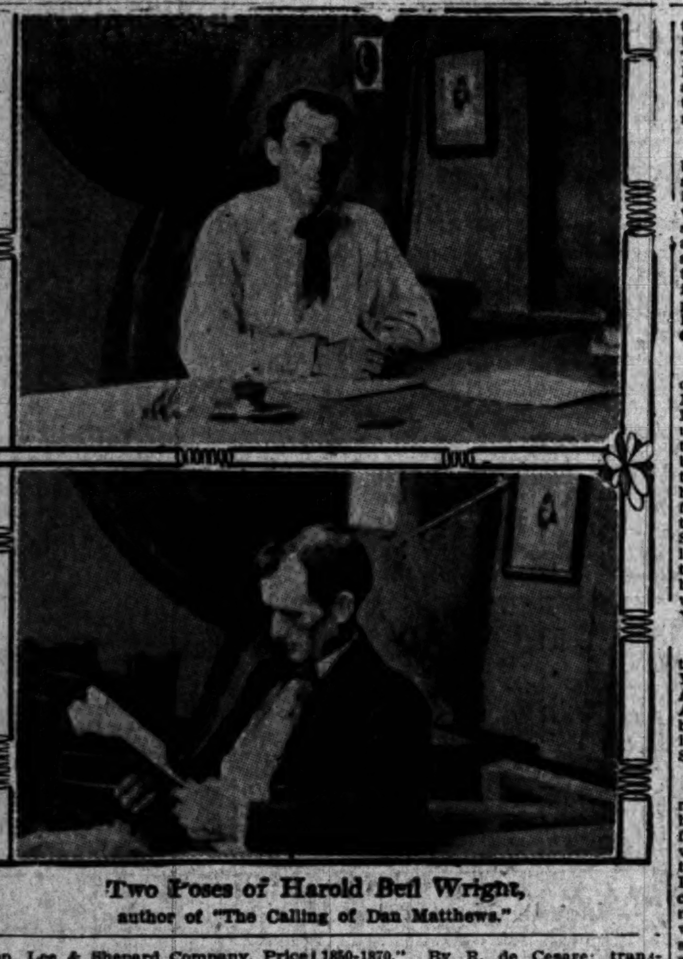
"Bronson of the Rabble." By Albert E. Hancock. An ambitious attempt is here found to produce a novel which will cover that period of American history existing between S. Weir Mitchell's novel, "The Red City," and Winston Churchill's novel, "Coniston," namely, 1812 to 1828. J. B. Lippincott Company. Price $1.50

"Forty Minutes Late, and Other Stories." By F. Hopkinson Smith. This is a book of short stories in which the scenes range from New England to Venice. The volume includes "A Gentleman's Gentleman," "A List to Starboard," "The Little Gray Lady," "Fiddles," "The Man in the Highwater Boots." The stories are written in Mr. Smith's usual genial manner, and are neither better nor worse than his previous things. Charles Scribner's Sons. Price $1.50.

"The Oath of Allegiance, (and Other Stories." By Elizabeth Stuart Phelps. Here is a collection of short stories varied in subject and appeal by the author of "Though Life Do Us Part." Houghton, Mifflin Company. Price $1.25 net.

"Warrior, the Untamed." By Will Irwin. A humorous tale of a harmless man-eating lion of Paradise Park, who makes a balloon ascension, and upon returning terrified to earth, breaks from his net and escapes. Doubleday, Page & Co. Price 50 cents.

"Irene of the Mountains." By George Cary Eggleston. The story is laid in the period preceding the Civil War. It is a love tale, the heroine of which is a mountain girl who comes to live in the fashionable life of Richmond. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company. Price $1.50.



Two Poses of Harold Bell Wright, author of "The Calling of Dan Matthews."

"Old Rose and Silver." By Myrtle Reed. This sentimental author's latest annual story concerns itself with a variety of characters, chief among which are a girl of 20, a man of 30 and a woman of 40. The book looks, smells and reads like everything else this author has ever done. G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.50.

TRAVEL BOOKS.

"The Gateway to the Sahara." By Charles W. Furlong. This book embodies a great deal of valuable and interesting information about a portion of Northern Africa rarely visited, the range of the author's travels having covered the life of oasis and desert as well as that of the coast towns. Charles Scribner's Sons. $2.50 net.

"Seekers in Sicily." By Elizabeth Bisland and Anne Hoyt. This is a chronicle of the ancient beauty of the city of Sicily, which is described as a quest for Prosephone by Jane and Peripatetica. John Lane Company. $1.50.

"India." Impressions and suggestions. By J. Keir Hardie, M.P. A series of letters written from India in 1907 by the leader of the English labor party in Parliament. This is one of the most interesting and accurate books ever written on India. It is full of first-hand information and is written in an enjoyable and straightforward manner. It covers in its 126 pages what many a book on Inda which I have seen takes 500 pages to say incorrectly. B. W. Huebsch. $1 net.

"A Wanderer in Paris." By E. V. Lucas. A companion volume to the author's "A Wanderer in Holland" and "A Wanderer in London." Written by a man who has one of the happiest gifts of the tourist—that of always discovering the curious and unusual and picturesque. MacMillan Company. $1.75 net.

"Motoring in the Balkans." By Frances Kinsley Hutchinson. The author of "Our Country Home" has here written a vivacious account of a recent motor trip through a portion of Europe which is very little known. The book contains an itinerary. A. C. McClurg & Co. $2.75 net.

"The Isle of Man." By Agnes Herbert. In the Irish Sea, thirty miles from England, lies the Isle of Man. Miss Herbert has written an account of its history, its scenery, its wealth of Celtic traditions and quaint folk lore. John Lane Company. $3.50 net.

"The New New York." By John C. Van Dyke. This book describes the varied aspects of New York City, recording the significance of what it has already achieved and of what it may be in the future. The book is illustrated by the etchings of Joseph Pennell. The MacMillian Company. $4 net.

BIOGRAPHY.

"Wits, Beaux, and Beauties of the Georgian Era." By John Fyvie. Portraits of some of the most famous people in England in the days of the Georges. A few of those described are Elizabeth Chudleigh, the bigamous Duchess of Kingston; Samuel Foote; George Selwyn; Henrietta, Duchess of Suffolk; George Williams, and Melesina Trench. Illustrated. John Lane Company. $4 net.

"Oliver Wendell Holmes. The Autocrat and his Fellow Boarders." By Samuel M. Crothers. This addition to the centennial series of little books about great men presents a vivid, discerning, highly personal sketch of Dr. Holmes, including a group of his poems and a rare portrait. Houghton, Mifflin Company. 75 cents net.

"The Life, Letters and Journals of George Ticknor." New illustrated editino of this biographical classic, with an introduction by Ferris Greenslet, containing fresh information about hundreds of eminent men of America and Europe in the first three-quarters of the nineteenth century. In 2 vols. Houghton, Mifflin Company. $5.

"John Brown." By W. E. Burghardt-Dubois. Belongs to the "American Crisis Biographies," a series which aims to constitute a complete history of the Civil War through the writings of the younger men of that period. George W. Jacobs & Co. $1.25 net.

"Wendell Phillips." By Lorenzo Sears. Presents a resumé of the life work of a man of note in the last century, who was more widely known than any other American public speaker in his generation. Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50 net.

"Enchanters of Men." By Ethel Colburn Mayne. Twenty-four studies of fascinating women of various types and nationalities, among whom are Diane de Poitiers, Marie Antoinette, Lola Montez, Sophie Arnould, Jeanne du Barry, Jennie Lind, Adrienne Lecouvreur, etc. George W. Jacobs & Co. $3.50 net.

HISTORY.

"The Last Days of Papal Rome, 1850-1870." By R. de Cesare; translated by Helen Zimmern, with an introduction by G. M. Trevelyn. A study of the political, ecclesiastical and social intrigues which filled Rome during the period in which the idea of Italian unity had its birth, and the temporal power of the Popes came to an end. Houghton, Mifflin Company. $3.50 net.

"Narratives of New Netherland." Edited by Dr. J. F. Jameson. The latest volume in the "Original Narratives of Early American History" series, reproducing the most significant passages from the writings of contemporaneous historians touching the beginnings of New York City. Charles Scribner's Sons. $3 net.

"Manors of Virginia in Colonial Times." By Edith Tunis Sale. Histories of the ancient estates of Virginia, treating only of those which exist today—their early grandeur, their later suffering, and the heroic manner in which they have withstood centuries of change. J. B. Lippincott Company. $5 net.

"Speakers of the House." By Herbert Bruce Fuller. This book sketches the development of the power of the Speakers of the House of Representatives, giving vivid pictures of the great Speakers from Frederick Muhlenberg to Cannon, and descriptions of notable scenes in our Congressional history. Little, Brown & Co. $2 net.

LITERARY COMMENT.

Henry T. Finck, author of "Grieg and His Music," published recently by John Lane Company, has received the following letter from Frau Nina Grieg, widow of the composer, in reference to the book. "With all my heart I thank you for the beautiful appreciative, sympathetic and brilliant treatise on my splendid husband and his art. You have authoritatively shown to posterity who he was and what were his aims. There is nothing I would want to have changed; I am absolutely satisfied."

On Saturday, October 16, the following books were published by Houghton Mifflin Company: "The Severed Mantle," a novel of the troubadours by William Lindsey; "The American People," a study in national psychology, by A. Maurice Dipper," a popular little hand book by Eliot C. Clarke; "The Autobiography," a critical and comparative study, by Anna Robeson Burr; a prose translation of "The Nibelungenlied," by Prof. Daniel B. Shumway of the University of Pennsylvania; "Fifty Years in Constantinople and Recollections of Robert College," by Dr. George Washburn; "The Story of the Greek People," an introductory history for young people, by Eva March Tappan; "Changing Conceptions of Education," by Prof. E. P. Cubberly, and a Riverside Press Edition of Walton's "Compleat Angler," limited to 400 numbered copies for sale.

Every astronomer, big or little, has been eagerly watching for the appearance of Halley's comet, and as soon as its coming is announced every man, woman and child will be anxious to see it, for it is a very famous comet, and is visible only after periods of about seventy-five years. So this autumn there should be a good demand for "Astronomy From a Dipper," a popular little guide to the heavens, by Eliot C. Clarke, which Houghton Mifflin Company have just published.

The "big stick" of today is the golf club, and every golfer will want "The New Golfer's Almanac," by William Leavitt Stoddard, just published. This unique and delightful little book aims to do for the golfer what the celebrated Old Farmer's Almanac does for the agriculturist, that is, to present him not only with a mass of useful information, but with considerable entertaining and instructive reading. Mr. Stoddard has swept the field of golfing literature with both enthusiasm and taste, and has assembled the choicest bits of prose and poetry from the writings of golfers dealing with this ancient sport.

A unique tribute has just been paid to a book recently published by Thomas Y. Crowell & Co., "The Young Man's Affairs," by Charles Reynolds Brown. A lady in California asks that a copy be sent, at her expense, to every prominent college library in the United States.

"Nerves and Common Sense," by Annie Payson Call, published in October by Little, Brown & Co., is the new fall book by this author, whose previous works have meant so much to the tired, nervous woman of today. In this new volume Miss Call gives clear and practical suggestions for immediate and continued relief in cases where there is suffering from nervous strain, whose cause is unknown to the sufferer. The book is eminently practical, and every word in it is as applicable to men as to women.

Two novels by William J. Locke in dramatic form will be seen in New York theaters shortly. "Idols" will be opened in New York about October 20. Mabel Roebuck and Lenore Harris will be in the cast. "Septimus" will be played by George Arliss, beginning October 25. The dramatic version has been written for Mr. Arliss by Philip Littell. Mr. Locke himself has gone to Italy for a motoring trip.

Doubleday, Page & Co. have established a new department for importing artistic mezzogravure reproductions of great paintings. They have made up, under the title of the "Ideal Collection of the World's Great Art," a selection of sixty celebrated masterpieces of the world's greatest paintings, dating from the earliest period of the Renaissance. A chart of the world's art, which accompanies this collection, gives a concise view of the great art schools from earliest to modern times. Another important series of reproductions is the Burlington Proofs, measuring approximately thirty-four by twenty-six inches. The Ideals are for the den or study table. The Burlington Proofs are for the walls of the home.

The Spanish stage of today is not very familiar to the average student of Spanish, because practically none of the plays which are available for him to read in American editions are by contemporary authors. Prof. F. W. Morrison of the United States Naval Academy has, therefore, edited a collection of "Tres Comedias Modernas," by some of the best known of the modern Spanish dramatists. It contains Carrion's "La Muela del Juicio," Cocat y Criado's "Las Solteronas," and Barranco's "Los Pantalones," and will appear early in October in the series of Spanish texts edited by Prof. J. D. M. Ford of Harvard, and published by Henry Holt & Co.

GOSSIP OF AUTHOR FOLK.

Mark Twain, who maintains an unbroken residence in his Connecticut home, where he can be free from metropolitan interruptions, has a manuscript in the hands of his publishers for publication some time in October.

Marah Ellis Ryan, whose "The Flute of the Gods," has just been published by Stokes, is one of the few American novelists, the sale of any one of whose books has reached the 100,000 mark. Her "Told in the Hills," "For the Soul of Rafael," and "Indian Love Letters" are known the country over, and have been especially popular in the West, where the scene of Mrs. Ryan's books are laid. Most of her previous books, however, were done, by the way, while she was working on "The Flute of the Gods." In preparing for this remarkable novel of the Western American Indian Mrs. Ryan spent two summers living among the survivals of the tribes in New Mexico and Arizona, where she was forced to undergo many hardships and even dangers. The result justifies her sympathetic study, for a scholar pronounces her book the most truthful Indian romance ever written. It will certainly be a revelation to many people who have had only superficial knowledge of Indian life.

Those who shook as hard as Santa Claus ever did with laughter last holiday season over "The Hole Book," will more than welcome "The Peter Newell Calendar for 1910." This latest accomplishment of humor on the author's part will be introduced to the public by the Harpers early this month.

Mrs. Elsa Barker, author of "The Son of Mary Bethel," the story of a modern Christ, just issued by Duffield & Co., was born in Vermont of American and English parentage. At the early age of 14 she was a public school teacher in her native State. She has been a shorthand reporter of legal trials in New York City, a newspaper and magazine writer, and an editor of compilations, etc., in Washington and New York.

About the year 1900 she began to be known as a writer of poetry, and has since been a constant contributor of verse to nearly all the important American magazines.

In 1901 she edited a large volume of comparative mythology and folklore for "The Success Library," writing herself the department of Hindoo mythology.

During 1904 and 1905 her sociological drama, "The Scab," was given many times by the Progressive Stage Society of New York. This play was the first socialistic drama by an American author ever professionally produced in the United States.

During the season of 1905-6 she was one of the lecturers for the New York Board of Education, and gave a series of recitals of her poetry.

She has always been a student of religions, of mysticism and occultism, and at one time seriously considered entering the Catholic church—but did not.

Although it has never been my privilege to meet any of the Each and All girls face to face, I have enjoyed knowing some of them through the medium of letters. While I may never be honored with one of these delightful birthday-letter parties, I know no better way to spend the anniversary happily than by sending a message to all of you, assuring you that I enjoyed thinking of you and all the plans under way, which bid fair to make this the best year of our brief existence.

The way our page has lately overflowed into other parts of the paper is a good sign that we are not neglecting it. I hope no one missed seeing the various items of importance which appeared in other sections than the usual one.

Like the pleasure of welcoming a returned friend, such are our feelings upon hearing from Hope Russell again, and I trust we may long have her voice in the chorus on the page.

It is small wonder that during her recent visit genial Marguerite Winnifred should have yielded to an attack of irrepressible smile-at-'em, since everything and every one assisted in the splendid start her pets, the Would-be Authors, have made on the road of progress. None can fail to benefit from such literary and intellectual association as there is in store, and who knows but some of our author girls may scale the ladder of fame.

That was a fine illustration afforded by M. N. of Palo Alto, showing how an invalid member of a family may share in gala events under the home roof, even if denied them elsewhere. In pondering the great need there is for more such cheer, I recall these verses, entitled "The Unattainable," by Charlotte Becker:

"The years may teach us to endure
Our own allotted dower of pain;
To find in paths that tears obscure
Some knowledge that is Sorrow's gain.
"Yet, though our hearts cry out to share
And stay the agonies thereof,
One grief we cannot learn to bear:
The suffering of those we love."

I want to commend Ellen's sound judgment in the training of her boys. May she reap the reward due so wise a mother. Blessings be upon Ernestina for at last coming into our ranks and bravely telling us what she thinks, feels and desires in behalf of the rearing of sons. She has sounded a timely note of warning and I do wish some one who has dealt with this problem would inform us how such evils as drinking and gambling, etc., can be nipped in the bud, or speedily overcome if boys have already succumbed. It is such a large subject, and one feels unsatisfied when all phases cannot be covered in a communication of this kind.

Keeping a garden filled with flowers leaves no room for weeds to grow. The young must be shown as conclusively as possible that the road to pure joy leads through the gate of virtue, and who forsakes virtue for those faces perdition. There is no escape, but many are deluded, and it is to correct this delusion that we need to bend all our efforts.

Having blazed a trail somewhat, Ernestina wonders if she has done wisely in certain respects. She does not want to be guilty of mistaken kindness, and I sympathize with her position, because I know something of the difficulties involved. If she injects a trace of condescension into her kindly manner toward "Big Boy" it might cause him to realize that he must mend his ways if he would get up on that desirable level of her good will where condescension will be absent.

OUR PLEDGE.

"To make one another happy, to lighten one another's burdens, to share one another's cares, to be lifters, not leaners, to make the world a little sweeter place to live in, to be mutual encouragers, never discouragers of any one, to start songs, not complainings, and to do every day something beautiful, some kindness which will cheer and strengthen another."

Possibly she will have to maintain a very matter-of-fact attitude to keep him from overestimating her interest in him, for the nature of gamblers is easy-going, as a rule, and they are often susceptible to the influence of good women who would try to lead them to worthier standards and practices. Like drowning persons, they often clutch at their would-be rescuers, with disastrous results sometimes. Some respond to the dissuasion of kindred, others are touched more by outsiders, and so just what a young woman can accomplish in a given case is uncertain. If no women would marry men who were addicted to any of the sex's general failings such as we are considering, I think it might be one weighty argument against cultivating such habits. True, many would say that extremes of that kind only react in a way to increase deceit; nevertheless I wish every girl could know the folly of marrying a man to reform him, then we should see who would wed and bear the children of drinkers and gamblers.

Gambling is especially insidious and draws to it only weaklings. Some man who knows its dishonesty, the degradation and loss of self-respect which is inseparable from it, should take in hand young upstarts and leave nothing unsaid or undone which can discourage them thoroughly. Thank goodness, the living of a clean life in every sense is becoming more popular among men, so that the young fellow who refuses to join in indulgence of smoking, drinking and gambling need care less and less about any jibes hurled at his sensible course.

I am one of the young married persons whom Ernestina feels could well deter young men from downward paths. And I wish to assure her what satisfaction there is in using any prestige of our particular estate to encourage young persons of both sexes to gain wisdom early in life. It means so much not to pollute this bodily dwelling place of the soul, or weaken its spiritual powers, by wrong courses in youth. The foundation we lay for our lives will make or mar the structure to be built upon it after the first score or so of years is past.

I must say that gambling is one of the things that has never touched my life at all closely. I know from hearsay its dread consequences. If long persisted in it will undermine a man's moral stamina—this illogical craving for excitement in trying to match wits and get something for nothing.

But I think if I were in Ernestina's place I should try to speak tactfully, yet clearly, to "Big Boy" about his great failing, informing him that gambling games are not run to bring fortunes to others than those who manage such abominable affairs. Any normal man with half a will of his own can find more exhilaration in wholesome channels of expression. There are enough chances taken in life at its best to satisfy the average man's gambling instincts. Intimate that no man can retain your respect if he doesn't assert his common sense and quit the career that is bound to rob him of his own self-respect sooner or later. To cultivate fresh interests of a better kind, elevating his tastes in every way, will make him win what he is steadily losing so long as he persists in gambling. Stimulate his ideals through good books, good music, sane outdoor sports; suggest that he join the Y.M.C.A. and see if he does not find companions there who can occupy his mind and time to better advantage than patrons of gambling dens of any kind can do. Learn what suggestion as a psychic force can do, and always think of him in a way to help him break his mental fetters. For some girl of the right sort to attract him, and him to win her sufficiently to feel she could love and marry him if he was rid of this weakness, might do a vast amount to save him from his fate. But if he cannot absolutely renounce gambling before marriage, I would advise no girl to wed him, expecting him to do so afterwards. Once married, however, a change of scene, removal to a city where gambling does not flourish, can help a man to remain on his feet long enough to get in with other men who eschew such practices, thus gaining his goal away from old acquaintances who could twit him for his reform and maybe cause his downfall.

BLOSSOM.

She Earns Them.

"A Mere Woman" takes exceptions to the criticism of "A Mere Man" upon the subject of women's dress. She writes:

"I would like to give my opinion on the article written by an Englishman on the masculine opinion of the prevailing fashions. I admit that all he says of the folly of women's dress is true. He thinks that the change must be brought about by the men by keeping the money away from them. Does this mere man realize that nearly all the women of the present day are capable of earning their own money? If a woman loves fine clothes better than anything else on earth, she will get them some way. If the men want to bring about the change, let them pick out the plainly-dressed women for their little attentions.

"I am not young, and have been around the country a great deal, but have not found a man yet that did not cast his eyes on the fashionably-dressed woman in preference. How many men leave their plain wives for some better-dressed or better-looking woman, forgetting that the wife lost her looks and has no time for gewgaws serving him and his children? I think women have made some progress in dress reform in the shirt waist and plain skirt and the plain coat suit. The large hats and the present style of hair are a step backward again, although it is not necessary for women to follow the extreme styles to be well dressed. What women and men need in this world more than anything else is good common sense. If any one thinks this world will ever come to perfection, let him be happy in the meantime, and do all he can to improve things in general. We are all something like the old Quaker that said to his friend: 'Every one in this world is crazy except thee and me, and thee is a little queer.'"

Missed Her Letters.

Mrs. J. W. J. of Riverside, missed her round-robin letters, and is glad they will be resumed. She writes:

"Dear President of Each and All: I was delighted when, in reading your message yesterday, I found that we mothers were again to have our chapter. I was just heart-broken when our last round-robin ceased, and have written several times asking that we again have one. Inclosed find stamp and please enroll my name at once."

Barbara, aged 4, had always been allowed to make small cakes out of the scraps of dough left from the morning's baking, so one morning after being sent to gather the eggs, she came running in with a very tiny one and exclaimed: "Oh, mamma! see this little egg; it must be that's all the dough the hen had left."—[The Delineator.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY.

Weekly News Along the Line—Good Cheer Efforts for Christmas. Sunshine Stitches.

State headquarters with the State organizer and president of the Los Angeles branch, Mrs. William Wallace McLeod, No. 403 South Garfield avenue, Alhambra. Los Angeles headquarters for donations, with Mrs. H. B. McKinney, No. 2303 Budlong avenue. Monthly meetings on the first Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the committee room of the Chamber of Commerce.

MOTTO.

Have you had a kindness shown?
Pass it on!
'Twas not given for you alone—
Pass it on!
Let it travel down the years,
Let it wipe another's tears,
Till in heaven the deed appears—
Pass it on!

The next few weeks will be busy ones with the members of the Los Angeles branch of Sunshine. Everywhere, Sunshiners are planning to make the Christmastide a time of good cheer for the neglected little ones of the city. The other day, a trunk full of "Sunshine" was sent in by a lady, a stranger to us, but one whose heart responded to the call for aid. It was the first donation of the kind, and was gratefully received by the committee. Everything will be "passed on" to some one who will be gladdened by the gift. From Arizona came a check, with a few kind words for the Sunshine work. A letter from a dear mother, whose home duties are many and whose pocketbook is slim, was so full to overflowing with love and a desire for work that she and her little girl could do to "brighten the dark corners," that it brought an inspiration for deeper Sunshine service to the writer of this column. Oh, the power of the written word! If all the pens in California were consecrated to "Sunshine," how many burdened hearts would be brightened! Write the joy that is in your heart, to some one! And wherever you go, take your Sunshine smile with you, and leave the frown at home! After all, smiles and sympathy count more than money, and we can all give love to those who travel life's highway with us. On the street cars, in the store, in the home, we can hourly find ways to pay our "Sunshine dues in deeds of sunshine." Begin today to spend "sunshine" for others, and see how happy it will make you.

In unexpected places we find heroines today, who are giving themselves wholly and unobtrusively for others. In Los Angeles, there is a woman, childless herself, who years ago took a little girl into her home, giving her all a mother's love and care. Now the child, grown to young womanhood, is attending Stanford University. Her course is made possible only by her adopted mother doing day work. She is above her position, but she does the menial work cheerfully and well, keeping always before her the vision of her adopted daughter filling a teacher's position when her education is finished. So great is her love for and pride in the child of her adoption that the thought of the sacrifice she is making never enters her head. And she is only one of the army of loving women who are giving themselves for others. Before their gift of love, how the giving of money that costs no effort seems a small thing.

A number of women who love little children have banded themselves together into a sewing club to make baby clothes to be given to needy mothers. Sunshine stitches are taken with love, and the Christmastide will find them ready. Last Thursday evening, Mrs. Grace Geldreich of No. 438 Westlake avenue was hostess at a Sunshine whist party. The spacious rooms were beautifully decorated with roses and chrysanthemums, and the lights were shaded with Halloween pumpkins. Sixteen tables of guests enjoyed the game, and a goodly sum was added to the treasury of the Los Angeles branch. Several gentlemen in atendance became so interested in the Sunshine work that they insisted upon joining the society, which, here in Los Angeles, is composed only of women. The members are now contemplating having an honorary associate membership of their men friends. The question will come up at the next regular meeting. On Friday afternoon, Mrs. Geldreich again opened her home for a Sunshine party, which was largely attended. She was assisted by Mrs. G. H. MacGinnis, chairman of the Hospitality Committee, and her capable committee.

The Year Book chairman reports a brisk demand for the "Sunshine Year Book," published by the Los Angeles branch. Not only in Los Angeles and California is the interest shown. The orders come from all over the country, and it looks now as if the last edition of 5000 would not last until Christmas.

An invalid, who has suffered for years, would enjoy postals, letters and good cheer calls to relieve the tedium of her long days of pain. She is Mrs. Gorman of No. 1405 East Twenty-first street. "Pass on" to her some of the interests of your busy days. Share your "sunshine" with her.

Any one willing to care for an invalid for a home will please communicate with Mrs. C. O. Hawley, No. 823 S. Union avenue, Home 'phone 51223, Sunset 'phone Main 2250, who will give all particulars.

The Los Angeles branch has a new member, of whom all are very proud. She is a "sunshiny" little girl of 5, with her heart as bright as her golden hair. She attends the meetings, and is so interested in the cases of which she has heard that recently she started out to "pay her dues" by selling Sunshine Year Books. She is probably the youngest book agent in Los Angeles, and though she makes nothing by her efforts, the joy of wearing her Sunshine pin is sufficient.

"In ourselves the sunshine dwells,
From ourselves the music swells,
By ourselves our lives are fed
With sweet or bitter bread."

RESPECT TO PARENTS.

An old maid tries to answer a query which has often been made to this department. She writes:

A number of times of late, upon our page the question has been asked why there is so little respect shown to parents by children? The assertion has also often made that it is either the "old maid" or the childless wife, who generally wishes to answer the question. For some time I have been a close observer of the growing disrespect of children toward their parents. I have at last ventured to give a few of my, perhaps worthless, views on the subject.

A mother sees her children in a different light than they appear to us childless people, so is in no position to know how they appear to eyes not lighted with mother love. To me there is no more beautiful sight than a parent and child that are comrades or chums, and if the child happens to be a boy the sight is still more beautiful, for boys, as a rule, drift away from home life and paternal influence much more easily than girls. Just the other day I listened to a conversation of a young man and his mother: "Yes," said one lady, "he thinks everything his mother says or does is just right." "Yes," replied the other lady, "and she thinks everything he does is just right too," and as I watched them, mother and son go arm in arm up the street, I thought what a rare case. But why? That is the question. I think in the majority of cases the parents are to blame, themselves. A child to know respect must be taught respect. The Good Book says "Train up a child in the way he should go and in his old days he will not depart from it." Mothers become such servants to their children through their love for them, that they obey the child instead of teaching the child to obey them, and as the child grows, the habit grows also, and the mother at last realizes when too late her mistake. When she sees how she is disregarded and ignored, then her heart aches with a bitterness that none but a mother can know, and then she thinks how differently she would act if she could but live her life again. I have heard mothers say this often.

Mtohers, start right. When a beautiful child has been given you, strive to bring out every good quality there is in that child if you wish it to be a joy and comfort to you in your old days, and what good qualities are not there, naturally you must strive to create. Do not through your love ruin your child's character and your life also. A mother should ever be a queen in her home, one to be respected, looked up to, and obeyed. If there is any serving to be done, let the child serve the parent. I have observed that the mother who served most was the one who had the greatest disrespect shown her, and I have also observed the mother who was considered too strict as one that was most respected by her children. Such have been a few of the observations of an "Old Maid."

A TALK TO WRITERS.

Marguerite Winnifred Anxious to Push the Work of the Authors' Chapter.

I am grateful to the Los Angeles members of Each and All who have made the days I have been spending in the city such delightful ones.

I am very anxious to communicate with all who are interested in any form of writing, or in the study or discussion of any kind of literature, so that now, when the winter's work is being planned for the Authors' Chapter, every wanted study may be included.

If you have any literary wish, no matter what it is, will you not let me know about it now? I and the members of the Authors' Chapter will do our utmost to try to help you help yourself in a literary way. If we are not able to meet your need now, we will keep it in mind, and watch constantly for books, persons and opportunities for you.

All those who would like to take the story course are especially requested to meet at the home of Rose Ellis, the chairman of the study section, who will have entire charge of this study. Her address can be obtained from "Ariel," the president of Each and All (Home 'phone 53649) or the secretary (Main 4667.)

The story course, as planned by Miss Ellis, will embrace a thorough study of the technique of the story. The study will be a serious, thorough one, and will be open only to those who are willing to take up the work in earnest, who have made some attempt at story writing that shows that they have some idea of what will form the basis for a story, and who have the courage to persevere, in spite of the discouragements attendant upon early efforts. Every beginner, you know, in every line of work, be it civil engineering or dressmaking or what not, must be willing to learn how and to bear an occasional disappointment. Here you will have the delight of congenial literary companionship, the inspiration of others' enthusiasm, the spur of regular and definite requirements, the broadening effect of contrasting viewpoints, the versatility growing out of repeated analyses of different methods of development and different styles of expression, the ability developed by constant consideration of strong and weak points to detect quickly and certainly telling and detracting features, and the practical help of mutual criticism.

If the young women who attend school or are busy during the day with business or home duties, and have only their evenings, express any general desire for an evening chapter, an effort will be made to organize a Saturday night chapter, which will permit the school girls, as well as some of the young women in offices, to attend the meetings. Selections may be made from the topics taken up at greater length in the afternoon sections of the authors, or general studies and discussions of literature may be taken up. We are intensely eager to organize an evening chapter.

I am very anxious to enroll not less than twenty-five members in each of the authors' sections—the story-writers, the verse and song writers, the good English students and the essay, sketch and feature-article writers. One of the very helpful things which we could do this winter if we only had sufficient numbers, and a thing which I am very desirous that we shall do, would be to arrange a "parlor-talk" course, inviting some one, if not of prominence, at least with more knowledge than any of the chapter members possess, to speak to us informally on some topic that would be of common interest to all of the sections. Unless each section numbers nearly twenty-five members, when allowance is made for those who enroll in several of the study classes, the total number will be scarcely sufficient to justify asking any person of any note to address us. With over a score of members in each of the sections, the little audience would be one for which no person would need to hesitate to ask favors.

A parlor-talk course by people who have made themselves known in their special lines of work would attract a large number of outsiders of more than average capabilities, who have not thought the chapter quite worth giving more than a passing notice, and the talks thus prove a most effective means of strengthening the chapter materially, both in the number and the character of its members.

I find that people who have struggled to success are wonderfully ready, as a rule, to help earnest beginners, although the experience and achievements of these men and women have made their time worth a good deal in actual money. Indeed, they are often a dozen times as willing to help us as we are to let them help us.

MARGUERITE WINNIFRED.

The Helpful Life.

Let me each day do something
Along the path of life,
To overcome the trials,
And quell all seeming strife.

Let me bring peace and gladness,
To some dear heart each day;
For happiness and sunshine
Will drive all tears away.

Let me each day go forward
Into the world of things,
And help some struggling sister
To know the peace love brings.

Let me take one step higher
Into the light each day,
That I may strew the flowers of truth
Along the path to blaze the way.

Let my footprints be the stepping stones
To a higher, purer life,
Each day help me to grow in strength
And overcome all strife.

ANNA L. DOUGLAS M'BURNEY.

"Well," said Helen, "I can't expect to go everywhere. I went to 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' once and the circus twice."

Babies and School Children---Striking Pictures and Points Here and There.

A GRACIOUS ACT.

Girls of Marlborough School Help Penny Kitchen Sell Home-Made Confections.

A pretty and thoughtful act of kindness which has just come to light with the report of the Penny Kitchen made by Mrs. W. E. Wilson at a recent meeting of the Civic Association, is that of the girls of the Marlborough School, who added quite a neat sum for the aid of the splendid work, by selling home-made confections, fudge, heavenly hash and cakes to the pupils of their school during recess.

The girls had learned in some way of the good work of the Penny Kitchen at the Ann-street school, which had been at first established simply as an experiment, and they were determined to help in some individual way to provide the soup and buns, which have now become a necessity to the little children, who would otherwise have to go entirely without food during the long school hours. The teachers of the Ann-street school report a great improvement in the work of the children since the establishment of the kitchen. All the soup and buns that can be disposed of by one little mite are provided for a penny; the payment of the penny is required simply to discourage the children becoming absolutely dependent.

During the year a number of boxes of oranges were sent to the Penny Kitchen by different people who are interested in the work; and, strange as it may seem in California, it was the first time many of the children of the school had ever tasted an orange.

Mrs. Wilson announces that donations for the carrying on of the Penny Kitchen are always acceptable, whether in large or small quantities, and these may be sent to her home, No. [illegible] South Hoover street, or directly to the school between 9 and 12 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. Wilson and her assistants serve the lunch to the children every day. It is hoped before very long to establish a similar kitchen in the [illegible]-street school.

A Jelly Party.

Thursday evening Joe Ritter entertained a number of his boy friends at the home of his parents, No. 141 [illegible] Forty-fifth street, with a jolly party on the occasion of his thirteenth birthday anniversary.

During the early part of the evening games were enjoyed, after which an enjoyable supper was served, the table decorations being quantities of chrysanthemums and plumosus fern, with a great birthday cake as a centerpiece. Joe's guests were [illegible] Dodge, Robert Danielson, [illegible] Ingres, Oliver Espe, Ronald [illegible], Scott Tyner, Paul Ritter, Will [illegible], Tom Rogers and Frank Laren-

An Answer to Beaver.

[illegible] who signs her letter "Freedom" [illegible] some reasons why woman [illegible] be allowed the ballot. She [illegible]

[illegible] has always claimed that woman should be content to remain a political nonentity and that she is in her proper sphere when she is making life pleasant for him. Beaver proved this true when she states that the 'light in his eye was not good to see,' when she proposed to have her opinion counted, but when she decided to remain at home and serve him by preparing something good for him to eat, 'the look upon his face was good to see.'

"It is not at all a question as to whether woman's vote is needed; the question is, are women intelligent enough to govern themselves? Any man will admit that women are intelligent enough to preserve peaches, for that is of advantage to himself; but to vote against his idea—well, that was pitting her opinion against his and 'the light in his eyes was not good to see.'

"If harmony is of more importance than justice then let those who think so submit, but no woman who loves justice more than harmony will submit to injustice for the sake of harmony.

"There will always be two classes where ample opportunity is given—one for a full expression of life, while for the other there is only repression and service. Yes, it takes time to become well-informed; in Colorado, for instance, there were more books sold treating of political economy during the first year after women voted than there had been sold for many years during which men only had voted.

"No doubt many men would have been better suited if the women had studied their cook books.

"Men have always claimed the glory for causing Napoleon's downfall, but if that honor belongs to women it is high time a monument should be erected to their memory.

"Women can and now are working for physical examinations before marriage, for uniform divorce laws and for all things that concern her, but men do not want these laws and it is men only who can change old laws or make new ones, and, Beaver, dear, what are you going to do about it?

"New York women worked for years to secure a legislative appropriation to found a State Industrial School for Girls, but Colorado women secured a similar appropriation as soon as they secured the ballot.

"Massachusetts women tried for fifty-five years to secure a law making the mothers equal guardians of their children with the fathers, but in Colorado, after women were enfranchised, the very next Legislature granted such a law.

"California mothers cannot secure equal guardianship of their children because California mothers do not vote and California fathers do vote. The laws are always made to suit the ruling class.

"I agree with Beaver that man should keep his voter's right and no suffragist proposes to take from men any of their rights; what we want is an extension of the franchise to women, not the taking of the franchise from men, but equality before the law.

"FREEDOM."

Idle Woman a Menace.

"Join a readin' club? Not if I know it! I ain't no woman of leisure with nothin' better to do than read books!" Thus spoke the harassed, uneducated wife and mother, whose children were daily forgetting at home what they learned at school. "The most dangerous woman in a community is a woman of leisure. She tries to divert herself by taking up one fad after another, and while she proclaims her usefulness, she is really undermining the foundations of social order and wise charity by her follies, which she calls benevolences." So a trained worker among the poor set forth her irritation with the superfluous helper, who, having no business of her own, occupied herself with that of other folk. Both critics illustrate the prevalent misconception of the meaning and use of leisure. The woman they describe is the idle woman. She is truly the enemy of society. Whether she reads libraries of cheap fiction, or plays day-long games of cards, or purveys gossip, or champions "reforms" as foolish as they are noisy, the idle woman is a burden and a menace. On the other hand, every woman who orders her life well and wisely is a true woman of leisure. Without some space in every day uncrowded with duties or pleasures, there is no flexibility of plan and no repose of spirit. Without leisure to furnish elasticity and to make possible some ripening thought, a woman's life becomes either a treadmill round or a wandering butterfly's flight. Leisure is the synonym for reserve power. It fosters the sense of responsible. It illuminates dullness with humor. It restrains selfishness and banishes pettiness. To be without leisure is to be without wisdom. Leisure sows the rare seed which idleness neglects, and even industry cannot gather the harvest which has not been sown.—[Selected.

From an Eastern Boy.

Here is a letter written by a Cleveland boy to The Times, which explains itself:

To the Editor of The Times. Dear Sir: I am a boy of 13, and in the eighth grade. I wish you, through your paper would find some boy or girl of my age who would like to correspond or exchange post cards with me.

A Novel Party.

A novel and delightful party was given during the week by little Marcella Mahan at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark R. Mahan of Oak Knoll.

The house was decorated with weird looking Jack-o'-lanterns, and the wonderful fortunes of the little folks was told by a gypsy. A dainty supper was served, hand-painted cards marking off the position of the guests. Original verses by the little hostess were prettily written upon each of the cards. The hand-painting was the artistic work of Gladys Barnes.

Another Party.

Lillian Lewis Crosson was the dainty little hostess at a children's party, which was given on Friday at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Etta Hazel Hyatt, No. 1633 Vermont avenue, and Iris W. Gibson, just 1 year old was the guest of honor.

Twelve little girls and boys spent a merry time playing games on the lawn, and there was music and dancing. Two little Chinese maidens, who attended the party, were very much amused at the way the little Americans played their games, and they also entered into the fun with all their hearts.

Influence of Habit.

Some people seem to expect to acquire all their good habits in their second childhood. They seem to regard good habits as fitting them for heaven rather than this life on earth. But stop a minute or two and think about habit. It is worth while. For there is no greater, more constant, more insistent force in any man's or woman's life than the force of innumerable little habits. Not considering at all the common "bad habits," think of the thousand and one little habits that determine your every thought and act. Do you know that in the commonest things you are a slave to habits that you never suspect? Almost every move in the process of the morning's dressing, for instance, is involuntary and calls for no conscious thought. Many a morning your mind is absorbed in mapping out a day's work, while habit is washing and dressing you. Habit accustoms us to doing most of the everyday things in particular ways, and we consciously turn the mind to them only when they chance to be done differently. Any one who stops to think about it can easily see that innumerable little habits make up a very large part of our lives. We think along the lines worn smooth by habit, as well as act. Not an impression, not an emotion, not an opinion, not a resolution, not an action, is possible to us that is not influenced, colored and directed by fixed conditions within ourselves—habit. It is indeed well worth while to carefully consider the host of little habits that hide themselves in the most secret cells of both brain and muscle. None of them is too small to be worth attention. Bad habits are the little threads with which the weak Lilliputians bound the strong Gulliver in helplessness. Good habits are like a well-made harness, enabling us to do our work in the world with less friction and waste of energy. Habits we cannot avoid. Nor can we escape being controlled by them. But we have free choice between the habits that are good and helpful and habits that are bad and harmful.—[Selected.

"Please, ma'am," spoke up Willie, "it means a parade passing the schoolhouse, and the scholars are not allowed to look out at the windows."

"Well, I'm sure," said the woman, "that's real benevolence."

"Oh, no, ma'am," he replied. "It ain't benevolence; it's salt."

Donald had returned from a visit to the country, and was full of reminiscences of persons and things that had interested him. "I met a boy, mamma," he said, "that had the queerest name I ever heard. "But, Donald," said his mother, "there is no such name as Father William or Willaim Father in the Old Testament."

"Are you sure, mamma?"

"I certainly am, dear. I have read it through several times. William is a comparatively modern name. It isn't anywhere in the Bible."

The Broken Vase.

[A story by our youngest Would-be Author, who is a little invalid and whiles away some of the long hours by writing.]

The vase fell to the floor with a crash.

"Oh," cried Clarice, looking at Roy, "what will father say? It was his wedding present to mother. I hear him coming now—he mustn't see you here."

"I don't care if he does see me," Roy said. "I have come over to see him and ask him to consent to our engagement."

"Hush," warned Clarice. "Here is father."

"What was that noise I heard?" asked John Forest as he came into the room.

Then, seeing Roy, he exclaimed, angrily, "You here! I thought I forbade you the house!"

Before Roy could answer, Mr. Forest's gaze fell on the shattered vase. Clarice's face paled as she saw the angry light in his eyes.

"Who broke the vase?" he cried, hoarsely.

Seeing a letter lying among the fragments, he picked it up and noticed that it was addressed to Clarice Forest.

"Huh" he exclaimed. "A letter hidden in a vase!" He took it out of the envelope, and the first words he saw were: "My darling wife."

"Oh," he cried, "that is the way it is! Here it says, 'Although we had to be married in secret'—— So you—you—are married——"

He turned his angry face to Roy. "That is why you show yourself here! Get out of this house and don't ever let me see you here again! And you"—turning to Clarice, "have——"

"But father, I am not married."

"No, we are not," said Roy.

Mr. Forest would not listen to them. "You have disregarded my wishes. You, Roy Richards, may go! And you, Clarice——"

"What is the trouble?" a low, sweet voice inquired. It was Mrs. Forest who had come into the room.

"Mother——" began Clarice, but her father broke in angrily: "I will tell you what it is! See this vase——"

"Oh, that is too bad!"

"But that isn't all"

Seeing the letter, understanding dawned on the little woman. "Did you find the letter in the vase?"

"Yes," he said, "I did, and Clarice——"

"Oh, you must not be angry at Clarice for that, because it is the letter you wrote to me just after we were married."

"O-h-h!" he said, looking very much abashed.

"Now, Mr. Forest, I will tell you why I am here," Roy said. "I wish you to give your consent to Clarice becoming my wife."

Mrs. Forest looked up into her husband's disturbed face, and, laying her hand gently on his arm, said: "You cannot refuse now, John!"

"No, I cannot refuse now." Turning to Roy, he said: "Yes, my son, I give my consent, and may God bless you both."

"Amen," softly said Mrs. Forest, slipping from the room, her husband following her.

Clarice held her hands out to Roy, and happily cried: "I am so glad you broke the vase!"

BLUEBELL.

Allen has a strong admiration for soldiers. He seldom misses a military parade, and his childish fancy has so idealized the boys in blue that he considers them little short of perfection.

Not long ago his mother took him to see an elderly friend of hers—a sweet-faced, silver-haired lady, who is the widow of a veteran of the Civil War. Before arriving at the house Mrs. Parker told Allen this bit of her friend's history, and consequently the boy accorded this beautiful woman the most reverent attention.

In discussing a certain current subject of literary interest the two ladies had a mild difference of opinion, and Allen's regard for brass buttons would not long permit him to listen in silence.

"Mamma," he asked in gently reproachful tones, after he had fidgeted a moment in his chair, "don't you think a soldier's wife ought to know?"—[Housekeeper

LOVE THE CRIMINAL.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE CRIMSON DAWN.

Far away across the gray eastern sea the first gleam of a winter's dawn was tinging the sky with a flush of pale rose. The marshland, dreary enough in the summer sunshine, looked cold and ghastly in the dim light of a December morning. The flat ground was carpeted with mist, not thick enough to conceal its ugliness, but sufficiently dense to suggest the damp rawness of the atmosphere. The creeks, full to the brim with water, were leaden in color, and looked as if a few ice floes would be in keeping with their temperature.

The silence of the night was giving place to the first whispers of day. A few seagulls circled in the air, and wailed out a dismal greeting to the sun. A faint breeze hissed through the reeds and sedge; and the water of the creeks, stirred into tiny waves, splashed gently on the banks of mud.

It was not a scene to tempt any one from a warm bed, or even the cheerful shelter of good stone walls. Yet John Shil had been lying out all night in a punt, and, after the darkness, even this grim dawn had a certain aspect of geniality. He had ostensibly spent his night in the marshes to shoot wild duck, but he had not even heard the whirr of their wings. Yet he felt that he had not wasted his time, for he had been unable to sleep, and the very atmosphere of the house had seemed to crush all the life out of him. Who does not remember such nights as these—nights in which the air presses down like a thick pall of velvet, nights in which the brain runs riot and the body cannot rest. They come, regardless of season, in summer or winter; the stifling pressure is from within and not from the atmosphere without. John Shil, after two hours of unutterable depression, had risen and dressed himself; and an hour later he was lying in his punt in a creek about half a mile from the house, with a retriever by his side, and a gun in his hands.

Yet no ducks had come his way that night, and he might as well have left his gun at home. Pat, the retriever, however, had been a welcome companion, for even a sleeping dog is company.

As the dawn broke, John Shil threw off the heavy rug which had covered his legs, and, lighting his pipe, stood up in the punt and surveyed the dreary scene which was gradually unfolding itself before his eyes.

The rose pink of the eastern sky deepened to crimson, and then the sun came up from the sea like a ball of fire, twice its natural size, and, to Shil's mind, hideously ugly and unromantic.

But a winter's dawn is not destined to be clear and sparkling. A heavy bank of clouds was already descending to meet the sun, and before the red circle was fully visible above the horizon, the bank seemed to crash down on it and blot it out of existence.

A look of pain came into Shil's eyes, as he saw the crimson light vanish beneath the cloudbank. He wondered if it was an omen of the life which lay before him.

Then he laughed, and taking up the heavy pair of sculls, he rowed the punt vigorously up the creek. The exercise put warmth into his chilled body, and dispelled the gloom which had come over his thoughts.

As he neared the edge of the park, the creek narrowed to a mere ditch, and it was impossible to scull any farther. John Shil rose to his feet, and, facing the bow of the boat, began to use one of the sculls as a pole. Then he looked up and saw the dim figure of a woman crouching close to the wall, and scarcely visible against the gray background of stone.

The woman under the trees did not move as John Shil moored his punt to a small wooden quay, and stepped ashore with the gun under his arm. But his curiosity was aroused, and he walked toward her across the grass which fringed the road. It was an early hour for a woman to be abroad, and it was hard to imagine what business could have brought her to the edge of the marshland. As he came within a few yards of her, the retriever ran forward and barked. The woman raised her head, and stood upright with her back to the wall, as though face to face wtih an enemy.

John Shil stopped for a moment, and not a muscle of his face or body moved. He might have been carved out of stone. And the dog also stopped, head thrust forward, and nose to the ground, after the manner of his kind. And Laura Tankerlane stood motionless against the wall. The whole picture might have been painted on canvas.

Then suddenly life returned to the little group. Laura moved a pace forward and held out her hand.

The man was the first to speak, though the shock of the meeting had fallen most heavily on his head. He had not seen the woman he loved since the hour when they parted at Laverstone. Lately, when he had thought of her, he had pictured her as the wife of Sir William Tankerlane, reconciled to her fate by the presence of her child, and securely settled as the mistress of Tankerlane Court. But the woman, who stood before him, was white and haggard and worn; there was a look of terror in her eyes, and her whole demeanor was that of one who had sinned, and has yet the consequences of her sin to face.

"Laura!" he cried hoarsely, as he moved toward her. "What are you doing here? Am I dreaming? Surely—what does it mean—why have you come here?"

She still held out her hand in silence, and, as he grasped it in his own strong fingers, the coldness of it struck chill to his heart.

"Laurie," he said gently, "what is it, dear? What are you doing here? Where is your husband?"

"I have left my husband," she replied coldly.

"And the child?" he asked. "Have you left the child?"

She looked at him in horror and amazement. She could not realize that he was ignorant of an event which had altered the whole course of her life; she gave a little moan of pain, and then, wrenching her hand from his grasp, she turned away from him, and staggered back against the wall.

"Laurie, Laurie," he cried in distress, "what is it? What have I said?"

"The child is dead," she replied in a low voice.

"Dead!" he echoed, "the child dead?" He understood now why he had come to him. The barrier that had kept them apart was broken.

"Yes," she continued. "Did you not know? Did you not see it in the papers? Leonore knew, for she wrote me a letter—such a sweet letter of sympathy."

"Leonore knew?" he stammered. "And she did not tell me?"

"Of course she did not tell you," Laura replied. "She knew well enough what it would mean to you and me. It was she who persuaded me to marry William Tankerlane."

"Laurie, Laurie," he cried, "are you mad? What do you mean? I don't understand you. Why, you did not even know Leonore when you married Tankerlane."

"Oh, I had forgotten," she answered wearily. "Of course you did not know. But I have come here to tell you everything—only not here. There is no time. My husband will come down to Black Hall to find me. You must take me somewhere, to some place where he will not find me, some place where I can see you and tell you everything. If he finds me with you, he will kill you."

"He will find it a tough job," said Shil drily.

"Oh, you do not know. You are in his power. I will tell you everything. But get me away from here. I came down to Gorehaven by a late train last night, and have walked over here. I have been walking all night."

"Walked, Laurie? It is twenty miles from Gorehaven."

"Yes, yes, but I had to do it. I had to put him off the scent—oh, please take me somewhere. I have not seen a soul as yet. No one knows I am here. If you can only get me to a safe place, I will tell you everything. But I am tired out, hungry, cold."

"Poor child," he said tenderly, and then he looked across the marshland, as though expecting to find some solution of the difficulty that confronted him. As his eyes fell on the punt they brightened, and an idea struck him.

"Get into my boat," he said abruptly, "I will take you to a place where you will be comfortable, and where the people, though they are rough fisher folk, will look after you well. No one will ever think of looking for you there, and I will call and see you at any time you please. No one will speak a word if I tell them to be silent. They are tenants of mine, and the man is devoted to me. Have you anything with you—a box—no, of course you haven't."

"I have nothing," she replied, as they moved down to the little quay. "My only thought was to get away, to hide myself from my husband, to see you and tell you everything. Let us be quick. Shall we be seen? Is there any one about yet?" She spoke rapidly and nervously, and looked round at the fringe of trees behind them.

"There is no one about," he said quietly, "and we shall not meet any one on the way. We are going to leave civilization behind us. I am going to take you, Laurie, into the desolation of a wilderness."

He helped her into the punt and arranged the rug so that she could lie down on it and wrap it round her body. Then he called to the dog, who was regarding the proceedings with large wistful eyes, and unfastened the rope which held the boat to the quay. Pat leapt on board and ensconced himself on the rug by Laura's side, and the boat drifted slowly down on the ebb tide.

"There's a fair wind down the creek," said Shil; "I'll put up the sail, and keep my strength for the last bit of the journey, which will be against wind and tide."

He fixed up a short thick mast in the bows, and hoisted a lug sail. When he had made the halliard fast, he came aft with the sheet, and, taking one of the oars, placed it over the stern, and used it as a rudder.

"We shall slip down in no time now," he said cheerfully. "You'd better rest, Laurie, and try to get a bit of sleep. Directly we arrive, we'll get some breakfast. I've been out all night myself."

He spoke gently, almost tenderly. Laura, who had not heard his voice for more than two years, almost fancied they were back in the Stonewold Hills in the early days of their friendship, when there was as yet no talk of love between them. There was no passion in his voice, no sorrow, only kind sympathy and friendly care for her comfort.

"I am dead beat," she replied with a smile, "I will try and sleep. Good night, Jack."

The sound of his Christian name sent the blood to his cheeks, and for a moment his hand was unsteady on the oar. He longed to rise to his feet, and kneel by her side, and kiss her lips, and hold her in his arms. But his strong will kept his passions in check, and he merely smiled back at her.

"Good night," he said merrily. "Sleep well."

And in less than five minutes she was asleep, and Shil's hungry eyes were fixed on her face. Fortunately for him there was a fair wind and tide, and an ever-widening creek before him. The boat required little or no attention, for she only drew six inches of water, and the creek, right up to the very banks, was as good as open sea to her. It did not even matter if she gybed, as the spars were so light in comparison to the weight of the hull, that this accident, feared by all sailors when running before the wind, would have had no effect on her stability.

And so these two drifted down the tide, the woman asleep and dreaming of the happiness within her grasp, and the man with his eyes fixed on the white, lovely face and the crown of auburn hair. Surely, he thought to himself, even the Lady of Shalott did not look more beautiful than this.

Then suddenly the sun thrust its head over the bank of clouds, and land and water sparkled at the sight of it, and the clouds themselves were fringed with crimson and gold. Laura's hair glittered like burnished copper, and her pale face gleamed like marble, against the black rug.

Alas, Leonore, for all your plans, and all the schemes of your passionate heart. These two are drifting together down the tide, and the sunlight is on their path.

CHAPTER XXV.

CONASEA ISLAND.

John Shil had spoken truly when he had told Laura that he was going to take her into the desolation of the wilderness, for the large tract of land that lay between Black Hall and the sea was almost as flat and lonely as the Sahara Desert. On both sides of the creek stretched what appeared to be an interminable waste of grass and reeds. Not a hut, not a tree, not a hedge or bush broke the monotony of its level surface. Neither man nor animal moved across it. From the boat it appeared to be an unbroken and empty field, many thousand acres in extent, but viewed from a greater height, it would have resolved itself into a mass of small islands, divided by innumerable creeks and ditches and gullies. At high tide—or rather from half flood to half ebb—these islands fulfilled the geographical definition and were entirely surrounded by water. But from half ebb to half flood most of them were separated from each other by ravines, dry, inasmuch as the water had flowed out of them, but impassable owing to the deep liquid mud which lined them to a depth of several feet.

In summer the whole land was made pleasant by a mauve carpet of sea lavender, and in autumn the glasswort splashed the scene with crimson. But there was nothing beautiful in the winter, nothing but a dreary waste of green and brown.

In less than an hour the boat had traveled nearly eight miles, and its bow was dipping in the green waves of the sea. The yellow tinge had faded from the water, for the creek was more than a mile wide at the point, and there were eight fathoms of water under the boat's keel. John Shil altered his course to the north, and the little craft moved crab-wise across the estuary, sagging eastward with the strong sweep of the tide, and making so much leeway, that she went two feet sideways, to every one that she forged ahead.

He had judged his distance correctly, however, and he just fetched the mouth of a smaller creek which joined the main estuary on the other side. Then he dropped a tiny anchor, so as to lose no ground, for the tide was sluicing past him like a millrace. When he had done this, he stepped forward and touched Laura gently on the shoulder. The time had come to row against the wind and tide, and he could not do it while she lay full length in the boat.

She did not stir, though the noise of the sail flapping in the wind might have roused Rip Van Winkle himself from sleep. John Shil lowered the fluttering canvas, and stowed it away by her side. Then he unstepped the mast and laid it on the top of the sail. Then he looked down at Laura, who still slumbered peacefully.

And as he looked, he could no longer restrain the passion that was in his heart. He knelt down by her side, and kissed her gently on the lips. And then Laura Tankerlane awoke.

He rose sharply to his feet, and busied himself with a rope.

"I'm afraid I must disturb you," he said, without looking at her. "I have to row now, and I can't do it, unless you move."

She sat up and pressed her hands to her eyes. Her cheeks were crimson, and her heart beat like a hammer.

"I have been dreaming," she said faintly. She knew well enough that it had been no dream, but she did not wish her lover to think that she knew.

"It will take us an hour to get there," he said, "but you can see the house from here."

Laura rose to her feet, and, looking up the narrow creek, saw a low black building, just showing its first-floor windows above a high bank.

"It looks very close," she said. "Couldn't we land here and walk along the bank?"

"Impossible," he replied; "I am not an Essex man, but I have lived here long enough to know that much. There are half a dozen little creeks to be crossed before you get there, and it is impossible to cross even the first of them. No, I must pull you up. The exercise will do me good. Will you please sit in the stern?"

When she had obeyed his instructions, he got the anchor on board, and moving quickly on to the thwart, shipped the sculls. But quick though he had been, the boat had slipped a dozen yards down the stream before the blades of his oars gripped the water. Then he set to work in grim earnest, and exerted all his great strength to force the punt through the sluicing tide.

In less than an hour he reached a small "hard"—a firm path of shingle running out from the bank through the soft deep mud on either side. As the bow of the punt grated on the stones, a dog barked furiously, and Pat sprang to his feet with the hair ruffling on his back.

A second later a black and tan collie sprang over the edge of the bank, and showed his white teeth. Then the bulky figure of a man appeared, and, as he saw John Shil, he touched his hat, gave the dog a kick, and hurried down the narrow causeway.

"You are early, s'morning, sir," he said, as he laid hold of the boat and pulled it farther up the "hard." His brown, weather-beaten face betrayed no surprise at Laura's presence. He helped her out of the punt, as though he had been expecting her arrival.

"Walk straight up," said John Shil to Laura; "I'll be with you in a minute."

She took the hint, and, strolling quietly up the path, climbed to the top of the bank and surveyed the dreary stretch of marshland around her. From that point of vantage she could see that she was on a large island. Eight feet below her there was a small black house, built of tarred wood. A woman stood at the doorway scattering grain to a crowd of hungry fowls. The collie sat a few yards away from her and snarled at Pat, who regarded him with well-bred contempt.

In less than a minute John Shil and the man, who appeared to be half-sailor and half-farmer, came up to her, and the man touched his hat.

"Mrs. Dowsett will be glad to put you up," said John Shil with a smile, "and you ought to get all the rest here you want. It's quiet enough. Dowsett, this is Miss Laura Vane, and your missus has got to look after her as if she were a daughter."

The man bowed gravely. A Londoner might have smiled, or even winked. But this stolid fellow, who had passed all his life at sea or on the grim flats of Essex, had acquired some of the silence of his surroundings. And, as Laura looked at him, she knew that she was in the hands of one who would do all that he was told, and say nothing about it.

"Miss Vane," continued Shil, "if very hungry, and so am I. I daresay Mrs. Dowsett can get us some breakfast."

"Eggs and a bit of fish, sir, I've no doubt," the man replied.

They descended the steep bank, which kept the waters of the creek from overflowing the marshland, and Mrs. Dowsett, after the situation was explained to her, promised a substantial meal in twenty minutes. She was a lean, pale-faced woman, and her body was bent with labor and the damp of the marshes. But there was a kindly smile on her worn face, and Laura felt that she would find all the sympathy of a good heart under the somewhat forbidding exterior.

After an excellent breakfast, during which the two lovers talked cheerfully on the most commonplace subjects, John Shil lit a cigarette, and, drawing out a tide-table, studied it thoughtfully.

"It will be no good my leaving here for two hours, Laurie," he said; "I can't possibly row up the creek to Black Hall till the tide begins to flow. Shall we have a walk round the island?"

"Yes," she answered in a low voice. "I should like it. The loneliness of this place fascinates me."

It was an ordinary reply to an ordinary question, but her voice trembled. For she knew that the brief period of quiet friendship was over, and that the hour had come in which she was to pit the strength of her love against the honor of the man who loved her.

"This is wonderful," said Laura, as they walked along the high bank which surrounded the island. "I have never seen anything like it before."

"It seems strange after Laverstone and the Stonewold Hills," he replied, "but one gets used to it in these parts. At first the flatness and desolation depressed me, but now I am inclined to think that it has a charm of its own."

"Yet it must be dreadful to live here always," she said. "Poor Mrs. Dowsett! no wonder she looks so white and ugly and old. Yet the man looks well enough."

"Ah, that is the unfairness of life in the Essex flats," he replied. "The men go about their work on the water, and fine healthy work it is, too. This chap works on the oyster beds farther up the creek, and he is a sort of watchman of the oyster fisheries. But the women spend all their time on the land, and you can see the mark of the soil in their faces. Ague, malaria, rheumatism, these are the devils of the marshes, and it is the women who writhe in their clutches. Yet they bear it all patiently for their husbands' sakes."

Laura was silent, and looked out across the lonely land to the still more lonely sea. Her life had been full of great tragedies, of events which had seared both heart and brain. Yet she wondered as she looked at the wide bank of glistening mud, and the brown sluicing tide, and the dull stillness which seemed the keynote of the place, whether after all there was any tragedy to equal the monotony of existence in a land like this. She, at least, had lived; she had been moved by strong passions, and been scorched by living flame. But Mrs. Dowsett could never have known anything but the dreariness of life.

"Poor souls," she said, after a long pause, and there were tears in her eyes.

"Oh, they are quite content," Shil replied, "and they have what some of us would give much to possess—a contented mind and a quiet sense of duty. They make no fuss about it, and, if any one were to suggest that they were heroic, they would laugh. They have their own ideas of heroism. Many of their husbands and their brothers are heroes in their eyes—men who have saved life at sea, and who have been through hardships which are never recounted in the daily papers. They do not realize that the men are alive, and they are little better than dead."

"Save that they do their duty," Laura replied slowly, "and surely that is the highest life of all."

She did not look at him as she spoke; but he knew from the tone of her voice that she was not thinking of Mrs. Dowsett. Her eyes were fixed on the distant sea, as though she were looking for the return of some ship—some golden argosy that would bring back happiness into her life.

"Shall we sit down?" said John Shil gently, "the timbers of that wreck seem dry enough."

They had come to a sharp turn in the bank. A narrow creek flowed inland for nearly half a mile, and the bank, following the line of the water, ran obediently along the whole length of it and returned on the other side. The creek was not more than fifty yards wide at the mouth, but it was necessary to make a detour of half a mile to skirt it. Half way down the bank, on the side which faced the water, was the battered frame of an old barge—a mere skeleton of a thing that had perhaps once been the pride of its owner and crew. John Shil moved toward it down the steep slope, and held out his hand to Laura.

She took the proffered assistance, and the firm grasp of the manly fingers sent the color to her cheeks. He was only offering an ordinary courtesy, but her heart, beating fast at his mere touch, imagined the grip of possession, the strong hold of a hand that would take her, and protect her against the violence of the world.

They sat down on the edge of a plank which still stretched between two gaunt ribs. It was not a comfortable seat, but it was better than the damp grass. The old hulk was at the foot of the bank, and half of it was buried in the mud of the creek. Beneath their feet lay a mass of corks, sticks, seaweed, crab shells, and all the jetsam which the tide brings up with it from the sea.

For a little while neither of them spoke. There was much to be said, many questions to be asked and answered. Yet neither liked to break the silence. Their hands were side by side on the edge of the plank, but their fingers did not touch. Once again Laura's mind harked back to those happy days on the Stonewold Hills.

Then the memory of them stung her to madness, and she plunged headlong into the contest.

"So you are going to marry Leonore?" she said in a low voice.

"Yes," he replied steadily, "I am going to marry Leonore."

"I hope you will be happy," she continued. "How long has this been arranged?"

"About two months."

"Really?" she asked in some surprise. "I only saw it two days ago in the paper. But two months ago—why, Leonore was then the wife of another man."

"The wife of another man?" he repeated slowly. "My dear Laura, what on earth are you talking about? Miss Jackson has never been married." Then he looked sharply in her face, and caught hold of her arm. "What do you mean?" he asked sternly.

"I mean that two months ago Leonore was married to a man, and had been married to him for years. She has recently divorced him in America."

Laura sprang off her seat and faced him with clenched hands and blazing eyes. His tone of indifference had stirred up all her hatred of Leonore.

"Do you want to know the name of the man?" she cried.

"Yes, yes, Laura, if you like to tell me," he replied. He spoke soothingly, as if to a fractious child. He thought that she had taken leave of her senses.

"Well, I will tell you," she said, making an effort to speak calmly. "Two months ago Leonore was the wife of Sir William Tankerlane."

A Ship's Remarkable Escape.

The fear of icebergs has been partly removed in recent years by wireless telegraphy, but their presence on the seas is still menacing enough to cause anxiety to many a captain.

There is the unparalleled case of the steamer Portia in Notre Dame Bay. In clear daylight an iceberg was sighted, and passengers and crew begged the captain to approach nearer in order that they might inspect and photograph it. The Portia, therefore, was steered close to the towering sides of the mighty berg, whose highest pinnacles glistened several hundred feet above the sea.

Then the unexpected happened. There was an explosion like the shock of a volcano eruption, and the mighty berg was riven in sunder. One of the pieces split apart, grew topheavy and toppled over, its base far under the Portia, and lifting her high and dry some ten or twelve feet above the sea.

The mighty overturning of the berg created enormous swells, and these huge waves were the only thing that saved the ship from destruction. The weight of the ship caught on its shelf of ice kept the berg from turning a complete somersault, and a huge swell picked up the vessel and launched her again, stern first, in the sea.—[George Ethelbert Walsh, in Harper's Weekly.

Lost Both.

"I made a bad bargain this morning," said the father of the heiress who had just attended his daughter's wedding to the titled fortune hunter.

"What was that?" asked a friend.

IT'S SO SIMPLE

ONE of the particularly strong points about the Elmore is its SIMPLICITY. It has fewer parts to get out of order, and these get out of order less. Compare it with any car you please.

If you haven't yet examined an Elmore, you'd better get busy. The minute the hood is taken off you'll notice the difference. Why, you will understand the inner workings in less than two minutes; it is so plain, so simple, and so easy.

This is one of the reasons Elmore owners swear by their cars; why it is so hard to get them even to consider another make.

Of course the simpler a car is, the greater its efficiency. The Elmore gives you that feeling of confidence which is half the pleasure of using a motor car.

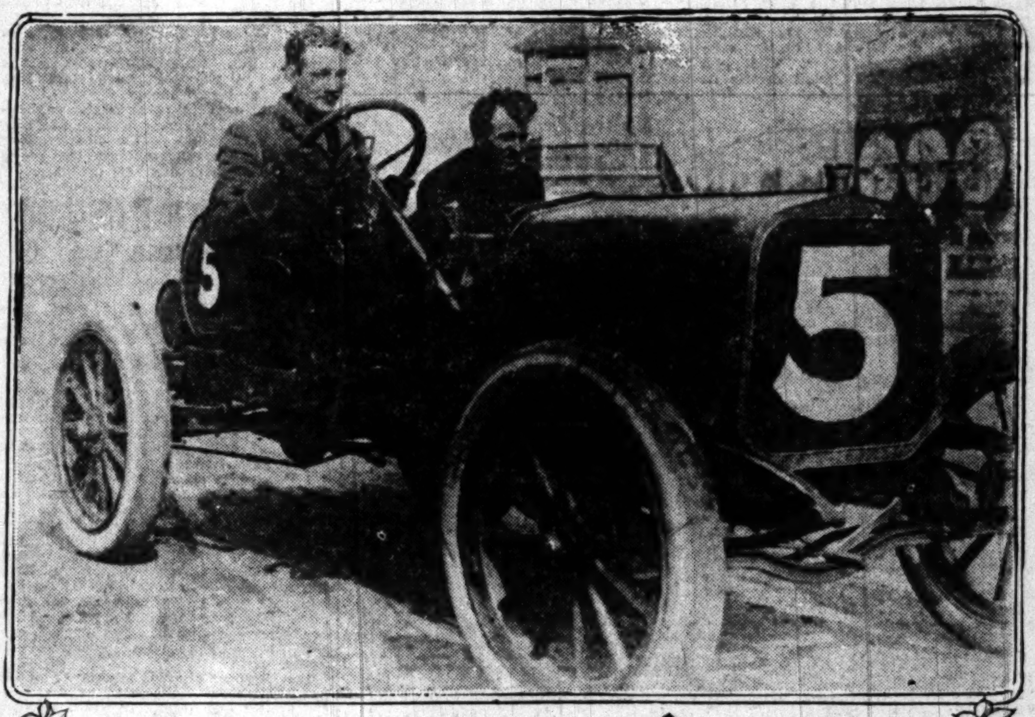
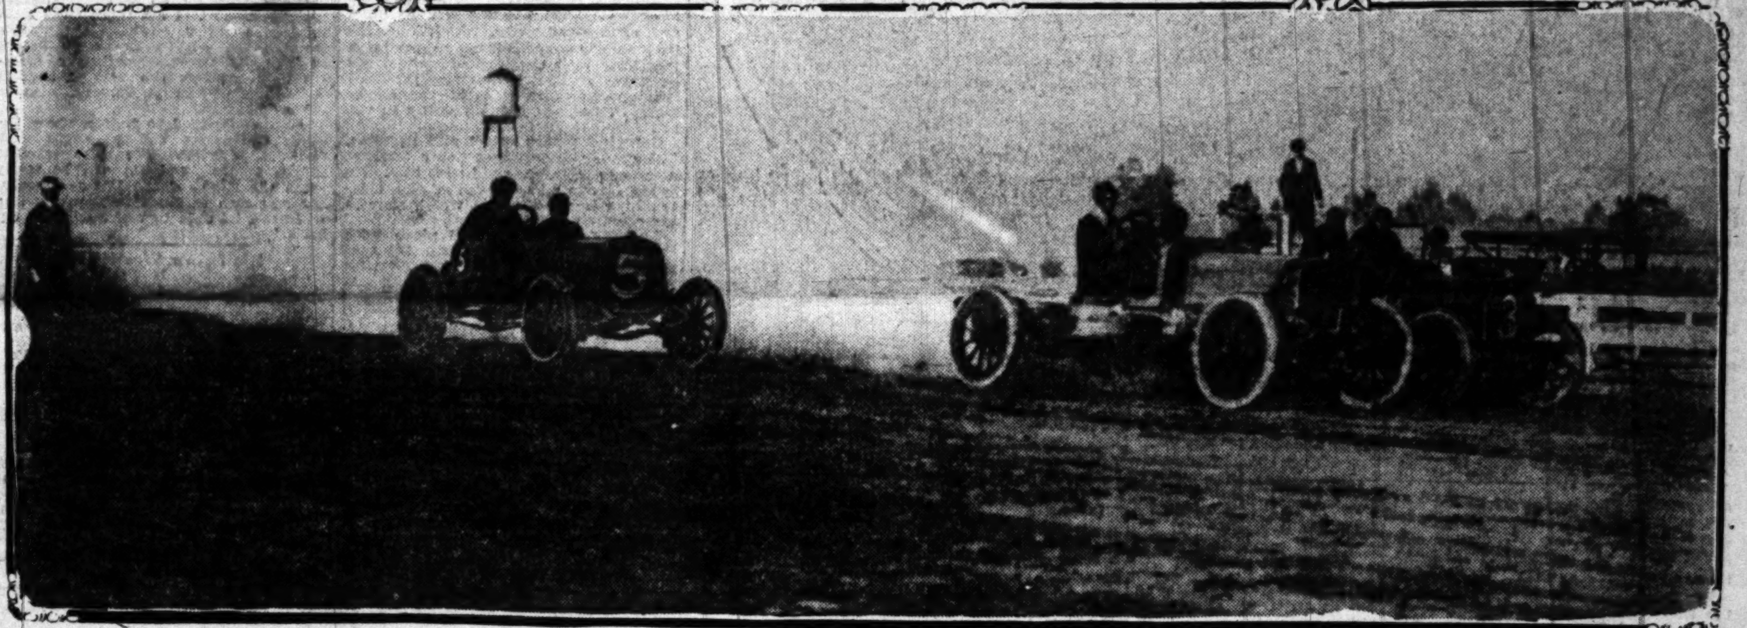
FRANK FREE DRIVES CORBIN TO VICTORY WHILE GRANT IN ALCO WINS VANDERBILT.

Driver Breaks Track Record in Fifty-Mile Derby at Ascot Without Stopping. Eastern Classic Disappoints Many Thousands.





Start of the Big Fifty-Mile Automobile Derby at Ascot Park Yesterday

in which the Southern California track record was smashed. The Winton and Palmer-Singer are off in the lead, with the Corbin, the winner, a close third. The three drivers are fighting for the pole which was finally taken by the Winton. Above is Frank Free at the wheel of his Corbin, with Joe Robinson at his side.

Frank Free, driving the Corbin, won the fifty-mile derby in 56m. 55s., a new track record.

The Corbin also won the ten-mile race in 11m. 2 4-5s., and the five-mile in 5m. 35 2-5s.

"Cap" Kennedy, in the Chadwick, won the mile speed trial in 1m. 2 4-5s.

William Carlson, a nineteen-year-old boy, drove the Winton second in the mile in 1m. 2 4-5s.

Al Livingston in a Royal won the five-mile handicap in 5m. 49 3-5s. Other cars flunked.

Frank Free in a Corbin won the fifty mile derby at Ascot Park yesterday afternoon from a field of fast cars in a nervy drive which smashed the Southern California circular track record formerly held by Ralph Hamlin in a Franklin.

Free's consistent work won for his car against racers which seemed seconds faster. It was a veteran track driver pitted against inexperienced boys and the veteran won.

William Carlson in the Winton "Six," a faster car than the Corbin, made a great drive, but Free worried the boy on the turns and compelled him to pull into the paddock after the Winton had led for five miles. Dust in the carburetor threatened to put the car out of the race but after a few minutes stop the Winton came back and finished in second place.

For mile after mile it was a struggle between Free and the Winton with the former taking the honors on the dangerous turns. Swinging around in a great cloud of dust the two drivers drew away from the field.

Early in the race the spectators picked out the Corbin and the Winton. The sympathies of many were with Carlson, the boy driver who was so anxious to win. His task was impossible as he was offering a few days experience against a seasoned track driver who has won many times.

STAGE FRIGHT.

Carlson has been out on the course steadily practicing day after day. His hopes were set on winning the derby. His car was fast enough but the test was too great for a driver of his years. It was his first race and the crowd frightened him.

In spite of his handicap, Carlson gave the throng a race that would have been tame had it not been for his spectacular driving. He forced Free to break the Southern California track record in order to defeat the Winton and at times got every atom of speed out of the fast six-cylinder car.

The Corbin's time for the fifty miles was 56m. 55s. The former record was 57m. 21s. made at Agricultural park, May 30, 1908, by Ralph Hamlin driving a Franklin six-cylinder.

Four cars started in the main event yesterday: the Corbin, driven by Frank Free; the Palmer-Singer, handled by Fred Gardner; the Winton, driven by William Carlson; and the Royal with Al Livingston at the wheel.

Twice the drivers scored for place but the anxiety of the youngsters to get away in the lead caused the referee to order a standing start. The lads could hardly hold their seat and as the cars came to the line there was a hurried shifting of gears and great clouds of smoke from the racing engines.

One man was calm. Frank Free in the Corbin smiled through the oil and dust on his face. It was all a picnic for him. He watched the antics of the inexperienced men with wide-eyed wonder and waited for the word.

No one was more excited than young Carlson, but he sent his Winton away with the bunch and with a burst of speed that showed what the car can do, took the lead away from Free, coming into the stretch in the van of the other cars.

Opening his car to the limit young Carlson took the pole after the veteran had jockeyed himself into first place and swung into the stretch at the end of the first mile, leading the Corbin by twenty yards. The Palmer-Singer was a yard behind the Corbin.

The second mile furnished a thrilling race with the three cars close up. They passed the grand stand with the Winton's lead increased slightly and Carlson driving wonderfully well for an amateur. Into the third mile the Winton went with a burst of speed that seemed to proclaim the car a winner.

Perhaps Carlson lost his head. It is

H. F. Grant, driving the Alco, won the Vanderbilt cup race in 4h. 25m. 2s. The Fiat was second.

R. W. Harroun, driving a Marmon, won the Wheatley Hills Sweepstakes in 3h. 10m. 21 2-5s.

J. Matson, driving a Chalmers-Detroit, won the Massapequa Sweepstakes in 2h. 9m. 52 2-5s.

One man was killed and two fatally injured near the course.

Nearly half the cars dropped out and few finished races.

MOTOR PARKWAY, MINEOLA (L.I.) Oct. 30.—Under circumstances which turned the event into the hollowest mockery of an automobile race ever witnessed on Long Island, Harry F. Grant, driving a sixty-horse-power Alco car, today won the fifth Vanderbilt cup race, completing twenty-two circuits of a 12.64-mile course in 4h. 25m. 42s. Edward H. Parker, at the wheel of a forty-five-horse-power Fiat, was second, 5m. 16s. behind the winner.

William Knipper, driving a forty-horse-power Chalmers-Detroit car, was in third position when the race was declared off by the officials. Only two other cars—the Mercedes, driven by Wishart, and the Atlas, driven by Knox—were on the course to the end.

The Wheatley Hills Sweepstakes was won by R. W. Harround, driving the No. 32 Marmon, who covered the fifteen laps of the course, or 189.60 miles, in 3h. 10m. 21 2-5s. The only other car to finish was the Columbia No. 33, driven by Wilcox.

Joe Matson, in a Chalmers-Detroit, won the Massapequa trophy, which was for ten circuits of the Vanderbilt course, or 126.40 miles; time 2h. 29m. 25 2-5s. Martin Dorley, driving a Maxwell, was second, and Arthur Seo, also in a Maxwell, was third.

TOO MANY CARS.

Although run under unsurpassed weather conditions, the race was marred in its early stages by the simultaneous presence on the course of three separate sets of cars running three distinct races over the same course, and in its final period, after the smaller car had left the circuit, by accidents so numerous that but five of the fifteen Vanderbilt cup entries, were left as contestants.

Not until the beginning of the twentieth lap, when the Fiat dislodged the Chalmers-Detroit from first position, and was itself passed in the back stretch by the Alco, did anything like genuine enthusiasm manifest itself.

The time made by the winner was equivalent to 60.25 miles an hour average for the entire distance of 278.08 miles.

The Apperson car was overturned at Massapequa Lodge, but no one was hurt.

The Marion, in the Wheatley Hills Sweepstakes, caught fire on the second round and was stopped at the repair pit.

The last car was barely out of sight when the bugles announced the coming of the first car to complete the round. This proved to be Joe Matson's Chalmers-Detroit, which had passed both Brown and Ainslee.

Of the Vanderbilt entries, Mitchell's Simplex was the first to finish the circuit. His time was 12m. 31 1-5s., equal to sixty miles an hour.

Seymour, in his Isotta, withdrew from the race in the fifth lap, while in fifth position, because of a broken steering knuckle.

Hearne's Fiat was out in the fifth lap with a broken crankshaft.

After nearly two hours' absence from the race, it was discovered that Strang's disappearance was due to the fact that a large rock had torn through his radiator as he was sweeping past Hicksville on his second lap.

At the conclusion of the sixth lap Knipper led the big car division, with Wishart in the Mercedes second, and Harding in the Apperson third.

While the big fellows were finishing their sixth lap, the smaller fry were just entering their fifth lap.

In Class 4, Matson led with a margin of nearly six minutes over Brown. Ainslee was third. In Class 4, the first to complete the fifth lap was Harround, with Wilcox in the Columbia second. The others were hopelessly distanced.

At 10:50 Strang passed the grand

CADET IS DYING AFTER THE GAME.

WEST POINT FOOTBALL PLAYER BREAKS HIS NECK.

Star Tackle Byrne of Army Eleven Bucks Up Against Fierce Harvard Scrimmage and Is Carried from the Field—Little Hope for Recovery—Crimson Wins.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WEST POINT, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Byrne, tackle on the Army team, broke his neck in a fierce scrimmage during the second half of the annual game with Harvard today. The injured player was carried unconscious from the field, and not being revived at the end of ten minutes, the officials called the game.

Dr. Nichols, here with Harvard, examined Byrne on the field, and is credited with having said that Byrne's neck was broken, and that the player probably could not live more than a few hours. Byrne was still alive at 5:05 o'clock, and the physicians were working over him.

Harvard defeated the crippled Army team before full stands by the score of 9 to 0. For the first time since 1906 the Crimson team played here, when West Point registered its only touchdown against Harvard.

Havard scored first when O'Flaherty dropped back to the 25-yard line and sent the ball between the posts for a pretty field goal. There was no more scoring in the first half. Harvard, 3; Army, 0.

Harvard scored its only touchdown and goal, after ten minutes of play in the second half.

Frothingham's poor judgment of punts lost Harvard much ground in the first half, but his accurate interference, and Leslie's brilliant running through broken field, was a substantial factor in obtaining the Crimson victory.

Harvard gave the best exhibition of the forward play seen at West Point this year. The passes were not long, but they were sure, only one failing. The Army tried the on-side kick twice—once in the first half for a gain of 35 yards, and once in the second half for a loss.

ANOTHER ONE ARRESTED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Thomas Gay, said to have swindled James Tierney of Streator, Ill., out of $10,000 on a fake wrestling match at New Orleans, was arrested yesterday by secret service men here.

CASTERS GET BUSY.

Rod and Reel Enthusiasts to Compete in Tournament at Anaheim Landing Next Sunday.

Members of the Southern California Rod and Reel Club are to hold their next casting tournament at Anaheim Landing next Sunday. The programme of events is: At 9 o'clock, fly casting for distance; 10 o'clock, ½-ounce, accuracy cast; 1 o'clock, 2½-ounce, accuracy event; 2:30 o'clock, 2½-ounce casting for distance.

The accuracy events will consist of three casts at each of five targets placed at respectively 80, 90, 100, 110 and 120 yards from starting point, making fifteen casts by each contestant from which to compute averages. Prizes will be given.

A large contingent of casters is expected to compete in the tourney, and the club expects the best contests the organization has ever had. Ernest Bartholomew, a crack eastern caster, who won the ½-ounce distance event in the national tournament at Chicago two years ago, is to compete in the coming events.

GOOD ONE GONE.

WILLIS BRITT TAKES COUNT.

WELL-KNOWN FIGHT MANAGER DIES SUDDENLY.

Expires in San Francisco Hospital After an Illness of Several Hours. Was Manager of Champion Pugs Jimmy Britt, Bat Nelson and Ketchel.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William (Willis) Britt, brother of Jimmy Britt, and manager of Battling Nelson and Stanley Ketchel, died at St. Joseph's Hospital in this city at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Since the Ketchel-Johnson fight Britt has been drinking freely and his excesses caused him to be removed to the hospital, where in his weakened condition little could be done for him.

He was about thirty-two years of age and one of the most prominent men in the pugilistic game. He was seriously sick some months ago and it was thought he would not recover. Ultimately he was able to leave the hospital and "spruced" up considerably.

Britt was born in San Francisco and was an amateur boxer of class, even before Jimmy attracted attention. Willis was in the newspaper game but when Jimmy turned professional, Willis became his manager and acquired a reputation as being one of the shrewdest managers in the business. After Jimmy Britt's final defeat by Joe Gans, Willis secured the handling of Battling Nelson and was largely instrumental in helping the Battler defeat Joe Gans. Subsequently, Britt assumed the management of Stanley Ketchel and has been with him in many of his sensational fights.

Although thousands of dollars passed through his hands Britt was a rapid spender and leaves a wife and child with practically no estate.

MOTOR RACING CONDUCTED SANELY PROVES SUCCESSFUL.

Enthusiastic Spectators See a Well-Managed Meet Which Should Be Fore runner of Season of Big Events This Winter—Yesterday's Races Were Viewed With Critical Eye by Sport-Loving Public.

A PERFECT day, a track in fine condition, an enthusiastic crowd of spectators, and a series of events unmarred by the slightest mishap combined to make the card of auto racing at Ascot Park yesterday a success in every respect.

The fear of accident on circular tracks and the disfavor into which this form of sport has fallen in some other places were belied by the meeting of yesterday.

The skidding of cars around the short turn below the grand stand was mildly thrilling at times, but it was apparent that there was no danger at an ytime. The small number of cars that remained in the longer races also eliminated a dangerous factor and except for a close contest at one or two points between two cars, the machines were scattered out at safe distances around the track.

The grand stand was well filled when the first race, a mile with flying start for records, was called. Walter Hempel feels that he had received a very fair degree of encouragement in his enterprise, and that the prospect for the winter is good.

Two or three circumstances, entirely unlooked for, conspired to detract from the intense interest that is sometimes aroused by automobile racing. The Chadwick made the fastest mile in the first event, 1m. 2 4-5s., and then dropped out of the distance events, so that it became a one-car affair, with the sturdy little Corbin taking almost everything in sight.

But for a mishap to the Winton, the fifty-mile race would have been one to bring the spectators out of their seats. Lap upon lap was made in this race with the Winton leading the Corbin by a hundred yards or more, sometimes gaining a little, again losing. But the Winton had lost three laps earlier in the race, and it was only a contest of speed by laps and not of a race.

Yet there was genuine enthusiasm in the crowd and as an afternoon's sport the races were a complete success. The careful management of the track at Ascot Park was one of the features that minimized the dangers of circular track racing. There were no spectators at the turns. They were all massed on the straight-away stretch, and had there been such an accident as has occurred at other tracks there could have been no danger except to the drivers. The spectators were given no chance to get out on the track.

PUBLIC CHOICES.

The early favorites in the grand stand seemed to be the Corbin and the Winton, the former chosen perhaps because of its five-mile record at the Santa Ana race. It scooted around the course with the regularity of clock-work, and its engine never missed a stroke. Once, toward the end of the hard fifty-mile grind, when every other car had been out for a lap or two at least, the little car seemed to be wearying, but it was soon jumping out after the Winton like a jack rabbit after a greyhound, and it was full of go at the end.

It was more or less of a surprise to the majority of those present that the time in the mile race was within two-fifths of a second of the local record, held by the Stoddard-Dayton since May 31, 1908. Although the track was in good condition, it was hardly expected that any records were to be broken, and the fast time of the Chadwick brought a burst of enthusiasm.

The fact that Los Angeles has what may easily be considered a mile-a-minute circular track, where racing seems to be comparatively safe, as long as the entries are not too numerous, may give a considerable impetus to this form of racing here. Racing on a straight-away course cannot become a great spectacular event, but racing on a circular track, where the cars are always in sight of the grand stand, and where the time is close to a mile a minute may become a thoroughly popular form of entertainment.

It was demonstrated by yesterday's event that there is a sufficient element of chance in automobile racing to make it thoroughly sporting. The speed of the cars, as shown in one event, was maintained relatively in the others, but here and there a car dropped out or stopped for alteration or adjustment of some part, which immediately changed the complexion of the race. If the history of yesterday is to be repeated, the spectators will be interested in seeing a larger number of entries in the hope of a few more neck and neck contests.

The fifty-mile race, as against the best previous local time, was certainly close enough to be interesting, if the attention had not been absorbed by the two cars fighting it out on the track. The time for the fifty miles yesterday fas 26 seconds better than the local record made by the Franklin a year and a half ago, or five seconds less than 57 minutes. This will be a mark worthy of good mettle in the future faces Los Angeles is likely to see, for it means that a car must do the fifty miles practically without a stop, a feat which the Corbin alone was able to accomplish yesterday.

The big event of today will be the 100-mile race, in which it is hoped that all of the cars entered will participate. This will mean that the Corbin must go out against a field in which will be the Chadwick, with its fastest mile yesterday to make it formidable, and the Winton, which made some extremely fast laps in the fifty-mile race yesterday, at times stealing away from the winner.

It will include also the Royal and the Palmer-Singer, which, if trained down from its present erratic state, would undoubtedly keep within sight of the bunch. It will be a final contest between three six-cylinder cars and two four-cylinders, with the Corbin four undoubtedly the favorite.

Today's races, if run as safely and satisfactorily as those of yesterday, will undoubtedly kindle a new interest in the sport in Southern California. With the coming of the large number of eastern motor enthusiasts whom winter will soon bring, there is likely to be developed a regular series of events, which will attract the attention of the automobile world.

RACE NOTES.

The repair pits at Ascot proved interesting yesterday during the long race. Every car but one was driven to the boards, and the antics of the helpers was enjoyed by the crowd.

Each car takes a separate station, where water and oil is kept constantly ready. As the driver scoots by a signal to the men in the pits tells them the car will be turned in on the next circuit. Every thing is then in readiness for the machine as it comes to the pit.

Perfect order marked the races yesterday. The arrangement at Ascot provides an inside paddock for the cars not in the race, which is ample to accommodate a score of motors.

The scoring was also a feature. The time, distance and number of each car was carded during the races, and at the end of each short event.

Spectacular work on the curves was lacking to a certain extent, because of the absence of heavy dust clouds. The course should be in even better shape today.

Walter Hempel kept his promise, and cleared the course. The work of the deputy sheriffs was appreciated by the spectators, who were given a clear view of the finish.

That there was not an accident to mar the meet is due to the special policing of the course.

Cars were kept in the paddock until five minutes before the start of each event. They were then allowed out for a trial spin.

Automobile racing is rarely enjoyed by the rooters. There is plenty of sport and enough thrills to keep the crowd on its toes all the time.

Looks Over Thomas Cars.

The Thomas Motor Car Company has arranged for the free inspection of all Thomas cars in use in Southern California. The cars will be examined by an expert, whose headquarters will be at the Wilson & Buffington agency on South Olive street. This is done in order that the upkeep expense may be lessened.

WANTS AN AUTO SHOW.

Robert Atkinson Comes Back from San Francisco With Drill Team and Silver Trophy.

Robert Atkinson has returned from San Francisco after a week passed there with the Elks' drill team, which took the prize in the marching rquad of the big parade. Atkinson was captain of the local drill team which won honors. He is a member of the firm of Schwaebe & Atkinson, agents for Premier cars.

"We had 25,000 persons in line," said Atkinson, "and we showed them the Los Angeles boosting spirit. We were enabled to give more than a hint that we are not in favor of State division. We let them see we want a united California. We also won a silver trophy.

"Business is booming in San Francisco. The auto dealers there have just had a show. They were not united on the proposition, however. Seems to me we ought to have a show here and I, for one, am heartily in favor of holding one the coming year.

"There is no need of us being selfish. Let us unite for a big motor car exhibit and we'll have thousands out to see our cars. I am satisfied we are making a mistake by not arranging for a motor car exhibit within the coming months."

ASCOT PARK RACE.

certain that Free did not. He would send the Corbin at terrific speed into the turns and would almost catch the Winton, only to be bested on the straightaways by the speed of the six-cylinder car.

At the finish of the third mile, the Winton led by 150 yards and was going well, having finished the mile in 1m. 4s. This was too fast for a long race but Carlson did not slow down a second as he shot into the turn for the fourth mile with the Corbin coming behind and well up. Again he made the circuit and increased his lead. He was given a liberal cheer as the Winton shot past the grand stand. Carlson had led four times with one of the best track drivers in the West at his heels. The supporters of the six-cylinder car went wild.

The test came in the beginning of the fifth. Free drove up as usual on the turns and the Winton man had trouble to keep the lead. The finish of the exciting duel came on the back stretch, where the Corbin shot ahead of the Winton, and kept the lead to the finish of the long grind.

The Corbin finished the five miles in 5m. 40 3-5s., with the Winton six seconds behind. Carlson stopped in the paddock on the next turn, lost four minutes and the race.

A shield was hung over the carburreter and the Winton went back into the contest with a handicap which could not be overcome. Free had given the lad as much dust as possible.

While the six-cylinder car was off the track the Royal, driven by Al Livingston, jumped into second place, with Livingston driving consistently Mile after mile the big car whirled around the course, but Livingston could not overcome the lead gained by the Corbin.

Nearly three miles to the good, Free and the Corbin cut out a terrific pace, which the crowd soon saw would break records if he could keep on his wheels. The ten-mile mark was passed in 10m 18 4-5s.

At the fifteenth mile post Free's time was somewhat slower. He had the race well in hand with every other car making a fight for second place. The Royal kept well up, but Carlson in the Winton went after the big touring car in earnest, and soon passed the Royal, which was forced to pull into the paddock at the end of the eighteenth mile for water. The Royal's time for the ten miles, 10m. 52 4-5s.

The Palmer-Singer, driven by Fred Gardner, was making slow time, and was not a competitor after the fifth mile. Gardner seemed afraid of his car, changed gears in the stretch, and shut off every time he approached the turns.

The Palmer showed plenty of speed, but the driver seemed to be a novice He finally was forced to draw into the paddock, and did not finish the race.

RECORD DRIVE.

Without a pause Free drove mile after mile with his car well in hand and at a steady clip, which kept the tires on his wheel and his engine moving, Free took the lead and could not be passed. The paddock might need not have been there for all the use he made of the assistants waiting in the pit.

Carrying plenty of oil and gasoline, The Corbin driver kept going and not a car on the track could pass him. He finished four miles ahead of the Winton in a burst of speed which showed his class as a driver.

The Winton took second place, with Carlson ready to drop from his seat from exhaustion. The Winton's time was 61m. 30s. The Royal did not finish the race. Livingston was forced to draw into the paddock on the forty-fifth mile and the race was then declared off by Roy Hillman, representative of the A.A.A.

Six cars tried for honors in the speed dashes. The Chadwick flew away from the bunch in the fast time of 1m. 2 4-5s. The car was not working to the satisfaction of Kennedy. It is entered in the 100-mile race today and should be a strong competitor.

OTHER RACES.

The Winton took second place in the mile dashes, making the circuit in 1m. 3 1-5s. The Corbin was third, in 1m. 4 3-5s. The Palmer-Singer and the American both made miles in 1m. 7 2-5s. The Royal made the mile in 1m. 9 3-5s.

Two cars lined up for the five-mile dash, the Corbin and the American, driven by William Wurtzburger. It was a walkaway for the fast Corbin, which Free drove five times around the circuit in 5m. 35 2-5s.

Five cars came to the scratch in the ten-mile event, the Corbin, American, Royal, Winton and Palmer-Singer. The Corbin took the lead only to be passed by the Winton which in turn was repassed by the Corbin, which won in 11m. 2 4-5s.

The handicap five-mile event brought three cars to the tape, the Palmer-Singer, American and the Royal. This was the lucky race for Livingston. He was given a handicap of eleven seconds, which was lengthened to a minute, when the Palmer-Singer driver failed to get into his gears and stalled his motor in front of the grand stand. The Royal was in the stretch of the first mile before the Palmer got away. The American had trouble on the back stretch, making it a runaway race for the big touring car.

The track at Ascot Park proved to be faster than it has ever been before. The turns stood the skidding of the cars and the course is not badly cut up. The racers today should show sensational time and records should be broken.

The Corbin will have a competitor in the Chadwick and the Winton, both of these cars being entered against the speedster. "Cap" Kennedy, who drives the Chadwick, has had plenty of experence on the road and should show to advantage on the track.

There is a possibility that Leon T. Shettler may be able to enter the Apperson "Jackrabbit" if he can secure demountable rims for the tires. This car won the Titadena hill climb and is a mate to the speedster which won at Santa Monica and at the Oakland Portola.

Referee Eddie Maier gave entire satisfaction yesterday. He seems to be the right man for the place. He was assisted by Roy P. Hillman the A.A.A. representative and all records are official.

The races are to start this afternoon at 2:30.

CHURCH TALKS SHOW.

Would Favor Reconsideration of Vote If Dealers Show a Desire for Motor Exhibit.

Norman Church, Coast representative for the Stoddard-Dayton, has come over to the side of Earle C. Anthony, manager of the Western Motor Car Company, and the two prominent dealers are out with the announcement that they will favor an automobile show if a majority of the dealers evince a desire to hold an exhibit. Following the definite statement of Anthony, Church admits that, though he voted against the show, he now stands ready to change his mind if a majority desire the exhibit.

"Though I did not favor then a show," said Church, "I do not want to go on record as having knocked the proposition. I am more than willing to act with a majority of the dealers and am willing to go on record as being in favor of calling a meeting to reconsider the vote if that is the desire of the automobile men in the association.

"If it is decided to hold a show the Stoddard-Dayton will be there with banners waving. We have always shown before and we will be ready when the time comes. We are receiving our cars in steady shipments and will soon be able to make a great exhibit."

His Father Was Honest.

"Bobby," asked the teacher of the class in artithmetic, addressing the question to one of the younger pupils, "how many pints are there in a gallon?"

"I've forgot it again, sir," said Bobby, who found it hard to commit to memory the tables of weights and measures.

"Bobby," said the master, "your father is a milkman, isn't he?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, now, think as hard as you can. He sometimes sells a gallon can full of milk, doesn't he? Just so. Well, when he does, how many pints of milk are there in that gallon can?"

stand on his second lap, having repaired the broken radiator. At this time he had six laps to make up.

CHEVROLET OUT.

Chevrolet, with his Buick, was out in the fifth lap because of a broken cylinder. Aitken was out in the fifth lap because of the loss of a wheel.

Atlas No. 5, driven by Elmer Knox, went off the track at Hicksville, Strang abandoned the race to regain a place among the survivors, and the field at the conclusion of the thirteenth lap was reduced to five cars.

By a tremendous burst of speed, Edward H. Parker, brought his Fiat into the lead in the twentieth lap; Chalmers-Detroit second; Alco third at that time.

For a brief period then it seemed a close finish would be witnessed, but in the twenty-first lap and in the twenty-second lap Grant widened the gap between himself and the field, and finished virtually alone.

Up to within one lap of the finish the officials were at odds as to the number of laps which the leading car had finished, and it was only after a vigorous protest from the entrants of the Alco that the correct reading of the time card was announced.

MIDLAND A HUMMER.

Medium-Priced Car to Have New Home—Factory Promises Steady Shipments in a Month.

Another car, the Midland, is here with a bid for recognition. G. A. Eichelberger has taken the machine under his wing. A company is to be organized to handle the Midland and a garage will be erected. The Midland is known in the East. It is manufactured at Moline, Ill. About 700 cars will be made this year.

The factory builds a thirty-five-horse-power car which is put out in four models, a toy tonneau, touring car, speedster and roadster. This car is fast, handsome and stylish. Another model, a forty-five horse-power, is built in a touring car only. One of the forty-five horsepower demonstrators is here and a "thirty-five" is on the way.

The Midland is a medium priced car. The factory promises regular shipments after December 1. At present the car is housed at No. 600 South Olive street at the headquarters of R. A. Brassey, Hupmobile agent.

Eichelberger has recently arrived from the East, where he is well known among factory men, having been associated with several of the large concerns. He is a thorough automobile man. He is to associate himself with local men known to the trade.

AFTER THE RECORD.

ANXIOUS EYES ON PET CARS.

Ten Motors Are to Start in Great Sand Battle.

Phoenix Mark to Be Hammered to Smithereens.

High and Low-powered Autos in Competition.

Ten fast racing cars are to leave Second and Spring streets Saturday night for Phoenix. Ten drivers who know their cars as a jockey knows his horse will endeavor to reach the Arizona capital in the shortest time. Perhaps the contest does not rest so much with the car as with the man. It is certainly a combination of both that will win. Experience is to count in this desert race.

Over the worst roads in the world the automobiles will race. Sometimes the cars, that is, several of them, will do better than sixty miles an hour. At other times the same machines will be doing well when the needle on the speedometer shows fifteen miles an hour.

There are roads so bad between Mecca and Chuckawalla Springs that full power must be put on while going down hill. These roads are deep in sand. Vehicles do not pass over them for months at a time. But over this desert trail ten automobiles will travel, sometimes at high speed.

For three weeks these ten racers have tried the desert roads. The cars have bucked sand for days. The drivers have slept on the desert where no houses offer shelter. On the cold sand, and it is bitterly cold at night on the desert, the crews of the racers have waited impatiently for dawn to begin again the terrible grind.

WORTH THE CANDLE?

What are they striving for? The honor of winning a silver mug and $1300 in gold. Each will spend more than the prize—almost twice as much—preparing and driving the race. Only one can win. The desire is to make the drive over the worst roads on earth to show what the cars can be made to do.

At least six entries will be satisfied to finish in Phoenix somewhere around the thirty mark. One car is in the race for the especial purpose of entering the fast meet on the track at Phoenix when the race is over.

Every driver will take a chance. If he breaks down on the desert he cannot hope for help from the racers. He must tug and haul at his car to get it off the road to allow the other hungry desert rats following him a chance to pass.

It is to be the survival of the fittest and there is to be no quarter. Not a driver can hope for sympathy from the man behind. No tow ropes will be carried. It is "pot luck" after the starting pistol is fired.

When the cars leave Whitewater the desert fight is on. The lonely places will be awakened with the roar of the naked mufflers. When Mecca is passed all hope must be left behind. There is no house for 100 miles.

Two roads invite the weary racers after passing a point ten miles from Dos Palmos. The shorter route leads away from Chuckawalla Springs and around the ugly sand mound that must be crossed. Two of the drivers in this race know the short cut. They dare not take it if they hope to figure in the race.

At Chuckawalla Springs a man in a horse and buggy, with an ominous book in his hand will await each car. The driver of the car must sign his name in the book. He must pass through Dos Palmos to get to Chuckawalla. Though the shorter route may tempt him he must buck the mountain of sand.

TRICKLING STREAMS.

Tiny mountain streams trickle down from the chalk hills and seep through the sands. Treacherous holes are formed, sometimes directly in the path of the cars. It is easy for 2000 pounds of iron and steel to settle comfortably into these bogs. It is next to impossible to drag the car out again.

There will be no rest for the crews of the cars until the Colorado River is reached, nearly 290 miles from the starting point. Here at Ehrenberg the cars will be placed in control and cannot be touched until the start at 4 o'clock the following morning.

Undoubtedly the thrilling points of the race, that is to say, the speed dashes, will come between Los Angeles and Banning and between Ehrenberg and Phoenix. On the desert only the coyotes and jackrabbits will have a chance to watch the cars as they toil along.

Every one is agreed that last year's record will be smashed. Fred C. Fenner, who holds the mark with a White steamer, expects to clip five hours from his own record of 30h. 25m. About nine men expect to beat Fenner.

The winner of last year's race will ride in an Isotta-Fraschini this year. He will have a driver who knows the car, but who is not any too familiar with the road. Fenner knows every foot of the road from here to Phoenix, however, and this may help some.

The Isotta will start first at 10 o'clock from in front of the Hollenbeck Hotel. Referee John S. Mitchell will send the fast car away on the dot. Fenner expects to beat all cars to Banning. He has set himself a particularly fast schedule. The rules permit him to reach San Bernardino on any road after leaving the city limits.

SLOWER SCHEDULE.

D. B. Rose and the Elmore will start fifteen minutes after Fenner. Rose has set himself a slower schedule to Banning but he expects to make up for any lead Fenner may get after the two cars get out on the desert. Rose is confident of passing the leading car somewhere between Whitewater and Mecca. He is sure the Elmore will lead all cars when Chuckawalla Springs is reached.

The Elmore, since its great trip across the desert, is now one of the favorite cars in the race. It has shown speed and great sand bucking power. C. F. Smith and George Dake expect to take part in the Elmore's victory.

"Look out for the Pennsylvania," says Morris O'Donnell, who expects to drive that car into Phoenix first. O'Donnell made the trip across the sands in a Franklin to familiarize himself with the roads. The Pennsylvania has not been subjected to the tugging and straining necessary to make the run to Phoenix. This may count in the race. The car is as right as it was at Santa Ana when it made such a fine showing.

This car seems to be able to deliver the goods. It is a new comer, but has made a great impression since it arrived. The Pennsylvania has speed and staying qualities and, according to the dope sheet, has a perfect right to win, not only in the desert race but also in the track events after reaching Phoenix.

William P. Bosbyshell and the Dorris have faithfully tried the sands. Forth and back across the worst stretches of the desert roads the Dorris man has sent his sturdy car. If there is a weak place in the frame, a loose bolt, or a flaw in the mechanism it would have been found. The Dorris has been tried out consistently.

FAMILIAR WITH IT.

Knowing well that the race is to be a speed and endurance contest Bosbyshell has driven over the course time and again and is ready for the struggle which is to come Saturday, Sunday and Monday. He has been to Phoenix. He knows what he must expect and is prepared for the worst.

Ralph Hamlin and the Franklin are favorites in the race. This seems strange when the Franklin took last place in the last race. From the showing the car made to Blythe ranch, however, many are convinced the air-cooled car will win in the tussle across the sands.

Two long trips across the desert have been made by the Franklin. Hamlin knows the road this time. He will take with him Guy Irwin, who made the trip last year and C. S. Carris, also a Franklin driver who was with Whitman when the Franklin made the record run across the United States.

Bert Latham knows the road. He has just returned from a long dusty run to Phoenix with the Studebaker E.M.F. The little car broke the record of the White Steamer and Latham says he can do the trick again in the race. He will start sixth.

Confidence undoubtedly counts for much. Latham has plenty of confidence. He expects, down in his heart, to place and knows he has a chance to win. He will drive hard and will have the advantage of having almost lived with his car for the last month. Harry Lord will drive to Mecca.

Behind the little E.M.F. will come the smallest car in the race, the Ford, which Roger Stearns, the local manager of the Standard Motor Car Company, will drive. This is the same type of Ford that recently won the New York-Seattle race against cars of three times the horsepower. The Ford is only twenty horsepower and seems not to have a chance.

BABY HAS SYMPATHY.

When the racers shoot away the little Ford should have the sympathy of the crowd which usually pities the little fellow. It is the midget car. That it needs no sympathy, however, is shown by the performance of the car on its desert trials. It made Phoenix without a murmur. Funnier things could happen than that the Ford should win.

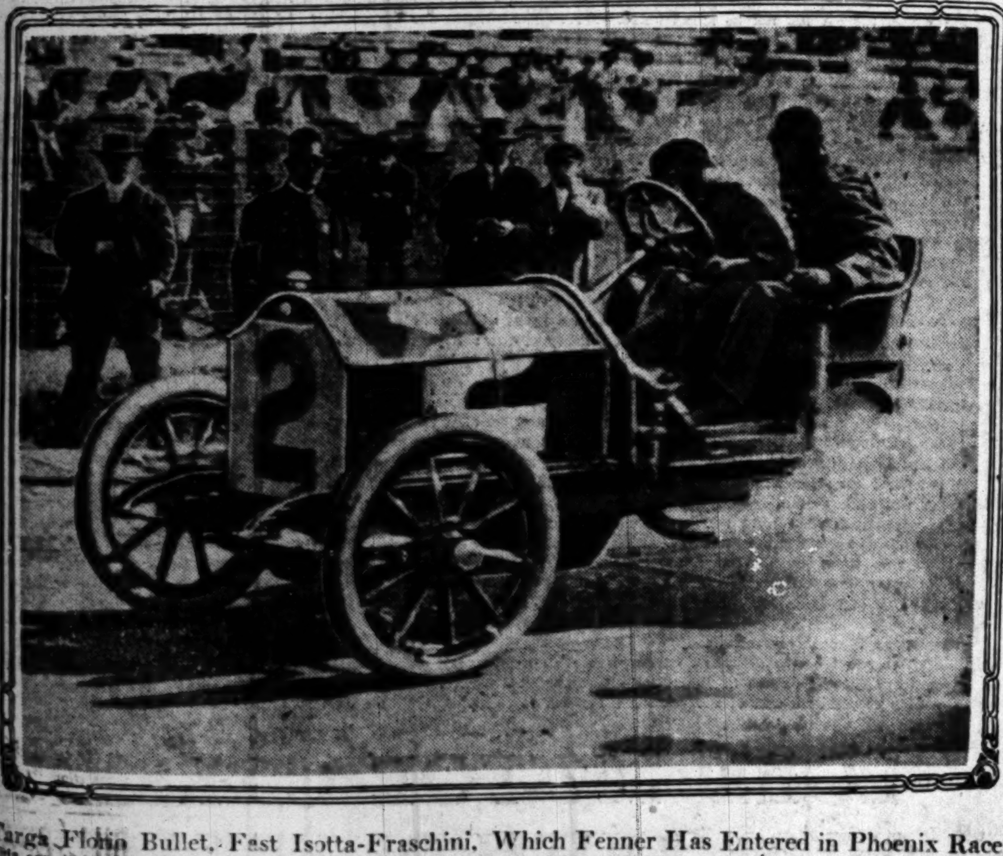
Last to come into the race, the Columbia is also the last to get out on the road. The car made the run to Phoenix the early part of the week. Stone and Illingsworth went to Indio Tuesday and to the Colorado River on Wednesday. The Columbia behaved herself, acording to the mechanician, who wrote to Bireley and Young that he has a great chance.

The boys were not obliged to sleep on the desert. In that they were fortunate, as several crews have passed the night under the stars. Stone is familiarizing himself with the roads and as he will start in seventh place he should be enabled to follow an almost beaten path.

J. K. Nikrent, in the Buick has passed much time on the road. He has been to Phoenix and feels himself competent to pick out every turn. This is the big Buick and the car has plenty of speed.

After reaching Phoenix the Buick will be entered in the track races there. "Nik" expects to pull down a handsome big cup and $500 prize money.

Leon T. Shettler has done practically nothing toward preparing for the race. Hanshue knows the road, however, and C. H. Bigelow, one of the best desert guides in the West, will ride on the car Shettler enters. Three days before the race Shettler is to announce his entry.



Targa Florio Bullet, Fast Isotta-Fraschini, Which Fenner Has Entered in Phoenix Race. This car, it is claimed, has made 112 miles an hour on the straightaway and is a type of the car that was driven by Lewis Strang in the Florio cup races in Italy. Fenner has a French driver for this car.

KLINGER'S WORDS OF WISDOM.

Bay City Man Speaks Prophetically of Coming Years and Sees Only Prosperity Ahead.

William Klinger renewed acquaintances on automobile row yesterday. Klinger says the San Francisco market is better than ever and states that the Bay City dealers are steadily passing out cars.

"There is to be an elimination contest the coming year that will mean a survival of the fittest," said Klinger. "It means the death of the little man who is making a dozen cars. Only the larger factories will survive the struggle that is to come. It means the expansion of the motor car industry.

"This move to enter the Licensed Association is significant. We are to see consolidation of interests; more cars, perhaps, but fewer factories. It does not necessarily mean that cars are to be dearer.

"We have created a market for cars. Everybody wants an automobile. We must supply that demand at a price within the reach of the pocketbooks of the middle classes. To do this means more capital. It also means combination. We are to have more cars and fewer factories in the coming years but as a result it will be easier for the middleman to get an automobile."

GOSSIP ALONG GASOLINE ROW.

George E. Somarindyk was lucky enough to receive the first 1910 Cadillac delivered in Los Angeles. The entire force of the Lee Motor Car Company extended congratulations to the owner of the handsome new car, the first of the many shipments to be received later.

Walter Seeley returned Friday from San Francisco in his Pope-Hartford roadster. This is the car which won the Baldy race. Seeley says the car was repeatedly mistaken for the winner of the Portola race.

The Pasadena branch of the Lee Motor Car Campany is to be opened tomorrow. This is the largest garage and salesroom in the Crown City. Lester Patee is in charge.

Two carloads of Cadillacs are expected tomorrow. Manager Doc Green is preparing for extra work.

Leon T. Shettler says he has gone into the automobile supply business in order to have sufficient supplies for the car he expects to put into the Phoenix race.

Nine men would like to know the car Shettler is going to enter in the Phoenix race.

Here is Shettler's answer to the nine men. I will enter an Apperson, a Kisselkar, a Reo or a Woods electric.

Bill Bush says he is so busy selling cars that it is hard to attend a dealers' meeting.

Chanslor and Lyon have taken the agency for the Earl Wind Shield. The glass front is an attractive automobile accessory and its popularity has led Philip Lyon to arrange for the exclusive agency for the shield.

Stafford Bixby is sending out invitations on handsomely embossed cards. They are not wedding announcements but invitations to come and see the Isotta-Fraschini.

R. C. Hamlin has three carloads of Franklin cars on the way. He is seventeen orders behind.

Glen Lull says he found so many quail near—well he did not say just where, but says the quail were so thick that they had to take turns roosting.

Coney C. Slaughter is selling Stearns cars steadily.

Don Lee went to Oxford last week. So did Doc Green.

F. C. Holme's new Pope-Hartford touring car is here. It is fully equipped and is handsomely finished.

Baker electric four-passenger machines were sold the last week to Mrs. J. H. McCullough and T. F. Story. John D. Works has also purchased an electric.

A shipment of Stoddards was received last week, among them being a sepia brown car trimmed in gold and upholstered in Spanish leather. This is one of the most striking cars ever received in Los Angeles. A blue car with white trimming is one of the attractive Stoddards in this shipment.

Adolph Levy toured from San Diego last week in his Franklin car.

Charles Kessler, Mitchell agent in San Diego, and W. E. Drury, Mitchell agent in Bakersfield, were in Los Angeles last week.

Premier cars were sold the last week by the Schwaebe-Atkinson Motorcar Company to the Traders' Oil Company, who purchased a forty-five horse-power car; the Hauser Packing Company, a forty Clubman; Ed Doable and the Union Tool Company, who took six-cylinder sixty-horse-power Premiers.

Mayor Earley of Pasadena has ordered a fifty-horse-power, seven-passenger American Simplex. Its simplicity and great power peculiarly adapt this car to touring, and a special equipment of oil and gasoline tanks has been added, indicating that Mr. Earley and his family expect to make some extensive trips.

FIAT CARS HERE.

George Watson of Pasadena Has the Agency for Fast Foreign Machine Which Looks Good.

George Watson has secured the agency for Fiat cars in Southern California. He is located in the Watson Repair Company's garage in Pasadena and already has sold two of the handsome foreign machines. During the last week he delivered a Fiat touring car to Col. Newberry of Chicago, who is in Pasadena for the winter. J. J. Mitchell, who owns a beautiful home on Belleview Drive, purchased the other Fiat. There are only two of these cars in Southern California.

Fiat cars have never been entered in a race meet in the West, despite the fact that they are among the fastest in the world. Watson has had ill fortune in that twice when he had determined to enter a race meet his entry blank was sent in too late. He was too late for the Redlands hill climb and also too late for the Santa Monica road race.

The Fiat is to figure in local meets if the Pasadena agent has his way. The high-grade car is popular in New York and Watson intends that it shall become well known here.

ANOTHER FIELD.

AUTOMOBILE AMBULANCE IS FIRST AID TO THE INJURED.

ONE of the latest developments in the automobile industry is the ambulance service which the motor car is able to render. In the field the car has proved its serviceability in sham batles and skirmishes.

Easy riding qualities are a necessity. The motor must be almost silent, and there must be as little jar as possible while the car is being moved.

The Auto Vehicle Company has perfected an ambulance for a local undertaking firm which has made good in several trials. The car rides comfortably. Its 136-inch wheel base makes the interior swing like a cradle. It is almost noiseless as it glides rapidly along the streets.

Equipped with a fifty-horse-power motor, the car is capable of high speed. It can be handled quickly and rushed from place to place in a quarter the time it takes for a horse-drawn ambulance to make the journeys.

On a Tourist chassis, a specially designed body was swung, and the car was built on palatial lines. It makes a handsome ambulance, far handsomer, in fact, than a machine to which horses are attached.

The chassis is built with a pressed steel frame, with five-inch sections of channel steel. The transmission is three-speed selective type. The car is driven by shaft and bevel gear.

The radiator is of honeycomb type, with fan in connection. There is a door on either side of the body, and a wide step, which makes it possible for two or three persons to assist when an injured person is being lifted into the center of the car. The driver is shut off from the interior of the ambulance.

The interior is fitted with electric lights, making the ambulance available for night service. The ambulance can carry enght chairs or a long cot and a chair. There is provision for carrying instruments and linen and drugs.

LEAVITT COMES BACK.

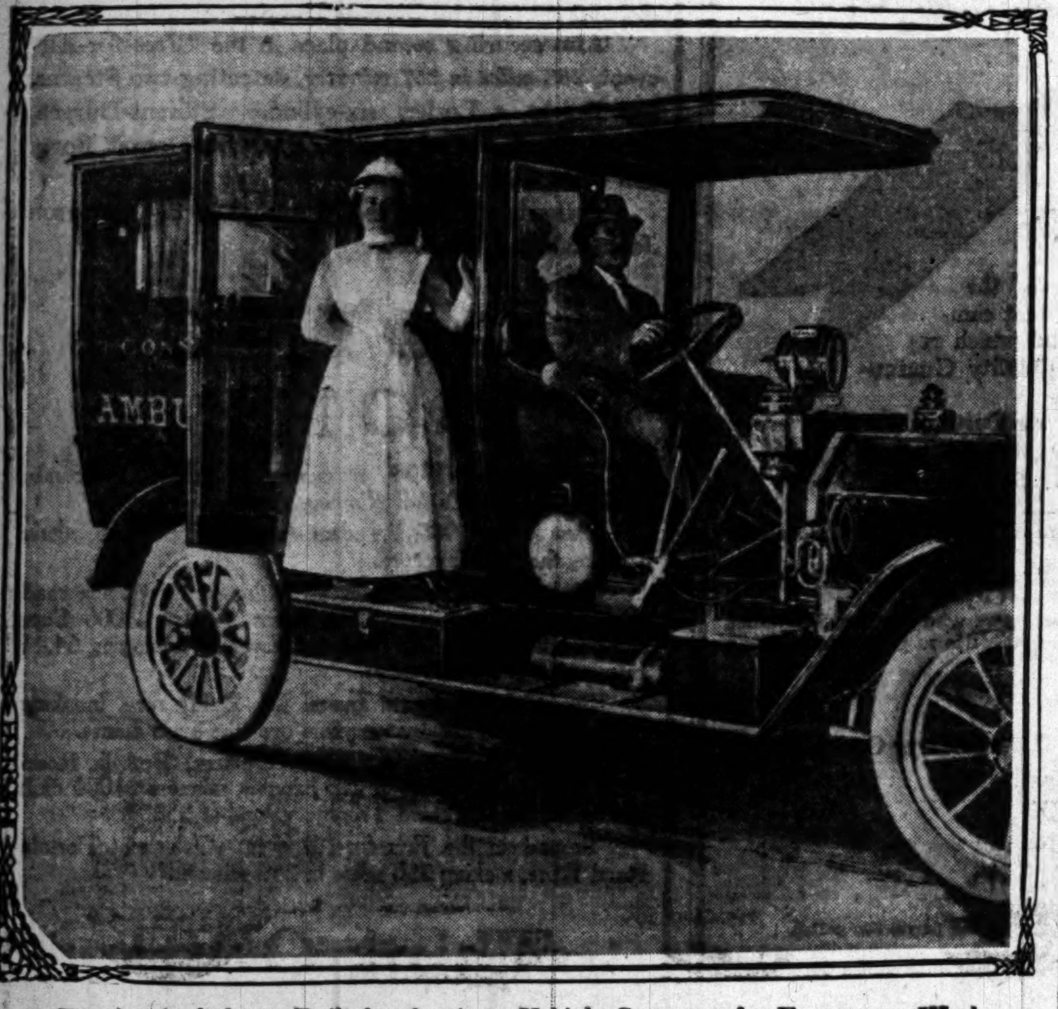
Big Fellow on Deck With Line of Renault Cars That Should Cut Figure in Racing Game.

Ralph J. Leavitt is here with a line of cars that are to attract attention. He has secured the Renault agency, and at present is located on Olive street, near the Elmore Motor Car Company. He will handle a complete line of the high-grade foreign machines.

Looking as handsome as ever, with the same confident smile on his broad countenance, the big fellow, the luckiest man in the local motor car world, is to make another bid with an entirely new machine. Leavitt has always been a winner, and he expects to keep up his reputation.

Just what he is to do in racing circles he is loth to say. A glance at his line of cars is sufficient to realize he is prepared to give any one a run for his money.

Several weeks passed in the East has given Leavitt a closer insight into the motor car industry, and he is convinced the years to come are to be the greatest ever. He is in on the ground floor ready for business, and expects to cut as wide a swath as ever.



Tourist Ambulance Built by the Auto Vehicle Company for Emergency Work.

The special body is fitted to a Tourist chassis, the motor of which has developed fifty horse-power. It will be used for quick relief trips about the city.

ON THE HIGH.

PULLMAN RUNS AROUND KITE AND GIVES GOOD IMPRESSION.

GEORGE WILLIAMS and Roger Miller made the round of the Kite track Wednesday in the 1910 Model K Pullman without adjustment. The car was sent 170 miles without looking at the engine. Fresh from the factory, the Pullman was given the test and made good.

Firm in the belief that the car is a winner, Williams, who, with Miller, recently took the agency for the Pullman, started early Tuesday morning for Riverside. The car showed its speed on the levels, reaching as high as fifty miles an hour. It scooted along at a lively clip, and Riverside was reached three hours after starting from Los Angeles.

Then the car was sent at the Rubidoux hill climb to test its powers. The Pullman went up the hill comfortably, making no bones of the grade, much of which was taken on the high gear. The passengers were on Rubidoux summit four hours after leaving Spring street.

The long run was somewhat of an experiment, as Williams had never taken a long trip in the car. Miller was satisfied the Pullman would do the work, as he had been given test runs while at the Pullman factory recently.

The roads are rough between Riverside and Redlands, but the Pullman went at the bumps at speed and proved its riding qualities. It was given as severe a test as possible, and at Redlands a prospect was given a long ride in the car as a demonstration. Several hills in the vicinity were climbed, and the car was driven to San Bernardino.

The run from San Bernardino was made after dark, and here again the car showed its class. On the run across the wash to Cucamonga the speedometer was shoved to the limit as the car kept the fifty-mile clip. Consistency was shown by the even going of the Pullman, which did not vary more than a tenth on the sixteen-mile run across the perfectly smooth stretch.

Late at night the tourers reached Los Angeles after an enjoyable ride over the rough and smooth roads. The Pullman agents are preparing to occupy a handsome new garage at No. 1140 South Olive street.

Princeton's Tight Squeeze.

ANNAPOLIS(Md.) Oct. 30.—Although defeated by two points by Princeton, the Navy, in the game this afternoon, showed such marked improvement in form as to give her supporters great encouragement. The score was 5 to3 in the Tigers' favor the navy's tally being made on a neat placement goal from the thirty yard line, by Dalton. Princeton's touchdown was the result of straight line plunging in which Tiger beef was more than the midshipmen could withstand. Ballen failed in his try for a goal.

SOCCER NOTES.

A. Cohen and H. H. Evans were elected league delegates at the Wednesday night meeting of the Thistles.

The Los Angeles team will organize during the coming week, and will probably be seen in a game next Sunday. The regular league schedule should begin three weeks from today.

A. Mitchell is as good a ground-gainer as any who have yet been seen this season. He will be a big factor in Ranger successes during the coming winter. That is, provided he keeps the strong grand-stand tendencies sufficiently in check to remain entirely unselfish with the ball.

With Mitchell, Meldrum, Lincoln and Smith, the Rangers certainly have a strong forward line. Smith gives exhibitions of the prettiest footwork in the quartette.

Kitchen is the strongest fullback in the South, at the present showing. He will be a tower of strength for the Los Angeles team.

Officers of the Thistle club are J. M. McArthur, president; A. Cohen, vice-president, and Joe Gorfunkle, secretary and captain.

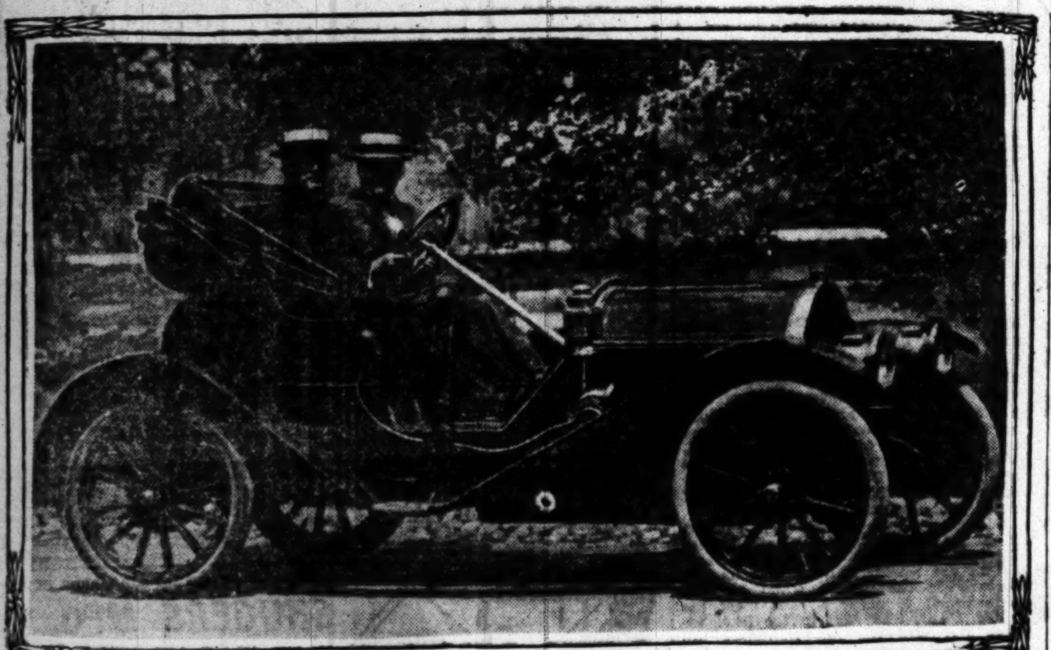
Todd, captain of the Los Angeles team last year, will be back with the club this season. He will make one of the strongest forwards in the league.

Two more old Thistles will probably be back in suits for the first time this season in today's game—Reinholdt and Walton. Walton has been winning bouquets and bruises for himself with the Castaways, playing in the black and white scrum.

Buchan, Gorfunkle and McDougall were the greatest goal-getters for the Thistles last season. This year they will have to work hard to keep ahead of Bailey.

Newman, the new Thistle half, received various minor injuries in last Sunday's game that will keep him off the field for a couple of weeks. He will probably be in shape to begin play when the league games begin. His worst bruise was a bad kick on the shin.

If Burden, Thistle goal, keeps up the pace he struck last Sunday he will soon be the classiest goal keeper in the local game. His defense last week was a revelation, after the showing of a week before. He will be watched with a good deal of interest today to see which pace he will keep.



J. T. Hudson, President of the Hudson Motor Car Company, and D. W. Dunham, chief engineer, in a Hudson twenty. These men are making the small car a sensation in the motor world. The Western Motor Car Company, local distributors, is handling a carload a week of these machines for Los Angeles.

CALIFORNIA WINS.

Vancouver Stars Blanked in One-Sided Contest—Johns, Elliott and Watts Show Up Well.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] California, 39; Vancouver, 0.

The second and last game of the annual international series was taken from Vancouver by the California 'varsity on California Field this afternoon, 39 to 0. Although the score was fifteen points greater on the 'varsity side than in Wednesday's match, Vancouver played a much better game.

The scrum men did excellent dribbling, and with few exceptions Vancouver's greatest gains were made with the ball on the ground. Poor headwork, which California was quick to take advantage of, was costly to the northerners at critical moments.

With two exceptions the 'varsity scores were made from passing rushes, Johns to Watts. The two veteran wings were back in the game, and strengthened the three-quarter line wonderfully, while Elliot and Allen, and later Morris, as five-eighths, were in every play. Elliott scored 21 points.

The 'varsity first scored from a place kick on Vancouver's twenty-five. The next points came by a backfield passing rush, and Elliott made the try, and converted. Elliott was responsible for the next try, after Watts had carried to the line.

What was probably the finest bit of passing ever witnessed on California Field brought the next score, five backs going straight through the Vancouver team from mid-field. Johns made the try, which Elliott converted, making the score 16 to 0. Half time followed the kickout.

Vancouver opened the second period with a rush, but the 'varsity came back and scored five tries. Northcroft, started a dribbling rush, after dropping a pass, and worked the ball over, diving under the Vancouver full for a try, as the latter attempted to save. The time was called as Elliott converted the last goal.

YOST AGAIN FAMOUS.

SYRACUSE WALLOPED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ANN ARBOR, (Mich.) Oct. 30.—Syracuse was beaten, 43 to 0, by Michigan this afternoon. The Michigan formation, so demoralized a week ago, was splendid. The blocking and tackling, which have been Michigan's weak points this year, were the strong points of today's playing.

The game was replete with sensations. In the second half Wasmund took a punted ball on his own thirty-five yard line and, running through the entire Syracuse team, covered the distance of Syracuse's goal. Ten minutes later Borleske, Michigan's left end, received a forward pass from Allerdyce and raced down the field for a touchdown.

WISCONSIN WINS.

SHOWS BETTER HEADWORK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

EVANSTON (Ill.) Oct. 30.—Wisconsin defeated Northwestern, 21 to 11, in a hard gridiron battle on the new Northwestern field today. Wisconsin displayed far more knowledge of both new and old football than did their opponents, and better team work.

Both teams relied largely on the old style, smashing game, and only now and then was there a flash of the new and more open game. Wisconsin tried the forward pass several times, but only two of these were successful. Northwestern did not use this play until near the end of the game, and this lone attempt failed dismally.

Anderson, the new Wisconsin end, was the star of the game. His end runs on end fake punts gained many yards.

CHICAGO DEFEATED.

MINNESOTA A SURPRISE.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Oct. 30.—Minnesota defeated Chicago before 20,000 persons here at Northrup Field today, 20 to 6. The game gives Minnesota an excellent chance to win the Middle West championship.

Minnesota scored a touchdown in each half. Capt. McGovern of Minnesota kicked three goals from the field in the first half, which ended with the score 15 to 0 for Minnesota.

Toward the end of the second half, with the ball on Minnesota's 15-yard line, Page made the best forward play of the game to Sau, who planted the ball on Minnesota's 3-yard line. Crawley was pushed over for a touchdown and Page kicked the goal.

INDIAN SLUGS OFFICIAL.

PENNSY BEATS CARLISLE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—The University of Pennsylvania administered a severe defeat to the Indians this afternoon in one of the most bitterly fought games ever played on Franklin Field, the score being 29 to 6.

For the first time in the history of that famous athletic field an official was physically attacked by a player, and a policeman was called upon to escort the offending man and the coach of the Carlisle team behind the lines.

The trouble occurred in the middle of the first half. Waseuka was ordered out of the game on the ground that he had roughly tackled a Pennsylvania man who was out of bounds. Enraged at Umpire Edward's action, Waseuka attacked the official and struck him a hard blow on the jaw.

Left Tackle Fretz of Pennsylvania then came to Edward's assistance and his remarks and actions were such as to cause the officials to order him from the game. About this time Coach Warner came running on the field. There was an argument and Edward summoned a policeman and had both Waseuka and Warner escorted behind the lines.

Pennsylvania's game was by far the best that it has played this season. The bright star of the contest was Miller, the Pennsylvania captain, whose splendid end running carried the ball half the length of the field, twice for touchdowns.

Promise Fulfilled By Performance

If to gild refined gold or paint the lily or to add another hue unto the violet is wasteful and rid excess, what then shall be said of any words of fulsome praise in commendation of Studebaker E-M-F the automobile that, 8000 strong daily on the roads in the hands of owners, is telling its own tale of and of satisfaction?

A year ago it was necessary to use all the adjectives at our command to impress upon pros buyers the excellencies of this car. Today, our one problem is to manufacture cars fast enough to me ever-increasing demand. Fifty cars a day is the present output of the big Detroit factory in which, fr pig iron to the finished automobile, this car is made. But the demand has increased faster than we add factory buildings and machinery to increase the output. It seems as if every Studebaker E-M- delivered instantly creates a demand for ten more. It must be so, for there's no other explanation tremendous vogue this car has had from the day the first one went on the road.

Of course it may be said that there was a tremendous demand for this car even before the first been delivered to a customer. The fact has been the wonder of the trade during the past year. itors were unable to account for it. In trying to do so they said some very cutting things—that is, intended to be cutting.

Among other things they said the public was a fool to buy a car it had never seen. They acc of "selling Blue Sky" and—oh, well, they were awfully peevish over the whole matter. We understo and so laughed over their lame jokes more heartily than they did themselves. The intended vict always laugh at a joke that misses the mark. And that the "Blue Sky" joke certainly had the effect on customers to that intended was soon proven by the way the public gobbled up all the " there was in sight—ordered months ahead for Studebaker E-M-F "30's" and paid premiums for earl eries to persons who had gotten in line first.

Looking back over the year, it seems easy now to explain why this car was received so enth ally—why thousands bought without seeing the car itself or having a "demonstration."

Automobile buyers are of the most progressive, the most intelligent, and the best informed business men. There are no exceptions to that rule. Very well. Our first announcement—the electrified the trade—told in simple terms who the men were behind the product. Being wel prospective automobile buyers knew these men. Knew they stood at the head in their class. Kne to be, without exception, engineers of world-wide reputation. And knowing the men by reputatio more natural or logical than to conclude that the car these men would build would be as honest —as clever as its designers—as good as these masters could build.

That was the basis—and it was a sound one—for the instant reception of this car by the trade and alike. The trade accepted it as the strongest rival that had ever come into the field—accorded it tinction of the most bitter, the most concerted attack that had ever been directed at any product automobile industry. The public accepted it by wiring orders by hundreds—sending them by mail sands. The output was sold in less than thirty days from the first public announcement of the tions and price of the car.

Undoubtedly one other factor that played a large part in establishing this car was the fact which known—though not so widely heralded in the press at the time—that Studebakers, the largest but also the servative concern in the automobile and vehicle world, had set the seal of their approval on this Studeba car—had backed it with their millions. That was argument sufficient to clinch any sale.

If Studebakers were willing to stake millions on their knowledge of the men who make and their lasting qualities of this car, what risk did any individual buyer take as compared to that?

Think it over for a minute. If there was no other data obtainable—if you didn't know a soul who owned a baker E-M-F "30"—wouldn't the fact that Studebakers had invested millions in this car be sufficient proof the world, there could not be found better—nor as good—value for the money? Would Studebakers invest would this house touch anything they thought was transient? Could they afford to lend the name and the of this house to any but a first-class product? It would be ridiculous to think so for a moment.

An automobile, more than anything else, must stand on its own performance. The man who owns one salesman—and he can kill the product if it does not make good all promises. If you don't believe it, look the past five years. Only those cars which stood up under the hardest work are alive today.

True, some concerns have managed to squirm out of tight places, and, by radically changing design year, been able to catch that class of people who are ever looking for something new or different—who with freakish contraptions. But these are the exceptions. The big successes have been built on honor the best cars they knew how and developing, improving one standard model from year to year instead out new and radically different ones each season, then taking cars of customers afterwards.

It is in this matter of service afterwards that Studebakers with their practically unlimited financial and their unequaled system of distribution through branch houses, long established and also financially we are able to offer the buyer more than any other concern in this business.

All others are young. Their growth has been of the mushroom kind. Their reputations—well, the back about five years—and those years have been years of success and of plenty. Nothing has happened reputation. What more need be said? How many of them have sufficient financial standing to make their worth the paper it is written on?

How many have an amount of capital invested that is at all proportioned to the volume of business ing annually? How many would survive if called upon to make good a guarantee so glibly given, on eve output? How many—look over the past five years and let that be your guide—how many of them will be in years from now? Where will you get replacement parts then—to whom will you look for fulfillment of

You know Studebakers will be here fifty-seven years hence even as they have been for the past fifty- What other concerns will survive after this industry has been reduced to solid sound business terms? H them will with their wasteful, extravagant methods—or rather lack of method—of making and selling be able pete with Studebakers and this splendid organization? Time alone will tell. Meantime many buyers of cars to learn expensive lessons. Studebaker customers are heavily insured—whom else?

It was these considerations that prompted the alliance between Studebakers and the E-M-F Company. an industry now—no longer a game. We have brought that about. The Studebaker E-M-F car has set a others cannot follow. None other has the facilities, the manufacturing experience or the financial resources them to operate on so large a scale—so they cannot produce as good a car for the same price—nor anywhere not within 25 per cent. at least.

These are the considerations which more than any others, should dictate what car you will buy. No ments can outweigh these in your mind—if you want a car that will give you continued service and one wh a source of pleasure and of satisfaction for years to come.

PERTINENT COMMENT ON SPORTS.

THE WEEK'S EVENTS.

Amateur Management.

Because college and high school sports are amateur, it does not necessarily obtain that the business management should be amateurish. School sports in Southern California have long been in a state of chaos because of interference of professional coaches in intercollegiate relations, and because the amateur managers have never been able to get together on a season's schedule. Recently the coach trouble was partially eliminated by the engagement of men who are sportsmen and know their places. But this year, however, amateur management has caused the worst football season on record since the sport assumed large proportions.

The latest difficulty was between Stanford and the Castaways, which resulted in the cancellation of a game between the two teams and the severing of pleasant relations. The trouble began when the Castaways arranged for a date with Stanford without first providing a field, taking it for granted that all others would make way for the Cardinal. A business manager got hold of Fiesta Park, another game was arranged there for the same date, and the Stanford game had to be taken to a suburban park. As a direct result from this, recriminations arose over the contest. The early Castaway management showed carelessness, and the Stanford management showed very little tact in dealing with gentlemen such as make up the majority of the Castaways.

Local mismanagement has shown itself in failure to arrange satisfactory schedules. Last week there were four big games on the same day. Yesterday there were but two unimportant contests in Los Angeles. Dates for half the remaining games have not been cinched. Even the big Thanksgiving Day game is uncertain. The remedy seems to be the selection of graduate managers from among the business alumni. Immature students are not able to handle the business of athletics. It takes an old, experienced head to make sports pay. Then the first step of management should be to arrange the season's dates the winter before, and on no account to change them or leave a game unplayed.

Coming of Airship Racer.

Automobiles have practically reached the limit of speed, at least such speed as permits of a reasonable percentage of safety. Although auto racing probably will be popular for ten years to come and has not yet reached the acme of its greatness, the airship must be looked to for the excitement of the future. At present autos can travel three times as fast as airships, but the latter are merely beginning their careers and it seems reasonable to suppose that great improvement will be made. It is also reasonable to suppose that the rate of speed of birds can be obtained by mechanical means, and to predict that the speed of all living things may be exceeded in the air as it is on land. Therefore the possibilities of aërial races seem very great. Speed in the air is handicapped by inability at the present time to thrust against the air with sufficient show of resistance to secure propulsion. On earth the auto spurns the ground—which is solid; in the sea the screw thrusts against the water—but water has great density and much resistance; in the air the propellors have a very thin fluid to thrust against, and at present this is a detriment to speed. When this difficulty is overcome look out for the airships.

Walking as Recreation.

Nowhere else in the world can walking be enjoyed so well as in Southern California because of the good weather conditions and the diversity of the routes to be taken. One may walk along the seashore or up mountain trails; through orange groves or up cañon roads; up to the snow peaks or out on the hot sands of the desert; through beautiful city avenues or over the grassy plains. Vistas of the Alps may be more majestic, Italian highways may be more blossom-laden, Andalusian by-paths may be more romantic; but here in Southern California may be enjoyed parts of all these things, and for any day's outing one may have his choice. As the automobile provides for a certain class, so must Shanks' mare furnish pleasure for others. Southern California is exceedingly kind to both.

Sports in Arizona.

Arizona is fast coming to the front in the way of sports. The annual Territorial fair furnishes plenty of contests. The harness racing is among the best in the country and many of the grand circuit performers stop off en route, after an eastern season, on their way to winter quarters in California. Automobile races have become very popular and several big meets have been held, in addition to a number of road events. Baseball, football, and coursing are given generous attention. The boxing game and the thoroughbreds have not yet invaded the Territory.

Major League Visitors.

Hundreds of league players are wintering in Southern California, and a score or more of major leaguers are signed to play on Coast teams in week-end games. The visit of these big fellows booms the game here and keeps the sport alive throughout the year. While the work of the stars is not nearly so good as in the regular playing season, the fans get a chance to see the big fellows and note their actions. A good winter league should be popular here.

Sporting Circles Agog.

Pugilistic fans are wild with excitement over the matching of Jeffries and Johnson, and they believe that the big fellows are about to fight. It is probable that it will be several months before the battle takes place and meanwhile the public will be fed with thousands of columns of press agent dope. If the bout is held, it will be the greatest in history, not even excepting the Sullivan-Corbett battle.

RUGBY NOTES.

With the Stanford-California game only two weeks away, a good many college graduates in Los Angeles are beginning to make out their little dope sheets and add up two and two.

Freshman Stan Mitchell played a star game for Stanford here. A good many picked him as the strongest man in the Cardinal backfield.

Rubio is playing a good game at wing for Los Angeles High; the star man of the Riverside High team plays wing, and is named Rubidoux. How these Rubes do take to the English game!

Some Stanford supporters wondered that Referee Pat Higgins gave so few free kicks to the Stanford team on penalties last week in the Castaway game. The fact of the matter is that Stanford, when awarded free kicks, repeatedly chose a scrum instead. Whether the northerners did this because they wanted the scrum practice, or because they knew their forwards could walk through the Castaway scrum, so that their gains would be better than if the kick were accepted, can only be conjectured.

Those who have seen "Mow" Mitchell play Rugby in previous seasons were rather surprised at his mediocre showing against the Castaways, when his freshman brother outplayed him. This being captain of a big 'varsity team is no joke; Mow was the only man on the Stanford team that seemed to be out of condition, probably because of recent injuries. In the East, "Big Four" captains have led their teams through successful seasons of intercollegiate, only to sit on the side lines in the final championship games. The responsibility and nervous strain of their position worried them sick.

This same point is shown in the playing of Crawford, the big Stanford rearranker. Crawford, though not the kind of man given to undue worrying, is playing better Rugby this year than last, when he captained the fifteen—and also played better the year before his captaincy.

Cerf, U.C. captain, on the other hand, seems to be at his best. He is playing the best game of any man on the California team. He is with the ball in every play.

The Castaways are planning to play Pomona High at Pomona on November [illegible]. At the end of the season the black and white taem will line up against a picked team of preps, such as lined up against Berkeley at the beginning of the month. The Englishmen feel that 41 to 0 would be a poor score to end their schedule with.

The fact is that whether the Castaways were strong last week or not, the red team that walked over them was a crackerjack. Beyond a doubt Stanford has the strongest fifteen that ever represented the Cardinal.

There is a proposition afloat, though still in its infancy, to take a combined Stanford-California team to Australia next summer. The idea is not new, but seems to have better prospects of success this year than ever before. Such a team of 'varsity stars would give even the Wallabies a good game.

Jay Dwiggins, California full-back, played a stronger game than Lloyd Brown, the Cardinal 'varsity man in the position. And at that Brown is a star.

More than half of the Wallaby squad, after returning to Australia, turned professionals. This was largely because of big money inducements offered to the players to meet the Kangaroos, the Australian professional champions, in a professional series. Attendance at the series totaled about [illegible] persons. The Wallabies won two out of three.

Pat Higgins picked Pemberton as the most valuable man in the Cardinal scrum. Most spectators of the Castaways game would have picked Crawford as far ahead of Pemberton, but Pat probably knows the game better than any of the spectators, and as referee had plenty of chances to watch the men.

Olmstead, the big lock of Harvard School, is one of the strongest scrum men among the preparatory schools. He weighs about 200, and should make good in 'varsity football when he strikes college.

Los Angeles High and Poly will meet twice next month, if the present schedule holds. In addition to the match of November 20, a game has been scheduled for Wednesday, November 10.

Harvard School locked horns with Polytechnic last Wednesday, in a practice game. Coach Heinly of Harvard was away, not having returned from the East. Poly found no difficulty in running away with the red team, scoring 29 points to 0.

At this time there seems to be no change of doubting that Stanford has a much stronger fifteen than Berkeley. All the dope points that way. Berkeley has undoubtedly a good average fifteen; Stanford has an exceptionally strong team. But there's always the chance that Stanford will get careless and allow the team that is hunting for the chance to slip past.

A similar situation exists between L. A. High and Poly. The latter has an exceptionally strong team, but is decidedly overconfident. A little while ago some Poly supporters were willing to bet 2 to 1 that Poly would make at least twice as many points as L. A. High. But the game dropped at Riverside last week may have taught Poly her lesson; Riverside won largely because of Poly's carelessness and overconfidence. Maybe that Riverside defeat will mean the scalp of L. A. High to Poly.

One point noticed in both the Stanford and Berkeley play was the lack of spectacular backfield rushing and cross-passing. This is the prettiest feature of the English game, and it is a pity that the big 'varsities are to keep this department up with their fine development in other lines. Although the Stanford 190 'varsity is the superior of the first Stanford Rugby team in every other respect, it has failed to show as pretty backfield rushing as did the team of 1906.

Pierce of Polytechnic, the strongest prep full-back in this part of the State, has been making the mistake of trying to secure too much distance with his kicks. Consequently, in most of the preliminary games of the season, he allowed weaker full-backs to hold him even, through failing to find touch with his long punts. In the game against Stanford Pierce did better, showing himself a top-notch full-back.

But did you notice how those long Stanford spirals went to the line? Once or twice Brown gained more than 50 yards with a single booting, but his spirals never failed to find touch. In this particular point he seemed even superior to Dwiggins, the California back.

HANDSOME WHITE GARAGE.

Cummings to Erect Another Fine Home for Gas and Steam Automobiles.

Work was started last week on the $25,000 garage to be occupied by the White Motor Car Company. When completed this will be one of the largest and most handsomely equipped automobile repositories west of Chicago. The White's new quarters are located on the west side of Flower street between Twelfth and Pico streets. It has a frontage of 185 feet and a depth of 155 feet to a twenty-foot alley.

The entire front of the garage is to be finished in white tile. The entrance is to be on the north. As each car enters or leaves it will sound a gong. The showroom, which is 69x50 feet, will also be finished in white tile and is to accommodate eight cars. The garage will accommodate 140 machines.

George E. Cummings, agent for the White gasoline and steam cars, said yesterday: "I propose to have the finest automobile station in the West, and I will not spare expense to make it complete in every detail. The White business has grown to such an extent of late that it requires larger quarters, and with a complete line of gasoline and steam cars I think we can hold our own."

Work on the new garage will be rushed as rapidly as possible and the building should be ready in about forty days.

OVERWHELMED

SAINTS SCORE EASY VICTORY.

SAN DIEGO HIGH OUTCLASSED BY ST. VINCENT'S.

Rheinschild's Players Run Up the Largest Count of Season Against Southern Team—Frequent Use of Forward Pass Nets Big Gains. Ybarrando and Tortes Star.

St. Vincent's College, 63; San Diego High, 0.

St. Vincent's rolled up the biggest score of the season against San Diego yesterday afternoon at Fiesta Park, winning 63 to 0. After the first three plays it was merely a question of how big the score would be.

The Saints scored six touchdowns in the first twenty-five-minute half, kicking all the goals but one, making the count 35 to 0. In the second half, with a long list of substitutes sent in to get practice, five more touchdowns were added and three goals kicked. During the last five minutes of play, Coach Rheinschild took Capt Murray from tackle, and as he had no more substitutes on the side lines, let the team finish the game with ten men.

The collegians began the scoring within four minutes of play, when Rader was sent across the line, after a series of short, safe bucks, after two recovered punts had brought the leather within striking distance of San Diego's goal. Neighbours kicked the goal, and the rooters cheered as lustily as if there were to be no more scoring. Within another four minutes Neighbours scored again, after a pretty 40 yard run from a forward pass, Ed Murray to Rader to Neighbours, who kicked goal.

On the third kick-off Rader came back fast, running the leather to midfield from the 10-yard line before being downed. After big advances over tackles, varied with open plays, Frank Murray was shoved across the 5-yard line. No goal was kicked. Score, 17 to 0.

Tortes made what looked like a score from a forward pass 40 yards out, but was called back because the ball had traveled over center. A few minutes later San Diego earned its distance for the only time during the game, on a forward pass, Ruether to Waite. St. Vincent's scored again, after a long advance, in which forward passes netted good gains. Rheinschild made the touchdown, and Neighbours the goal.

Two plays only were needed for another score, Rader running the kick-off to midfield, and Tortes going around right end for the remaining distance on the next play. Tortes also scored the last touchdown of the half, on another forward pass. Neighbours missed the last of the six goals.

In the second period, the first half was repeated, with Ybarrando the bright star. Tommy scored two touchdowns. During the middle of the half San Diego put up a stubborn defense on its own goal line, taking the ball fro mthe Saints on downs. On the punt-out, however, the ball struck the goal post, and was downed only two and a half yards from the line. The next play scored.

For the Saints, Tortes and Neighbours held up both ends of the line in star fashion, with the line playing fair football between them. Neighbours got good distance with his punts, and his goal kicking was accurate. Rader made good distance on bucks, while Ed Murray was efficient in getting off forward passes.

The team played good all-around ball, varying their line work with a variety of well-executed open plays. Long forward passes were successfully worked a large number of times, and failed only occasionally. Ed Murray, at quarter, seemed to make one or two mistakes in field generalship, but otherwise ran the team well through an easy game.

San Diego, though hopelessly outclassed, put up a good fight to the end of the game. Their tackling was the best point of their play, and even that, in comparison, was poor. The Bay City men usually brought the runners down, but the tackles were so high that yards were lost each time.

U.S.C. PREPS WIN.

Whittier High Defeated in Hard Game by Burck's Stars—Much Wrangling.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WHITTIER, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the first time this year Whittier High was defeated today by the U. S. C. preps, by the score of 6 to 0.

The game was the fiercest struggle ever witnessed on the High School field, time being taken out frequently to enable the water carriers and physicians to resuscitate injured players. The play was fast and furious from the start to the finish.

The preps. were able to make distance frequently through the line and on skin tackle bucks. The Whittier back field was slow in getting off, and as a consequence their interference was ragged. They succeeded in making good gains at times, but were unable to keep it up consistently.

The visitors made their one touchdown on a series of line bucks from the 20-yard line, Wallace finally carrying it over. Hunter kicked an easy goal.

Whittier missed its only chance to score in the second half on an attempted place kick from the 20-yard line, which was blocked. There was much wrangling over the decisions of the officials, which made the game uninteresting to the spectators.

The line-up:

POMONA WINS.

DILLS STAR AT RUGBY.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 30.—Pomona High defeated Riverside High this afternoon, 11 to 5. The game was the first of the series to determine the championship of the Citrus Belt League. Pomona has won the championship for the two years, and started out against Riverside to get the pennant for the third time.

Capt. Dills of Pomona was the best ground-gainer on the field. His work in both kicking and rushing was fine. The Pomona boys were dissatisfied with the score, feeling that on the relative showing of the teams on the field Pomona should have secured at least two more tries.

LOOKING AHEAD.

TIGERS EXPECT EASY VICTORY.

METHODISTS HAVE LITTLE CHANCE TO WIN.

Tigers to Meet Saints in Final Practice Game Tuesday—Presbyterian Rooters Certain Team Cannot Lose. Cromwell Shifting Play to Strengthen Team.

Occidental's football eleven should have a cinch in defeating the team of the University of Southern California at Baer Park next Saturday. The scores of the preliminary contests indicate a victory for the Tigers, the Presbyterian collegians, players, president and students, think the team cannot lose, and a comparison of the strength of the respective squads points to the same conclusion.

The game will doubtless be one of the hardest games of the year. The Highlanders thought the Law School contest would be the toughest proposition on the schedule, but the keen rivalry existing between the Presbyterians and Methodists, the desire of the Tigers to wipe out the unwarranted victory of the university last year, and the determination of Cromwell's men to fight for every inch of the game, promise a gruelling struggle.

As last year, Occidental's team is in every way superior to the university eleven. The Tigers possess a veteran squad, heavier and faster on the line, with big, hard-hitting backs to take care of the scoring end. The university players have made a miserable showing in the early season contests. New players of almost no experience have been substituted at the eleventh hour to cover the deficiencies of the regulars, and organized team work is very weak. The Methodists must rely on fighting spirit almost entirely to win, and they must fight a whole lot harder than they did last season, for Occidental is a good deal stronger.

Following a week of comparative ease at Baer Park, the Presbyterians have put in a week of hard, earnest practice. Gorton will hold a final secret workout against the Saints on Tuesday afternoon, and will ease off with fast signal practice. Wieman is again in good condition, and is counted on to back up the line in great shape. Johnson has been tried out at quarter to fill Du Bois's place. In case Baer is disabled the team will be well taken care of by Johnson. Robertson is working well at full, and will be able to substitute for Wieman in case "Ink" is laid out.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Gorton has given his men a large assortment of new plays and the Tigers are going to spring several surprises in the way of forward pass combinations. The Presbyterians are not expected to play much straight football, for with Fred Thomson and Johnson on the wings, Gorton figures he can work a good many forward plays against the light Methodist ends. If the Tigers had a strong center and supporting guards they might work straight bucks for good gains, for Bunker, the Methodist snapperback, is not aggressive and is not capable of withstanding a heavy attack.

Just what offense Cromwell will use against the Tigers is a matter of conjecture. His team failed in both open field plays and line bucks against the Saints. They made first down but once on straight football last Saturday. Fred Thomson and Johnson are both big, strong, fast ends, and are well able to break up any fancy end formations. With the Wieman brothers backing up the line, the Methodist backs would have little chance to break through the center. Cromwell's only resource is to get off a few trick plays. If Decius can evade Thomson, he is fast enough to beat out the other opponents to the goal line.

Cromwell has substituted Wirsching and Hill for Wallace and Geller on the ends. Both candidates are new men. Wirsching has played but one full game in his life, last Saturday, when he broke up more plays in the Saints' formation than any other two players. He showed he had the goods, and he is now first choice for the position. Hill made several very pretty tackles last week, and is fast, aggressive and hard to block. Crossman is second choice at quarter, and will ably substitute for Ickes if the 'varsity quarter is unable to finish the game.

Selph of the Law School squad will very likely play a half position part of the game. He has been practicing with the 'varsity for the last week, and has a pretty fair idea of the plan of attack. He is in good shape and should strengthen the back field considerably. Manning was a failure at end, but is playing a strenuous game at full. Hall is still "dopy" from the hard knocks received in the Saints' game. He may be saved for the Pomona contest.

The Methodists played their last game with the Orange team yesterday, and will take things easy till Saturday. One thing is sure, the university players are not overtrained, and they will be in fine fettle to make a hard fight. The Methodist rooters are taking on new enthusiasm. They expect to accompany the team 800 strong to Baer Park and make a lot of noise, win or lose.

SANTA ANA BLANKED.

Throop Beats Visitors With Single Place Kick, Opposing Player Assisting Score.

Throop Polytechnic beat Santa Ana High School in a close football game at Pasadena yesterday afternoon, 3 to 0. The only score of the game was a goal from placement near the end of the first half.

The teams were very evenly matched, Throop having a slight advantage in weight. Throop's winning kick was partially due to good play on Santa Ana's part. A High School linesman broke through almost with the ball, jumping to block the kick. He hit the ball with his hand and changed its course, knocking it up toward the bar.

Near the end of the first period, Santa Ana pushed the ball to within a couple of feet of the Throop goal, but could not shove it over.

NOBLEMEN WIN.

"SKIDDOO" FOR SAN BERDOO.

Los Angeles High Rugby team found San Bernardino easy at San Bernardino yesterday afternoon, winning by 23 points to 3. The Los Angeles scrum out-weighed the San Bernardino scrum, so that the visitors were able to heel out in the majority of cases, giving their backs a big advantage. Thirteen points were scored in the first half, while the score the second period was 10 to 3.

Near the end of the game San Bernardino braced, scoring the final try of the game less than four minutes from the end of play. Several times during the second half the home team had the ball within five yards of the Los Angeles goal, but could not get it over, until Hodge dodged across the line at the end of the game.

For Los Angeles Barman put up a strong game, scoring two of the tries. Harrigan also did well at half, while Boyle played above his usual mark. Geissler was not up to his customary form. For San Bernardino Hodge played a star game at wing, and Phillips did well at fullback. McGuire was not in the Los Angeles line-up.

EASY FOR POLY.

SANTA BARBARA LOSER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Los Angeles Polytechnic defeated Santa Barbara High at Rugby this afternoon, 28 to 3. Despite the big margin the game was one of the hardest fought ever played here.

At the end of the first half the score stood 5 to 3 in favor of Poly. The visitor's points resulted from a misjudged kick, while Santa Barbara's came from a 35-yard run by Hunt, the local three-quarters.

For the first ten minutes of the second half the local team was up in the air and the heavy Los Angeles players scored thirteen points.

Hendrickson and Bloeser, the Poly's three-quarters, and Butts and Hunt who played the same positions for the local fifteen were the stars of the game.

Any Novice Can Understand the Merits of the World-Famed

Winton Six

The average motor car salesman may confuse and blind you with technical assertions that mean little or nothing—

Not so with the

WINTON SIX

—Plain English—language you can and will understand, we'll tell you why your car should be a Winton.

There is nothing mysterious about our motor cars. Their intricacies are mostly imaginary. Motor cars are built by men and intelligent human beings can understand why they are better or worse.

Many motor car salesmen, to avoid becoming explicit, become intricate. NOT SO WITH A WINTON SIX.

Don't Confuse Self-Cranking with "Starting on the Spark"

The Winton Six motor cranks itself.

It is the only motor that cranks itself.

Our self-cranking system is fully protected, and cannot be used on any other car.

* * *

The Winton Six system is not only a great convenience, in that it saves labor, annoyance and humiliation to the car owner, but also—

It is the only natural method of starting the motor.

In the Winton Six, air pressure admitted to the cylinders causes the pistons to move through their various strokes.

During this movement, which draws in fresh gas, the spark occurs, igniting the charge and causing the motor to begin its regular operations.

Note that the pistons are already moving when the spark occurs.

That's important.

* * *

Some cars are advertised to "start on the spark."

That system is both uncertain and violent.

* * *

To "start on the spark" there must already be gas in the cylinder.

If the gas isn't there, all the sparks in Christendom will not start the motor. Therefore, you are never quite sure whether "she'll start" or not.

* * *

But, assuming that you are fortunate enough to have gas in the cylinder—what happens?

Just this: all the force of that charge of gas is shot against pistons that are standing dead still.

The shock thus sustained by the entire train of pistons, the crank shaft and the bearings is like that suffered by a standing railroad car that is bumped by a locomotive going 20 miles an hour.

* * *

If you value your car and mean to treat it with consideration (so that it will not be prematurely dumped upon the junk pile) don't ever "start on the spark."

* * *

If your car isn't a self-cranking Winton Six, give it a fair show and crank it.

If your car is a self-cranking Winton Six, you have the assurance that, by means of air pressure, you are starting the motor on the simplest, easiest and only mechanically perfect method known to the automobile world.

And no matter how often you use your Winton Six air starter, you are never injuring the motor.

This superiority of the Winton Six air starter is characteristic of the Winton Six from radiator to gasoline tank.

Look it over. It will pay you to know about the car that holds the world's record of 184,130 miles on $142.48 upkeep expense — expense that averages 77 cents per 1000 miles.

The price is a revelation. $3150 f.o.b. Los Angeles for our 48-h.p., five-passenger, six-cylinder Winton Six is a figure that dismays competition.

There is No Other Motor Car Built Equal to the Winton Six

Our men can and will explain—not to their satisfaction, but to yours—so you can understand.

At the San Francisco Show Recently Closed, the Winton Six Won the Trophy for the Most Popular Car in the Show

The award was made by votes of the spectators who visited the show. Not all could own a Winton Six—but the most of them—more than all other cars—liked the Winton best.

That's sound, it's honest. You will want a Winton.

The output of the Winton factory will be sold and delivered by February 1st.

AUSTRALIAN FOOTBALL RULES SEEM TO HOLD COMPROMISES.

EITHER the Intercollegiate or the Rugby must go, in the opinion of most followers of the game. But there may be another solution of the problem—perhaps both games will continue on the Pacific Coast indefinitely with undiminished popularity.

Australia has done as much as this, and more. In Australia three different styles of football draw big crowds, and one of the three styles is again subdivided into many varieties of the game. Rugby, Association, or Soccer, and "Australian Rules," the ial game that has been developed in Australia as Intercollegiate grown in America, all thrive.

e extent to which the Australian lic follows the various football s is almost unbelievable here, e the pigskin season is crowded three months. Unbelievable, that until one thinks of how baseball followed in this country. In Aus football occupies much the same that baseball fills in the United this league of amateur teams all—it is only the beginning. top-notch teams that represent districts are known as first-grade; of the districts have also second and third-grade fifteens, and championship series are ar between these grades as well, are well attended. Regular rules the standing of players in these three grades of amateur leagues. If a player is picked from a second or third-grade fifteen for the class above, and competes in three contests with that class, he is no longer eligible to his old grade, for that season.

Then there are the professional teams, also representing the different districts or suburbs, and these also have their leagues and well-attended games. The Wallabies, the crack Australian team that toured the world, and cleaned it up, too, in Rugby football, was a team of players picked from the first-grade teams of the amateur league, or "Rugby Union." Several Sidney University men were with the squad, and others from the Glebe, South Sidney and Newtown teams, and so on.

PROFESSIONAL PLAYERS.

The "Kangaroos," little heard of in the United States, were picked from the professional teams in a manner that corresponded to the Wallaby amateur selection. When the Wallabies returned to Australia after their long trip, the Kangaroos wanted to play them a series of games. A majority of the Wallabies were persuaded to join the professional ranks and compete in the professional series. The first game went to the Kangaroos, who knew the game much better than the Wallabies, but the Wallabies pulled out the series by a narrow margin, through their greater strength and general athletic ability. An additional game was afterwards played and won by the Kangaroos, placing the two teams about even.

These games were played when the season was nearly over and public interest waning; nevertheless the series brought in a total attendance of more than 75,000. At that, Rugby is the tail-ender of the three Australian football games, in point of attendance at least.

It is an interesting point that not a single one of the returning Wallabies who hailed from Sidney University saw fit to give up his amateur standing for the sake of the £100 ($500) that the individual players received for their work in the series. But of course those who chose to step into the professional ranks gained at once the opportunity of signing up with big professional teams for the coming season, in addition to the amount received for the games.

And as a matter of fact the majority did at once sign up with aggregations that correspond to our baseball leagues, some going to Great Britain to play with the leading teams there, and others signing on with the Australian teams. The great Wallaby team, premier Rugby fifteen of the world, is now scattered all over the globe, part professional, part still amateurs. It can never be reorganized; only the name can now remain to inspire the team that inherits it.

WEEK-END DATES.

Players on the professional teams of the Sidney districts get about £25 a month, or $125. Considering that the men only play in week-end games, and so can go on uninterruptedly with their regular occupations while playing the Rugby season, instead of having to give their entire time to the game as with our professional baseballers, this does not sound so bad. Particularly as one "plunk" goes a whole lot further in Australia than it does in the United States. One hundred bones a month, the equivalent of say $150 here, for a couple of afternoons a week, sounds almost as good as the major leagues' stipends. The different "unions" are well fixed financially. The Wallabies' tour meant a financial loss of something like £15,000—but that cut little figure.

As might be imagined when one considers the husky material from which the different teams are picked and the vigorous nature of the colonials, the games are often rough. In one of the games of the past season—South Sidney against Newcastle—three men were hurt during the first five minutes of play, one receiving concussion of the brain, a second a broken collar-bone and broken arm, and the third merely a broken leg. Of course the game went on uninterruptedly. "Time-out" is purely an American institution.

As only three substitutes are allowed in the game, and as all substitutions must be made during the first half, some curious combinations result when the game is played with such "manly vigor." During this last season in one of the games three men were laid out near the end of the first half, and only two substitutes had remained in the players' pavilion, since it seemed improbable that any subs would be needed.

ENLISTS SPECTATORS.

The captain was in a quandry; only a few seconds of play remained when the third man was injured, and unless some player was called in before the close of the period the team would have to play through the second half one man short. The captain beckoned to the nearest spectator, and put him into the game as he was, making him eligible for the second half. Of course, being an Australian, the chance selection knew the game and was a good average player; he got into togs during the intermission and played out the contest.

The Wallabies showed how rough Rugby is apt to be when played strenuously; a big squad of men was taken on the tour to keep the necessary fifteen filled, and the whole number was required. In the second game played in England, against one of the strong Welsh teams, Flanagan and Burge of the Wallabies each won a broken leg, while several other members of the team sustained minor injuries.

Here in Southern California football followers are divided into rival camps; adherents of the American game have little use for Rugby, the "sissy" game, while the Rugby enthusiasts think the fifteen-man game far better than Intercollegiate. Stanford and Berkeley, having played Rugby until the followers of the game are well acquainted with the play, are sure that Rugby will drive all other football from the Pacific Coast; players of the American game, led by the Southern California colleges, are sure that it is only a question of time before all the institutions of the Coast get back to Intercollegiate. And the Soccer men feel that they have the best game of all.

The same conditions prevail in Australia. There Association finds more followers than Rugby, and the soccer men have no use for the game with the scrum. The Rugby players take no stock in the game that does not allow players to use the hands, while the followers of the Australian game, "Australian Rules," think that all others should give way before the peculiarly Australian game, just as Intercollegiate partizans feel it un-American to prefer a foreign game.

COMPOSITE FOOTBALL.

This Australian game, which is drawing biger crowds than Rugby, in many localities, and also more than holding its own against soccer, is a combination of all the other footballs combined. It has the running and handling of the ball that distinguishes Rugby, and the footwork advantages of Association. Runners cannot advance more than 10 yards without bounding the ball on the ground, as in basketball dribbling, while all passes must be made with the feet instead of the hands. The kick chiefly used is a drop kick, all passes having to be made with drops. This gives the players work with both hands and feet, and insures good development. An Australian Rules star can go into either soccer or Rugby and make good on his training in the Australian game.

On September 11 41,000 persons saw Carlton defeat Essendon in the semi-finals of the league series. At that the game was one-sided, with the betting two to one in Carlton's favor, so that no very great contest was expected. The final Australian Rules games brought out even bigger crowds.

If Australia can support her own particular brand of football with crowds of more than 40,000 for a single match, at the same time devote just as much attention, and even furnish bigger crowds to Association football, and keep Rugby almost on a par with these two, it seems as though Southern California might struggle along with more than one kind of football for a while after all.

HARD CONTEST IS IN PROSPECT.

CALIFORNIA TO PLAY NEVADA BEFORE STANFORD.

Blue and Gold Fears Injury to Star Players, But Proposes to Face Opponents for the Experience—Scarcity of Back Field Men Makes Situation Critical.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Oct. 30.—The California 'varsity is to play one intercollegiate match with Nevada before the Stanford contest. Nevada has an unbroken record of victories this year, and the experts predict that, next to the Stanford game, the Nevada contest will be the hardest on the schedule, and that some of the players are quite likely to get hurt.

Injury to any of the back field players a week before the Stanford game would be a hard blow, for the Blue and Gold team is already shy of three-quarter material. If little Dwiggins should be disabled at full-back, the strength of the back field would be greatly weakened.

To get a three-quarter line that will hold up with the rest of the team is the hardest proposition that Coach Schaeffer at present is facing. Harris, the veteran center, broke a small bone in his foot Wednesday evening, and it will require the most careful nursing if he gets into a suit for the 'varsity game. Watts, another veteran, has played his first game this week since the second match of the season, and shows the lack of practice sadly. His knee is still bandaged, but the chances are good that he will be in fair shape.

Two years ago the right wing was filled by Johns, who played a brilliant game. Last season early injuries did much to impair his work and he was not sent in until the second half. The forepart of this season he gave promise of great things, but lately his work has again deteriorated. Johns is one of the fastest men on the squad and one of the hardest to tackle, but he has not been able to get into good condition.

If Johns does not improve this week he will have to give way to Evans of Pomona or to Freshman Peart, both of whom are putting up the hardest kind of a fight for a place. Evans is the surest man for passing and clever lob and touch kicking, but Peart is the harder man to stop when running.

Stroud, the freshman captain, is being substituted at either five-eighths or center three-quarters. Should Harris, by any chance, be prevented from playing in the big game or forced to retire, Stroud will undoubtedly be put in his place.

The 'varsity scrum will be outweighed by the Cardinal pack considerably, even with the heaviest line-up it is possible for Schaeffer to pick. Hansen and Hardy are still fighting for the left side-rank position. Hardy, the heavier man, was first placed on the training table, but Hansen, who is much the cleverer dribbler, has been played in both the recent Vancouver games.

Garff, the speedy 190-pound freshman, seems likely of a position in the rear rank, although the coaches are keeping him guessing. He has not even a place at the training table as yet, and as a result has been playing a wonderful game in his endeavor to make good.

The team will live together for the next two weeks and the coaches plan to make every possible moment count in bringing the men to the proper condition. Barring accidents, the players who are practically certain 'of being selected to face Stanford are: Front rank, Markwart, C. Phleger, Carpenter; side rank, Ashley and either Hardy or Hansen; lock, Jordan; rear rank, Northcroft and Graff; half, Caut. Cerf; five-eighths, Elliott and Allen; full, Dwiggins; center three-quarters, Harris, Stroud; left wing three-quarters, Watts; right wing three-quarters, selected from Johns, Evans or Peart.

BOTH GET BLANKED.

HOLLYWOOD TIES PASADENA.

Hollywood and Pasadena High shcool teams played a fast aggressive game at Hollywood yesterday afternoon, the score being 0 to 0. The elevens were very evenly mathced, and neither team had any advantage. The forward pass was used effectively but once by each team. Several other attempts failed, although the use of the onside kick netted gains.

Smith, playing right end for Hollywood in his first game, shared the honors with Capt. Taylor for Hollywood. Smith broke up plays regularly and was easily the fastest man on the field. Pasadena's quarter-back made a pretty run for fifty yards in the first half, but Hollywood held at the critical moment and saved a touchdown. The game was cleanly played, none of the men being injured.

STANFORD ELIGIBLES.

FIFTY-SEVEN PLAYERS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 29.—The names of fifty-seven students who will be eligible to play in the annual intercollegiate football game were submitted to the University of California today. According to the agreement between the universities, the men who participate in the contest must be among those whose names are announced two weeks in advance.

The names follow: F. V. Acker, J. L. Arrell, J. B. Beman, F. C. Brown, G. B. Bush, M. B. Carraher, L. Cass, G. E. Cheda, A. B. Cook, D. P. Crawford, P. Y. Dickinson, K. L. Dolt, J. L. Doran, A. H. INVASION.

DUCK GUNNERS GOING ABROAD.

New Club Will Operate on Alamo River.

Elizabeth Lake Furnishes Limit Sport.

Few Full Bags Secured on Local Ponds.

Unattached duck shooters, who have been unable to lease good shooting preserves within a reasonable distance of the city, are planning to invade Imperial Valley, where sport with the birds is excellent. Large flights of mallards, canvasbacks and teal are feeding along the Alamo River, and limit bags are assured almost any number of visiting gunners.

A local club has been organized recently to operate in the Imperial country. Charter members are the Rossiter boys, D. F. Smith, Judge Summerfield, Judge Williams, Tobe Harris, W. Schultz, C. L. Shinn and other sportsmen. The gunners expect to pull off their opening shoot some time this week. Membership in the club is limited to thirty, and the roll call is almost full.

No attempt will be made to build a permanent clubhouse at present, and no blinds are to be constructed. The ducks feed over a wide stretch of territory in the Imperial district, and fixed blinds would be of no use with the ever-changing flights of the birds.

The local gunners are to pitch two large tents, one for sleeping quarters and the other a cook tent, together with cots to accommodate a dozen men. Two boats have been secured, and shipped down to the site of the club.

The club will operate about nine miles west of Brawley on the Alamo River, about 300 yards from the railroad bridge at that point. Members of the squad are to visit the club once a week.

The cost of the shooting will be less than for membership in a club owning a local preserve, but it will be necessary to shoot less often and to put in three or four days at one shoot, owing to the time required to make the run to the valley.

Duck shooting in the Imperial Valley is quite different from the sport along the local preserves. The birds change their feeding grounds every few days and they must be followed up to insure good bags.

Good flights of the smaller ducks are reported all through the season in the valley, while mallards and occasional canvasback are shot. The mallards are particularly plentiful, quite a contrast to the local conditions.

PLENTY OF QUAIL.

There is good quail shooting in the vicinity of the new club, giving the local men a chance to supplement their game-bags with the limit on the blue birds after they have to quit on the ducks.

Elizabeth Lake is affording some fine limit shooting for the few sportsmen who can spare the time to take a trip to the mountain resort. Mallards and canvasbacks are feeding in large flights on the mountain water, and the legal allowance is easily procurable in a couple of hours' sport.

A party of Angeleños returned from Bear Valley Wednesday, bringing home some big, fat birds and also some bigger tales of the great shooting back of Redlands. George Blake, M. R. Horton and Ned Perry formed the trio and each man of the squad says he got the limit for five consecutive days. The birds are especially plentiful on the Upper Lake. Rice plant which covers the surface of the lake, gives the ducks the best of feed, and in consequence they are in fine condition.

New flights of northern ducks are daily settling on the local ponds. A coastwise storm is due according to the weather prophet, and the club hunters are looping forward to much better shooting.

The sport has been but fair on the Orange county preserves for the last two weeks, and limit bags have been few and far between. As usual a few clubs seem more favored by the birds, and the Blue Wing is the only club which has furnished limit sport on "open" day.

HIKE!

WALKING FOR THE FUN OF IT ON MOUNTAINS OR BEACHES.

Southern California Furnishes Trails With All Kinds of Scenery and Fine Climatic Conditions—Any Time of the Year Provides Good Conditions for Such Pleasure. Many Routes to Select from.

WALKING for pleasure or exercise is an all-the-year round recreation in Southern California. Within easy access of Los Angeles, on mountain or by seashore, shady cañons or rugged slopes invite the excursionist to rest or healthy climbing.

The fall months are the most delightful time of the year to scout about, and trampers in increasing numbers are taking to the trails whenever the opportunity offers. The "hikers" can be seen on a holiday or a Sunday morning, dressed in khaki and wearing short top boots, and provided with blankets or provisions.

The tramper of any experience is always chuck full of interesting lore concerning the most attractive trips, the way to get there, and what to take along. But for those who are contemplating taking a jaunt for the first time, or who have but a limited knowledge of tramp craft, a few hints on locations of the picturesque places and advice on tramping paraphernalia is valuable.

The Arroyo Seco opens to the tramper a very picturesque course leading from Garvanza or Pasadena, and leads into the Sierra Madre Range. The walk can be made as long as the strength or inclination of the excursionist permits. Resting places are numerous, and water can be secured at frequent intervals. Some fifty-odd bungalows are scattered over a course of five or six miles up the Seco, and it is worth a day's time just to wander leisurely along bungalow lane.

Deeper in the Arroyo the cañon narrows, and rises at a steady grade. Just at the foot of the range forks Millards Cañon, on the right.

Eaton's Cañon opens two miles farther to the east, and offers a pretty tramp, leading to the summit of Mt. Lowe. The Arroyo Seco can be followed for a couple of days, and by using Bear Cañon as a medium, a way can be found into the West Fork of the San Gabriel, which in turn leads the tramper through some typical mountain scenery for a good day's walking to the main stream, near Azusa.

A tramp of about thirty miles through varying scenery starts from Garvanza, north on Avenue 63, past Devil's Gate to La Cañada, returning along the foot of the range by way of Las Casetas and Camp Sierra back to Altadena. The trail from Devil's Gate to La Cañada is especially picturesque. By starting early the trip can easily be accomplished in a day by a good tramper.

INTO THE MOUNTAINS.

From Sierra Madre two pretty trails lead up the Little and Big Santa Anita cañons. The trail up to Mt. Wilson is one of the most popular short mountain trips near Los Angeles.

Sawpit Cañon can best be reached from Monrovia, and a half hour's walk from the electric depot will bring the pleasure seeker to the mouth of the cañon. This trip is more delightful in the springtime, when wild flowers grow luxuriantly along the slopes of the lower range. A few miles farther east, Fish Cañon offers some very picturesque scenery, although the tramper must be careful after a rain, for the stream must be forded frequently, and one is apt to get pretty wet in the process.

From Glendale lies an attractive walk through the Sycamore Cañon. A cut-off part way up the cañon leads through some pretty scenery, and brings the tramper past Devil's Gate, where the walk can be continued down to Garvanza. West and north from Glendale a half day's walk will take the tramper to La Crescenta, and a pleasant outing may be had in almost any one of the little cañons which open at the base of the hills.

Those who want a longer tramp of several days can well pass some time in the Tejunga cañons opening above Roscoe station. Pacoima Cañon lies still farther north, and can be reached from Fernando. On these trips, of course, blankets and grub must be included, but water is quite plentiful, and a restful outing is assured the

Another of the one-day tramps lies through the Cahuenga Pass from Hollywood, and thence east around the hills to the entrance of Griffith Park, where water and firewood is available, and facilities are handy for the preparation of coffee.

A nearer trip can be had by taking a Hollywood car to Vermont avenue, thence north, taking the trail at the turn in the road up Griffith Peak, and then east to the main entrance of the park. Elysian Park offers a pleasant afternoon tramp, and is accessible either from Sunset boulevard or Buena Vista street at the viaduct.

BEACH TRAMPS.

A beach tramp which has grown quite popular, stretches from Balboa to Laguna, a distance of about eight miles. Passable accommodations can be had at the southern point, if a stay is contemplated over night. The coast is quite rugged about Laguna, and some of the most picturesque marine views are to be seen above the point.

South from Redondo about seven miles lies Fisherman's Cove, a quiet spot, where a day of rest can be assured. Cars can be taken direct to Clifton, where canteens can be filled for an extended clamber over the hills to San Pedro. The road is about twenty miles long, and twists and bends to avoid deep gullies sinking to the ocean.

From San Pedro the electric line reaches Point Firmin, from which point a walk of two miles will take the excursionist to White's Point, where a day of enjoyment can be had in clambering over the rocks at the foot of the bluffs. Marine life is abundant at the point, and specimens of many kinds can be collected when the tides are right.

From Long Beach one of the most profitable three-mile tramps leads from the pier to Signal Hill, at the top of which a fine view of San Pedro Bay, Anaheim Bay and the sweep of coast from Balboa to Point Firmin is to be had, with a long vista inland. A much shorter trip is to be made by dropping from the Huntington Beach division of the Pacific Electric line, which winds a half-mile from the foot of the hill.

Santa Monica Cañon is an ideal picnicking ground, where abundant shade and plenty of pure water is available. A good auto road winds through part of the cañon, but numerous trails lead to more secluded nooks deeper in the hills. Take the branch line leading out to the long wharf on a transfer from the main line of the Los Angeles-Pacific Railroad.

Trampers along the coast should always take into consideration the movements of the tides, and should consult the tide tables before venturing along the base of the cliffs. There is always plenty of driftwood along the coast between Redondo and San Pedro, and it is a comparatively easy matter to kindle a fire and warm up the coffee pot.

WHAT TO WEAR.

The kind of clothing worn on tramps, and the matter of personal equipment, is a large factor in determining the amount of pleasure obtained. City folks are so accustomed to wearing certain articles of clothing that they can hardly be induced, except through the results of experience, the folly of their ways. For example, the matter of a coat—about camp a sweater is much more comfortable, and on the trail the coat is absolutely a burden.

For a single day's tramp dispense with the coat and wear a gray flannel shirt of medium weight. Many walkers use a heavy blue flannel. Blue, however, shows the dirt too quickly, crocks easily, and is too hot. A gray flannel of light weight furnishes all the protection needed, and turns the heat a good deal better.

A broad-brimmed hat is found to be more serviceable on the road, for it protects the head, and turns the sun quite as readily as does a lighter straw. The sweat band should be taken out and plenty of air holes should be punched in the brim crown. A kerchief of good size and quality may be worn to advantage around the neck. It keeps the skin from reddening, keeps out the dust, and in case of a cold spell, comes in handy.

The most important point of comfort depends on the kind of underwear used. It should be of wool. Linen, silk and cotton goods are advanced as superior for wear, but experience leads back to the sheep's hair. A tramper is bound to sweat, and wool dries quickly, and even when damp it warms the body. The inevitable chill of evening is sure to catch the unprotected tramper sooner or later, and wool will form ample protection. Let linen or cotton underwear get thoroughly moistened, and the first cool breeze will prove disastrous to the wearer. Such a victim will shiver before the hottest fire, and nothing short of a good rubdown and complete change of clothes will remedy the evil.

Khaki is conceded the best material for trousers, and makes up equally serviceable into skirts for the ladies. The stuff dries quickly, and the only drawback is a propensity to show dirt very quickly. A few days' tramping and the new garment looks season worn.

WOOL ON THE FEET.

Heavy woolen socks should be worn on any tramp of a half-day or more. They are not a bit hotter on the feet than the thinnest one can buy. The impervious leather of the shoe is really what keeps in the animal heat. The soft, thick wool is a fine cushion for a long tramp, and with proper care to avoid wrinkles, never leaves the feet chafed or tender.

Boots or shoes should be easy on the feet, should wear well, and afford security of footing. Hobnailed boots hold well on pine needles, but are absolutely dangerous on smooth rocks. Moccasins or tennis shoes can be worn to advantage. If boots are worn, get those of light weight. Heavy boots are clumsy to place, are burdensome to carry, and are stiff, and chafe the feet. A medium-weight boot, eight inches high, is a very good traveler. Have the top pair of hooks changed to eyelets, as they prevent the lacing from becoming unhooked.

No boot is waterproof even for a short time in wet snow, and those who are counting on climbing the trails when the first flurry arrives had better get rubber shoes with canvas tops. Melting snow is soaking, and proper precaution in keeping the feet dry may prevent a severe cold.

MATCHES AND KNIFE.

Two articles always needed are matches and a knife. Use the old-fashioned sulphur matches. They take up less room, are easier to ignite in the wind, and can be dried if wet. The matches can be carried conveniently in a twelve-gauge brass shell, which may be inserted in a ten-gauge shell. A medium-sized two-bladed knife is always handy, and a compass, large enough for accuracy, built on a jewel movement, is useful on cloudy days and at night.

A new material for a covering at night is balloon silk. A piece large enough to shelter two persons weighs less than a pound. It is tough and enduring, and turns water. A good poncho is a substitute, if balloon silk is not to be had. The best blanket is the army style, weighing about six pounds.

DINGLEY DRIVER WINS CONSIS

"WE HAVE a right to be proud of the performance of the Chalmers-Detroit, driven by Bert Dingley in the Fairmount Park race," said Earle C. Anthony, manager of the Western Motor Car Company and local agent for the Chalmers.

"That car not only won second place in the race, but captured the consistency prize given for the car which did the most consistent running.

"The 'Forty Bluebird,' which Dingley drove, never stopped during the race. This is one of the few times on record when a big car has completed an event as long as the Fairmount Park race without a stop. The course is just 200 miles. Dingley's car ran like a clock.

"PLUG-UGLY" SHOW.

Stanford Students Promise to Eliminate Indecencies That Have Formerly Marked Event.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 30.—Final arrangements were made today for the annual "plug-ugly" show to be held next Friday night, when the Junior Class Committee obtained permission to stage the performance in the new gymnasium building. While the building is still in ruins, the floor is practically intact and a temporary stage will be erected there.

It was expected that the performance and the subsequent rush between the juniors and seniors this year would be supervised by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, on account of the objectionable nature of the show last year, when several of the students who wrote the play were suspended. But the Faculty Committee has turned the matter over to the Student Advisory Committee, which is composed entirely of students, and it will have complete charge of the production of the play, the distribution of the posters, which are always lurid and one of the features of the event, and the rush, in which the juniors will "spring" their plughats and the seniors will attempt to smash them.

H. P. Knight of Pasadena, E. J. Hopkins of Santa Cruz, and B. O. Bliven of San José wrote the play, which partakes of the nature of a burlesque on life at Stanford, but from which the "indecencies" of the shows of former years have been eliminated. Twenty students will be in the cast. Their names will not be made public.

One hundred and sixty-two Stanford students have been engaged to watch the count of the election returns in San Francisco Tuesday. The men will leave here Tuesday afternoon, and in the city will march in a body from the station to a central point, where they will meet an equal number of men from the University of California. The delegations will dine together and will then present themselves to the election officials for assignment to polling booths.

The California branch of the American Peace Society has agreed to donate $50 annually to be offered as a prize to the student delivering the best oration on any subject promoting international peace. The first contest is to be held November 29. G. F. Morgan, '10, of Los Angeles, and P. J. Batkin, '10, of Riverside, in conjunction with the Faculty Committee on Literary Contests, have made the arrangements for the contest. It is planned to make the peace oratorical as permanent a feature in forensic activities as the Bonnheim dissertation and the Carnot debate.

Youth Early Becomes a Member of the Alimony Club.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edward Stahle, 20 years old, drawing a salary of $7.50 a week, was ordered by Municipal Judge Fray at the Englewood court to pay $3 a week toward the support of his seventeen-year-old wife, Beatrice, whom he is charged with having deserted.

This young initiate into the alimony club is nothing if not game, although he realized that he would be made to pay the money to his wife unless he consented to return to her, he refused to go back.

A small matter of arithmetical calculation shows that the young husband will now have a balance of $4.50 per week to squander on chorus girls, automobiles and polo ponies, provided he does not have to buy himself anything to eat or wear or to pay anything for room rent.

DINGLEY DRIVER OF CHALMERS WINS CONSISTENCY AUTO CUP.

"WE HAVE a right to be proud of the performance of the Chalmers-Detroit, driven by Bert Dingley in the Fairmount Park race," said Earle C. Anthony, manager of the Western Motor Car Company and local agent for the Chalmers. "That car not only won second place in the race, but captured the consistency prize given for the car which did the most consistent running.

"The 'Forty Bluebird,' which Dingley drove, never stopped during the race. This is one of the few times on record when a big car has completed an event as long as the Fairmount Park race without a stop. The course is just 200 miles. Dingley's car ran like a clock, going mile after mile at almost the same speed, never halting for tire trouble, or to take on oil or gas.

"Mechanically, there was not the slightest trouble during the contest. The car was as good at the finish as the start. The Chalmers was beaten only four minutes and by a car of twice its horse power and costing twice as much.

"One of the sensations of the day was the performance of the "Forty." Nearly all of the twenty-three cars entered in the race were rated at from sixty to ninety horse power. It was an impressive collection of American-made cars.

"The Chalmers was admirably driven and emerged from the race with new laurels. The car was a good second all the time, and forced the leader during the entire race. Pitted against one of the greatest automobile drivers in America, Dingley never faltered, and kept his car to within three and four minutes of Robertson, who was swinging away in the lead to a great victory."

Dingley is well known in Los Angeles. He is a Merced boy, but has passed several years of his life and months of experience as a driver of racing cars in Los Angeles. He won the small car race at Santa Monica, July 10, driving the Chalmers entered by the Western Motor Car Company.

Again Dingley took the honors in his class at the Pasadena-Altadena hill climb in February. He will return to this city, after his work in the East is ended. He is now driving for the Chalmers-Detroit factory.

There is no more consistent driver in the racing game today than Dingley. His wife is thoroughly interested in his work, and Mrs. Dingley attends every race in which her young husband figures.

GEESE AND CRANES.

FIND LIMITLESS SHOOTING IN SAN JOAQUIN COUNTRY.

THOUSANDS of wild ducks, geese, sandhill cranes and snipe are feeding on the Tulare Lake, in the San Joaquin Valley, and a new hunting ground for the bird sportsman is available, where the finest kind of duck shooting can be had with little trouble.

A few years ago the land now covered by Tulare Lake, the largest body of fresh water in California, was occupied by prosperous grain ranches, which yielded fortunes to their owners each season. Now the entire area is inundated to a depth of several feet, and the lake has attained a diameter of more than twenty miles.

Around the borders of this lake there has sprung up a luxuriant growth of tules, which, in some cases, reach a height of twelve to fifteen feet, and these thickets of wild grass have for the last two seasons afforded nesting places for huge flocks of wild ducks, geese, sandhill cranes, snipe and other game birds.

In addition to the flocks which remain here during the entire year there are now large numbers of migratory birds arriving at the lake daily from the Far North, so that Tulare Lake today affords excellent shooting, and is the mecca for sportsmen from many portions of the State.

For many miles about the lake are large grain fields, and as the seeding season has commenced, the ducks and geese from the lake flock to these fields by the thousands, doing such damage to the new seeding that the farmers not only welcome, but encourage the hunters in their quest of the game birds.

Two hunters recently discovered a large flock of geese feeding in a grain field, and under cover of a herd of cattle in an adjoining pasture, they approached the birds to within shooting distance and secured sixty-five geese before the flock took flight.

Several barges have been constructed for the use of hunters on the lake, the largest one being in use by the Coalinga Gun Club on the west side. The San Francisco Gun Club also has a boathouse fitted up at Corcoran for the use of its members.

The Widgeon Gun Club, composed of sportsmen from Visalia, Hanford, Tulare and other points, has erected a neat clubhouse at the south end of the lake, with accommodations for about twenty-five members.

The most indifferent marksman can easily secure the legal bag limit of twenty-five ducks in a day's shooting, and as there are no restrictions regarding geese and cranes, the hunter's supply of game is only limited by his ability to bring down the birds.

Corcoran is the most convenient point from which to reach the best hunting grounds about the lake, and here is where the majority of the hunters make their headquarters, as it is only a short distance to the favorite feeding grounds of the birds.

A favorite method of hunting wild geese heretofore has been by the use of steers, a number of which have been trained by their owners quietly to approach a flock of ducks or geese with the hunter walking beside them. When within shooting distance several shots are fired into the flock before they take fright and fly away. One farmer has an animal which he rents to the hunters, but the new game law forbids this practice, which is now resorted to only in secluded spots, where the eye of the game warden cannot detect the ruse.

U.S.C. BASKETBALL.

Many Boys Are Trying for 'Varsity Team, Whichh Is to Meet Other College Fives.

U. S. C. law school students are passing much time and energy trying to "make" the basketball team that will represent the university this year.

Berwyn Roberts, formerly of San Fernando High, has been chosen to captain this year's squad and James Howard is manager. Roberts, Selph, Wall, Kelly and Howard of last year's five are out for the team, but will have to work hard to keep their places.

Cooper, Gibbs and Foss have all made good in athletics and are out with the squad. Other candidates that are working hard in practice are Phelps, Wilson, Baird, Miller, Lawton, Thompson, Whitwirth, Smith, Green, Gates, Rivers and Hyter. Manager Howard is arranging for a full schedule with all of the leading teams of the south and the prospects for a northern trip are encouraging.

Model 55 is the new 7-passenger car, 4-cylinder, 5x5⅛ powerful engine of full 45-h.p. The following letter from Mr. Moffatt is al the more remarkable in fuel consumption, when you remember the size of engine, 4-cylinder, 5x5½. Last year's car was Model 45, the car referred to.

MR. W. K. COWAN,
Agent Rambler Automobiles,
Los Angeles:

Dear Sir—

We hve been testing our Model 45, 7 Passenger Rambler, 45-H.P. to ascertain its gasoline consumption per mile.

On Tuesday, August 24th, with top, glass front, and three people, we ran from Rialto to Los Angeles, making sixty-two miles on three and five tenths gallons. This is a little better than 17.7 miles to the gallon. I ran an average of 22½ miles per hour. We carefully measured the gasoline, and this showing is highly satisfactory to us, and I think should be to you.

The experience of the average driver of an engine of this size and car of this weight is, that they get about 10 to 12 miles per gallon. Quite a percentage of them do not get over eight.

I desire to congratulate you upon the efficiency of the Rambler engine.

Yours Very Truly,
HOWARD L. MOFFATT.

GRABOWSKY POWER WAGONS

WITH QUICK REMOVABLE POWER PLANT

Our Mr. King, who has just returned from his Eastern trip, where he inspected the various factories from whom we purchase goods, wrote us from Detroit as follows:

"Hawley, King & Co.,
224 South Los Angeles St.,
Los Angeles.

"I called on McMillan & Co. and Jas. A. Smith & Co. of Detroit. Both are using Grabowsky's, and both tell me they are O. K. in every respect. Stroh's Brewing Co. of Detroit just getting three 3-ton Grabowsky's, after using other makes.

"The Grabowsky car is a success. Mr. Grabowsky himself is a bright man, and very energetic. He has the reputation of being a fine designer, a good judge of materials, and will use no material in cars that is not the very best.

"F. W. KING."

Our Grabowsky freight and delivery Power Wagons are here. We expected them to be first class—and they are, but that does not half express it. Splendidly built machines, strong, powerful, speedy, ready for service every day in the year, economical, profitable.

We have put them to the severest tests and most exacting demonstrations—the steepest hills, the roughest roads, heavy loads—and they have fulfilled the highest claims made for them. As one enthusiastic Los Angeles manufacturer, who has been using other makes of automobile wagons for several years, said to us, "The Grabowsky has got all the other power wagons skinned a city block."

You are beginning to understand that a good power wagon would be a profitable adjunct to your business. You realize that the power wagon has come to stay. You have already noted its convenience, its advertising value and the advantage it gives over competitors who maintain the old system of deliveries. You admit that it is only a little time until you will have to have one or more, but you feel you must be sure of getting a car that can be depended upon under all circumstances. You are not thinking so much of the cost as of the possible net saving to you—of uninterrupted service—of all around economy in your deliveries.

It remains but for you to see the Grabowsky cars—to go over them in detail with our experts—and you will be convinced that the Grabowsky meets all your requirements—that it is the car you want. These cars will be giving highest grade service long after the cheaper and lighter cars have acceptably carried their last load.

Remember that with the Grabowsky, the power wagon of guaranteed service, you can have any style body you want to suit the requirements of any business.

WONDERS NEVER CEASE.

BEAVERS DROP FOUR STRAIGHT

Trimmed by Nagle in Light Hitting Game.

Garrett Forced to Quit After Five Innings.

Guyn, Who Relieved Him, Prove Invincible.

Los Angeles, 5; Portland, 2.

Heaver Garrett of the Beavers was in wrong yesterday, and for this reason the Angels pulled themselves up another game toward second place by winning, but it was a belated rush that will avail the locals nothing. Nagle was too strong all the way, and had he not been afraid of "Slugger" Johnson and passed him twice a shut out might have resulted.

Garrett got so much of it that he had to quit after the fifth inning, and it was an unlucky thing for the locals that he did, for Guyn, who took his place, kept the locals from reaching first base, even in three innings. After he got into the performance Nagle, too, behaved himself, and the game settled down to a pitcher's battle, and ended with both men heaving their "heads off."

On the whole the flinging was so good that circus plays were impossible and the fans had very little to look at in the dramatic line. A play between third base and the plate that one-half of the Portland team figured in was about the only thing in the entire game that might stir one's blood, and this resulted in two runs, but aside from this there was nothing that figured in the fourth day's attempt of the Beavers to kill the hoodoo that has followed them this week.

Garrett started in to fling for the Beavers, and did good work in the first two innings, but in the third Hugh Smith singled and Nagle hit a sacrifice bunt to Garrett, who tried to force Smith at second, but made a wild throw. Daley advanced both men with a sacrifice, and then Godwin hit to left, scoring H. Smith. Nagle went to third on this, and a moment later, when he was napping off the bag, Olson, Johnson and Speas threw the ball back and forth between them, trying to catch him between third and the plate, and when the final throw was made to Garrett at the plate, he dropped the ball. Godwin got to third on this, and scored when Beall hit to left. In the fifth Daley's double to left, Godwin's single, and a wild pitch scored two more runs, which were the last for the locals.

The Beavers got their first in the fourth inning on a pass and two singles, and the next run resulted from a pass, two singles, and an out. After that there was nothing doing with Nagle.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Vernon easily defeated San Francisco today, 12 to 3. Eastley was extremely wild, allowing the visitors seven hits which netted as many runs in the second inning. He was relieved by Stewart who also lasted but two innings, after giving the visitors three hits which netted four runs.

Meikle relieved Stewart and pitched good ball, allowing the visitors one run from five scattered hits. Schafer allowed San Francisco twelve hits, but by good support, he held the runs down to three, secured in the last two innings. Score:

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 30.—The second errorless game of the week was won by Oakland today by a score of 1 to 0. Both pitchers worked nicely, but C. Lewis disturbed calculations in the ninth and drove a double to left field, scoring McKune from first.

In four games this week but two errors have been made and these by Sacramento. Score:

BLACK CHAMPIONS.

GIANTS AND OCCIDENTALS.

The first of a series of five games of baseball is to be played this afternoon between the Los Angeles Giants and the Occidentals of Salt Lake for the colored championship of the West. The game is to be played at Maces Park on Santa Fé avenue, near Jeffries's arena. The teams have posted a side bet of $100 for each game. The second contest will be played next Saturday and the others on the three following Sundays.

The line-up is as follows:

Giants.		Occidentals.
Banks	catcher	Langley
Hinkie	pitcher	Lankford Harrison

WINTER LEAGUE.

SEASON TO OPEN TODAY.

The California Winter Baseball League is to open today, with every indication of a successful season. The class of players shown in the line-ups is above that of any previous year, and as the teams appear to be very even, the race should be close and interesting.

The McCormicks and San Diego opened at the Bay City yesterday afternoon. San Bernardino is to play today at Santa Ana, the Maiers at Pasadena, and the Salt Lakes at Santa Barbara. The latter three contests will be double-headers, to make up for the games that were scheduled for Saturday.

Following are the batteries for the opening games:

Salt Lakes, Reiger and Sears, LeBrandt; Santa Barbara, Cates, Koestner and Brown.

Maiers, Raleigh, Seaton and Hoffman, Whaling; Pasadena, Annis, Tobey and Masterly, Wachob.

San Bernardino, Hensling, Van Otterman and Waters; Santa Ana, Heindricks and Meats.

McCormicks, Clark, Tozer and Weisel, Chess; San Diego, Carson, Marshall, Cates and Colbath, Kellackey.

RAIN STOPS PLAY.

COLLINS HITS HOMER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 30.—Rain interfered with a sharply contested game here today between the Philadelphia Americans and All-Nationals, and necessitated its being called in the sixth inning, with the score 1 to 1.

Philadelphia's score resulted from Collins's home run. Doyle's single, followed by a sacrifice by Eagan, and a single by Mitchell, gave the All-Nationals their run. Mitchell is a former member of Portland's Coast League team, and when he knocked out the safe hit that scored Doyle, the crowd went wild. The score:

Philadelphia, 1; hits, 5; errors, 3.
All-Nationals, 1; hits, 2; errors, 0.
Batteries—Bender and Thomas; Curtis and Bliss.

PLAYERS' CONTRACTS.

BROOKLYN GRABS DAHLEN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—President Heydler, of the National League, approved today the following contracts and releases:

With Brooklyn—William F. Dahlen, Elliot E. Dent, R. E. Erwin, John J. King, Lee Meyer, Harry H. Meyers, James A. Tonjies, Harry J. Redmond, Z. D. Wheat, Irvin K. Wilhelm.

With Chicago—Henry J. Smith.

By Boston—Unconditionally, William F. Dahlen.

By Chicago to Louisville—I. C. Higginbotham.

MINOR GAMES.

The fifth series of baseball games of the City League is to be played at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon as follows: Manchesters and Wielands at Highland Park, umpire, Packard; Highland Park and University Merchants at Thirty-eighth and Alameda streets, umpire, Hummett; Bishops and Fraternal Aids at Ascot Park, umpire, McFarland; Southern Pacific and National Lumber Company at Thirty-eighth street and Santa Fé avenue, umpire, Woods.

To Entertain Guests.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 29.—Extensive preparations have been made for the entertainment of the Vancouver football team, which is to play two games with the 'varsity on Stanford Field next week. The visitors will be the guests of the various fraternities. Next Saturday night an entertainment will be given in their honor under the direction of G. F. Morgan, '10, of Los Angeles. The first part will consist principally of musical numbers and the second part will include wrestling, boxing and other athletic contests.

Considerable difficulty is experienced this year in selecting an All-American baseball team because of the new blood which has pushed to the top and demands recognition.

One would think, on snap judgment, that such men as Lajoie, Evers, Crawford, Seymour and others should be in the line-up, but in casting over the figures on the season's work it is found that they are overtopped by some of the new stars.

Some may argue that the old heads of these consistent players must be considered above the flash-in-the-pan work of the youngsters, but when, for instance, Collins bats .346 to .258 for Evers, and steals sixty bases to twenty-eight for Evers, and does more than good work in the field, his claims must be considered above those of the veteran.

Fielding averages must not be considered too seriously in making a selection, for when a man plays an all-around game at the bat and on the bases he certainly is a good enough fielder to hold up his end sufficiently to make the inside work count.

In making the selections for the All-American team every man is chosen from those of his position. There may be other players who would work better at third than Lord of Boston, but he is selected from among the third basemen alone.

THE BEST PITCHER.

To begin in the box, there was no pitcher in either league who compared with Matthewson of New York Nationals in effectiveness against the first-class teams. With only ordinary support behind him he beat the big teams consistently, and that is what counts in baseball. A man who can be relied upon in the critical series is the man who is worth his salary twice over.

Only one pitcher in either league has a better average on the season than Matthewson, and he is Sam Leever of Pittsburgh, but Leever worked in less than one-third as many games as the New York star. He won nine and lost one, with a percentage of .900; Matthewson won twenty-six and lost six, with a percentage of .813. Mullin of the Detroit Americans won more games than any other pitcher, twenty-nine, but he lost eight, bringing his percentage to .784. Brown of the Chicago Cubs won twenty-eight and lost nine, giving him a percentage of .757. Matthewson, Mullin and Brown would make a great trio for an All-American aggregation.

There are few good catchers this year, Kling being out of the game, and Sullivan, Bresnahan and Criger going back so badly that the younger men came in the front. Carrigan, of the Boston Americans, stands high up in the batting, and is a general all-around good man, but his work last year was nothing extra, and it will take another season to prove that his good form this year was not an accident.

For consistent, all-around work, Gibson of Pittsburgh seems to have the call, although he is more of a plugger than a brilliant performer. If Bresnahan had worked up to his last year's form he would far outclass Gibson, but managerial duties and injuries caused him to fall away back.

Gibson has caught more games than any other backstop, and has performed well in all of them. He hits well enough for a regular berth in the outfield, and his catching and throwing are good.

CHANCE SUPPLANTED.

Most persons would say that Frank Chance ought to be put on first, and he would probably have been the choice had he had a successful year. However, Chance's batting was none too good as compared with his former records, and others did better. Stahl, of the Boston Americans, leads the first sackers in batting, and his fielding is good, yet it is doubtful if he can be classed with the best. Hal Chase is the superior of all the first basemen in fielding, and he is well up in batting. He is capable of being the star of the country for years, and with a first-class team would shine brilliantly. He seems the logical choice on the year's work.

There are any amount of good second basemen. It is a hard choice between Collins, Lajoie and Evers while Miller and McConnell are close up. For reasons mentioned heretofore, Collins must be given the preference on the season's work. Evers may be invaluable as a heady fielder, but with such a team of hitters, fielding is not so essential. It is work at bat and on the bases that counts. Lajoie is a great fielder, but he does not fit in with the rest of the team. He is also hitting splendidly since relieved of the managerial duties at Cleveland, but on the whole Collins had the better of him for the year.

On short there is no one to compare with the great Wagner in all-around work. Tinker is the only other player of class, unless it is Bush, and the latter is too young to be steady at all times. He is brilliant, and in a year or two will rank with the best, especially as he is a great sacrifice hitter and stealer of bases.

At third there is a dearth of good material. Lord of the Boston Americans has done great work for the year, but he is scarcely up to the Collins and the Bradley of old, yet he is the best there is on the season. Devlin is an exceptionally good man, but his work this season has not been very good, and he has been laid off a good deal.

COBB INCOMPARABLE.

In the field, of course, there is no one to compare with Cobb, and he and Wagner are in classes by themselves. He is far ahead of the other outfielders. His place is in right.

Many persons in Detroit and elsewhere believe that Sam Crawford is better than Cobb because of his consistent, solid hitting, but Crawford is rather slow on the bases, and only an ordinary fielder and thrower. There is some doubt as to whether he or that other veteran, Fred Clarke, would be more valuable to a team, but as Crawford's batting average is far above that of Clarke, he should be given the preference and be placed in center.

Speaker, of the Boston Americans, is considered the best fielder in either league and a young player of brilliant promise. He has had a successful season, even though luck broke badly for him at times. It is probable that he will be hitting on two or three next year.

Speaker is very fast on his feet, and gets to the bases quickly. For that reason he should head the batting list. Collins, being also very fast and a good bunter, should bat second, as in attempting to sacrifice he could often beat out his bunts. Cobb should bat third, as that position has let him do his best work this year. Wagner ought to clear the bases many times when he bats fourth. Crawford could line them out in fifth place, if a man or two go out or if a sacrifice fly is needed. Although Chase batted below Lord, according to the figures, he should be able to hit in the .300 class under the right conditions, and should be given the preference. Lord would hit seventh and Gibson eighth, with the pitcher last.

SECOND TEAM.

In the National League, the first and second teams probably would be:

Second team—Grant, third base; Leach, center field; Hofman, left field; Hoblitzel, first base; Murray, right field; Tinker, shortstop; Miller, second base; Bresnahan, catcher; Brown, pitcher.

First and second teams in the American would be:

Second team—McIntyre, left field; Dougherty, center field; Murphy, right field; Lajoie, second base; Stahl, first base; Baker, third base; Wagner (Boston,) shortstop; Sullivan, catcher; Donovan, pitcher.

GOOD GOLF SHOWN.

Frederickson and Steckel Tie for First Place Honor in Handicap Against Bogey.

A large number of local golfers played an 18-hole handicap match play contest against bogey at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday and the honor of first place was divided between William Frederickson and George Steckel, who finished with a score of 2 up. Dr. H. W. Howard and S. S. Parsons were all square and C. A. Henderson, Joe Cook and Joe Ball were 1 down. These were the seven best scores.

The qualifying round for the president's cup will be played next Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

ONE-SIDED.

ORANGE MAKES POOR SHOWING.

METHODISTS SCORE AT WILL AGAINST ATHLETICS.

University Blanks Visitors in Tame Exhibition—Wirsching and Hill Handle Forward Pass for Good Gains Repeatedly—Selph Strengthens 'Varsity Back Field.

University of Southern California, 51; Orange Athletic Club, 0.

The football players of the University of Southern California played rings around the light Athletics from Santa Ana in a one-sided game at Bovard Field yesterday afternoon, the Methodists scoring nine touchdowns and kicking six goals in two short halves of twenty and ten minutes.

At best the visiting aggregation furnished but a poor practice game for the university squad. The collegians played no better than against the Saints, and the same weak points were in evidence. The large count was registered on a free use of the forward pass and fake-end runs, which fooled the opposing ends completely.

Selph, playing full for the 'varsity, bucked over for the first touchdown, after four minutes of play, a forward pass and recovered fumble, giving the locals the chance to score after kicking off. Decius received the next kick-off, and skirting the opposing tacklers, ran for a touchdown. He was declared outside at the 40-yard line, but on bucks Paulin scored any way.

Orange kicked off, recovering the ball when Bunker fumbled the low kick. Wirsching reconciled the poor work by picking up an Orange fumble, and Hill recovered a punt on Orange 20-yard line. Decius failed of place kick. Orange took ball on own 25-yard line, but were held, Decius getting off pretty forward pass to Hill, who scored. Decius missed easy goal, also failed to find the goal in two succeeding attempts.

Decius scored the next two touchdowns on a forward pass, and fake kick, Wirsching helping considerably on gains with the pass. Paulin made the last score of the half after recovering a fumbled punt, making the count at the end of the period, U. S. C. 34, Orange 0.

After Paulin scored on a recovered fumble, and Decius ran forty yards for another touchdown, Cromwell put in about all his second team, Martin made the last touchdown, the half being shortened to ten minutes. The visitors about held their own with the scrubs, and the fumble of Bell the U.S.C. quarter, on the Orange one-yard line saved the Orange another touchdown.

Wirsching and Malcom were conspicuous for their heady aggressive playing, Wirsching being the first Methodist end who has shown any marked ability to handle the forward pass this season. Decius went into the line high without much interference, but showed his class in dodging in the open field. Bunker might as well have played on the sidelines. Crossman at quarter, used his head, but is not so clever in running in punts. Selph backed up the line well.

Capt. Lerner of the Orangemen played a hard game at full and blocked many bucks off tackle. Carpenter at left end was a difficult tackler to pass, and Smith at half also did some pretty tackling. The visitors lacked team work, definite interference, and were unable to make yards once in the game.

The line-up:

GEYER TO GO WITH WILLIS.

Northern Pug to Make Debut Here Next Week.

Austin Is Lined Up Against Young Miller.

Webster and Attell May Meet Again in November.

The Pacific Athletic Club will present a card of big and little pugs for its weekly show on Tuesday night of next week and the programme is more promising than the one shown last Friday night. Next week the main event will be ten rounds between Jack Geyer of Denver and Joe Willis of San Francisco, both heavyweights.

Both of these heavies have shown well in their recent bouts but Willis is supposed to have the better chance, as he has made more or less of a reputation about San Francisco Bay, where he has been fighting. What he can do here is only a guess, but in any event Geyer is a good try-out horse for him. Geyer made a very fair impression in his recent go with Battling Johnson and has three knockouts to his credit since turning professional last February, when he won the amateur championship of four States in a tournament held in Denver.

The remainder of the card is given out as follows: Jimmy Austin and Young Miller, six rounds; Billy Capelle and Joe Livermore, six rounds; Gene McGovern and Young Pico, six rounds. In addition to these a four-round curtain raiser will be put on, which will be arranged this week. There is certainly enough in the card to satisfy any of the bugs who want action.

Danny Webster and Monte Attell may fight here again on November 16 Thanksgiving Day. While nothing is definite the match has gone far enough to have the two boys agree to meet and this practically means a fight. If they do come together the weight will be 115 pounds 3 o'clock for a night fight or 9 o'clock in the morning for a Thanksgiving afternoon fight.

"Doc" Gene Jeffrey, manager of k Burns and Kid Norval, has ded to take his "stable" of pugs to Francisco and the northern part the State, as he says they do not up very well in this end of the te. Burns will never make a fight- for he is too slow, but he might prove later on.

Jack Sieberg, who fought here sev- times recently with bad results himself, has gone East and has ed company with his former ger, Hart. Jack is about through the fight game as a means of lihood, for he realizes he can never ance in it from beyond the dub s.

Fritz Frey, sparring partner for ing Johnson, who weighs more 200 pounds, would like a chance any heavyweight, and does not to be anxious which one.

Pico has shown such good in his fighting at San Pedro he has been given a chance in and has been put on for next with Gene McGovern for six . Another boy that is anxious his merit here is Red Corbett, has been fighting at San Diego. Cameron, the big negro pug, looking for another match and may put on with the winner of the r-Willis match. It is said that er Jack Burns or Flynn will Cameron.

In all probability Curley O'Connell not be seen here in a fight in the future for his head seems to be over his accidental beating Frankie Sullivan to such an extent he asks for a main event. Just of that!

CHALLENGES JACK JOHNSON.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Sam Lang- the black Boston pugilist, is hot the trail of Jack Johnson, and to- before the negro champion could t for Chicago, he issued this sweep- ded:

"I want Johnson to fight me before fights Jeffries. He can have $1000 cash from me the moment he steps the ring. I will fight him six, twenty-five, forty-five or one hun- rounds for $5000 a side, winner take the entire purse, or 75 per . I will accept any reasonable of- [illegible] I will win."

JEFF'S BIG OFFER.

REFUSES THEATRICAL COIN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—James J. ries will not accept any theatrical engagements between now and the he fights Jack Johnson, but will retire to the mountains of California and devote the entire period to active and systematic training for the championship battle, according to Sam Berger, his manager.

Following the signing of articles to fight, it was reported that Jeffries had been offered $80,000 for eight months on the stage—to begin at once. Jeffries has not decided just when he will go to California, but it is believed that he will remain in the East, continuing his training in a gymnasium until December 1, when the bids for the fight will be opened.

Although Jeffries refused to "meet" the negro champion at the conference yesterday, or to even speak to him, the negro was in good humor all the time. Several batteries of flashlights had been shot off for the newspaper cameras, and the room was still filled with smoke when other photographers proposed setting off the flashlights. Just then the hotel manager cried:

"Wait until the smoke gets out."

"Ain' yup goin' gimme a chance, genmun, to sign up?" said Johnson quickly.

Everybody laughed and the hotel manager ordered a case of wine.

May Race at Yonkers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—If Fitzherbert and Maskette do not meet in the Election Day handicap at Aqueduct to decide the championship of the turf for this season, it is possible that the Empire City racing association will try to bring them together in Sweepstakes at Yonkers. The association has been urged to hang up a suitable purse and to name as conditions a race at a mile and a furlong weight for age.

"PINKED" THROUGH ARM.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 29.—John B. Burris, '13, registered from Los Angeles, sustained a painful but not serious injury in the gymnasium this morning while engaged in a friendly fencing contest. The button dropped off his opponent's foil, ard before the incident was noticed, the foil snapped, and the broken end passed through the fleshy part of his arm, back of the biceps muscle.

Peerless achievement has not been accomplished in a day. Neither is it an accident. The fact that the 1910 car is a better product than any of its predecessors is but a natural consequence of a business conducted with the idea of producing a car unequaled. The makers search the markets of the world for the best materials and spare no expense in its construction. Under such conditions, increasing excellence and refinement are inevitable.

In February, 1908, at the Long Island Auto Club Economy Contest, the Pullman Car won first prize—carrying five passengers, 246 miles at a cost of 78 cents per passenger for the trip—using twelve gallons, three pints of gasoline, and only three quarts of cylinder oil.

At the Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Economy Contest, August 15, 1908, Pullmans won first prize against twenty-eight cars—making twenty-eight and seven-tenths miles to one gallon of gasoline—its nearest competitor making only twenty-one miles to a gallon over the same course.

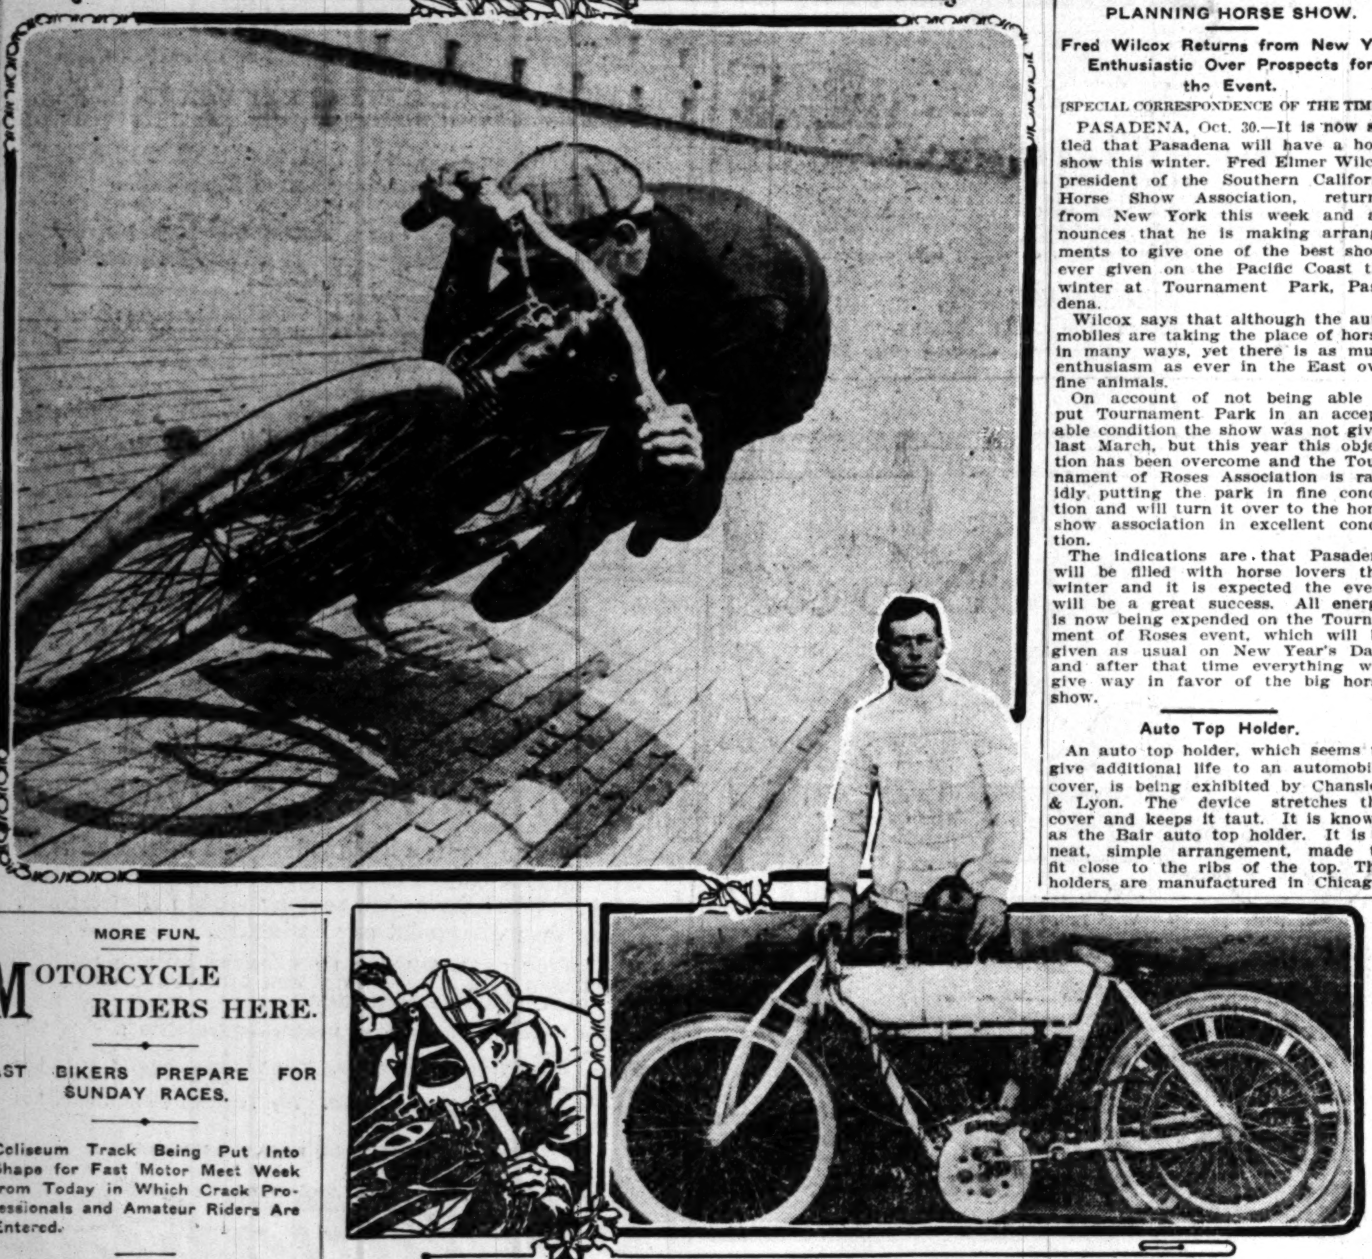
MOTORCYCLE RIDERS HERE.

FAST BIKERS PREPARE FOR SUNDAY RACES.

Coliseum Track Being Put Into Shape for Fast Motor Meet Week from Today in Which Crack Professionals and Amateur Riders Are Entered.



Jake De Rosier, One of the Best Motorcyclists on Earth, who is entered in professional match races at the Coliseum Sunday afternoon, and T. M. Samuelson, challenger, who is one of the few men who stand much chance to defeat De Rosier.

Motorcycle racing next Sunday will break a long silence and the saucy, little buzz wagons are to have a rather spectacular reopening of the Coliseum motorcycle track, at Sixty-third and Main streets.

Heading a good card for one day's event is a match race between De Rosier and T. W. Samuelson of Salt Lake, who was the only man who succeeded in defeating the wild Frenchman.

Samuelson has been riding hard all summer at the eight-lap track in Salt Lake, and, in company with Whittier, another fast man, has established an entirely new string of world's records for that size track.

In his race Sunday, Samuelson is to use two seven-horse-power Merkles, either one of which is said to be faster than the racers that De Rosier rode last spring, and, if this proves to be the case, there will be more genuine excitement unbottled in the coming match than has ever been witnessed on a local track.

The race is to be run in three heats, ten miles to a heat. This gives both riders an opportunity to try-out more than one machine of their string, and the local fans are on tiptoe with expectancy as to what is to happen when these two fast ones come together.

De Rosier is a free lance, although he will ride an Indian machine in all his races.

The meet that opens Sunday is to cover a period of six months. Jack Prince is back from the East. He has succeeded in getting eastern manufacturers into the racing game, a number of them having sent racers of four and seven horse power.

Shortage of racing machines was the chief drawback at the last spring meet, but this obstacle need not hinder again, as Prince now claims to have as many racers at the track as will be needed to insure large fields.

The supply of riders also has been increased, not only all last year's men having returned, but also a number of new ones who have figured in eastern contests. Included in the list are Lawson, who was injured Thursday, and is to be out of the racing for some time; Whittier, who has raced against Samuelson at Salt Lake; Goerke, and other cracks.

Eddie Lingenfelder, the nervy Alhambra boy, is here, but is not to ride Sunday. He is traveling representative of the N.S.U. factory.

Unable to Score.

The newly-organized football team of Redondo played its first game against Azusa Athletic Club at Redondo, yesterday afternoon, neither team being able to score. Line bucks were resorted to almost exclusively, and by the old-fashioned style of play, the backs were unable to gain the necessary yards. Azusa is to play a return game with the beachcombers at Redondo on Thanksgiving Day.

Junior Tigers Win.

Occidental "preps" defeated the Fullerton High School eleven by the score of 10 to 6 at Baer Park yesterday afternoon. Rush scored the single touchdown for the visitors, while McKelvy and Vilkey each made a touchdown for the junior Tigers.

PLANNING HORSE SHOW.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PASADENA, Oct. 30.—It is now settled that Pasadena will have a horse show this winter. Fred Elmer Wilcox, president of the Southern California Horse Show Association, returned from New York this week and announces that he is making arrangements to give one of the best shows ever given on the Pacific Coast this winter at Tournament Park, Pasadena.

Wilcox says that although the automobiles are taking the place of horses in many ways, yet there is as much enthusiasm as ever in the East over fine animals.

On account of not being able to put Tournament Park in an acceptable condition the show was not given last March, but this year this objection has been overcome and the Tournament of Roses Association is rapidly putting the park in fine condition and will turn it over to the horse show association in excellent condition.

The indications are that Pasadena will be filled with horse lovers this winter and it is expected the event will be a great success. All energy is now being expended on the Tournament of Roses event, which will be given as usual on New Year's Day, and after that time everything will give way in favor of the big horse show.

Auto Top Holder.

An auto top holder, which seems to give additional life to an automobile cover, is being exhibited by Chanslor & Lyon. The device stretches the cover and keeps it taut. It is known as the Bair auto top holder. It is a neat, simple arrangement, made to fit close to the ribs of the top. The holders are manufactured in Chicago.

Classified Liners.

Times Classified Rates: The rate for inserting Want ads in The Daily Times is 1c per word for each insertion; in the Sunday issue 1½c per word each insertion; minimum charge, 25c; except under following classifications, the rate for which is 10c per line, minimum charge 25 cents: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," "Church Notices," "Miscellaneous" and "Baths and Massage."

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11:30 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading "Too Late to Classify."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. Rates 1½c per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 77,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

THE TIMES will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "liners," as no mistakes can be rectified without them.

ONE-TIME NOTICES—

[This classification is especially intended to cover announcements wherein the ELEMENT OF TIMELINESS is an essential feature, such as urgent notices of all kinds, assessment, dividend and company-meeting notices, fraternal-society notices (funeral notices excepted), special bargain offers, with notices calling attention to advertisements in some other part of the paper, and all events to occur on any certain early date named. No standing advertisement accepted for this classification.]

VARICOSE Veins.

Large knotted veins in the Leg? I have discovered and made perfect an entirely new and harmless method of treatment for this serious affliction. It cures very quickly, without cutting or tying the veins. Takes two months. No loss of time necessary. It is a positive cure in 92 per cent. of cases in man or woman, no matter how long standing or how bad the case. It makes leg smooth, strong and natural in size. The cure is permanent. Write, or please keep and send this notice to some afflicted one. H. Edick, M.D., C.M., Lock Box 1288, Dept. 2, Los Angeles, Cal.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

GOOD SENSE — BEAUTY TALK. THE natural capital of a woman is her good looks. She should learn to keep it and add to it, just as if it were dollars and cents. If you keep your face clean, just real clean, you will never have wrinkles, blackheads or big pores; you can do it with Anna Bergeron's Witch Hazel Cleansing Cream and Skin Food. One of my scientific ice treatments will teach you how, by devoting ten minutes a day to yourself, you will accomplish wonders. No skinning, or old-fashioned massage, but a treatment that cleanses the pores and hardens the tissue and strengthens the muscles. Free consultation on the care of the skin and hair. 416 FAY BLDG., Cor. 3d and Hill. Phone A4927. x31

SUNDAY REAL ESTATE LINERS—

Classified real estate advertisements for insertion in THE SUNDAY TIMES must be in the office not later than 10:30 o'clock Saturday nights. Other "want" advertisements for Sunday insertion will be taken over the counter until 11:30 p.m.

The great volume of liners printed in The Sunday Times, numbering regularly over 5000 separate announcements, makes this regulation absolutely necessary in order to get the big Sunday issue out on time. •

HOTEL WILLOUGHBY,
OVER PARK BANK,
OPPOSITE CENTRAL PARK.

GO THERE FOR THE BEST READINGS BY THE GREATEST READER.

WOULD YOU LIFT THE CURTAINS TO THE MYSTERIES OF THE VEILED BEYOND? IF SO, CONSULT THIS GREAT PSYCHIC.

DIRECT FROM INDIA.

DOES EVERYTHING GO ALL WRONG? IF SO, THERE IS A CAUSE. DO YOU WISH TO CONTINUE ON THE DOWNWARD TRAIL OR DO YOU DESIRE TO CHANGE AND CLAIM WHAT GOD INTENDED YOU TO HAVE? IF YOU WOULD RISE TO YOUR NATURAL SPHERE AND ENJOY LIFE AS OTHERS DO, SEE MUNDO.

HE WILL TELL YOU OF THE CAUSE OF YOUR WOE AND HOW TO OVERCOME IT. HE IS THE MAN THE SAN FRANCISCO PAPERS SAID SO MUCH ABOUT FOR PREDICTING THE GREAT QUAKE AND FIRE.

THIS MAN OF MYSTERY HAS RIGHTFULLY GAINED THE TITLE THE WIZARD SEER, THE NAME SO OFTEN APPLIED TO HIM, AND WE RECOMMEND HIM TO YOU FOR DEAD TRANCE READINGS AND DEEP PSYCHIC WORK OF ALL KINDS, AND TO BE THE MOST THOROUGH, CONSISTENT, CONCISE AND COMPLETE LIFE READER BEFORE THE PUBLIC TODAY. THE PEER OF ALL PSYCHICS, THE ONLY GRADUATE OF THE ORDOO COLLEGE OF OCCULTISM TO EVER LEAVE HIS NATIVE LAND. A HERALD OF THE MYSTERIES OF THE PROPHETS OF OLDEN TIMES.

THIS GREAT PSYCHIC HAS SPENT ALL THE YEARS OF HIS ACTIVE LIFE IN THE STUDY AND PURSUIT OF THIS, HIS NATURALLY ENDOWED SCIENCE, AND STANDS ALONE AT THE HEAD OF A VAST ARMY OF SEERS AND PROPHETS, MANY OF WHOM HE HAS TAUGHT AND PREPARED FOR THE PURSUIT OF THIS GRAND CALLING. SEE HIM TODAY. HE MAY CHANGE THE COURSE OF YOUR WHOLE EXISTENCE. MANY A SAD HEART HAS BEEN GLADDENED, MANY A WEARY LIFE MADE BRIGHT BY THE ADVICE AND MAGNETISM OF THIS WONDERFUL MAN. HE IS UNLIKE ANY YOU EVER SAW. DOES POSITIVELY ALL THAT OTHERS CLAIM TO DO AND DEMONSTRATES THE POWER OF MIND OVER MATTER FREE TO EVERY PATRON. THE ONLY MAN IN AMERICA POSSESSING THIS POWER. SEEING IS BELIEVING. TRY HIM, THEN TRY OTHERS AND SEE IF THEY CAN DO THE SAME. A CAPABLE MAN HAS CONFIDENCE IN HIS ABILITY AND WILL NOT REQUIRE YOU TO DEPOSIT YOUR MONEY BEFORE HIS WORK IS DONE. MUNDO HAS READ FOR MANY OF AMERICA'S LEADING CITIZENS AND A FEW TITLED FOREIGNERS, BUT HE HAS MORE RESPECT FOR HIS PATRONS AND MORE CONSIDERATION FOR THEIR FEELINGS THAN TO PUBLISH THEIR NAMES BROADCAST FOR THE SAKE OF ADVERTISEMENT. NOR DOES HE CLAIM TO HAVE READ FOR DOZENS OF PROMINENT PEOPLE THAT COMMON SENSE WILL TELL YOU HE NEVER SAW. IF YOU NEED ADVICE AND WANT A READING FROM A REAL LIFE READER WHO DOES NOT SPEND HALF HIS TIME SLANDERING HIS COMPETITORS, SEE MUNDO, THE REAL LIFE READER WHO REALLY TELLS WHAT YOU DESIRE TO KNOW OR NO CHARGE. THE WORLD'S GREATEST ASTRAL SEER AND PSYCHIC, MILBURN.
WHEN CONSIDERING A PSYCHIC,
CONSULT THE BEST.

Milburn is the acknowledged reader of them all. Permanently located in Los Angeles. He advises you with a power higher than human. He brings sunshine and success in your life. Work guaranteed. New location, 911 S. HILL ST. Home 10 to 8, daily and Sundays. 31

PERSONAL—

PROF. STANLEY,
PSYCHIC.

CALL AND HE WILL GUIDE YOU WITH CERTAINTY TO HIGHER THAN HUMAN POWER. HE TELLS YOU THE TRUT, GOOD OR BAD.

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO PSYCHIC THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU, AS FALSE PROPHETS DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD.

READINGS
$1 TO ALL. $1.

THERE ARE NO AUCTION PRICES. ALL ARE THE SAME TO HIM. DOES THIS APPEAL TO YOU?

BEAR IN MIND, YOU ALWAYS REMEMBER WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD YOU, WHICH TOO OFTEN IS NOT THE CASE. DO YOU WANT RELIABLE ADVICE FROM A TRUE PSYCHIC? THEN CONSULT STANLEY.

WITHOUT YOU WRITING OR EVEN SPEAKING HE WILL GIVE YOU NAMES, DATES, FACTS AND FIGURES.

BEFORE YOU GO INTO ANYTHING OF IMPORTANCE — OR UNDERTAKE ANYTHING SERIOUS—IN BUSINESS OR LOVE, OR MARRIAGE, OR BEFORE YOU MAKE ANY CHANGE YOU SHOULD CONSULT THE MASTER MIND OF CLAIRVOYANCE. READINGS DAILY AND SUNDAY, 10 TO 8.

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,

305½ S. SPRING, NEAR THIRD ST.
EXPERT ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST.

A resident of Los Angeles 26 years.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The HOROSCOPE—calculated from the PLANETS at your birth, will show what a powerful influence they have in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, domestic affairs, financial affairs; your talents; your environments; tells about children; when and where to travel; what to seek and what to avoid; when in danger of illness, accidents, death, losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES OF THESE EVENTS FOR THE FUTURE. In fact, the HOROSCOPE gives ACCURATE AND RELIABLE information on ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. He read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Maxine Elliott, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Lillian Russell, Calve, Sembrich, Julia Marlowe, H. E. Huntington, Admiral Evans, Jefferson, Anna Held, Annie Besant, Joaquin Miller, etc. These are a few of the many NOTED PUBLIC personages—and for this reason only are they here mentioned—all positively read by Prof. Althouse, besides hundreds of the best people of Los Angeles, with whom all his readings are STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S skilled work must in no wise be classed with that of other readers; therefore beware of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics, clairvoyants, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST, and WITH EACH PALM READING GIVES ALSO AN ASTROLOGICAL READING.

PROF. ALTHOUSE, in September, 1908, PUBLICLY predicted—by the PLANETS—the election of TAFT and the defeat of BRYAN.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences and I consider your work as the most thorough and reliable of any reader in the United States."

PAPINTA, actress, writes and says: "Everything has turned out just as you predicted, when reading my hand and Horoscope. YOU ARE WONDERFUL, and I cannot express myself of what I think about your WONDERFUL TRUE READINGS."

MME. BALDWIN writes: "The Horoscope you wrote for me is absolutely CORRECT. My friend, MME. NORDICA, the singer, first showed me her Horoscope, and recommended your work to me. Inclosed find check for four more Horoscopes—all friends of mine."

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK says: "I was greatly surprised to find how many of your warnings were well founded. YOUR READING WAS MOST MARVELOUS."

DR. ALEX. J. McIVOR TYNDALL SAYS: "Your work along the lines of Astrology and Palmistry is highly spoken of on all sides."

FREDERICK WARDE says: "Your reading was MOST SATISFACTORY."

LOUIS JAMES, actor, says: "Your reading was ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY."

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of horoscopes and hand reading has brought him a large and successful practice. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances.

HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and experience can produce; therefore, HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Daily and evening. Sunday 10 to 2.
STUDIO PARLOR, 305½ S. SPRING ST. x31

PERSONAL—

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST. (over Owl Drug Store,) by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND-READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines, that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT INFORMATION.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry. WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

WANTED—

A reliable concern producing a commodity which, when properly presented, will appeal to every business man, regardless of his particular line, needs the services of an active, energetic, hustling salesman—one who has made good, and is in position to prove his superior ability.

To such party will be given a position, with a guaranteed salary of not less than $300 per month, with assurance of such advancement as his services will warrant.

Those unable to show attractive records and references will save annoyance to all concerned by not answering.

For interview, Address R, box 197, TIMES OFFICE. 31

WANTED—A FEW YEARS SPENT IN the navy are years of valuable experience. Habits of regularity are formed. Healthy exercise, regular drills, and growing responsibility develop quickness and self reliance. Many large employers prefer men who have had naval training because more capable and efficient.

Young men with mechanical knowledge have greater opportunities. They master their trade instead of being mere helpers.

Go to a recruiting office and learn about the fine chances in the different branches of the service to save money, the hours of duty, cruises, sports, promotion, etc. You are not urged to enlist. Individuality will be developed, not suppressed, in the navy. Ask any one in the service about it.

The navy hanger in postoffice, and navy posters will give you an idea of the appearance of a bluejacket. Apply at NAVY RECRUITING OFFICE, San Fernando Bldg. 4th and Main streets, San Francisco. x*

WANTED— Help, Male and Female. (To Learn Trades.)

WANTED—MEN, WOMEN, BOYS AND girls! Place this article away carefully for future reference. Two years ago the Southern Pacific Co. established a training school for men and women at 542 Central ave., and since that time we have graduated and placed in service OVER 250 STUDENTS, at salaries ranging from $75 to $125 per month. We are OUT OF THE HIGH RENT DISTRICT which accounts for our low tuition fee. We make no charge for stationery, other schools do. Our students are in DICTATION AND HANDLE ACTUAL CORRESPONDENCE IN OUR OFFICE IN LESS THAN TWO MONTHS from the time of enrollment and graduate in from three to five months without exception. Students studying any of the old and complicated systems of short-hand rarely graduate short of eight months and the average student either gives up in disgust or remains in school from EIGHT MONTHS TO TWO YEARS, and it might be well to mention that he is PAYING TUITION ALL THIS TIME. We offer a complete, unlimited course for $50. Do not get the idea that the SIX OR EIGHT MONTH course offered by local business colleges means A COMPLETE COURSE. It is only a START. When the "SIX MONTHS COURSE" has expired, you will find that you are just beginning and that your first "DONATION" was only a small part of the expense. The rents charged where schools are "CENTRALLY LOCATED" is the largest item of expense. What are you going to pay for, PRACTICAL TRAINING OR HIGH RENTS? Our school buildings are not handsome but our school rooms are large, well lighted and heated, and our equipment is second to none in this or any other city. The demand for Stidger's Progressive American Shorthand is so great throughout the Eastern States that all schools have been compelled to teach it although they are unable to hold their students over four or five months, while with any of the old systems the student CAN BE HELD INDEFINITELY. With this wonderful system we have ONLY TWENTY WORD SIGNS AND ONE SHADED LETTER. Day and evening classes. Main 1378. S. P. TELEGRAPH & SHORTHAND SCHOOL, 542 Central ave., Los Angeles. Branch in Sacramento. x31

MACDONALD SYSTEM OF HAIRDRESSING AND BEAUTY CULTURE, 204 Mercantile Place, corner Spring st. LADIES, LEARN BEAUTY CULTURE. MACDONALD'S COLLEGE offers advantages superior to all others, being the largest, oldest, best equipped, reliable and refined college in Los Angeles, exclusively for ladies; all branches of hairdressing, manicuring, facial massage taught by experts. If you would be a first-class operator, learn at MACDONALD'S, not the cheapest, but the best. Hair goods, switches, janes, braids, puffs, curls, chignons, Billie Burkes, made from first-quality hair. Also your combings made to order; wages paid in our graduate department. Call or write for terms. x31

WANTED—

Young men to learn to operate the linotype machine; a good trade that pays above the average. The Mergenthaler Linotype Company is installing over 100 linotype machines per month. That means just so many positions to be filled at good wages.

The Los Angeles Times has installed a large auxiliary plant, and has placed in charge an expert machinist and operator, making it possible for students who so desire to learn either trade (linotype machinist or operator) in shortest possible time. Six weeks' course, 8 hours per day or night, $50. THE TIMES-MIRROR COMPANY, or Phone Main 8200, and ask for manager of the Linotype School.

WANTED—TO RENT AND MANAGE YOUR PROPERTY.

WE CAN SAVE YOU MONEY

THROUGH OUR DEPARTMENT OF COLLECTION AND MAINTENANCE.

By economy in repairs made by our own expert repair men, who are paid by the month, and have no object in running up bills; by expert knowledge of rental values, gained through handling thousands of properties annually; and by keeping your properties rented, by means of our own publication, which reaches many unusual sources.

We are doing it for hundreds of others.

WHY NOT FOR YOU?

We save you all the bother of checking assessments, paying taxes, placing insurance, caring for lawns and grounds of vacant properties, and the countless petty details and annoyances of handling rental property.

We can save our nominal charges and

SAVE YOU MONEY.

HOW?
BY VOLUME AND SYSTEM.

A LITTLE HOT AIR IS ALL RIGHT IF you live near an ICEBERG. But here in LOS ANGELES you don't need it. The weather's all right, so we cut out the HOT AIR. Did you ever buy a second-hand car and get STUCK? Of course you did. That's what you get for going to the JUNK SHOPS. Don't do it again, start out right and go to the AUTOMOBILE CLEARINGHOUSE ASSOCIATION. There's some CLASS to THEM. THEY do things RIGHT and guarantee their cars. How can THEY do it? Well, I'll tell you. They know their business, only been at it 18 YEARS; they turn away the JUNK as fast as it is offered. Only GOOD cars, after a thorough inspection, are put on the floor. Have you ever seen their stock? No? Better look in before you BUY, you'll save MONEY.

TRICKS.

PRANKS FEW FOR SEASON.

HALLOWEEN MISCHIEF IS COMPARATIVELY SMALL.

Physician's Automobile Is Stolen, and Laborer Tries to Shoot Up the Town—Burning of Southern Pacific Box Car One of the Features. False Fire Alarms.

Somebody stole Dr. Pallette's automobile from in front of his home at No. 2227 West Ninth street. Anotonio Cabo, a laborer from the aqueduct, tried to shoot up as much of the town as he could cover in a quick run through Aliso street. These things, with the pulling up of a few street pasts, the turning in of two false alarms of fire, the accidental burning of a box car on the tracks in the Southern Pacific yards, with a due seasoning of rocks thrown on porches and bells pulled out of shape, constituted the sum total, or nearly so, of the Halloween celebration in Los Angeles.

In Wilmington, the younger generation's "mad pranks" consisted of buggy rides out into the country, according to a report of Patrolman Toolin, the whole force of the suburb, which came to Los Angeles at about midnight to see if there was any undue agitation here.

Patrolman McAuliffe of the San Pedro squad arrived at about the same hour with a report that Halloween in the harbor town has been one of the liveliest celebrations he had ever had to cope with. Wagons were pulled all over the streets, loads of earth were dumped on the sidewalks and pavements, and the "ghosts" gave themselves full play in every direction, much to the anoyance of the householders and police. Several of the mischievous ones were taken to the police station, but none of them were detained.

The automobile belonging to the doctor had not yet been found by the police at a late hour this morning and a thorough search for it was instituted, although the officers were confident that the theft was only a prank of some youngsters. The machine is a Cadillac "30," five-passenger car, painted black. It carries two oil lamps in front and the license number 20,214.

Cabo, the man who was arrested by Patrolman Green Friday night for trying to shoot up New High street when a rooming house keeper refused to let him have a bed for less than 50 cents, was out again last night.

I Cured My Rupture

I Will Show You How To Cure Yours FREE!

I was practically helpless and bed-ridden for many years from a double rupture. I wore innumerable different kinds of trusses and appliances. Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

Port Items.

Lumber receipts today were 750,000 feet from the schooner Ruby, 650,000 feet from the steamer Despatch and 12,000 ties from the steamer National City.

Three passenger steamers sailed North today. These were the St. Croix of the Schubach-Hamilton line, the Hanalei of the Independent line, and the Yosemite of the West Coast fleet of lumber schooners. The Hanalei took 400 tons of freight. The Pacific Coast steamer City of Topeka arrived tonight via Redondo Beach with a big list of passengers returning from San Francisco. It is not likely that she will take so many on the return trip as north-bound travel is much lighter now.

The steamer National City will complete the discharge of her cargo tonight, unless delayed by shortage of cars, and sail North tomorrow to reload. Her cargo was loaded at Russian Gulch, a small inlet on the Mendocino coast that received its name after several Russian warships wintered there years ago. The steamer Wasp sailed North today in ballast to reload.

The German steamer Erna sailed yesterday from Seattle for Central American ports via San Pedro. It is reported that she, along with the Ella, now en route North from Corinto, will be transferred to the Mexican flag or amalgated with some Mexican corporation. They belong to the Jebsen & Ostrander line and receive a subsidy from the Mexican government. The firm, it is said, will use strong Mexican influence with the Tehuantepec Railroad to be restored to the coffee conference. They were recently admitted but the Kosmos line, which with the Pacific Mail has controlled the business, threatened to divert the trade from Tehauntepec to Magellan and the Jebsen boats lost the business.

How To Save $2 On Cough Medicine by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule, are mostly syrup. To make the best syrup, take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint warm water, and stir about 2 minutes.

Get two and one-half ounces of Pinex (50c worth), put it in a clean pint bottle, and fill up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. This makes a full pint of unequaled cough syrup, for about 54c. Keeps perfectly. You couldn't buy as much ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

This home-made remedy is pleasant to take, and usually stops even the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It is splendid, also, for colds, whooping cough, bronchial ailments, etc. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The Sugar Syrup is an excellent sedative. The Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, rich in all the healing elements of Norwegian pine. Be sure to use the real Pinex itself. Your druggist has it or can easily get it for you. Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

UNPRECEDENTED.

BUILDING BOOM LARGEST YET.

Pasadena Experiencing Its Record Construction.

Permit Totals Discount Banner Years of Past.

Increasing Activity in All the Country Towns.

PASADENA, Oct. 30.—Pasadena is experiencing the largest building boom in its history. Building permits taken out during the month of October this year far exceed those taken out during any other month since Pasadena was founded. The first ten months of 1909 show more building and improveing than has ever been shown for the first ten months of any other year, and, with the exception of 1906, the banner year, the record for the first ten months of 1909 exceeds the building permits of any other entire year.

Permits for October, 1909, are $137,375, for October, 1908, $120,267; for October, 1906, the banner year, $122,620. The total building permits for the first ten months of 1909 are $1,614,282; for the entire year of 1908, $1,340,141; for 1907, $1,487,754; for 1906, $2,327,111.

The prospects for the remaining two months of this year are excellent. There are no less than a dozen costly residences and as many more cheaper houses already under contemplation. If permits are taken out for all of these between this and the New Year, building permits in Pasadena for 1909 will exceed those of any year.

Realty men of Pasadena report a very active market for the past week, and an exceptionally active market for the entire month of October. Every indication points to a better winter real estate business in Pasadena than has been experienced for many years. Inquiries are being made for the more expensive properties, although there is a steady stream of inquirers for cheap lots and houses and lots.

The William Staats Company reports the sale during the past week of over $54,000 worth of property in Pasadena, and a total for the month of $111,000. The beautiful Oak Knoll addition is the center of attraction, and the following sales of Oak Knoll property are reported: John Wadsworth, a lot 75x180 feet, on Madison avenue; H. C. French, Jr., three lots on Madison Avenue Heights, 73x190 feet; Albert A. French, a lot 60x216 feet, on Oak Knoll avenue; for Albert A. French, a lot on Madison Avenue Heights, improved with a beautiful bungalow, to Mrs. Hatterman; for Kate B. Holmes, a house and lot on Marengo avenue, in Altadena, to E. C. Hayward, and the property of the Rev. Henry T. Staats, on North Raymond avenue, consisting of two houses and one vacant lot, to Frank W. Alden.

The B. O. Kendall Company during the week bought a property with a fifty-foot frontage on Fair Oaks, south of Colorado, for which they paid $27,500, which is $540 per front foot. At present the property has small buildings, which bring in a fair income. To show the great advances in real estate in Pasadena this same piece of property was sold twenty-seven years ago for $150, or $3 per front foot.

A beautiful home has just been completed for D. B. Gamble, of Proctor & Gamble, the big soap manufacturers of Cincinnati, by Greene & Greene. The residence, which cost $60,000, is on West Moreland place, just off Grand avenue, and on the brink of the Arroyo Seco. The style of the architecture is designed to suit the location.

The dwelling contains twelve rooms. Each bedroom has a bath connected. On the ground floor the large living-room is finished in Burmah teak, while the dining-room is in mahogany. The entire third flood is occupied by a billiard parlor, which can be turned into a ballroom when desired.

Greene & Greene have just completed a beautiful home for Judge and Mrs. William Ward Spinks, who recently came to Pasadena from Victoria, B. C. The new home is located on Hill Crest avenue, and has eight large rooms. This house cost $12,000.

RENEWED ACTIVITY.
ONTARIO REALTY IN DEMAND.

ONTARIO, Oct. 30.—With the return of fall there is a renewed activity in real estate of all kinds in Ontario. The usual winter influx of visitors is here and there is a constant inquiry for houses. There is a noticeable lack of this sort of desirable property for rent and sale, despite the fact that last year over 200 new houses were erected in the city and thus far this year there have been over 100 new houses built.

Recent additions to the business section of the city include the two-story addition to the Ferdinand building, giving it a depth of 146 feet on A street. The improvement approximates $3600. James Kennedy has also built a handsome one-story pressed-brick building on the site of the old frame one destroyed by fire, on Euclid avenue and Transit street.

C. L. Head, a recent arrival from Dallas, Tex., has bought a lot of U. G. Durfee on East D street and will at once build a house upon it to cost about $2000. C. P. Fuller is building a bungalow in Bonita Court to cost about $3000. E. C. Blain has just completed a house on his property on West F street.

C. W. Curran reports the sale of the following property: A vacant lot at the corner of Euclid avenue and Transit street, for Mrs. P. D. Robertson to George McKibbon, $2100; five acres of vacant land in the Chino ranch district for the Chino Land and Water Company to D. B. Wilcox, $1000; a house and lot at the corner of D street and Palm avenue to A. Koller, $2000.

Harry Kelly of the Ontario Realty Company reports the sale of the following property: Twenty acres of apricots in the Blackburn addition for Robert M. Smith to W. L. Sanford, $3300; a house and lot at the corner of Lemon and C streets for George C. Clark to C. A. Mead, $3000; a house and lot at the corner of Palm avenue and D street for C. W. Curran to A. J. Koller, $1900; ten acres of vacant land at the corner of State street and Sultana avenue for W. H. Lindley to I. S. Watson, $4500; ten acres of apricots and peaches in the Blackburn addition for Robert M. Smith to H. T. Heyden, $1750; for Julia Tubbs, lots in the Boulevard tract to the following: Two lots to A. F. Myers for $250, one lot to L. F. Miller for $150, two lots to Harry Kelly for $350, two lots to Percy Dewar for $400 and two lots to Edward Beal for $250.

REPORTS BIG WEEK.
POMONA REALLY IN DEMAND.

POMONA, Oct. 30.—The J. A. Fitch agency reports the sale of about $60,000 worth of ranch, city and house property here during the past week as follows: A five-acre orange grove in the western part of the city, for Wm. Reed to W. M. Smead, $7000; 120 feet of vacant business frontage at Second and Louisa streets for Frank L. Palmer to R. C. Ramsey and W. B. Todd, for $24,000; for Thomas K. Miller, a ten-acre orange grove on East Fifth avenue, improved with $4000 buildings to O. C. Roberts, Mr. Miller taking in exchange two houses in the Pico Heights district, Los Angeles, the total amount involved being $22,500; three lots on South Garey avenue for Dr. W. Fitch to Mrs. Ottine Dubolze; cottage and lot on East Third street to Mrs. Dubolze for $1300.

STEADY DEMAND.
GAS PLANT NEARLY READY.

BEAUMONT, Oct. 30.—Steady deman for Beaumont apple lands is reported by the Beaumont Land & Water Company. Will White, who already has extensive holdings in the La Mesa Miravilla tract, has joined with Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Royce in the purchase of two lots for $2500. Mr. White will plant an orchard, and it is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Royce to build a home to cost $2500.

A. G. Williamson, has bought five acres in Apple Valley for $750 and will enter fruit farming and poultry raising.

Benjamin Franklin has purchased an acre lot for $150 and will establish a chicken ranch and poultry supply business.

The main building of the gas plant is practically completed. The plant will not start, however, until the mains are laid. Pipe is here and will be laid as soon as rain softens the ground to make it right for ditching.

VALUES CLIMBING.
REDLANDS PROPERTIES ACTIVE.

REDLANDS, Oct. 30.—Redlands real estate values, both in city property and orange groves, continue to "climb" at a lively rate, but there still seems to be the necessary number of "takers," with the result that nearly every day is marked by the changing of some good property.

B. B. Harlan, president and general manager of the Redlands and Yucipa Land Company which recently bought most of the Yucipa Valley, is becoming an extensive investor in Redlands real estate as well. He has just purchased the John McIntosh grove of ten-acres on East Lugonia avenue, east of Church street. The holding has been one of the show places of this city for some time and has produced during the past two years more than 12,600 boxes of oranges. The price paid was $3000 per acre or $30,000. Mr. Harlan recently purchased the Briggs place on East Palm avenue, one of the choicest groves of that part of the city for $30,000 and has also invested some $25,000 in Yucipa Valley, making a total of $75,000 placed by him in Redlands and vicinity during the past few months.

Peter Hansen has purchased the Pate ten-acre grove on West Colton avenue, paying therefore $18,000. The place was purchased last year by Mr. Pate. It is improved with good buildings. Mr. Hansen traded in his home place on Washington street.

Reid & Findlay, clothing merchants have purchased from Clarance A. and Matthew A. Shaw for $12,000 the block adjoining their present location on Orange street and now occupied by J. J. Thaman. They will remodel their own and the newly acquired building.

R. J. Dunn has purchased from Mrs. A. J. Facemier, block 3 in Smith's subdivision at the corner of Garden and Elizabeth street, the latter taking in exchange a house and lot in Los Angeles valued at $4200. The Redlands property is valued at $7500.

Guerdon Williams has purchased from James Eden of Crafton thirteen acres of high-class orange property. The price paid was approximately $35,000. This year's crop is a large one and is included in the trade.

Arthur Edwards has sold to O. G. Fussell, a recent arrival from the east, a five-acre orange grove on East Citrus avenue, the price being in the neighborhood of $10,000. S. L. C. Hull has just purchased, from Mont P. Chubb, Harry Leipsic and Percy L. Harley, twenty acres along the Santa Ana wash. The consideration being about $12,000.

O. M. Packard of Los Angeles, who yesterday purchased the Green Mountain farm on Otto Trautsettell, gave in part payment a house and lot in Los Angeles valued at $8000. Mr. Packard will plant several acres to apples and put out 5000 eucalyptus trees.

S. L. Gregg has sold a five-acre orange grove on Brockton avenue and Tribune street to Gilbert Halvorson of Los Angeles, the price being $8500. Mr. Halvorsen has also bought of Mrs. Mary L. Gregg a house and lot on West Olive avenue for $9000.

The Mellen ranch, between Oak Glen and Beaumont, has been purchased by Charles Clemmer of Los Angeles for $8000.

INVESTORS HAVE FAITH.
FUTURE OF SAN DIEGO SURE.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 30.—That outside investors have great faith in the future of San Diego is shown by the announcement this week that Palmer Bros. and Walter Fulkerson have financed a proposition to erect a theater building at the northeast corner of Third and C streets at a cost of $150,000. The building will be of reinforced concrete, occupying a ground space of 100 by 150 feet. The C street and Third-street fronts will contain stores. Plans are now being drawn by a Los Angeles architect. As the ground is leased for thirty years, present tenants are given until the first of the year to vacate.

J. C. Rice will at once erect for the city a two-story building on Second street, between F and G, to be used as a police station, emergency hospital and courtroom. The building will cost about $5000.

During the past two weeks unusual activity has prevailed in the market for small properties, caused by the steady influx of new residents from the North and East.

A leading deal of the week was the purchase of a ten-room house and lot on the east side of Fifth street, between Cedar and Date, by Charles Holmquist, for $16,000. It was purchased from Mrs. S. C. Rood.

Dr. J. C. Hearne bought of H. A. Potter five acres of view property at Point Loma, for $9500. The tract adjoins the property of Lyman J. Gage, who is building a $15,000 home residence. Dr. Hearne will build.

J. B. Hoffman bought of Mrs. Alice Price, two lots in University Heights, for $2500. The purchaser will build.

N. H. Newman sold to Joseph Price two lots on Park boulevard and Brookes street for $2500.

The Cooper family, three brothers and one sister, believe in upbuilding their home town. They purchased ten lots in City Heights and will begin the erection of a number of houses. They are Ralph Cooper, Leo Cooper, Charles H. Cooper and Ada Cooper Langford. The latter recently came here with her husband, Morton Langford, from New Orleans.

L. L. Cramer, who came here from Des Moines, has bought of H. W. Wilcox, 100x132 feet, adjoining the Theosophical Institute at Point Loma. Cramer is building a $2000 bungalow.

EASY VICTORY FOR STANFORD.

Reliance Team Beaten at Rugby Game.

Oakland Boys Unable to Stop Cardinal Rushes.

Stan Mitchell Takes Active Part in Struggle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Stanford, 59; Reliance Club, 0.

The Olympic Club Rugby fifteen canceled the game scheduled for this afternoon with the Cardinal, and the Reliance Club of Oakland on a few hours' notice consented to take the place of the "winged" aggregation.

The visitors were outweighed and were unable to resist the Stanford attack. The university scrum rushed and dribbled for large gains, and the backfield men got away on large runs. Not satisfied with the day's work, Coach Presley sent the 'varsity against the second team for a twenty-minute period after the regular game.

The Stanford backfield players were wild in passing the ball, and many times it was thrown away. Reed at half-back made several pretty kicks that required "speed" in order to get them off. He showed an improvement in passing the ball after it had been heeled out.

The Mitchell brothers were fast and effective in advancing the ball. Long runs by Holman and Mow Mitchell, and the dribbling by the pack were the features of the one-sided contest. Well-placed kicks to touch were made by Stan Mitchell, Reed and Holman. Passing rushes were common.

Crawford executed an unusual play. He booted the ball on a free kick, ran down the field and caught it and sped away for a long gain.

The line-up:

Stanford.		Reliance.
Cheda	forward	Dryborg
Fitting		Dalton

CLOSE STRUGGLE.
POMONA TRIMS WHITTIER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLAREMONT, Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Pomona 6, Whittier 5.

Pomona defeated Whittier on Alumni Field this afternoon by the narrow margin of a point. The game was hard-fought throughout, but marred by frequent wranglings over decisions.

Pomona's score came early in the first half after a series of short fast gains. Throughout the latter part of the period the ball was in Whittier territory, but Pomona was unable to do better than to try for place kicks. Whittier showed a stone-wall defense whenever her goal line was neared.

Whittier started the second half with a rush, scoring within a few minutes. The goal was missed. Pomona crossed the line once during the half, but no score was allowed, as the referee's whistle had inadvertently blown. During the last minutes of play both teams seemed dead, and the play slowed up considerably. The game ended with a punting duel. As a whole the struggle was slower than expected, and showed little open football.

Line-up:

Pomona.		Whittier.

BURMAN MAKES NEW WORLD'S AUTO RECORD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George Burman, driving a Buick 16-B, four-cylinder automobile, at the closing day of the races of the Dallas Automobile Club, this afternoon broke the world's record for 100 miles on a circular course, covering the distance in 1:41:20, thus cutting 40 seconds from the previous world's record for the distance, held by himself.

Burman lost one minute of time during the race in changing three tires, therefore, his actual running time approximates 100 minutes for the 100 miles. Thirty thousand persons witnessed the race, 1000 of whom were in the grand stand or in its inclosures. The other contestants were George Dewitt, who ran second, and E. Weinant, who ran third.

BALLOON RACE TODAY.

Oakland and San Francisco Ships of the Air Are to Try Again for the Portola Cup.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The Balloon City of Oakland and Queen of the Pacific, belonging respectively to the Oakland and Pacific Aero clubs, will engage in their third race tomorrow, starting from Eleventh and Market streets, this city, at 2 p.m. Miss Marguerite Miller of Oakland will accompany Pilot J. C. Mars in the basket of the City of Oakland, and Miss Geneva Schaffer of this city will make the trip with Pilot Ivy Baldwin in the Queen of the Pacific.

Each has won one of two previous races for the Portola cup and the winner of tomorrow's contest will be awarded the trophy.

A second prize, in the nature of a side bet, has been offered to Miss Miller. If the Oakland wins she will be given a balloon of 120,000 cubic feet capacity, it is stated. The racing balloons are of 35,500 cubic feet capacity.

The course will be toward [illegible]. Both former trips ended in the [illegible] of the bay.

Waters-Pierce Oil Company Not to Be Allowed to Return to Texas.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) Oct. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jewell P. Lightfoot, Assistant Attorney-General, who is in charge of all trust prosecutions of the department, said today that the published report that the Waters-Pierce Oil Company would be permitted to reorganize and purchase its holdings at the receiver's sale to be held December 7, is without foundation.

He also stated that there is no truth in the report that the company or any of its officers, or representatives, have been negotiating with the Attorney-General's department with a view of arriving at an understanding by which the concern could continue to do business in Texas. The decree of ouster made by the court is final. The company's holdings must be purchased by interests who have no relation whatever with the Standard Oil Company or the Waters-Pierce Company.

FACT AND COMMENT.

THE FACT AND COMMENT DEPARTMENT of The Times has received so many commendations for the course pursued, and attention has been called so often to the numerous instances in which its prophecies were fulfilled that naturally the writer of the department is a little bit conceited. He has been "on the job" for nearly four years and a half. His first task was an attempt to stem the tide of wild speculation prevailing at the time. After the disaster of the San Francisco fire, and during the distressing times following the great financial failure of two years ago the effort has been to maintain in people's minds the idea of the great intrinsic value of all good property anywhere in any part of Southern California. The first task was a thankless one. The effort to warn people of the danger of overtrading met with only moderate success until events showed how very wise the policy of The Times has been. Since then the optimistic policy of upholding the great present and prospective value of our property has been a much more gratifying one. The fact that The Times was so thoroughly correct in forewarning people not to get caught with too great a speculative load of property on their shoulders was so thoroughly demonstrated by the course of events that the views of the department have gained greater currency in the changed policy.

A Glance Backward.

When three years and a half ago San Francisco was swept off the face of the earth following the earthquake which shook the whole central part of the State the immediate outlook for the whole State, indeed for the Coast, was a gloomy one. Jumping into the breach, The Times immediately advised all its readers not to become panic-stricken. Attention was called to the great fact that the site of San Francisco, which induced the first upbuilding of the metropolis, remained unimpaired and would surely result in a second city more magnificent and richer than the one that had been consumed. When the money stringency came on following this disaster at an interval of about a year and a half, the real estate department of The Times urged every holder of real estate in all Southern California to hold on to every square foot he could possibly maintain his title to. Simultaneously this department advised all who were thinking of investing in property of any kind in Southern California to do so at once. It was very evident that in the prevailing conditions of the money market there would be a good many holders forced to let go their grasp. Then was the time to pick up bargains. The future was absolutely secure and the reaction bound to come. As the months passed by the bargains became a little less abundant and the bargain margin a little narrower. Still the department urged those who had to that time failed to take its advice to do so then, and to do it promptly. So during all the two years of depression the advice was persistent and consistent to all holders of property not to lower their pretensions providing those were reasonable, to hold on to all their property at fair valuations, and simultaneously went out the advice to those intending to buy to let no days pass until they had secured what they wanted. The reason was that day by day, week by week and month by month the bargains became scarcer and the margin of bargain narrower. In addition it was urged that building being comparatively slack, labor in the building trades was much more reasonable than had been the case, and than would be the case; that the same was true of material, lumber, hardware, glass, cement, lime, everything offered at concessions from previous prices.

Where We Are Today.

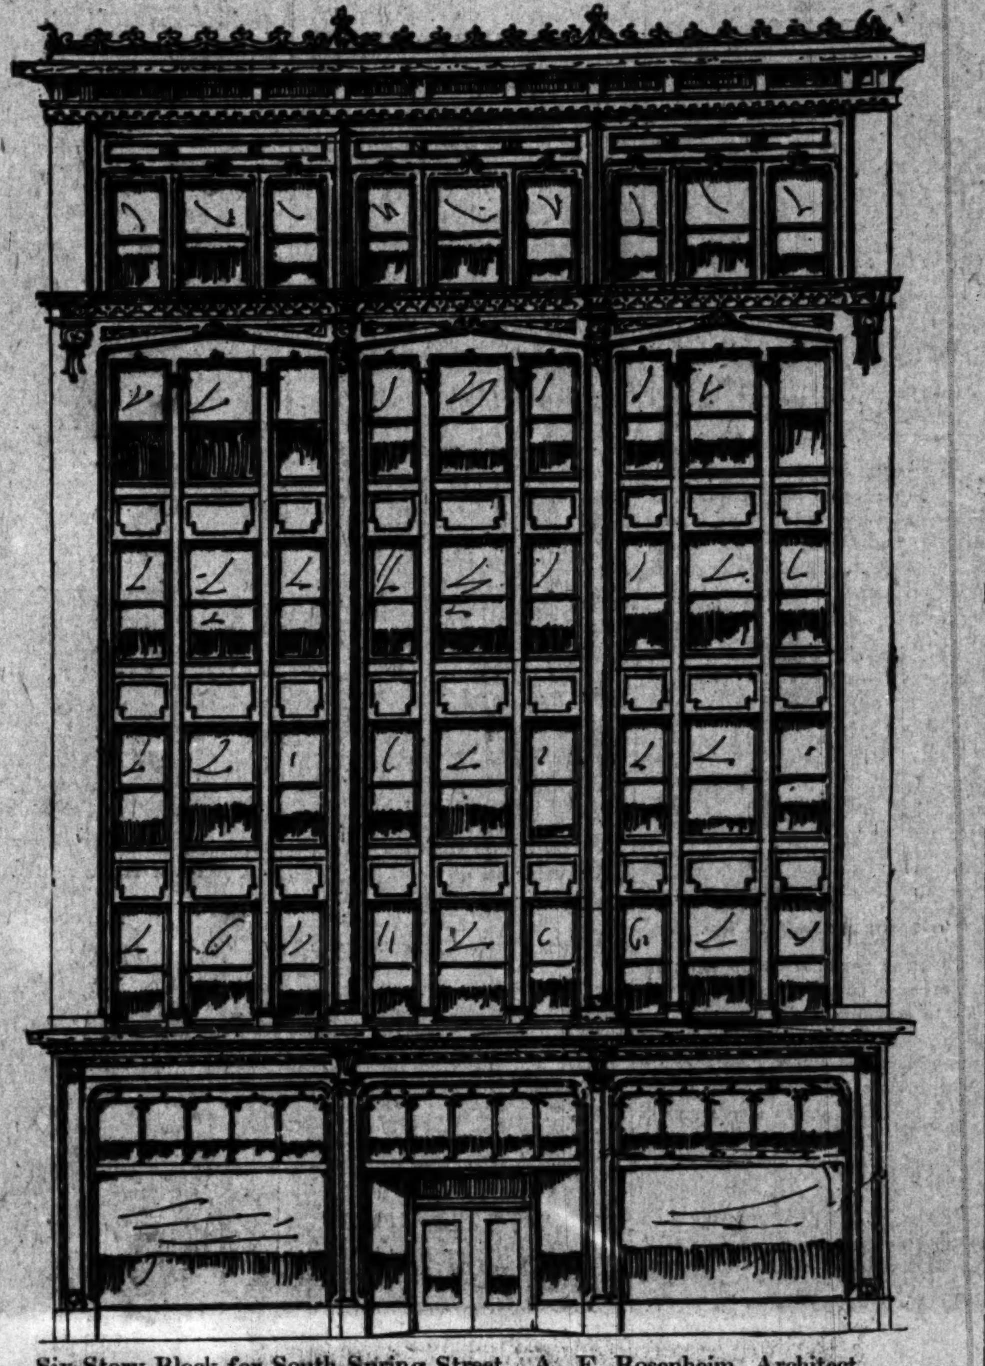
A week ago the local news columns of The Times advised all its readers of a general and heavy advance upon nearly everything in the line of building material. All the things just enumerated in the last paragraph were advanced in price 10, 15, 20, 35 per cent. and upward. It costs more to build the same house today than it would have cost a year ago by perhaps one-third, certainly by 25 per cent. The investor who bought a lot for any purpose anywhere from a year ago to three years ago secured the property at considerably less than he could get it today. There are a great many people in Los Angeles who read "Fact and Comment" during these past months and took its advice, who hold property today, who are richer by 25 to 50 per cent. than they would be if they were to go into the market and buy today. These condition were absolutely certain to come about. It took no particular prescience or prophetic prevision to see that it was sure to be so. Everything that ever went to make Southern California popular remained in full force. There was no change in the climate, in the fertility of the soil, in the cheerful hues of the sky, in the comfortable ardor of the sun, in the music of the waves by the seaside, in the glint of the sunlight from the water, in the purple shadows upon the hills, in the beautiful appearance of an orange grove, in the profits from orange cultivation. There was no doubt that these numerous magnetic influences which have been drawing population here for half a century would continue to attract. With increasing population real estate values were sure to advance. During the four years and a half that we are here reviewing the population of the city has increased by about 100,000 souls. That was adding 50 per cent. to the population here in early summer of 1905. With the growth of Los Angeles has gone along with equal steps the growth of all the cities and towns around, and simultaneously the country has been filling up. The inflow of population has gone on in the San Joaquin Valley, up along the Coast counties, and down into the Imperial Valley. The mining and agricultural communities of the Territories east of us have increased in population and in wealth. Anybody who has had open eyes might have seen this all this time. Only the expected has taken place.

What of the Future?

Because the bargains of two years ago are no longer to be found, because of the advance in the cost of building houses, shall we stop buying lots and building homes? That is not the true lesson for the present and the future to draw from the past. The policy that has been wise during all these two years is wise still. There is a larger inflow of population right now than at any previous time in twenty or thirty or fifty years. This inflow is going into all parts of the Great Southwest. It is coming with a certain conviction that a great future lies before this whole vast region. We are now just at the edge of a great era of manufacturing enterprises and oversea commerce. In the days of small population, all our finished products in iron, wood and everything else had to come from the East. With a population in Southern California of nearly if not quite three-quarters of a million, and with much over a million population whose supplies are drawn directly or indirectly from Los Angeles,, there is opportunity here for large expansions in manufacturing. The expansion has come in part and is coming rapidly. The harbor is finished, and on the other side of the Pacific lies about one-fourth of all the population of the globe. This Orient has been asleep for centuries. Within the last twenty years Japan has become very wide awake, and all the other nations along the other side of the Pacific are rapidly awakening. When humanity gets awake it very soon gets busy. While it is asleep, everything is stagnant, but an hour after daylight the world is all a-hum with busy enterprises. We shall not have to wait centuries, but only years, for oriental trade to develou to a volume we little dream of. A great deal of that trade will center right here at our doors. The man who waits now to invest in California real estate is making the same mistake that the one made who waited twenty years ago or ten years ago or two years ago or a year ago. The building operations in the city of Los Angeles for the month which closes today will run considerably over $1,000,000, possibly press $1,250,000. In the great boom four years ago, building operations in the city cost from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 a month. The population was smaller then than now, and it is increasing more rapidly now than then. If there has been an advance in labor and material in the building trades because of an augmentation in operations from three-quarters of a million to a million and a quarter, there will not be a lowering of the cost of building, either in labor or material, if there is still greater increased activity in the building trades.

The Single Doubt.

There seems, but one sign in the times at all likely to check the growth of population and activity in building in and around Los Angeles. Money has dropped back to about a normal level, as judged by experience in the last half-dozen years. The savings banks are lending money freely at about 6 per cent. for loans of ordinary magnitude. Large loans on central property for a considerable period of time can be had now at 5½ per cent. Just following the financial stringency two years ago, the price of money went to prohibitive interest. Savings banks felt constrained to refuse loans under ordinary circumstances, and private money lenders took quick advantage of the situation to exact exorbitant interest. From 10 to 12 per cent. were not uncommon rates to pay for small loans during the days of darkest gloom. Money is not likely to be lower. The borrower who wants funds would manifest business wisdom by securing accommodations pretty quickly. There is a great deal of private money here now seeking investment. The savings banks are lending with sufficient freedom. The business world has been somewhat startled during the month that is just expiring by sensational hardening of money rates in London. The same has been true of Berlin and of Paris. The New York money market has been affected. So far it has not touched us. Just now the United States is importing more freely than for a couple of years past, and our exports are a little less. We have been losing gold to Europe for a year. Now this is not alarming. It may be only a ripple in the stream. From 1878 to 1908, a period of just thirty years, the world's gold output was $6,675,534,315. During that time the United States produced of this gold, $1,758,284,756. Besides that, we took fro mthe outside world in these thirty years an aggregate of $395,486,635. That is, we got from home production and foreign imports a total of $2,153,670,391. Notice, it is very nearly one-third of all the gold distributed among all the other nations. If these conditions prevail in the next thirty years, we have no particular reason to fear any very great overdraft of gold being made upon us. But the history of the next thirty years may differ very greatly from that of the past. The supply of gold may possibly fall off, and at the same time it is sure that the demand for gold will be vastly keener in the next thirty years than in the past. The value of real estate and active investing in real estate are always just in inverse ratio to the scarcity and price of money. America is exceedingly rich and not likely to suffer from scarcity of funds.



Six-Story Block for South Spring Street. A. F. Rosenheim, Architect.

SELECTING PLANS.

Designs for Mammoth Athletic Club Building Are Now Being Chosen.

The proposed building for the Los Angeles Athletic Club will be started within a brief time, according to the committees in charge of the raising of funds for the completion of the huge building project of the organization. The selection of a plan from the five submitted in competition by Los Angeles and San Francisco architects is well under way, and contracts are likely to be signed within a few days at most.

The building will be reared at the northeast corner of Seventh and Olive on a site 155 feet on the former by 148 feet on the latter thoroughfare. This site was purchased in the fall of 1907 for approximately $450,000. About $500,000 will be expended on the club building itself. Of the amount to be raised by the Soliciting Committee, about $70,000 is said to be still outstanding. The Security Savings Bank has contracted to underwrite the full issue of $500,000 in bonds, and to guarantee their sale.

A perspective from plans very favorably considered by the club was reproduced in The Times of October 28.

TO BUILD COLLEGE.

Site Purchased at Georgia and Seventeenth Streets for Von Stein Academy Building.

A sale of considerable interest to musical circles in this city has just been consummated through the agency of Black Bros., by the terms of which Heinrich Von Stein has acquired from H. H. Goldschmidt and C. Miller 104x125 feet at the southwest corner of Seventeenth and Georgia streetes for a consideration of $20,000.

It is the intention of the purchaser to immediately erect upon the site, which is unimproved, a substantial brick building, to be occupied by the Von Stein Academy of Music The structure will be designed to accommodate 2000 pupils, and will be divided into sound-proof studios, together with assembly and recitation rooms. Dormitory accommodations will also be provided.

PIONEERING.

WILL BUILD SIX STORIES.

MODERN BLOCK FOR SPRING, SOUTH OF EIGHTH.

Arizona Capitalist Buys Valuable Site South of Present Business Section and Confidently Prepares to Build Pioneer Block of New and Promising District.

One of the most important real estate deals of the year was completed last week, when the Hamburger Realty and Trust Company transferred to J. B. Newman of Globe, Ariz., 50x165 feet on the west side of South Spring street, 100 feet south of Eighth street. The consideration was $100,000 cash. The sale was made through the agency of A. T. Jergins & Co.

The purchaser will, within sixty days, begin the erection of a six-story reinforced concrete building of the loft type, which will represent an investment of approximately $100,000. Plans for this structure are nearing completion in the offices of A. F. Rosenheim.

The building will cover the entire lot, which is at present unimproved. The front will be of ornamental tile, and a large amount of plate glass will be used, insuring one of the best lighted interiors in the city. The cornice will be of copper. The structure will be absolutely fireproof. Its arrangement will be such that it can be converted, if at any time it seems desirable, into an office building.

It is understood that negotiations are well under way by which the entire building will be taken over for a long term of years by a large wholesale rug and carpet house of San Francisco.

BUY HUGE MESA TRACT.

Part of Rancho la Cienga Just Sold for Half-Million to Be Subdivided at Once.

The Jaughin estate conveyed last week to the Forrester Improvement Company, an adjunct of A. E. Forrester & Sons, Inc., 438 acres on the northwest corner of Arlington and Slauson avenues. The consideration involved was $507,700, or $1150 per acre. The deal was carried through by C. F. W. Palmer.

This Jaughin property is the old home of the family on the mesa which lies just along the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway Company's line. It is a part of the Rancho la Cienga, Paso de la Tijera. A large slice of the Baldwin property joins it on the northwest.

When the Fifty-fourth-street car line is extended it will divide this tract about in the middle, running east and west. It is a high, smooth tableland, lying below the Adams-street hill, the first high ground to the south. This section of the city has been filling up rapidly during the past few years.

The purchasers will subdivide the property and street and plant with shade trees at once. The higher portion of the mesa will be put on the market for high-class homes, with proper building restrictions.

CITY BUYS FINE SITE.

Water Department Pays Hundred and Ninety-five Thousand for Corner Fifth and Olive.

The city water department has purchased from A. W. Nash and associates the southwest corner of West Fifth and Olive streets, with a frontage on Olive street of 90 feet, and a depth of 155 feet. Facing, as it does, the park, this site is unsurpassed for the purposes intended. The deal was negotiated by William W. Mines of Mines & Farish.

The consideration is $195,000, or at the rate of $2166.66 per front foot. The corner opposite, which is not as desirable, and has only two-thirds as much frontage on Olive street, was offered to the board for $150,000, or $2500 a front foot. The Hotel Lillie, also facing the park, was offered at $2750 per front foot, and a piece of Sixth street, fronting Central Park, between Hill and Olive streets, was offered at $3000 a front foot.

It is understood that the water department intends to construct a four or five-story fireproof building on this property, with a foundation strong enough to add several stories more when required. The plan is to leave a twenty-foot strip of land facing the park, which is to be laid out with lawns and flowers.

RECORD TRANSFER.

Trust Building at Second and Spring Bought by Capitalists for Nearly Half-Million.

The largest real estate deal of the year in local business property was consummated last week, when the Los Angeles Trust Company transferred to Valentine Peyton and A. L. Hawes of this city the Trust building at the northeast corner of Spring and Second streets. The sale was made through the agency of W. I. Hollingsworth. The consideration involved was approximately $450,000.

The structure is of stone and brick construction and of ornate treatment It is seven stories high and occupies 60 feet on Spring by 147 feet to a 20-foot alley on East Second. It was built by the Los Angeles Trust Company five years ago at a cost of about $250,000.

The block is modern in every way, and contains 150 offices. The income realized is about $28,000 net a year. The buyers are acquiring the property as a permanent investment.

The Los Angeles Trust Company will vacate the building about January 1, at which time this institution is to combine with the Metropolitan Bank and Trust Company under the name of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank. The larger banking-house resulting from this important union will occupy the ground floor of the Central building, pending the erection of the proposed permanent structure at the northwest corner of Spring and Sixth streets.

LEASE NEW APARTMENTS.

The H. Jerome Toy Brokerage Company reports having leased to R. M. Roberts of Colorado Springs the handsome six-story apartment-house building to be constructed by L. C. Crossman on the northwest corner of Grand and Seventeenth streets, at a cost of $80,000. Mr. Roberts has secured a ten years' lease, at a rental of $10,000 a year. The structure will contain 130 apartments.

—Because it is the most sanitary living place in Los Angeles.

—Because it commands a grander and more comprehensive view than any other residence district in the city.

—Because it is a community of refined, home-loving people—the type of people who appreciate the wonderful scenic advantages of Mt. Washington.

Go today and see this residential masterpiece. Take your wife and family. In 5 minutes you'll realize why "life on Mt. Washington is really worth living." Take yellow Garvanza cars to Avenue 43.

What would make any one happier than to own a bungalow in the Wilshire district—and especially a bungalow so attractive as this one. Besides being in this choice location it is also on a corner lot, a very cozy, comfortable bungalow, with a living-room 15x22 feet; here there is a pressed brick open fireplace, large plate-glass windows; all floors are hardwood and lighting fixtures are most artistic in design; there is a den; dining-room with fine buffet; library with its built-in bookcases and a disappearing bed; one of these also in the den; the three bedrooms are in white enamel, as dainty and airy as they can be; great big closets, each one with an outside window; the buffet kitchen is in white enamel; back and side screen porches; laundry tubs; everything so homelike and comfortable; cement front porch; everything growing nicely in the yard; lawn, flowers, etc. The party who gets this piece of property will certainly congratulate himself.

A few years hence you will look back and say—"I could have bought that corner for a great deal less only a few years ago." And so it happens every year in Los Angeles. The moral is, buy now. And here is the property to buy; a large 8-room house on a fine corner lot; house has just been finished; everything about the place has been done well; fine large cement porch runs across entire front of house; just such a porch that could be used for an outdoor living-room; very attractive reception hall, with a wide entrance into living-room, a most attractive room, with beamed ceilings, large open fireplace and many windows. Den is another delightful room, paneled to top of windows, and through the glass doors you can step onto an outside porch; dining-room very finely finished and has large, built-in buffet with leaded glass; very handsome center lighting fixture; you enter the kitchen through a large pass pantry with drawers and cupboards; buffet kitchen in white enamel, large sink with windows over; bedrooms upstairs are splendid, large, airy rooms, abounding with windows and large closets; bathroom complete with fine modern plumbing, medicine closet and mirror. There is a large cement basement and garage will be built if desired; yard is all improved with lawn, trees and flowers.

This house is just now receiving its finishing touches and it will not take more than a first glance for you to see how splendidly well the work throughout the house has been done. Ten rooms in the house, all hardwood floors throughout, downstairs rooms all paneled high in hardwood, polished and finished until it is as beautiful as any piano; the hall is in curly birch, the den in Peruvian mahogany; living-room in Tobasco mahogany, and dining-room in oak; other features of the downstairs are the built-in writing desk and bookcase; beamed ceilings; Gruby tile mantel, and the buffet, quite wide with mirror and plate glass; kitchen is in white enamel; the two large windows over the sink make it very light; the many drawers and cupboards give a large amount of room for every kind of utensil; two laundry tubs on screen porch; servant's room downstairs; stairway leading from reception hall in curly birch; large hall, linen closet and four bedrooms upstairs, all in white enamel; mahogany doors, glass knobs, dainty flowered paper on the walls; those great big, roomy kind of closets that remind us of the days of our grandmothers, when closets were almost as large as rooms; bath is exquisite, all in white, with beautiful tub and oval lavatory; two mirrors. Just the kind of a house you could step into, and feel at home in at once.

$18,000

This grand home is on a lot 100x150 feet; surrounded by homes, each one valued at not less than $100,000; on an elevation so there is a view from all sides; a magnificent house, built of granite stone and frame; lower floor finished in hardwood, which has been hand-rubbed until it has a beautiful piano finish; floors throughout house are of quarter-sawed oak; there is a large basement, with wood and coal bins, and storing room; finest kind of furnace. Never a more attractive room in any home than is the living-room in this house; it is 20x30 feet and has one of those large, hospitable open fireplaces, 15 feet wide; many large windows, built-in seats and cosy corners; dining-room is another large room, 18 feet square; is one foot above living-room; magnificent buffet to harmonize with finish of room; beam ceilings; den is a front room and most inviting, with its built-in seats, bookcases and comfortable nooks; other rooms downstairs are the pass pantry, kitchen that is a perfect model, large screen porch; on the second floor are four large bedrooms, arranged so there are any number of windows and more closet room than you find in the usual house; bath is very fine, with most expensive plumbing and fixtures; also one of those good big California sleeping porches and a servant's room on this floor; third floor is also finished and can be used for whatever any one wishes; large garage in rear, with servant's room, work bench, etc.; lot has east front; is improved with broad lawns and many fine ornamental trees. This piece of property is on the market simply because circumstances are forcing owner to sell.

12-ROOM RESIDENCE—WEST ADAMS.

$23,500
$23,500

West Adams Heights is noted for its many fine homes, consequently is a very desirable locality in which to own a home. We give a brief description of a corner residence property, just completed, and something unusually fine. Twelve rooms in this spacious house, large hallways, outside sleeping porch and cement front porch downstairs across entire front of house. One of the magnificent features of this home is the beautiful hardwood finish in all rooms downstairs. Weeks were spent on the finish alone of this woodwork, and it is as smooth and soft and beautiful as a piece of velvet; in the large reception hall is curly birch, with tapestry above; in the living-room is Peruvian mahogany, with touches of ebony here and there and rich tapestry frieze above; this room also has magnificent Gruby tile mantel and one window 14 feet wide; from the living-room you enter the dining-room; here the walls are paneled about 6 feet high in quarter-sawed oak, across one end is a buffet of this same beautifully finished oak, tapestry above panels in this room; across the hall, opposite the living-room, is the den, quite good size, paneled in Tobasco mahogany; tapestry panels above; Gruby tile mantel, built-in seats and a 14-foot window; there is a rear hall with lavatory, large pass pantry, buffet kitchen in white enamel—beautiful in its purity—but more than all else a model of convenience; stairway to second floor all in mahogany, and when you reach this part of the house you will begin to exclaim even more; what could be more beautiful or entrancing than these five bedrooms, all in white enamel, with solid mahogany doors and walls hung with exquisite French flowered papers in the daintiest colorings imaginable; pink tones in one room, lavender in another, blue another, and so on; several full-length mirrors, cedar closets with apartments for different clothing; two luxurious tile baths, with oval lavatories and mirrors; nothing could be finer; hardwood floors throughout the entire house, including sleeping porch; windows that slide on three sides of this porch; third floor finished for billiard-room; also servant's room, with lavatory; yard is as attractive as the house; large lawn in front, rear laid out in Italian garden effect; two-story garage, with servants' quarters, work bench, etc. We venture to say you will never see a more complete residence than this.

One of the handsomest, roomy, bargains we have ever seen is to be found in this splendid, new property, one block from Wilshire blvd., one block from Sunset Park, and surrounded by the best homes in the city. The lot is 60x170 feet. There are ten splendid rooms, extraordinarily spacious. Living-room, library, dining-room, domestic quarters, servant's room and complete bath downstairs; and above stairs—four large, sunny bedrooms, large family bathroom and fine balcony sleeping-room. Every bedroom has two immense closets and two are supplied with extra lavatories, etc. We have seldom seen more handsomely appointed rooms than those throughout this house. It is a beautiful home, elegantly and substantially built, supplied with every modern idea and convenience; basement and fine furnace complete. Large veranda so broad and deep it is really a big room, itself. The outlook is excellent and we consider this property very fine value at $11,500.

Here is a superbly constructed, new home on the very crown of Normandie Hill, in the heart of the Wilshire section. Its many windows and spacious rooms overlook this most desirable district and give a beautiful panorama of mountains to north and east. The lot is 75x150 feet, improved with cement drive and big garage. The residence contains ten fine rooms, attic, two baths, many extra lavatories, and both breakfast-room and servant's room to the rear. The entrance is from a very broad and ornamental veranda of stone and cement. A spacious hall, finished in mahogany, divides the front of the house. The large living-room is finished in mahogany, also, and the dining-room in best selected, quarter-sawed oak. You will find every room extraordinarily well appointed and planned on broad, sunny lines. It is seldom that we have been able to offer a handsome home of such admirable location and fine proportions. The best furnace to be had. The value is all there; it is a superb residence, built to your order. Price $14,500.

At the above ridiculously low figure we are offering this handsome, twelve-room home, finished in selected hardwood, and located in the handsomest residence district of Los Angeles; surrounded by most artistic homes, this stands pre-eminent as a triumph of architectural skill. The owner built this for his home and nothing which contributes to a livable home has been omitted, and the construction cannot be improved upon. The principal living-rooms are finished in quartered oak, heavily beamed and paneled, with every conceivable built-in feature, perfectly planned. On the second floor are four airy bedrooms in white enamel, with running water in each room, numerous commodious closets, delightful sleeping balcony and a completely equipped bathroom; three bedrooms and bath occupy the third floor. Convenient kitchen, cellar with furnace and Ruud heater, and a large garage complete a home which for location, construction and general desirability cannot be equaled by many $20,000 homes in the city.

Everything is so beautiful in Hollywood; even the houses here seem to be more attractive, to be different, and seem to fit in with the surrounding hills and country; this home is particularly distinctive, set in the midst of a beautiful yard, with a tropical garden in the rear; the lot is 100x200 feet, and there are large rooms; we can only mention a few features to give you an idea of the charm and beauty of the place; the rest you must see for yourself. Hardwood is used to finish all the rooms on the lower floor; the paneling is about 6 feet high and the wood has been rubbed and smoothed and polished until it is like satin; reception hall is in curly birch, living-room and den in Tobasco mahogany, dining-room in oak; all floors throughout quarter-sawed oak; elegant Gruby tile mantel in living-room; also built-in bookcases with leaded glass doors. The center light in the living-room is something unusually fine. The kitchen is all in cedar; large cement basement, furnace all through house; 2 bedrooms and bath on lower floor; 3 bedrooms and bath on second floor; all beautifully dainty in white enamel and exquisite flowered paper; solid mahogany doors; cut-glass knobs; windows wherever one could possibly be; closets, some of them as large as rooms; windows and electric lights; magnificent bath with 2 mirrors—one full length; medicine closet and drawers; full length mirrors in bedrooms; fireplace in one of them. There is a 2-story garage, large enough for 2 machines; servant's room above. The property is only a few steps from the Hollywood car line; a short distance from town.

SUPERB WEST ADAMS HOME.
ON HIGH GROUND.

This magnificent 10-room palatial residence in the most attractive part of West Adams Heights is certainly a great achievement in building construction. The lot is 75x150. This residence is just nearing completion and should be seen at once by any home buyers who will appreciate a residence of this kind. Every feature known to architectural skill is combined in making this residence a show place. The entire lower floor is finished in the best of hardwoods, including oak and Peruvian mahogany. The floor plan is superior in appointment and attractive in detail and handsomely decorated with imported paper and tapestry. Living room is 18x30 with handsome carved Salt Lake stone mantel. Spacious reception hall, commodious den and a dining room that beggars description. The kitchen is 20th century and perfect in detail. The maid's room and bath are on the first floor. Furnace, Ruud heater, wide driveway and large garage. The stair case is entirely of hardwood with beautiful stained glass at the first landing. There are four large bedrooms and sleeping porch. The bedrooms are papered with attractive designs and the fixtures are simply exquisite. The lawn is in, as well as numerous shrubs and plants. This magnificent new home at the above low price will last but a few days and we urge you to see us at once. Shown by appointment only.

FOR SALE—
An Exceptionally Desirable Property.
In the choice West End District recently annexed.
Located on the Westlake-Western Ave. car line at the corner of Melrose.
Consists of over two acres, facing Western, Oxford and Melrose avenues, with cement walks, water mains, Monterey pine shade trees, cement columns at corners. Will subdivide into 12 large lots.
Includes large eight-room modern house and large barn.
This property is in the heart of the choicest and most exclusive bungalow district in the city and in the best and most rapidly developing section surrounding Los Angeles. Values in this district are growing daily, and there is no property with a more promising future than this. This is a most unusual opportunity for a builder who wishes to build a number of houses and benefit by his own improvements, or some one who wishes a large plot of ground to build an exclusive home, or the speculator who wants a small subdivision with the improvements already in, and the property ready for the market.
Will sell the entire plot, 300 on Western, 300 on Oxford and 270 on Melrose, including buildings, for $15,000; will remove buildings and sell for $12,500; will sell 240 on Western, 240 on Oxford and 270 on Melrose, with buildings for $12,500; or will remove buildings and sell for $10,000.
Take Westlake cars marked Western ave., to Melrose avenue, where property is located.
Investigate this choice offering before the rise in values which is sure to come.

FOR SALE—
3 BUNGALOW BARGAINS. 3.
I am going to leave Los Angeles, and must dispose of three of the most complete bungalows in this city at bargain prices. They are located at 732-734-738 Harvard boulevard, which is the most beautiful street in the exclusive Wilshire district, and is also a through street. Two of these bungalows have 7 rooms each. The other, a 1½-story, and contains 9 large rooms and sleeping porch. All of these bungalows are perfect in every detail. I am going to sell these houses cheap, and they are the best bargains in the city. Built by an expert builder, they contain every known modern convenience. Lawn, cement walks, garage, furnace, costly electric fixtures, etc., make each property complete. The bungalow at 732 Harvard, worth $7500, will be sold at $6000. The bungalow at 734 Harvard, now being completed, is easily worth $7500; our price $6250. At 738 Harvard is a bungalow worth fully $8500, to be sold at $7000. Come and see them before they are sold. For terms see MR. MILLER, on premises, or phone 54275. 31

FOR SALE—
CHEAP! GOOD!
AND A MONEY-MAKER!
There is a rare combination—cheap, good, and a money-maker. It is waiting for you at Somerset Acres. Just study these facts.
FACT 1, Somerset is only thirty minutes away by trolley.
FACT 2, you can buy acres at $350, some less.
FACT 3, the terms are only $10 down and $10 per month.
FACT 4, the water, and an abundance of it, is absolutely free.
FACT 5, the soil is a real rich sandy loam.
You will quickly see the possibilities when these facts are brought home to you. Get a Somerset Acre. Pay $10 cash. Put up a little home. Have a garden and some chickens. You can raise enough to supply your own table and have some to sell besides. Conditions are pleasant at Somerset. There is a good school for the children. Think how pleasant this suburban living on a whole acre will be for them, and how healthful. Work your place and you can make it pay for itself. Whatever you do with it, it will make you money if you hold it. This property will surely advance in value. Visit Somerset, then you will understand. Excursions every hour daily and up to 2 p.m. Sundays.

FOR SALE—
Acreage for Subdivision.

FOR SALE—ABSOLUTELY BEST ACREAGE BUY IN VICINITY OF LOS ANGELES. 25 acres, all good, rich, level garden land; located close to city, near electric line. Pays good interest as ranch property, and is splendid buy for that purpose; but is far more valuable as a subdivision proposition for SMALL ACRE HOMES. Other lands near this, not such good soil nor so well located, now being subdivided into ACRE HOME TRACTS and selling for more than double the price asked for this. OWNER NEEDS MONEY and is SACRIFICING to secure IMMEDIATE SALE. We can deliver this choice property, SHORT TIME ONLY, at SURPRISINGLY LOW FIGURES. Far below it's real value in the open market. Act quickly, as this is exceptionally good bargain; such as seldom offered. Investigation will prove truth of all we claim for this property. SEE US ABOUT IT IMMEDIATELY.
MODESTO LAND COMPANY.

FOR SALE—
THERE IS BIG MONEY FOR YOU

IF YOU GET A BARGAIN

IN CLOSE-IN ACREAGE.

We have several particularly choice buys of the money-making kind. Two, of modest size, are especially good, because they can be made to pay a good income if you want to hold them a while. If profits in real estate appeal to you, come in and see us while the bargains last.
LAND DEPT., E. L. HOPPER & SON,
402 Laughlin Bldg., Los Angeles.
x31 Phones—A1261, Main 211.

FOR SALE—55 LOTS IN FASTEST-GROWING suburbs; no street work; location not best; tract runs into a wash. That sounds bad, but the fact is the property is simply ideal for bungalows, and price so low that a snug fortune can be made putting lots on market or building homes. Will sell only as a whole; positively no use submitting offers on lots individually, and will make the price $120 per lot. Only $3000 cash for the entire bunch. Balance 3 years or less at 7 per cent. J. E. MACINTYRE, 1005 Union Trust Bldg. F4686. Main 4686. Might accept clear property worth $3000 as first payment. x31

FOR SALE—

FOR SALE—

"FORTUNES IN LOS ANGELES REALTY."
Southwest corner Central ave. and 33rd st. $25,750.

We have the exclusive agency on this corner, improved with two-story brick with a seven-room bungalow in the rear. We can deliver this property for $5000 less than the market value of it today.

The building is new, no vacancies, and is producing an income of $2354 per year, which is paying about 9¼ per cent. on the investment. It is the cheapest piece of income property that we know of for the money. We can sell it practically on your own terms.

WEST SEVENTH STREET.
$37,000.

We have 60 feet on West Seventh street, improved with a good substantial building producing an income of about $2900 per annum, or a net income of better than 9 per cent.

West Seventh street is due for a substantial increase in values, and we predict that within a reasonable length of time $1000 per foot will be obtained for this property. It is located east of Union ave., and is one of the most attractive income properties on the street.

GRAND AVENUE.

We have a piece of property on Grand ave. between Pico and 15th streets with a doubel frontage, which we can deliver for $14,000. The property is improved with a two-story double house. It is carrying itself very nicely, and is a good buy for a small purchaser.

$45,000.

We can deliver for a few days a three-story pressed-brick building, located on one of the principal thoroughfares of the city, bringing a net income of over 7 1-5 per cent. It will pay 8 per cent. next year. It is the cleanest piece of business property for the money we have had the pleasure to recommend in some time.

FOR SALE—

LOTS OF MONEY WILL BE MADE AROUND THE NEW POSTOFFICE.
POSTOFFICE.

It doesn't take a very wise person to figure that when you can buy property in that location at the present time, with old improvements paying 5 and 6 per cent. net on the investment, what will happen when the postoffice is opened which it is estimated, will bring into this district, 15,000 more people daily. To say nothing about the new 10-story Hall of Records and a certainty that the City Hall and other large improvements will be located there.

We are offering the best buy in this district for $27,500, with only $10,000 cash required. It has 25 feet of frontage on two streets, improved with two good brick buildings, and is in a very advantageous location. The present low rentals pay about 6 per cent. net on this price. There is no question but what this property will pay good interest on and be worth $50,000 shortly after the opening of the postoffice.

FOR SALE— BY. R. J. WIDNEY.

BUSINESS PROPERTY.

The heart of the retail shopping district
Of Greater Los Angeles
Will be on Broadway from 7th to 9th,
And on Hill st. from 8th to Pico.

Inside of 5 years we will have 500,000 population.

This will necessitate large retail stores
Of the comparative size of Hamburger's,
These large buildings must be erected
On larger space and cheaper ground values
Than can be found north of Seventh street.

Three of our largest merchants,
Hamburger's, Barker Bros., and Bullock's,
Are today in this section.

Another of our largest department stores
Is figuring for a location in this district.

Broadway from 7th to 9th
Will in two years' time
Sell at as much per front foot,
As Broadway from 5th to 7th,
Is selling at today.

The cheapest piece of Broadway property
That I know of
Is on the E. side of Broadway, bet. 8th & 9th.
73x163.
Price $2500 a front foot.

This property will, in my opinion,
Double inside of three years.

On Hill street, between 11th and 12th,
I can deliver 51 feet
At $1000 per front foot.
This is the cheapest piece of Hill street property that I know of.

I have a large list of property for sale
In that district bounded by
Seventh, Pico, Main and Figueroa streets.

If you are interested in this locality,
Would be pleased to have you call or write.

SOME VALUABLE FRONTAGES FACING AGRICULTURAL PARK.

It is a well-known fact that the State and county are to expend $500,000 in erecting artistic and substantial buildings in this park, and the city is to expend $100,000 in beautifying the same.

Don't you know that when these improvements are completed, property values will be enhanced 100 per cent.?

During the last four months we have sold nearly 1000 feet of frontage on this park.

We control and can deliver several choice frontages on what will ultimately be the most beautiful park in all Southern California, and at such prices that will yield you a handsome profit within the next few years.

Come in and talk with MR. SORELLE about this.

R. S. BASSETT.

Say, reader, what are you reading this ad for? Are you looking for an investment? Do you want something that brings in an income: with also a chance of increase? If so, we have several properties to present to you.

FOR $14,000
we can sell you a good corner within 30 minutes' ride from the business center of Los Angeles. The best corner of the four, two-story building, 4 store rooms first floor, office and living rooms above; 24 feet frontage still vacant, yet the income is $155 per month or $1860 pear year; allowing for all expenses it would still pay over 10 per cent. net. on the investment, viz., $14,000; ½ cash. We would like to tell you about this, but prefer to show it to you; we recommend it as a good buy.

NEAR BY,
we have a two-story building, 4 3-room apartments, furnished, rents $60 per month.
Lot 50x132 to another street. This property is located only 5 lots from the bank, yet we can sell the property for $4200.

FOR $9300.
We can sell you a good corner lot 15 minutes' walk from 3d and Broadway, 2 story building bringing in $100 per month. Lot has 84 ft. frontage of which only 40 feet is improved. This is both an income property and a speculation. Ask me for particulars.

FOR SALE—
BARGAINS HANDLED EXCLUSIVELY BY BUTTERBAUGH, MYREN & CO., IN ONEONTA PARK, SO. PASADENA, ALHAMBRA AND LOS ANGELES.
150 feet in Oneonta Park near Huntington Drive; this is a very deep lot, east front; price $4500; or will sell one-half.
We have other bargains close by this. A beautiful 8-room house on corner just within 1 block of station on Monrovia car line. This house is owned by non-residents who wish to sell and have reduced the price $1500. It is a first-class, modern in every respect, rented at present for $40 per month to good tenants.
Another good 7-room house, below value in good location, couldn't get a better built place, well worth $4500. On account of sickness owner will sell for $3800. It will pay you to see it.
A new corner bungalow in the most beautiful location, all four corners finely improved. House has 6 rooms, bath, screen porch, sun porch, cobblestone and cement porch in front. Living-room and dining-room have beam ceilings, bookcases, fine fireplace, buffet, as good gas fixtures as you will find in a $5000 house; hardwood floors. Bedrooms and bath white enameled, fine wardrobe built-in. Everything new, house has never been lived in. Cement retaining wall around lot. Owner is very anxious to sell and will take $3800 in a pinch. $800 cash and balance to suit. Be sure to see it.
You can ask any other agents for these properties; but they have not got them for sale.
A SNAP IN A SMALL BUNGALOW.
4 rooms, all modern, improved, and a garage on back of lot. Lot is 54x150 and close to car. Price $1600, ½ cash. We have a number of fine home places and they are all bargains. Come and see us.

FOR SALE—
SUBURBAN ACREAGE
AT THE PRICE OF ORDINARY LAND.
If you could get suburban acreage at the price of ordinary country land, wouldn't you be glad to live outside of the city a little way where your family could have the benefit of country air, so close to town that you need not deprive yourself of a single city advantage? You can do this very thing at Somerset Acres, only 30 minutes away by trolley. A full acre at Somerset will cost you $350; you can buy some acres for less. I have made the terms so easy that you can have a home of your own at a whole lot less than you would ordinarily pay for rent, $10 per acre cash and $10 monthly. I have developed water in abundance, and it's FREE at Somerset. The soil is a real rich sandy loam. Conditions are just right for oranges, nuts, vegetables, berries, melons, and many other products. No better place in all Southern California for poultry. Select an acre; pay $10 cash; start your garden; have some chickens. You can raise enough just as a side issue to pay for your place, and that without giving up your work here in town. Seeing is believing. See Somerset, then you will realize how cheap this land is today. Excursions every hour daily and up to 2 p.m. Sundays.

FOR SALE—
FIVE ACRES, FULL-BEARING WALNUTS, AT LESS THAN UNIMPROVED LAND CAN BE BOUGHT FOR IN SAME VICINITY.
I own and offer for sale 5 acres, located directly on the Venice Short Line; the cars stop at the property at a station known as Coyners, just west of the Palms, and almost opposite Clarkdale. The property lies on the north side of the car line, and on a county road. It is improved with, between 90 to 100 soft-shell walnut trees, most of which are 11 years old. The property is well suited for a suburban home, and the walnut crop will pay interest on the investment.
I will sell the entire 5 acres for $5000. I am offering this property at a less price than any other similar property in that vicinity can be purchased for, and would ask your earnest investigation as to that statement, as I will guarantee to sell this property for less money than any other similar property can be purchased for.

FOR SALE—
HOMES IN ALHAMBRA.
WHY A HOME IN ALHAMBRA?

Because it is the best city in California for families. Look at this combination; no other city in California can match it, viz.:

The purest mountain spring water. High elevation, good air.
Clean streets, well shaded; fine trees.
Low taxes, clean city government.
Fine breeze every afternoon. (No high winds.)
Scarcely ever frost or fog.
Beautiful school buildings, highest grade.
Best of superintendents and teachers money can hire.
Live newspaper, awake to Alhambra's interests.
No saloons, and "cooler" empty.
Good churches and more building.
Good clubhouse, well managed.
Choice society, settled by choice families from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore; lecturers, writers, historians, editors and musicians of the highest order.
Surely of all localities in California Alhambra leads for home and family.
The best people in the world that have traveled, and know what is good, have selected Alhambra as their home.
We have the climate, fruit and flowers; also lots, cottages, bungalows, houses, mansions, villas from $1000 to $200,000. We have the cream of Alhambra and San Gabriel property listed.
We belong to no syndicate, are independent dealers, own no subdivision, and are ready to serve you with perfect impartiality and fairness.
Our clients get our best services and experience.
We have a good California house, 5 rooms, $1000; a better one for $1800 or $2500.
Fine 2-story modern, fruits, flowers, trees, walks, for $3500, $4500 or $7500.

RANCHO LA PUENTE.

ALFALFA LAND. WALNUT LAND.
ALFALFA LAND. WALNUT LAND.

—2000 ACRES—
—2000 ACRES—
—2000 ACRES—

TWO THOUSAND ACRES OF THIS FAMOUS RANCHO HAS BEEN SURVEYED AND SUBDIVIDED INTO LOTS OF 10 ACRES AND UP, AND IS NOW OPEN FOR SALE.

This new subdivision is by all odds the best that we have ever offered to the public at any price.

We have no fear of contradiction when we say that there is no land in California that is superior to this.

The soil is a dark sediment loam, of great depth, and is free from alkali or any other objectionable features. See it and be convinced.

Sales are beyond our expectations.

Alfalfa flourishes in this fertile soil, producing easily 10 tons per acre each year.

This tract adjoins four other subdivisions that we have sold during the past few years and all of the purchasers have become independent and have comfortable homes. In nearly every case alfalfa was the source from whence their good fortune came. And it comes quickly and surely. Go out and see the beautiful homes, the thrifty walnut orchards and the waving fields of alfalfa. Then you will admit that our statements are founded on facts.

IRRIGATION.

There is an abundance and a never-failing supply of water under this land. To the north and west of this tract are scores of plants in operation, one of which pumps over 250 miner's inches of water. There is not a plant that pumps less than 150 miner's inches of water. The cost of development is very moderate. Just consider for one moment the advantages of having your own water system.

LOCATION.

It is 14 miles northeast of Los Angeles and close to the thriving towns of El Monte and Covina, and convenient to the Southern Pacific, Pacific Electric and Salt Lake R.R.s. Good roads, telephones, schools and all other conveniences.

MARKETS.

There is a good home market for all produce right on the ground; alfalfa sells in the field at not less than $10 per ton.

PRICE.

In order to close the estate this land will be sold at rock-bottom prices. It is away below what others are asking for inferior land. Improved land adjoining this tract cannot be bought for less than $500 and $600 per acre. Price $250 per acre.

Terms, one-third cash, balance payable on or before three years, interest 7 per cent. Unlimited certificate of title, by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co.

LOTS OF 10 ACRES AND UP.

THE SUB-IRRIGATED LAND.

Do you believe that it is possible to grow alfalfa, vegetables, walnuts or other produce without irrigation?

Just south of El Monte and only 12 miles east of the city we have a tract of sub-irrigated land that will grow any kind of crops without surface irrigation.

Go out and see the growing crops and be convinced.

We have about 500 acres more of this land surveyed and ready for sale. Lots of 10 acres and up. We have sold out one large tract.

If you want to take advantage of an opportunity of a lifetime, go out and secure a piece of this land; nothing more profitable for an investment or income; you will double your money in a short time.

The location is good; only 1 mile from electric cars and the thriving town of El Monte. Just 30 minutes' ride from the city.

PRICE $300 PER ACRE.

Terms, one-third cash, balance on or before 3 years. Interest 7 per cent. Unlimited certificate of title by Title Guarantee and Trust Co.

MERCED COUNTY.

3860 acres, 4 miles south of LeGrand and about 19 miles from Merced City. Borders on river, with 500 acres of bottom land, 2500 acres rich red soil, absolutely level, and remainder slightly rolling, which will cost not to exceed $10 per acre to level. Land has riparian water right. Pumping wells at 20 to 40 feet. No alkali or hardpan. Railroad station on land. For a small colonization project this tract is without question one of the best propositions now on the market. For those who are in the market for such a piece of land to see is to buy this tract, and we are prepared to guarantee its sale in small tracts at from $90 to $125 per acre. For a limited time this tract is offered at $38 per acre, on terms of one-third cash, balance long time at 4 per cent. interest. This is one of those land bargains which buyers come across at rare intervals. It will bear the strictest investigation. For further particulars, SEE

FOR SALE—

I own a suburban tract of 66 acres, on steam road, and near electric, in a thriving, growing community. It has beautiful grounds, with old shade trees, lawns, flowers, etc., and many buildings. It has an unlimited, inexhaustible water supply, which is itself worth all I am asking for the place, some 200 inches being developed, and 1000 inches could easily be developed, if wanted. About half the land is good for oranges and lemons, the balance for alfalfa, garden truck, etc., some of it grows alfalfa without irrigation. The place is fully equipped for a dairy, having milk house, large barn, with 40 stanchions, and S. P. switch on which beet pulp can be landed at a low figure. The season of the year is right now for a farmer to put in whatever kind of crop he may want, and with the expenditure of very little money this place can be made a big producer, and one of the show places of the county.

I am compelled to raise a sum of money immediately, and must sacrifice this property. To anyone who will pay cash, or half cash and half mortgage, I will make this a genuine bargain, if deal can be made this week. I have no time or inclination to bother with triflers, and prefer to deal direct with actual buyer.

If you want a beautiful, productive property, right at the gates of Los Angeles, with fine land, abundant water, and at a low figure, look this up at once.

FOR SALE—
ONE YEAR'S CROP
BUYS THE LAND.
80 PER CENT. PROFIT BESIDES.
WE DO THE WORK
FOR THREE YEARS FREE.

What do you think of $1800 income from 5 acres of land costing $1000? That's one year's crop mind you. In short, the land paid for itself, and cleared 80 per cent. profit on the purchase price. Etiwanda grape growers made this record this fall, shipping Muscat grapes to Los Angeles and the East as table grapes, at $40 per ton, raising nine tons to the acre. If you had had a vineyard, you would have been in on this. Why not get one; it's easy by our plan.

Here is a way to go about it. Select five acres of land planted to Muscat grapes or whatever variety you prefer. Pay $12½ per acre cash and $12½ per acre monthly. We will cultivate and care for your vines free of charge for three years until they come into good bearing with a full stand guaranteed. After that, take possession of your vineyard, or, if you wish, we will cultivate and care for it for three years more for 10 per cent. of its net income.

Etiwanda is only a few miles out from Los Angeles in the San Gabriel Valley. The land is level and water is piped to every five acres. Price $300 to $360 an acre on the above easy terms. You will enjoy a trip to Etiwanda. Take it. See this fine property. Get all the details. Excursions daily.

FOR SALE—4700-ACRE RANCH. ONE OF the best propositions for making money that is now offered in the STATE. It is 4 miles south of R.R. station, at Escondido, on main county road, leading to San Diego. Has double frontage on said road, 4½ miles, with plenty of living water in river, and numerous springs. Has a frontage on the San Bernardino River over 3 miles. There is about 3500 acres of tillable land, suitable for any kind of crop, including every variety of fruit, oranges, lemons, grapes, etc. It is especially adapted to the growth of the EUCALYPTUS tree. There is about 250 acres of level river-bottom land, which could be irrigated by gravity ditch from river, and sown to alfalfa. A good ranch for colony, as it would cut up in fine shape. It also has all the elements to make an ideal stock, grain and dairy farm combined. Improvements nominal; no fencing. Price $20 per acre. ONE-THIRD CASH, balance TERMS. For further particulars, call or write O. L. STEVENS & CO., 508 Mason Bldg. x31

Here is your chance to get that self-supporting country home you have been thinking about; only 10 miles from Los Angeles, within easy driving distance, a home among the oranges above the frost, and one of the most beautiful situations in all Southern California. Of course this won't be "country" for many years. There will be a demand for your property before long for building lots; the city is growing this way. Street railways will soon arrive. Orange Cove is located where big developments are coming.

This is true orange land, although the price is very low, and the water goes with the land, 388,800 gallons of water for every 5 acres every thirty days. The soil is a rich alluvial silt. You get a share of water stock with every acre you buy. The land is well adapted to fruits, vegetables, and general truck farming, as well as to oranges. The great Los Angeles markets are only a few miles away.

Come in and get my free art folder. Learn all there is to learn about Orange Cove, then see it. If you are keen on values, you will buy five acres or more.

FOR SALE—
"SUNNY" STANISLAUS.
(No. 2.)

STANISLAUS COUNTY has become famous as a dairy county and ranks first in the State for her dairy products. This district is attracting dairymen from all parts of the country and they are bringing fine herds with them. Inquiry at the creamery demonstrates that each good cow will net its owner ten dollars per month. It is estimated that the creameries in the Modesto-Turlock Irrigation Districts are paying annually to their patrons in excess of $1,000,000. There is now in the neighborhood of 60,000 acres in alfalfa, yielding an average of eight tons to the acre per year, and as the market for all dairy products has been and is good, the men who have engaged in this industry receive handsome returns. There is room for thousands more and a sure market for all possible products. You can get some of this land now. Why not buy a farm and be independent? Write to the Stanislaus Board or Trade, MODESTO, CAL., or better still, come and see for yourself. *

COACHELLA VALLEY—

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—

YOU ARE LOOKING FOR A HOME or an investment, and want all the advantages that can be found in any one locality. Look at Coachella Valley. For raising fruits, vegetables, live stock, poultry and alfalfa this valley cannot be surpassed (and probably not equaled) in California. Oranges are now ripe and ready for the holiday trade. Alfalfa furnishes ten cuttings and 12 tons per acre per year and is netting the rancher $100 per acre this year.

To see this valley is to see your opportunity.

We have for sale or exchange some special bargains in unimproved, partially improved and highly improved ranches, from 10 to 320 acres. Also a few very choice relinquishments very cheap if taken at once. We have photographs, maps, etc., and know every foot of this valley. We can make you money. Call at this office and let us talk the matter over together.

FOR SALE—
FRANK WHEELER.
ORANGE GROVE HEADQUARTERS,
CLAREMONT.

Orange grove bargains in the beautiful foothill country of Claremont, Upland, La Verne and San Dimas. This 10-mile district of superior groves offers advantages not to be found in any other one locality in Southern California.

Close proximity to the great mountains affords at once—MAGNIFICENT SCENERY, AN ALTITUDE MOST PERFECTLY ADAPTED TO THE GENERAL HEALTH OF THE HOMESEEKER. A SAFEGUARD FOREVER AGAINST THE FROSTS AND WINDS OF THE LOWER LEVELS, and a GIGANTIC WATERSHED NEVER FAILING IN SUPPLY.

This ideal home section furthermore offers the advantages here at Claremont, of POMONA COLLEGE, which leads pre-eminently among institutions of this character west of the Rocky Mountains.

WHERE ELSE ARE LIKE ADVANTAGES OFFERED TO THE ORANGE GROWER and HOMESEEKER?

We are constantly listing the best buys in the market, and offer the following for the coming week. These are real bargains which we expect to move quickly. Now is the time to buy, while crops are included.

10 acres—$12,000. 990 navel trees, 8 years old. This is a really good grove. Has a 4-room house. $3000 will handle this proposition. Owner will take in trade good home up to $4000, balance $1000 per year. Act quickly, this is a rare snap.

10 acres—$18,000, with attractive 5-room bungalow, new and modern. Windmill, cistern, etc. The trees are 12 years old, all navels, and are now carrying a crop of 6000 boxes. This is one of the very best groves, and considering the valuable improvements and the heavy crop included, the price is very low. If you wish the best at sacrifice figures, see this.

10 acres—$13,500. 7 acres, half Valencias and half navels, full bearing, 1 acre bloods, full bearing, 2 acres Valencia buds in bearing, and an extra street row of young navels. Last year's crop was 2234 boxes, this year's will be a better one. Four-room cottage and large barn.

10 acres—$9000. A rare snap. Full bearing navels and a good grove. Nothing like this on the market. Water right alone is worth $3000. Close in and a four-room house. Owner is moving away, and desires a quick sale. This is a good grove.

20 acres—$28,000. A beautiful corner on Euclid ave., Upland. A magnificent grove, 9 acres navels, 7 acres Valencias, 3 acres lemons, and 1 acre tangerines. There is a small ranch house on this property, and this corner is one of the finest home sites in Southern California. A neighborhood of beautiful homes and splendid groves. The electric cars pass this orchard, and the new road work is paid for and well under way, which will make this avenue from the valley to the mountains the finest in the south. The water right with this ranch is worth $6000. The grove produced last season over 8000 boxes; crop this year should be as good. This 's unquestionably the best buy in the Upland district.

10 acres—$15,000. 6 acres lemons, full bearing, 3 acres Valencias in bearing, and one acre navels, fine large uniform trees. Lemon groves are now in great demand, owing to the increase in the tariff. This 10-acre grove is one of the very best in this district; is in fine condition and shows an unusually large crop for the coming season, as an investment this is worthy of the closest investigation, and bound to attract.

5 acres—$9000. Half Valencias and half navels in bearing, good locality and a grove which has had the very best of care, the owner being one of the best known and leading orchardists in this section, and now closing out all his interests. There is a large barn on this ranch, and the location makes the property an excellent site for a home.

5 acres—$8000. Half lemons and half navels, all in full bearing. Located in one of the best neighborhoods in Upland, a district unsurpassed for its lemons as well as oranges. This is well worth the money.

5 acres—$8000. All navels, large uniform full bearing trees. Five-room house and barn. The owner of this grove needs money for other interests, and must sell. The home has all the modern conveniences.

6 acres—$4500. All lemons, near San Dimas, and a good investment.

We have several attractive propositions in large groves and foothill ranch properties, to which we would call the attention of the large investor if interested.

ARE YOU A HOMESEEKER, AND LOOKING FOR AN IDEAL COUNTRY HOME?

If so, we have three of the best in Southern California to offer you, homes amid beautiful surroundings, and at prices that will attract. Do not miss seeing them.

NINE AND QUARTER ACRES, COVINA, CAL.
Two-thirds Valencias and one-third navels, all young trees. Under the Azusa irrigating system. Fine 7-room house, bath, etc., and cement walks. This property is located near the car line, and is a good buy for somebody. Price $9000. Terms half cash.

TEN ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
All planted to young walnuts and improved with a 3-room California bungalow and a barn, which are practically new. Has the best of soil and water rights in the San Gabriel Valley. The following price includes team, implements, furniture, turkeys, chickens, in fact everything on the ranch. The owner has reduced the price in order to move it quickly. Vacant land in this district in selling for $250 an acre, without water stock. Price for a few days $4750. Easy terms.

TEN ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
One of the finest young Valencias ranches in Southern California. The crop this year was over $3000. Price is cheaper than any ranch in the district by $4500. Price $15,500.

TEN ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
Right in town. Located on the electric line and planted to half navels and half lemons, 16 years old. Trees in excellent condition. The income has run as high as $5000 a year. This property is not only a good investment, but is ripe for subdivision. Price $17,000. $6000 cash and the balance easy.

TEN ACRES, SUNNY SLOPE, CALIF.
The best ranch along the Monrovia electric. In the district where people are buying fine country homes. Vacant land around this property is sold for more than the price of this improved piece. Trees are all in healthy condition, having been well fertilized and fumigated this year. Planted to half navels and half Valencias 6 to 10 years old. Crop on the trees is worth $2000 to $2500 and will increase as trees grow older. Has a double water-right in the Sunny Slope Water Company, costing one cent per inch. Price $15,000. Half cash.

TWENTY ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
Set solid to 12-year-old navel trees. Crop sold on the trees last year for $4500. Located near the packing house and station, on a double clean corner. Price $22,000. Terms half cash.

TWENTY ACRES, RIVERSIDE, CALIF.
Located along the famous Victoria Drive. 9 acres Washington navels, 12 years old, 6 acres Thompson improved navels, 12 years old and 5 acres Valencia buds, 4 years old. Crop this year over, $6000 net, and has for the coming year the heaviest crop in the Riverside district. This property is situated on a little knoll and has 2058 trees. The ranch situated as it is, is absolutely free from frost and is only irrigated every 60 days. Water cost last year $102 for the season. Price of this property is absolutely $15,000 under the market value. Owner is a non-resident and cannot look after the property the way he should and needs the money for his other interests. Improved with a 3-room California house and barn. Price $26,000.

TWENTY ACRES, WHITTIER, CALIF.
The cream of the young Valencia ranches. Absolutely one of the finest young ranches near the east Whittier district, which is the finest orange district around Whittier. Water cost $20 per irrigation. Price $25,000. Easy terms.

TWENTY-SIX ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
Here is a snap for some one. Navels, Valencias and lemons full bearing. Located within a quarter of mile of the car line. 80 shares of Covina water stock with this ranch and the crop is worth $4500 at the least. Price $25,000. Terms $10,000 cash and the balance at 6 per cent. to suit.

THIRTY ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
Lemons, Valencias and navels, nearly all full bearing. Improved with a 6-room modern bungalow, which is practically new, costing the owner $3200 to build. Also a 2-room servants' house, barn, team, implements, gas plant, tank and power house, etc.; go with the ranch. This ranch is located between Glendora and Covina and will be worth $35,000 inside of a couple of years. Price $25,000.

FORTY ACRES, COVINA, CALIF.
25 acres in navels and Valencias and the balance vacant land. This is one of the finest young ranches in the San Gabriel Valley. Income this year will run about $6500, and will increase rapidly as the trees are only 6 years old at the present time. Price $35,000. Easy terms.

The above ranches are all as represented and have been inspected by us, and we can guarantee the prices asked are not inflated. We handle nothing but country property and assure you that a day spent with us in the country will be well spent.

CLOSE-IN ORANGE LAND WITH WATER,
$300 PER ACRE UP.
ONLY 10 MILES FROM THE CITY OR 35 MINUTES FROM MY OFFICE.
$5 PER ACRE CASH AND $5 PER ACRE MONTHLY.

What! Orange land, and close-in orange land, at a price lower than that asked for ordinary suburban acreage! Yes. And the water goes with the land. For your own good study this proposition—go to the bottom of it.

ORANGE COVE is only ten miles from Los Angeles, thirty-five minutes from my office. It is located in the fast-developing section, where acreage will be in demand for building lots within a few years. The soil is an alluvial silt, washed down from the mountains. The water goes with the land, a share of water stock with every acre. An allowance of 388,800 gallons for every five acres every thirty days. The elevation is above the frost. Protected by surrounding foothills. And the land is just as well adapted to vegetables, fruits and general truck farming as to oranges.

If you are an orange grower or truck farmer, you will quickly see the advantages of this property. If you want a country home, here is one that can be made self-supporting. Within easy driving distance of Los Angeles. Think this over. Then see me. Excursions to Orange Cove daily.

FOR SALE—ORANGE AND LEMON GROVE.
Locations, San Dimas and La Verne; no better districts; none more free from frost and wind. Do you know that the best and highest priced groves are the cheapest and best to invest your money in? We ourselves are now and have been for 24 years, orange growers in Southern California. We advise prospective buyers at all time is to buy the best and continue to have thebest. This is the whole secret in making money in the orange or lemon business. As a rule the orange groves you see advertised for sale as SNAPS, by men who hardly know an orange tree from a weeping willow; such groves are not the best to buy; if money making and success is the motive of the buyer. We, of course, carry a full line of orange and lemon groves in our business, and always have some so-called SNAPS, which we sometimes refer to as our side shows. Consult with any successful orange grower and you will find his groves are not SNAPS but the real thing. Don't forget our office.

FOR SALE—
BARGAIN ORANGE LAND, ON THERMAL HEIGHTS.

Acknowledged by all as the orange district of the valley. This land is located in the high frostless belt and only one mile from town. Plenty of water and with a beautiful view of every town in valley and the Salton Sea. Soil suitable for the immediate growth of oranges or other fruits. Absolutely no salt or alkali. Have just sold one tract. New owner will plant to oranges and build home at once. My own improvements in the way of pipe lines and oranges on the land which I am holding myself, will more than double the rest of the tract within a few years. I will agree to plant and take care of grove for buyer. This tract will rival Smiley Heights of Redlands for winter homes.

FOR SALE—FURNITURE.
COLYEAR'S,
509-511 S. Main St.
(Where Bargains Reign.)

Were you among the happy crowd that visited our second floor of SLIGHTLY USED furniture last week? Monday commences another week of bargains.

By purchasing SLIGHTLY USED furniture from us you not only save about half, but when you should wish to dispose of your furniture you get a reasonable price.

Then again Colyear's EASY PAYMENT plan has enabled thousands of people to take advantage in starting a home—a little at a time—a dollar or so a week will do.

You get the very best assortment of SLIGHTLY USED furniture in the city to select from. Our entire second floor is crowded with everything in the housekeeping line.

If you will give us a call our salesmen will be pleased to show you through whether you buy or not.

We want you to get acquainted with our stock and methods of doing business and once a customer you will always be one if prices count for anything.

We shall offer special bargains during the coming week of SLIGHTLY USED bedroom sets, folding beds, iron beds, odd dressers, commodes, buffets, sideboards, china closets, bookcases, hall trees, wardrobes, mirrors, upholstered and bamboo goods, couches, rockers, chairs, stoves, carpets, rugs, and everything pertaining to the household.

Our exchange department is growing right along. It enables you to trade in your furniture that you have no use for, at a reasonable valuation towards new goods. We have seven floors of new furniture from all the leading factories and our advantage of purchasing in carload lots and having our own warehouses and vans, enables us to DEFY COMPETITION.

QUICK LOANS. QUICK LOANS.
You can borrow any amount you wish from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, horses, wagons, cattle, etc. The property to remain undisturbed in your possession. You can get the money the day you make application and with no publicity. Loans can be paid back in any installments that suit the borrower and each payment so made will lessen the cost of the loan. There are no restrictions on your moving when you wish. No charges of any kind taken out in advance. You receive the full amount of the loan in cash. If you have a loan elsewhere or you owe a balance on your furniture, piano, or any other security, call and see us and get our terms. We will pay it up and carry it as long as you wish. Please remember that we make no inquiries of your neighbors or employer. Private offices. If you are unable to call to the office, telephone us and we shall send our agent out to your home.

CAPITAL WANTED—
We have the safest industrial proposition on this coast.
There is a TREMENDOUS DEMAND for first-class touring AUTOMOBILES, runabouts, etc. Also a growing demand for heavy trucks. We have designs and completed details for the best car the world has ever seen. A few specifications are globular explosion chamber, long stroke, high compression, engine mounted on subframe, all parts interchangeable, power plants, are interchangeable, break all 4 wheels, 6 and 4-cylinders, four speed gear, direct drive on third. We cannot fully describe the advantages of this machine on a whole page. The engineer has studied in Europe and has combined the best points of the best machines. The best factories in the east are enlarging their capital and plants, and are paying from 18 to 40 per cent. per annum on the investment. We have here a better field, a better machine and less competition.
Come in and get full details.

WANTED—WE HAVE A CLIENT WHO has $5000 cash and is worth $50,000 in miscellaneous property. He does not care to have his identity made public, and asks us to get him in touch with some one who wishes to sell a legitimate, substantial business at attractive price and terms. Future possibilities will count as much as present profits in influencing him. But price must be right and business must be open for expert investigation from every standpoint. No mines, flying machines or "up-in-the-clouds" propositions will be considered for an instant. We will accept no commission on this deal, and hence seek lowest rock-bottom price. Interviews will be held in strictest confidence. The MACINTYRE CO., 300½ Union Trust Bldg. F4696, Main 4696. x31

FOR SALE — PRINCIPALS ONLY—NO agents. Advertiser being obliged to give up work on account of sickness, will sell a controlling interest in a well-established and paying business. Said business is the only concern of the kind on this Coast; produces all goods sold, and has never been able to supply the full demand. It will take a good, honest, wide-awake man with $11,000 or $12,000 to handle it, and the "buy" will be something tangible—not hot air or something "on paper;" not a speculative business, but a sure, reasonably profitable absolutely safe investment, with the opportunity of pushing the business up to a big volume if you wish. Give some particulars of yourself, please. Address N, box 180, TIMES OFFICE. x*

$100 $100
We want 25 live men to invest $100 each in a meritorious proposition, money used to promote enterprise, amount invested returned to you in about three months, your bonus will net you at least $1250 or more each, in less than a year. Your $100 is payable to the Southern Trust Co., and put in escrow until 25 subscribers are secured. A splendid opportunity for the man with a small amount of money. Positively honorable, absolutely safe, first come, first served, call for full particulars at 440 BRADBURY BLDG. 31

FOR SALE—MANUFACTURING BUSINESS paying $125 to $150 per month, four months' orders booked ahead now and business growing every month, will require about two thousand dollars to handle it, stock will be invoiced at cost. RICHES HERE.

MARVELS OF NEW COALINGA, WORLD'S GREATEST OIL FIELD.

Town Where the Price of Real Estate Has Doubled in a Year—Newcomrs Pouring in at a Rate That Keeps the Hotels Full—Story of the Extension of the Oil Zone—The Promise.

COALINGA is simply booming. During the past year it has made very rapid advances. Many new business blocks and dozens of cottages have been erected; and instead of the usual frame structures found in so many frontier towns, stone, brick and reinforced concrete are used, and the buildings are a credit to any city. Coalinga has good schools, numerous churches, two large department stores, hotels and rooming-houses, two banks, a dozen or more supply houses, each carrying immense stocks; gas and electric light plants, machine shops, boiler works, etc., etc. The mercantile lines are well represented, and the merchants, as a rule, are enterprising and up-to-date. But, as in every town that has had business crowded upon it, you will find some not able to keep up with the procession. They prefer the old stage-coach days. They tell you: "We have more business than we can do; the town is growing too fast; rents are too high; we have more people here than we can house, etc." Coalinga men and women generally are alive to the situation; are reaching out for all the legitimate business in sight, and will stay with the game and play a winning hand.

The price of real estate is more than double what it was a year ago, and the top has not yet been reached. As an instance of the manner in which business is done here, the writer was a witness to a transaction in a real estate way that was really novel.

Coalinga, Greatest of Oil Districts.

Two gentlemen, strangers, arrived on the night train. They wanted to invest in a lot, and at once sought an agent. He was found, and in the moonlight, the quartette of gentlemen examined the property, for which the agent asked $1500. The location was satisfactory, and on returning to the office a deposit of $200 was made. The strangers were compelled to leave on the early morning train, which they did, stating that in a few days they would return, make the final payment on the lot, and at once begin the erection of a building and put in a stock of general merchandise.

Even during the past few months many industries and enterprises have been added to the city's business, and others are preparing to do so as soon as the necessary location can be secured and their stocks received. The population of the city is now about [illegible], but with the oil district tributary, there are about 8000 people who obtain their supplies and subsistance from the city. It may be safe to say that before the close of the year 1910, no less than double that number will be counted as residents of Coalinga. Until last week, the only purveyor of the news of the city and district was a weekly newspaper. Now there are two dailies, each printed on eight pages. The business accorded them is such as to encourage them to add all the paraphernalia required in the publication of a modern newspaper.

Among the citizens who have contributed much to the upbuilding of Coalinga are C. A. Murdock, H. C. Kerr, Aeire Auger, C. L. Merrill, E. R. Walker, O. E. Norvell, E. M. Burlingham, L. Lukens, William H. Feureman, A. J. Beecher, L. R. McCallam, W. G. Gulberson, D. P. Walsh, L. C. Mayhew, F. N. Thompson, E. Wilson, J. G. Phelps, Mrs. E. A. Cherrie, John J. Shoo, W. R. Gulberson, W. A. Greer, T. J. Crumpton, I. W. Fugua, S. J. Hardison, R. H. Fraser, A. A. Baker, Chester Elliot, W. T. Zimmer, A. S. Blair, James A. Ward, Andy Ferguson, H. Henshaw, W. S. Fisher, Charles G. Storie, R. D. Smith, D. M. Speed, Pierce Evans, S. R. Bohen.

Originally, Coalinga was a sheep and cattle grazing ground, and being situated in the west side of the San Joaquin Valley, and surounded by ranges of low hills, was desirable for its equable climate during the winter. The summers were very hot, there being but little moisture, and none but the most venturesome spirits visited the district.

DISCOVERY OF OIL.

It was in 1892 when Messrs. Rowland and Lacy, two Los Angeles gentlemen, came here and began drilling for oil. Their process was crude, but they kept steadily at work, sinking four or five wells, which had a capacity of a few barrels daily. Not finding what they wanted, but demonstrating that oil existed in the district, they abandoned the field, never returning to the district to prosecute their work or protect their claims.

Nothing further was done in the way of prospecting until 1895. During that year, Capt. Frank Barrett organized the Producers' and Consumers' Oil Company, and began operating on Section 20, 19-15. Capt. Small of Stockton put down a well for the company, which proved to be a failure. The company, however, did not become discouraged. They believed that oil in paying quantities existed here, and they were willing to exploit the territory to the limit of their means. They made a contract with Messrs. Hendrickson and Henage of Los Angeles, and in due time two more wells were sunk, which yielded better than any of the other wells discovered up to that time, the wells flowing between twenty-five and sixty-five barrels daily, which encouraged the operators very much.

It was about this time that Chanslor and Canfield, experienced drillers, became interested in the district. They secured a tract on Section 20, 19-15, and sent a hole down 980 feet, at which point they encountered the oil. This well developed into a flow of 200 barrels daily, and was the first big one discovered in the Coalinga district; and as it was 35-degree gravity, it demonstrated that the Coalinga product was just what was needed for fuel.

Soon after, C. C. Spinx and associates of Los Angeles came to Coalinga and secured acreage on Section 22, 19-15. The prospectors found their oil in this section near the surface, which yielded lower gravities. They were satisfied with their product for some time, when they concluded to sink the drill deeper. At the greater depth, richer sands were encountered, and the production increased wonderfully.

The next section entered was 31, 19-15, where oil in greater quantities than ever before discovered, was made. It may be said that it was the discovery of oil in Section 31 which started the growth of Coalinga as an oil producer.

STEADY GROWTH.

From the date of the discovery of a good producer in Section 31, the growth of the oil industry in this district has been something phenomenal. From a half-dozen derricks to be seen a short distance from the townsite, hundreds are now visible, while the number of wells producing petroleum has increased wonderfully and rapidly.

There are today more than 500 wells producing oil in the Coalinga district, and the quantity of oil yielded to swell the world's supply is greater than is produced by any district in the world. This is borne out by the compilations for September, which show that Coalinga district alone produced the great quantity of 1,350,000 barrels—more by 200,000 barrels than was produced by any other district in California or in the entire western oil-producing world.

The table shows the State possesses fifteen oil producers, and their combined output for the month of September aggregated 4,807,950 barrels, and that from about 2000 wells.

ONE GREAT GUSHER.

Among all the wells which have been brought to perfection, only one can be referred to as being what in oil parlance is referred to as a gusher. That well is the Silver Tip, and is located on Section 6. This Section 6 was considered wild-cat ground, and the promoters and those who purchased stock in the company were hooted at and looked upon as fit subjects for Patten.

But the company kept right along drilling, despite the jeerings they were subjected to, and the difficulty they experienced in geting capital interested in the project. Finally, the drill encountered the oil-bearing sand, the water was shut off, and soon the oil came to the surface. On September 9, when the drill was removed from the casing, the oil came up in tremendous quantities, or, in other words, the Silver Tip was a gusher, the crude oil being thrown nearly 200 feet into the air, far above the top of the derrick. Efforts were made to cap the casing, but several days elapsed before it was accomplished.

Now the story is different, and the company's stock can hardly be secured, as the great bulk of it is held by residents of Coalinga, men who had confidence in the district, and who believed that the strata of oil surely was to be found closer in than had been demonstrated—the Silver Tip being only about one-half mile southwest of the limits of the city, on Section 6.

On this same section, two other wells have, within the past few days, entered the oil-bearing sand, and the owners expect to soon show other gushers.

With the discovery of oil on Section 6, and almost within a stone's throw from the city, a new impetus will surely be given the business interests of the city. Already strangers seeking investment in the oil business or who desire to enter into commercial pursuits, are coming to Coalinga on every train, and the hotels and lodging-houses are filled every night to their capacities. This has caused a demand for carpenters, and the song of the saw is heard in many sections of the city.

LARGE FREIGHT TRAFFIC.

It was in 1876, when the Southern Pacific built a branch line from Goshen to this place, which then was unknown except as a grazing ground. The intention of the company was to extend itself over the range and into Monterey county, finding a terminus in some city on the coast. After reaching Alcalde, work was stopped and that hamlet has remained the end of the track ever since. Coalinga was not on the map for several years. There was nothing here to demand the attention of any one seeking investment for their money or in quest of a home.

As soon as oil was discovered, there came a change. Coalinga became the supply point for the oil wells, and the business accorded the company has been something wonderful. As indicative of the demands on the railroad company, it may be stated that last year the sum received from its freight business alone amounted to $80,000. This year, so far, the receipts have reached the amazing sum of $160,000, double that for the previous year.

This freight traffic has not been confined wholly to the hauling of heavy machinery for the wells. Business here has increased wonderfully, until the city now stands as the fourth city in the State in the furnishing of revenue to the railroad company. The yards of the railroad in this city have been expanded many times in order to meet the demands upon the trackage, and the company is contemplating the removal of its freight depot a few hundred feet from its present location, where it can have more ground for its passenger depot.

ABOUT THE OIL GAME.

In the first place, the one who desires to enter the game must be supplied with an abundance of capital. By an abundance of capital is meant at least $10,000 for the requisite machinery and tools, the erection of a derrick and many other minor details which must be taken into consideration before spudding in.

When the work actually begins, then begins a continual outlay of money, and the operator who runs shy of funds meets with grief. But the game is worth the candle, as the returns are rapid after the well begins to flow, even if it be from a depth of a couple of thousand feet.

Investment in oil stocks has proven to be far safer than an investment in mining stocks. This fact is being demonstrated every day by the announcements of dividends by various companies. And so far, while the per centage may not be so great as in mining, the dividends are made more frequently, and encourage the investor.

The recent coming to Coalinga of several promoters bodes good. Some of the newcomers are members of the stock boards in San Francisco or Los Angeles, and have already begun discussing the feasibility of establishing in this city an exchange for the handling of stocks of this and other districts.

It is a matter of history that oil has proven the greatest money-maker of all the minerals. Most of the colossal fortunes have been made from oil, and the end is not in sight. Coalinga has contributed the greatest amount of any district in California, and the district is just beginning to be known. Its future is promising, and an extension of the now known oil area will be made as rapidly as the drills can be made to reach the oil-bearing sands.

Capital is coming in here every day, and it looks very much as though the coming few months will witness the development of many more districts and the opening of new territories not previously considered to be in the oil zone. I nother words, Coalinga is just beginning.

PROSPERITY.

COVETED GOAL IS ATTAINED.

MILLION MARK IN PERMITS LEFT BEHIND.

Construction Items for October Number in Excess of Nine Hundred and Represent a Valuation of Nearly Twelve Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The really significant story told by the report for October of the Chief Inspector of Buildings covering the city's building activities is not revealed in the totals of permits and valuation alone, flattering as these figures are. In the $1,171,956 in permits for the month just closed there is not a single big "freak" item to expand the total. The money represents for the most part construction activities in the residence districts. In this kind of building development Los Angeles is probably the busiest city in the country.

Altogether 913 permits were issued by the department during the monthly period just closed, as compared with 749 permits for the corresponding time last year. The gain in valuation over October, 1908, is about $170,000. Had two or three pending permits for business blocks been filed last week the total would have been comfortably in excess of a million and a half. It is altogether likely that the figures for November will be of record-breaking character as a result of the taking out during the month, of some of the coming big construction permits.

Following is the classified report and the report by wards:

	Permits.	Valuation.
Class A, steel frame	1	$ 10,000
Class C	27	161,080
Class D, 1 story	365	471,171

Industrial Independence.

UNIONISM MUST BE JUDGED BY ITS VISIBLE INFLUENCE UPON ITS MEMBERS.

DYNAMITE AS AN ARGUMENT.

The news dispatches one day last week contained accounts of four attempts to wreck property by dynamite, one strike riot, and one shooting event in connection with the efforts of unionists to enforce their demands for union shop conditions. These "arguments" have become so common that whenever a strike occurs the municipal authorities at once prepare for the suppression of violence. Boycotts, whether great or small, are invariably accompanied by violence. The unwritten creed of unionism contains this kind of argument as an ultimate essential of its existence. Unionism must be promoted violently, to prove the need of bowing to the demands of this destructive industrial element.

At Indianapolis last Sunday four different buildings were wrecked by dynamite because the contractor employed non-union labor. One of these was the stable of the contractor, two of his horses being blown to pieces by the explosion. One of the events was a riot by women who attacked other women for exercising their right to work for whom they pleased. Another was the shooting of a man and the consequent arrest of a number of striking pie-bakers at New York.

Here in Los Angeles a man who was viciously assaulted by a unionite because he started to buy a ticket of admission to a theater declared "unfair" by a union.

The union label contains a pair of clasped hands. Events indicate that it should contain sticks of dynamite, clubs, and revolvers as more typical of union methods.

The oath to which unionists subscribe places the union over and above the allegiance and obligation a man owes to his family and to his duties of citizenship. The oath contains this clause:

"That my fidelity to the union and my duty to the members thereof, shall in no sense be interfered with by any allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political, or religious, secret or otherwise."

There have been instances where union men, summoned to serve upon a jury, have openly and brazenly stated that they could not find the defendant guilty, no matter what the evidence might be, because their obligation as union men would require them, irrespective of any other considerations, to [illegible] verdict of not guilty.

With such union obligations and such a disposition to place the union above the law, the issue becomes a struggle between law and lawlessness. Every person, therefore, who believes in equal right, the enforcement of law, and the observance of the obligations of citizenship, must oppose the union movement. Workingmen should not allow themselves to be coerced into joining a labor union. President Taft when in Chicago a few days ago took occasion to say that "the right of workingmen to labor for such wages as they choose to accept is sacred, and any lawless invasion of that right cannot be too severely condemned. All advantages of trade unionism cannot weigh a feather in the scale against the right of any man lawfully seeking employment to work for whom and at what price he will."

Business men must follow the example of the men of Omaha who, by standing together against every demand of unionists, have caused every strike started in that city to be quickly terminated with loss to union prestige. Only by such action can the stamp of disapproval be placed upon the lawlessness that accompanies unionism.

The Third Party in Strikes.

The Boston Herald, referring to the recent strike of the employés of the Pressed Steel Car Company at McKees Rocks, Pa., suggests that the public has rights that should be protected in such events. It says:

"The public is a party at interest in every important labor controversy. As in the case of the Pressed Steel Car strike, the public often is required to maintain an increased police force during the trouble for the adequate protection of property. It may be liable for any damage done to property growing out of the strike. It may, if the strike is long continued, be compelled to bear a part of the burden by increased demands on its charitable and relief services. It may suffer from lack of adequate service or supply, as in the case of the recent street railway strike in Philadelphia, or in the historic strike of the coal miners. Public interest in controversies affecting the public service and the supply of necessities of life generally is recognized. Public opinion has sanctioned executive interference in such troubles, and legislative interference by processes of compulsory arbitration has been held to be in accord with sound principles of law, the rights of individuals being held to be subject in some measure to the rights of society.

"It has been estimated that the strike at McKees Rocks cost $60,000 a day. This is not and cannot be merely an aggregate of individual losses. The community suffers, directly and indirectly. An earning capacity of over $10,000 a day is destroyed by the strike. This means the destruction of a like purchasing capacity. Trade suffers directly by the check. The productive capacity of the manufacturing plant is destroyed. Commerce and industry suffer because of it. The public is interested in these disturbances of its life.

"The city of Brockton is suffering because of conflict between certain labor organizations and a single manufacturer. Whatever is to be said of the justice or injustice of the controversy, it concerned a single manufacturer and his employés. By reason of that dispute the interests of the entire city have been jeopardized. Other manufacturers have felt the effect. The city has lost business and population. Real estate and general trade have suffered in consequence. Has the public interest in Brockton no recourse for self-protection? Lynn and Haverhill are threatened by strikes, which may spread so that they will have a wide effect on industry and general business. Has the public interest no right to protect itself by preventing these strikes? A difficult problem in law is presented in seeking to recognize both the public and the individual right, so often in seeming conflict. But under all law the individual has to yield for the general welfare, and it is not unreasonable to expect that the mutuality of interest and right may be discovered in industrial matters. This is the most serious problem of industrial law. The third party in the industrial situation sooner or later will insist on its rights."

The Demand for the Open Shop.

Why this increased demand for the open shop? The more noticeable, more impressive since the period of depression just passed. All over the country, in all lines of business and manufacture, employers are calling for it.

In New York, one of the longest-drawn-out struggles for the open shop is being waged between the hat manufacturers and their union employés. On the Great Lakes, the organized workers are carrying on a struggle against the open shop, which has resulted in incalculable loss to all concerned. There are strikes on 400 buildings in Brooklyn. Fifteen thousand bakers have struck in New York City. Twenty-five thousand excavators and rock men have made demands in the West, and there is likelihood of a refusal of agreement. Seventy thousand garment workers are preparing for a strike this month if their demands for a closed shop agreement are not complied with. All the machinists on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad system are on strike to abolish the piece work method of wages and that railroad company is engaged in a determined effort to establish the open shop on its lines. The street railway strikes in various cities, Philadelphia, Evansville, Ind., Pittsfield, Mass., Pittsburgh, Pa., were efforts for the open shop. The protracted struggle of the Structural Iron Workers' Organization, which is still on, against the open shop propaganda on their line of work has made labor history for the past three or four years. And now comes the move of the gigantic organization of tin mill workers against the proposed establishment of the open shop by the tin mills.

Why all of this unrest, especially during a period when business has not been anywhere near the standard? What is there wrong in our industrial conditions which is forcing the American employer and business man to give up the trades-union agreement? And what, if anything, is there really in the open shop that places it above the trade-union agreement?

It appears to be nearly as much a demand from the public for the open shop, which in turn has prompted these employers to strive for it, as the cry from the employing classes themselves. The manipulation of Sam Parks and Philip Weinseimer of the Building Trades Unions of New York, of Abe Ruef of San Francisco, of "Skinny" Madden of the Chicago Building Trades Unions, of Cornelius Shea of the International Teamsters' Union; the violence incident to every street-car strike, the dynamiting, maiming, acid throwing, the holding up of funerals, and other forms of rioting attendant upon so many of our strikes, to say nothing of the secondary boycott, which resulted in the sentencing of the foremost labor leaders, Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison, to jail; the many closed shop trade-union agreements, which exclude non-members of trade organizations; the limitations of apprentices, as, for instance, in the bricklaying trade and foundry industry, which has caused a dearth of mechanics; restrictions as to the use of tools and machinery, as in the recent potery strike at Sebring, O.; the sympathetic strike; all this has been telling on the public mind, and there has begun a wave from one part of the country to the other, prompting the American employer and business man to call for the open shop.—[American Industries.

CALIFORNIA DAIRY PROFITS.

Three years ago last winter W. H. Ginn purchased 160 acres of land near Corcoran and began to seed to alfalfa, with a view to engaging in the dairy business. He subsequently bought eighty acres more, giving him 240 acres, all but ten acres of which is now planted to alfalfa. He has compiled the following report, which gives a fairly accurate idea of what a man with limited means can accomplish in a short time:

June, 1909, number of cows milked, 40; cream check, $364.50.

July, number of cows milked, 43; cream check, $382.

August, number of cows milked, 48; cream check, $397.50.

September, number of cows milked, 51; cream check, $392.50.

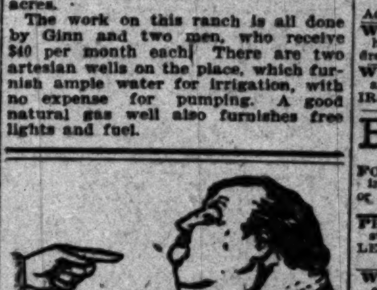
Total amount cream checks, four months, $1536.

Average cream check per month, $379.

This insures an income of at least $4500 per year for cream alone. He expects to increase his herd to 100 head.

But this is not the total income from this ranch, by any means. Mr. Ginn has ample feed for all his stock for the winter, has sold $900 worth of alfalfa this season, has about $600 worth to sell, and is still cutting hay. He has also raised over $300 worth of hogs for market, raised calves to the value of $400, sold one span of young horses for $350 and is raising another span of similar value. No account is taken of the garden truck, chickens, turkeys, etc. These figures indicate a total annual income of $7000 from 240 acres.

The work on this ranch is all done by Ginn and two men, who receive $40 per month each. There are two artesian wells on the place, which furnish ample water for irrigation, with no expense for pumping. A good natural gas well also furnishes free lights and fuel.



That Double Chin

Every woman who is fat, and especially every woman (or man) who has a hog-like double chin, will welcome this news paragraph. Your night masks and sticking-plaster strips and strokings are at an end. A method of reducing double chins (also fat abdomens and hips, shoulders, ankles and neck), that really does reduce them, has been found.

And would you believe it, it is nothing more than a simple, harmless home recipe that any druggist will fill for you, viz: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ oz. Peppermint Water, a teaspoonful of which after each meal and at bedtime will take off up to a pound of fat a day. Try it—it is good for the stomach—strengthens that organ—so it turns the food into energy, bones, muscle, as it should, instead of into fat, as yours is doing now after each meal. Eat what you wish, drop exercising, be lazy even; this mixture will still trim up your figure. And it will do it evenly, too, without causing wrinkles; removing the saggy fat, such as double chins and stout abdomens are made of, first.

How to Get Rid Of Consumption

Remarkable Rescue of Prominent Indiana Man a Matter of Life-and-Death Interest to All Throat and Lung Sufferers.

For Benefit of Times Readers, He Tells How He Cured Himself at Home. Costs Nothing to Try.

"I think I owe it to all sufferers of lung and throat trouble and consumption to tell them some mighty good news, a sure way to cure themselves right at home with little trouble," said E. S. Stroh of Angola, Ind., yesterday as he passed through.

"Coming from me, probably, some people might doubt this, but let me tell you," he said, as his 66-year-old face flushed with a resurrected, youthful smile, "over two years ago I was a weazened-up wreck, a consumptive at 63. Three lung specialists passed me up. Every day I would cough up about a pint. I had chills and fever every afternoon. I could hardly eat, even the plainest food, coughed nearly all night, and was down to 137 pounds when I hit on the cure. Well, you see me now. I weigh 166 pounds, frisky as a boy at 66, can do a big day's work, and eat like a prince.

"Now I am not trying to boost anybody, but I must give credit where credit is due. Dr. J. Lawrence Hill, 1136 Hill Building, Jackson, Mich., the well-known lung specialist of America, and probably so far the only successful one, cured me. That was two years ago. I have just had my lungs examined again and there is no trace of consumption nor danger of its returning. Dr. Hill makes a specialty of treating throat and lung sufferers at a distance who have not the means of visiting his office personally. That's the way he cured me, and I know of many others who had one foot in the grave almost, brought back to life by what he calls his Rational Treatment. It certainly is a wonder.

"I wish every reader of this paper who has weak lungs, catarrh of the bronchial tubes or catarrh in any form, chronic bronchitis, asthma, chronic hacking cough, loss of flesh, night sweats, hemorrhages, soreness or pain in the chest or under the shoulder blades or any other deadly symptom of consumption, to send to Dr. Hill for his trial package. This treatment checks at once further progress of the disease, develops atrophied cell tissues and brings on new resisting power, appetite, flesh and good health."

TRIAL TREATMENT PACKAGE COUPON.

Dr. J. Lawrence Hill,
1136 Hill Bldg., Jackson, Mich.

I am suffering from throat and lung trouble, so please send me your large trial package in plain, sealed wrapper, that I may try it and see for myself if it will do what you claim it will. I enclose 10c to help pay for packing, etc., and as an evidence that I am not sending for the trial package out of idle curiosity.

THE MARKETS.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Again the packers announce an advance in the price of pork products. Word was received yesterday that skinned hams, boiled hams, bacon and several special brands were up ½ cent a pound. The last raise took place about three weeks ago. Just a week back, suetene and other lard imitations were advanced from ½ to 1 cent. How far the market will continue to climb is impossible to ascertain, the packers claiming an insufficient supply of all kinds of pork to come up to the demand.

The hay market is weak on account of the heavy holdings now in storage. This oversupply of cattle food is particularly noticeable in the San Joaquin valley, where the production this year has been much larger than ever before, and where the producers are holding all of their crop when possible, in order to obtain the prices expected to come in the winter. Quotations have not as yet been changed, but there is a shading toward weakness by the large dealers.

Eggs continued firm on the market. Offerings of local case-counts were readily taken up at 42 cents a dozen. Some dealers were forced to pay still higher prices for immediate delivery stock. Receipts were reported small.

The butter market is not as firm as last week at this time. Prices have been going lower in San Francisco and other markets are showing a tendency toward decline, owing to the splendid weather and the fact that in many parts of the State, the green fodder is beginning to appear on the fields after the first rains of several weeks ago. There was no trading in the commodity.

With a reduction in receipts of onions during the latter part of the week, the market has not been as weak as anticipated. Prices have firmed up a trifle. Potatoes continue weak and the market is in the dark as to the number arriving, but the general inference seems to be that receipts are still very heavy and that prices will do anything but go higher in the coming week. Sweet potatoes are still arriving at the rate of about 250 sacks a day, and this keeps the market at the same figures right along.

Grapes are practically the only fresh fruit still arriving from local fields. All other small fruits, with the exception of a few berries, have been cleaned up. Those still obtainable are from cold storage. Peaches have gone up to $1.30 per four-basket crate, or per lug box. Fancy Bartlett pears are selling from $1.25 to $1.50 per lug box packed. Apples are looking up, and the market on Bellefleurs is particularly strong. There has been no change in the price of this fruit as yet, but one is expected in a few days.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

WEEK ENDS IN BUSY TRADING.

UNION OIL A LEADER IN YESTERDAY'S ACTIVITIES.

Central Oil Shows Strength—Banks, Bonds and Utilities Quiet and Unchanged in Quotations—Mining Department Contributes—Off-Board Sales of Daisy.

The week ended busily on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, four petroleums being handled in amounts that made the volume of trading a large one.

The grand totals for the week, as compiled in the clearinghouse of the exchange yesterday afternoon, showed that the week's business had been 201,641 shares of stock, at a valuation of $155,002. This is one of the record reports in the history of the institution.

Union Oil was the leader in yesterday's activities, 150 shares being marketed at 102.75@102.50. The weakness of the issue is partially accounted for by the fact that it is selling ex-dividend. The close was 102.50@102.75, down ⅞ point in the bid, and ¾ point in the asked.

Fifty of Union Provident changed hands at 100.87½.

Associated Oil was a trader at 36.87½ to the amount of 10 shares. The close at 36.75 bid was unchanged from Friday.

Central Oil was strong and active 12,500 shares selling at 1.35 under the regular delivery, and 500 additional shares at 1.35¼, buyer 30 days. The close was 1.35½@1.36½, up 2½ points, and 3½ points in the bid and asked, respectively.

The banks, bonds and utilities were quiet and practically unchanged in quotation.

In the mining department, 12,000 California Hills were handled at 7@6½, and 5000 of Clark Copper at 4½. Off-board sales of 700 Daisy at 8 cents were reported.

CONSOLIDATED GOES UP.

Closes on the San Francisco Exchange Five Cents Above Previous Day's Figures.

[Special service to The Times by B. F. Taylor, No. 112 West Third street.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Goldfield Consolidated continued on its upward course today, closing 707½, bid, up 5 cents from yesterday. It opened on the New York curb this morning, 7 bid, and closed 7 3-16, sales.

Florence was weak, losing 17½ points in the asked price, and closing 270 bid, at 272½. There was no change in Daisy or Combination Fraction. Jumbo Extension was weak, closing 12 bid at 14, off 2 points. The balance of the Goldfield stocks were unchanged.

There were no changes of consequence in the Tonopah list.

Rawhide Coalition was unchanged. Queen lost 2 in the bid.

Bonnie Clare was in demand at 14, with no stock offered.

The bulls drove the Comstock bears into the corner at the close, moving Ophir up 10, Mexican, 17½, Gould & Curry 3, Consolidated Virginia, 12½, Savage 1, Hale & Norcross 5, Yellow Jacket 5, Confidence 10, Sierra 6, Exchequer 5, Union 3, and Potosi 1.

The only interest in the market during the past month has been in the Comstock issues. For three days past Goldfield Consolidated has shown strength, otherwise the week's business has been uninteresting.

Compared with October 1, Consolidated shows a gain of 62½ cents in the bid price; Florence a loss of 20 cents; Daisy is off 2; Great Bend, 2; Jumbo Extension, 4; Fraction, 25; Columbia Mountain, 1; and St. Ives, 3. In the outlying camps Nevada Hills shows a loss of 5 points; Rawhide a gain of 7, and Coalition a gain of 6 points.

It is in the Comstock list that most of the gains are recorded. Ophir is up 90 points; Mexican, 5; Gould & Curry, 7; Consolidated Virginia shows a loss of 20, as does Savage; Hale & Norcross are off 15; Yellow Jacket, 40 off. Belcher shows a gain of 20; Confidence is unchanged. Sierra shows a loss of 7, Union 4, Choliar, 7 and Potosi, 6.

SHARES AND MONEY.

STOCK MARKET IS UNSETTLED.

SPECULATIVE TONE AT CLOSE SHOWS UNCERTAINTY.

Close of Week's Business Brings Customary Inclination to Bring Trades to Climax and Situation is Complicated by Doubts of What Bank Statement Had to Show.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The speculative tone showed unsettlement during the short session of the Stock Exchange today. The close of the week brought some natural inclination to close up contracts. This was emphasized by doubts of what the bank statement, which was published after the market closed, would show. There were new questions raised regarding the foreign money position, and its probable bearing on the market for stocks.

The part played by the political outlook in shaping the policy of the Bank of England, is receiving increasing consideration, in view of the opinion expressed in London that a general election in January is likely. If the result of the Bermondsey election this week shall confirm the House of Lords in the determination to reject the budget framed by the Liberal government of England, there will be final consequences to consider which will call for attention in other financial centers as well as in London. As pointed out by the London statisticians, the rejection of the budget would involve a heavy loan to carry on the government. Based on present price of British consols, this loan would be issued at a very low price, "lower," says the Statist, "than the present generation has hitherto thought probable." And it is quite possible, further, that the new issue would lead holders of existing stocks of all kinds to sell on a great scale for the purpose of being able to subscribe to an issue of consols brought out at so low an issue price.

The formal denial by the president of the Amalgamated Copper Company of a combination of copper interests in an agreement to curtail copper production induced a reaction from yesterday's strength in that group. There were points of strength here and there in special stocks, but the prevailing tone was heavy.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, were $1,700,000. United States bonds, 2's registered, have declined one-eighth, and the coupons one-fourth per cent. in the bid price on call since last week.

Boston Copper Market.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury building.]

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—There was some realizing in Amalgamated due to its sharp rise the past week, but all selling was well taken and there is every prospect of higher prices next week. Copper Range showed the greatest advance today, being very scarce and hard to buy. North Butte and Shannon were in better demand. Although the week has been very favorable, next week promises a much more bullish feeling in the copper market. Following were closing quotations on the Boston Stock Exchange:

NEW YORK IMPORTS.

WEEK'S FIGURES GIVEN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Imports of merchandise and dry goods for the port of New York for the week ending October 23, were valued at $15,984,686. Imports of specie for the port for the week were $28,215 silver and $107,737 gold. Exports of specie from the port for the week ended today, were $540,054 silver and $1,600,000 gold.

New York Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With both the New York and London metal exchanges closed the markets were virtually nominal.

Tin, quiet at 30.25@30.50. Copper, dull; lake, 12.87½@13.00; electrolytic, 12.62½@12.75; casting, 12.37½@12.50. Lead, quiet, 4.35@4.40. Spelter, quiet, 6.10@6.35. Iron, quiet.

The American Petroleum Co.'s

success has been phenomenal—7000 barrels per day and the company less than two years old—1400 acres Coalinga field proven to be equal to the richest in California. Large production NOW with tremendous increase available, depending only upon continuation of development. 12 wells drilling. Dividends GUARANTEED by actual production, sold under contract for five years at fixed price. We recommend this stock as yielding unusually large returns, yet possessing great financial strength, permanency and the right kind of management. Limited offering of stock to net 17 per cent. on the investment. Send for particulars.

Financial Situation

Five per cent. is a very unusual and high rate of discount for the Bank of England and has resulted in the Bank partially reinforcing its stock of gold, creating thereby a better feeling in financial circles abroad. This is reflected in the strength of EASTERN SECURITIES, which have advanced moderately over last week's closing prices.

It is argued by many that the great rise in EASTERN SECURITY values during the last eighteen months is the result of manipulation and that those behind the market are in great need of supplies of loanable funds in order to carry on their operations.

This argument is not very persuasive, as it cannot be denied that the rise has been based upon legitimate conditions. The revival of general trade improvement, improvement in railroad earnings, and activity in the iron and steel industry all bear upon the value of shares.

We, however, for the present believe that it is wise to sell EASTERN SECURITIES on the HARD SPOTS and replace such sales with LOCAL SECURITIES that are equally safe and yield very much greater returns on the investment.

Some eighteen months ago large Eastern operators purchased big blocks of United States Steel Common. We therefore assume that these operators foresaw what was coming.

The shares of the substantial oil producing companies may still be bought at wonderfully low prices compared with returns, and hence we advise that you lay in your supply while the prices are still low, and thus forestall or prepare for the advance that is coming.

In the great upward movement that is now under way the AMERICAN PETROLEUM COMMON stock has been the market leader. Large blocks changed hands within the past ten days between $61.00 and $69.50 per share. Any one at all cognizant of the facts surrounding this corporation will realize that the stock has only begun to advance. Both the Common and Preferred stocks pay [illegible] per cent. on $100.00 per share.

American Crude to Put Down Four More Wells

We are in receipt of the following letter from the President of the AMERICAN CRUDE OIL COMPANY, which is self-explanatory:

Oct. 20, 1909.

We take pleasure in reporting the bringing in of Well No. 6, which gives promise of being the best of the six wells now producing. This is more than encouraging from the fact that it is the most northern well on our property and assures us of a large increase in production from the balance of the land.

We are now contracting for material to put down four more wells, as well as to double our boiler plant. When the new work is completed we will have one of the best-equipped plants in the Kern River Oil field, and a production that will materially increase our dividends.

It is due to our Superintendent, Mr. Gardiner, who is one of the most practical and best posted oil men in the California fields, that we have installed such a complete plant at the minimum of expense. Yours very truly,

AMERICAN CRUDE OIL CO.
By W. F. West, President.

AMERICAN CRUDE closed at [illegible] at which price it is an excellent and safe investment. It pays 9 per cent. on $1 per share.

WESTERN UNION. We have for some time past been advising the purchase of these shares and we still believe Western Union to be one of the best oil speculations in the State.

CENTRAL OIL. This stock closed active yesterday at 1.35½ bid. It is a safe and conservative investment.

The Oil Industry

There is no longer an overproduction of crude oil.

The outlook is better than ever before.

The demand is greater from all sources than ever before.

Oil continues to displace coal.

There is continued competition by buyers and the prices are working higher. This means much to producing companies.

We reiterate most emphatically that there is going to be an extended advance in the shares of the substantial oil producing companies and urge you to give the situation your attention.

UNION HOLDING COMPANY 7 per cent. Pfd., now paying dividends.

Now selling 1 share 7 per cent. pfd., par value $100—$100.00.

1 share Common, par value $100—for $100.00.

Union Holding Company 7 per cent. pfd. and paying dividends quarterly. The diversified holdings of this company make its preferred stock absolutely safe. It returns a high rate of interest (7 per cent.) and with the present common stock bonus offers you the probability of a generous profit. Application is soon to be made for the listing of these shares on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, so that they will be readily negotiable.

Copper

The holders of the important copper stocks are very strong financially and have implicit confidence in the future of the market. On account of immediate future prospects, we believe the good copper shares are a purchase and a general advance is imminent.

As members of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange we execute orders for the purchase, sale or exchange of securities in Los Angeles and various exchanges in this country and abroad.

New York Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—J. C. Hill, Jr., says: "On September 2 March cotton was around the 12.30 level and fluctuated between that figure and the 13-cent mark until the 21st, on which date it crossed the 13-cent level for good. From September 21 to October 23 prices were between 13 cents and 14 cents and on October [illegible] one week ago today, we began with 14-cent cotton. In the last seven days we have added nearly one cent per pound to values, and the developments during that period have disclosed no unknown facts that were not already surmised. On Monday the ginning figures were about where expected, five and a half million bales and the modification of crop ideas coincident with that report has occasioned but little surprise. The action of the market can therefore be attributed to but one cause, the buying created by the recognition of a condition which was already comprehended by many of the trade, an argument no more potent now than it was a week ago except that more people see it. Just as it always happens bulls will not sell out in bull campaigns and shorts are terrified into covering when but little is offered for sale. The higher the prices go, the more reluctantly the owners of cotton part with the cotton, their first pressing obligations having been settled. We think the cotton market is dangerous except for those who have ample nerve and ample margin, and while we agree in the idea that final high prices reached will be in the neighborhood of the extreme high prices predicted, we feel that the market has quite a load to carry with the added increase of the visible supply every week, especially when that cotton is bringing $75 for every bale."

The higher the prices go, the more reluctantly the owners of cotton part with the cotton, their first pressing obligations having been settled. We think the cotton market is dangerous except for those who have ample nerve and ample margin, and while we agree to the idea that final high prices reached will be in the neighborhood of the extreme high prices predicted, we feel that the market has quite a load to carry with the added increase of the visible supply every week, especially when that cotton is bringing $75 for every bale.

SEEN BY FINANCIER.

MUCH GERMAN MONEY HERE.

BERLIN BANKER SPEAKS OF AMERICAN CONDITIONS.

Says the Rates of Interest in This Country Are Always an Inducement to Investment—Thinks the Industries of the United States Are on a Sound Basis.

Dr. Fritz Wiener, junior member of the firm of Wiener, Levy & Co., private bankers, of Berlin, Germany, is a late arrival at the Alexandria. Dr. Wiener has been in America six months, and has been studying American banking methods in New York. After three months about the large financial institutions of the eastern metropolis, Dr. Wiener has been traveling throughout the country, visiting the larger cities and making a close study of economic conditions.

"It is essential for the big German banking houses to be well acquainted with American progress, since much German money is sent to America for investment," said Mr. Wiener. "The rates of interest in this country are always an inducement for investment, particularly to foreign capital. At present the industries of the United States again seem to be on a sound business basis. In Pennsylvania the coal and steel mills are all running at full capacity. In New England the many factories are turning out an immense volume of stock, and the cotton mills of New Jersey are also as busy as they can be."

Mr. Wiener has not forgotten to look into the possibilities of California, and has been a resident of San Francisco for several weeks. He has also traveled in various parts of the State and is impressed with the greatness of the Southwest. "To me it seems strange to see such large areas of unoccupied land. There is certainly room in California for several million more people. The one thing surprising is the high value of real estate in such a sparsely settled territory. I would not state assuredly, but to my way of thinking, values are too high, at least when looked at from the viewpoint of a foreign investor."

The visitor, who is still a young man, will remain in Los Angeles a week. He has a number of letters of introduction to local banking houses and also to personal friends of the Berlin firm. His title, "doctor," is a degree acquired as graduate of the University of Tubingen, Wurtenburg, where he finished a course in political economy. Dr. Wiener also studied at Heidelberg and Munich, two of the principal universities of Germany.

Upon leaving here, the German visitor will proceed to Nevada, there to visit the mining camps, to Salt Lake, and then to Pueblo and Denver. At the latter places he will inspect the plants of the Standard Oil Company and the Gugenheim smelters. The South, with its cotton plantations and other industries, will be the last link in Dr. Wiener's journey through this country.

COLLINS WIRELESS TELEPHONE AS AN INVESTMENT

To telephone without wires is no longer an experiment. The Collins Wireless Telephone company has solved the problem—for all time. Press notices of Mr. Collins and his wonderful invention are attracting widespread attention. The wireless telephone will revolutionize one of the greatest industries of modern times—the Transmission of Speech. If there is money in telephoning with wires, there certainly is more money in telephoning without wires.

The early history of the Bell telephone will be repeated. An investment of $100 in Bell Telephone stock was sufficient to insure a fortune. Those who buy shares in the Collins Wireless Telephone company now—before the price begins to soar—are certain to realize a handsome profit from their investment. Many people will hesitate, as they did in the early days of the Bell telephone—while others, more far-sighted, will put their money into "Collins Wireless"—and share, with the company, in the millions to be earned. Will you be one of these fortunate investors—or will you procrastinate, wait until it is everlastingly too late?

NO POLES NO WIRES NO FRANCHISES

The Collins System requires no poles, no wires, no franchises. Subsidiary companies have been organized—and others are now forming—for the purpose of installing the Collins Wireless Telephone, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. All these companies will be compelled to pay tribute—in cash, stock and royalties—to the parent company, the company in which you are invited to make an investment.

Don't you see what this will mean? Can't you realize that stock in the parent company—with so many subsidiary companies working for it—is bound to become more and more valuable, as the operation of the system is extended? Don't rush in blindly. Investigate, consider the matter well—then decide. But whatever you do don't let the opportunity pass without giving it thorough consideration. You owe it to yourself to look into the merits of the Collins Wireless Telephone stock as an investment.

Think of the saving—no poles, no wires, no franchises. The Collins Wireless Telephone is thoroughly practical. This has been demonstrated—beyond the shadow of a doubt. Soon it will be in general commercial use—and before five years will be as common in the home as is the present system of communication, the telephone with wires.

The Collins Wireless Telephone is before the world to do things just as big—and as vitally important—as did the Bell system in its early stages. Before dismissing the subject, before turning your back on the opportunity that is now offered you to get in right on Collins Wireless, we want you to write for our illustrated booklet—"The Story of the Wireless"—a copy of which will be sent prepaid, without cost or obligation on your part. Write today. Do it now, before you forget it.

THE MARKET.

BY OWNERS AND DEALERS.

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE CIRCLES.

Week One of Big Deals and Big Projects—Encouraging Activity in All Classes of Improved and Unimproved Holdings—Lots in New Tracts in Demand.

The week closed yesterday was conspicuously one of big deals and big projects, and these "feature" items of news may possibly attract attention from the fact that the week was also one characterized by a most encouraging activity in all classes of improved and unimproved properties. The sale of lots in certain of the new and popular tracts was notably active, and the demand for lots as residence sites in almost every section of the city and vicinity is such as to guarantee a constant stiffening of prices during the ensuing months. The realty market, in fact, was never firmer than now. Following are reports of sales from owners and dealers who are reaping the benefits of the present notably good demand for Los Angeles and Southern California real estate:

Sale in Berkeley Square.

Carleton Burke has sold to A. L. Chaney 110x250 feet to a twenty-foot alley in Berkeley Square for $12,500. The buyer will improve at once with a handsome residence.

Manchester Heights Sales.

The following sales are reported in Manchester Heights by the Grider-Hamilton-Oswald Company: E. M. Stewart, 40x150 feet on Vermont avenue, and Bertha M. Littell, 40x152 feet on Seventy-sixth, near Budlong avenue, $425; Mrs. Ellen Wilson, 120x152 feet on Seventy-sixth, near Budlong avenue, $1275; C. W. Fahrion, 100x152 feet on Seventy-fifth, near Vermont avenue near Seventy-fifth, $750; Walter Flippen, 40x152 feet on Seventy-fourth, near Normandie avenue, $375; H. T. and Bertha M. Littell, 40x152 feet on Seventy-sixth, near Budlong avenue, $425; Mrs. Ellen Wilson, 120x152 feet on Seventy-sixth, near Budlong avenue, $1275; C. W. Fahrion, 100x152 feet on Seventy-fifth, near Vermont avenue, $1250; Joseph and Sophia Nappell, 80x152 feet on Manchester avenue, near Vermont, $1400; Mrs. Marianne Lelanne, 40x150 feet on Vermont avenue, near Manchester avenue, $750; William H. Buckley, 80x152 feet on Seventy-fourth, near Normandie, $750.

Terra Bella Development.

The Ensign-Francis Company reports an active demand for early orange and olive lands in their tract at Terra Bella, Tulare county. What was recently a large grain ranch of 4000 acres is now subdivided in ten to forty-acre tracts and is now a prospering townsite. Recent sales follow: W. H. La Bee, ten acres, $900; George Nelson, ten acres, $900; Paul Nunemaker, ten acres, $750; Herman H. Schnieder, twenty acres, $1800; George R. Knight, ten acres, $750; W. E. Gove and M. M. Gove, ten acres, $900; J. T. Remley, ten acres, $750; H. F. Thompson, ten acres, $900; W. O. Smith, forty acres, $4400; W. B. Rice, ten acres, $750; George S. La Bee, ten acres, $900. Townsite lots were sold to John F. Mooney, Mary B. La Bee, S. H. MacKeen, Laura R. Germain, George S. La Bee and Ross V. La Bee.

Report Sales of Homes and Cottages.

The following recent sales are reported by W. J. T. Greenfield: Mrs. Marshall Finch to John H. Robson, 50x137 feet, nominal improvements, on Pico, between Normandie and Jasmine, $4250 cash; C. E. Douglass to Ida B. Innes, 50x140 feet, improved with a six-room cottage, on Dewey avenue, between Pico and Fifteenth, $3600; Dr. Q. J. Rowley to Isabel D. Marr, 50x140 feet, improved with a five-room and one four-room cottage, on Dewey between Pico and Fifteenth, $3000; H. F. Brainard to A. B. Fullerton, 46x128 feet, improved with a five-room bungalow, on Fedora street, between Tenth and San Marino, $2800; A. K. Patterson to John Carricart, 50x150 feet, improved with a seven-room bungalow, at No. 1506 Third avenue, $4750; Luther Hill to Andrew N. Bank, two lots, 40x140 feet each, on Munson street, between Main and Moneta avenue, $600.

Oxford Square Active.

Among the recent buyers of Emil Firth's Oxford Square properties are the following: Mrs. Lucy G. Baker, a lot 38x171 feet, $2000; A. S. The former was started yesterday on Vermont avenue, between Wilshire boulevard and Sixth street; the latter dwelling is nearing completion on Shatto Place, between Wilshire and Sixth.

The dwelling for Mr. Hancock will be of classical type, with plaster exterior over a concrete foundation. It will contain living, dining, reception and library rooms, kitchen, six bedrooms and three baths. The roof will be arranged for a roof garden. The first floor finish will be largely in mahogany. The upper floors will be treated in white enamel. The house will be 50x55 feet, and stand on a site 70x200 feet. The cost will be $20,000.

The house for Mr. Wilton is of plaster over hollow tile. It will be 45x50 feet, and occupy a lot 100x180 feet. The cost of the construction represents an outlay of abut $20,000.

BUY MOHAVE LANDS.

Arizona Tract of Seventeen Thousand Acres Sells for Four Hundred Thousand.

W. I. Hollingsworth and W. J. Hole have purchased a large tract of land in the Mohave Valley, Mohave county, Ariz., and acquired the right to take from the Colorado River water sufficient for the irrigation of 50,000 acres. The area involved comprises about 17,000 acres, and the cost is reputed to approximate $400,000.

The sellers of the property were the Rio Colorado Land and Irrigation Company, which secured the land from the Santa Fé, the latter having obtained its title by patent from the United States government. The tract is said to be quite fertile. Portions of the area have been under successful cultivation for a number of years.

DRUIDS PAY HONORS.

Grand Officers Are Received by the Local Groves—Team Work One of the Features.

Druids of Los Angeles and vicinity have been active the past week in entertaining the Noble Grand Arch, Daniel Giovannini and other grand officers who are on a tour of official visits and inspection throughout the State. The grand officers were given an elaborate fraternal reception.

The Richness of Beaumont's Apple Lands the Wonder of So. California
Absolutely nothing in all of Southern California that compares with Beaumont. Here is that rare combination of elevation, soil, climate, water, etc., to produce the big, red, juicy apple which brings more in any market than any other. Beaumont can raise them as is proven by the reported yield of $5000 crop from 756 trees. You can do the same—these 5-acre tracts will then be worth [illegible] Five years is time enough.

Glendale Oak Knoll Tract
Superbly located—within the southern limits of Glendale—facing Brand Boulevard and Central avenue; the former 100 feet, the latter 80 feet wide—directly on car line, 20 minutes from the business center of Los Angeles. Orange, lemon and deciduous fruit trees in full bearing; high-class improvements, with every public utility provided for, are some of the attractions. Wouldn't you like to know more about this splendid residential section?
Lots $675 Up
Lots in Glendale Oak Knoll Tract have a frontage of 50 to 70 feet—and at present prices ($675 upward) offer a most attractive proposition—for homes or as an investment. If you contemplate buying a lot, don't do it before investigating Glendale Oak Knoll Tract.
Pay $10 Month
You can buy a 50-foot lot in Glendale Oak Knoll Tract on terms of $10 down and $10 a month for 22 months—balance of first half of purchase price on the 24th month—remainder 12 months later. No interest or taxes first two years.

LETS KEEP ON WITH THE DOCTOR AND PROFESSOR!
I'D LIKE TO GET SOME OF THIS GAME! UM! LOOK AT IT!
WE ARE NOT ONLY OUT OF AMMUNITION, BUT WE ARE MINUS OUR HATS, DOC.!
I SEEM TO NOTICE VERY MUCH GAME NOW THAT WE CAN'T SHOOT AT IT, PROFESSOR!
2
HUH! WELL! I THOUGHT YOU HAD NO MORE AMMUNITION!
YOUR GUN IS SPEAKING, DOC! WHAT AILS IT?
WELL! I DECLARE! HOW COULD THAT HAPPEN?
3
THAT PUZZLES ME, PROFESSOR. I'D HAVE SWORN IT WAS EMPTY! I CAN NOT UNDERSTAND IT!
IN OUR EXCITEMENT WHILE ATTACKING THAT WHIFFENPOOF, PERHAPS. YOU OVER LOOKED IT!
LOOK OUT! IT MIGHT GO OFF AGAIN!
I FEEL TERRIBLY UPSET ABOUT THAT! I FELL VERY MUCH PUT OUT.
OH! I SHOULDN'T WORRY OVER IT! SUCH A THING IS LIABLE TO HAPPEN TO ANYONE!
YES! FORGET IT AND LET'S HUSTLE TO THE PALACE! IT'S GETTING COLD
IT IS SO MORTIFYING! I CAN NOT RECONCILE MY FEELINGS! IT HURTS ME!
JUST DISMISS IT FROM YOUR MIND! WE MUST HURRY TO THE PALACE AND REPORT TO THE KING!
I'M NEARLY FROZEN. FLIP. ARE YOU! OOOH!
MAYBE I'LL NOT TOAST MY SHINS.—WHEN I GET IN THAT PALACE!

IT WAS SO UNSPORTSMAN-LIKE PROFESSOR I JUST FEEL MISERABLE OVER THE AFFAIR!
IT WAS AN ACCIDENT. MERELY AN ACCIDENT, THAT'S ALL YOU SHOULD NOT PERMIT IT TO PREY UPON YOUR MIND!
HOW FAR IS IT TO THE PALACE, I WONDER! WE SHOULD BE NEAR IT SOON!—
I'LL BET WE NEVER SEE THE PALACE! WOWIE, BUT IT'S COLD!
IT WAS SO CARELESS OF ME! I'LL TELL YOU, PROF, I FEEL AWFUL BLUE ABOUT THE WHOLE THING!
NATURALLY, YOU MUST FEEL, I MAY SAY, WRETCHED. BUT, I SHOULD, IF IT WERE ME, NOT TAKE IT TO HEART.—
SAY, FLIP! THEY SURELY KNOW THE WAY TO THE PALACE! DON'T YOU THINK?
SAY! WHEN ARE WE GOING TO COME TO THAT PALACE? THIS IS GETTING FIERCE!
OH, WELL! HUM! UM! SAY PROFESSOR! WE HAVE LOST OUR BEARINGS! WE'VE STRAYED AWAY! HAVE YOU A SEXTANT IN YOUR POCKET?
NO, DOCTOR! I LEFT IT HOME ON THE BUREAU. I'M SORRY TO SAY!

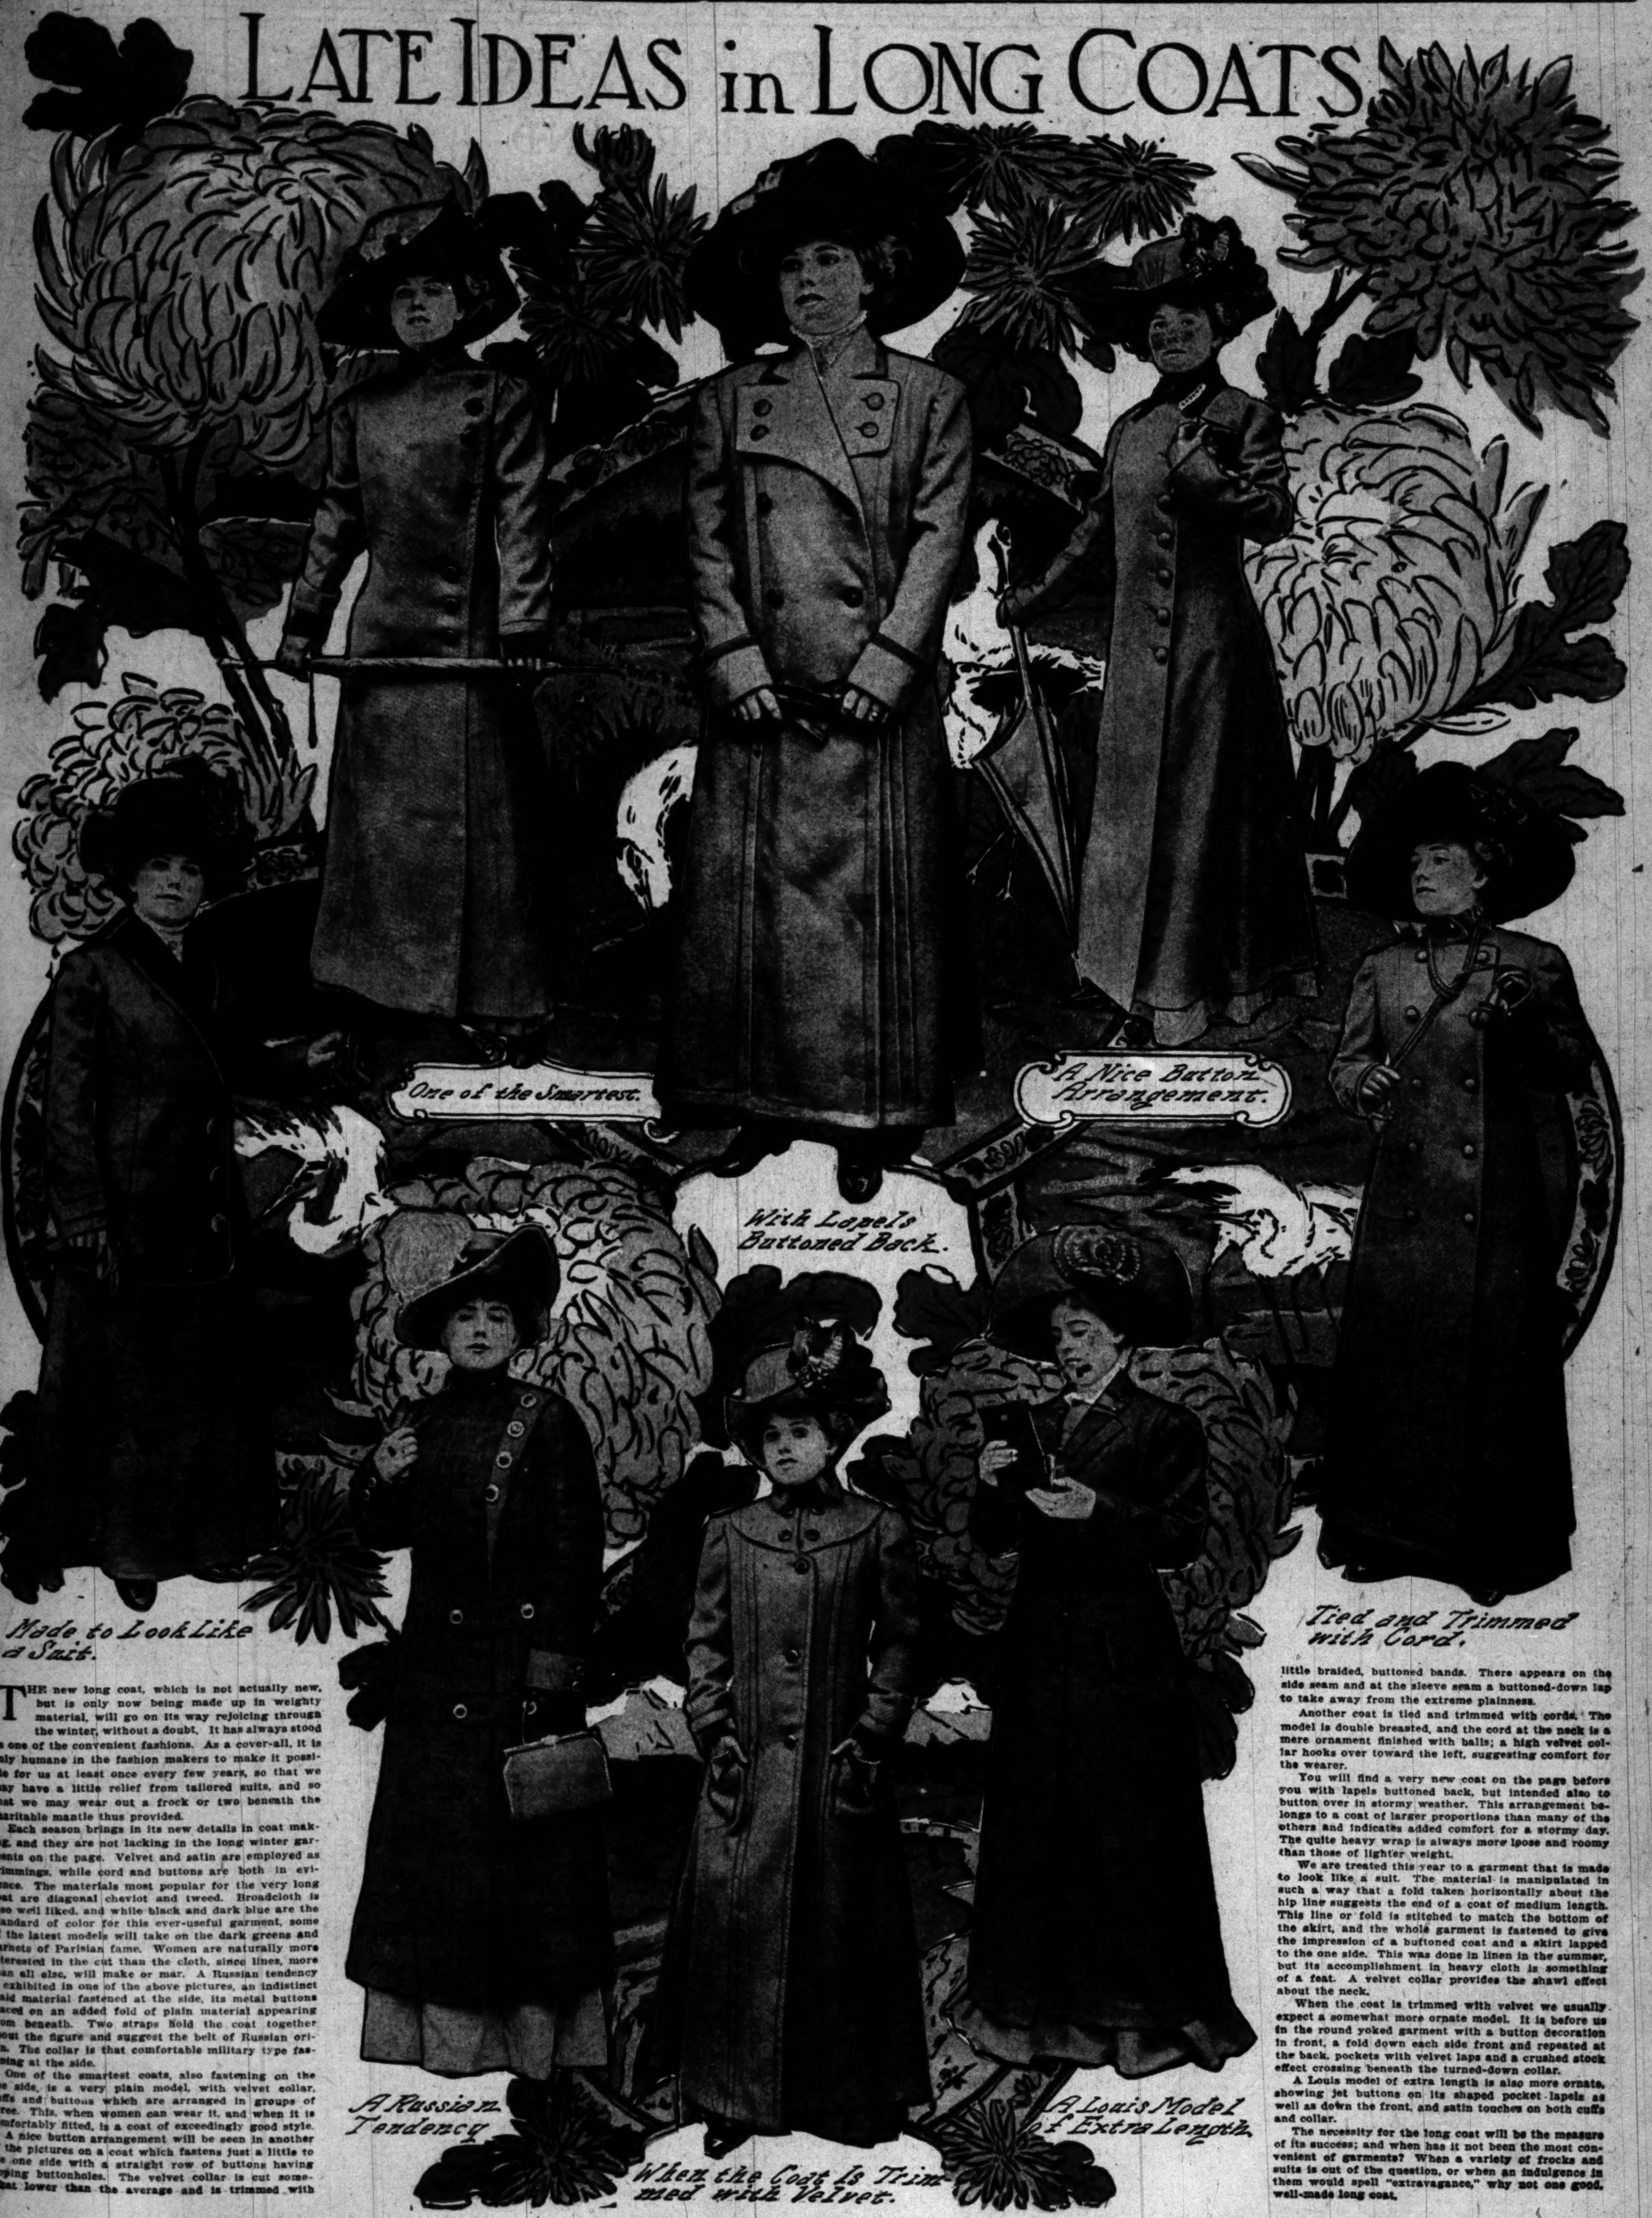
LATE IDEAS in LONG COATS



One of the Smartest.

With Lapels Buttoned Back.

A Nice Button Arrangement.

Made to Look Like a Suit.

Tied and Trimmed with Cord.

A Russian Tendency

When the Coat Is Trimmed with Velvet.

A Louis Model of Extra Length.

THE new long coat, which is not actually new, but is only now being made up in weighty material, will go on its way rejoicing through the winter, without a doubt. It has always stood as one of the convenient fashions. As a cover-all, it is only humane in the fashion makers to make it possible for us at least once every few years, so that we may have a little relief from tailored suits, and so that we may wear out a frock or two beneath the charitable mantle thus provided.

Each season brings in its new details in coat making, and they are not lacking in the long winter garments on the page. Velvet and satin are employed as trimmings, while cord and buttons are both in evidence. The materials most popular for the very long coat are diagonal cheviot and tweed. Broadcloth is also well liked, and while black and dark blue are the standard of color for this ever-useful garment, some of the latest models will take on the dark greens and garnets of Parisian fame. Women are naturally more interested in the cut than the cloth, since lines, more than all else, will make or mar. A Russian tendency is exhibited in one of the above pictures, an indistinct plaid material fastened at the side, its metal buttons placed on an added fold of plain material appearing from beneath. Two straps hold the coat together about the figure and suggest the belt of Russian origin. The collar is that comfortable military type fastening at the side.

One of the smartest coats, also fastening on the one side, is a very plain model, with velvet collar, cuffs and buttons which are arranged in groups of three. This, when women can wear it, and when it is comfortably fitted, is a coat of exceedingly good style.

A nice button arrangement will be seen in another of the pictures on a coat which fastens just a little to the one side with a straight row of buttons having sloping buttonholes. The velvet collar is cut somewhat lower than the average and is trimmed with little braided, buttoned bands. There appears on the side seam and at the sleeve seam a buttoned-down lap to take away from the extreme plainness.

Another coat is tied and trimmed with cords. The model is double breasted, and the cord at the neck is a mere ornament finished with balls; a high velvet collar hooks over toward the left, suggesting comfort for the wearer.

You will find a very new coat on the page before you with lapels buttoned back, but intended also to button over in stormy weather. This arrangement belongs to a coat of larger proportions than many of the others and indicates added comfort for a stormy day. The quite heavy wrap is always more loose and roomy than those of lighter weight.

We are treated this year to a garment that is made to look like a suit. The material is manipulated in such a way that a fold taken horizontally about the hip line suggests the end of a coat of medium length. This line or fold is stitched to match the bottom of the skirt, and the whole garment is fastened to give the impression of a buttoned coat and a skirt lapped to the one side. This was done in linen in the summer, but its accomplishment in heavy cloth is something of a feat. A velvet collar provides the shawl effect about the neck.

When the coat is trimmed with velvet we usually expect a somewhat more ornate model. It is before us in the round yoked garment with a button decoration in front, a fold down each side front and repeated at the back, pockets with velvet laps and a crushed stock effect crossing beneath the turned-down collar.

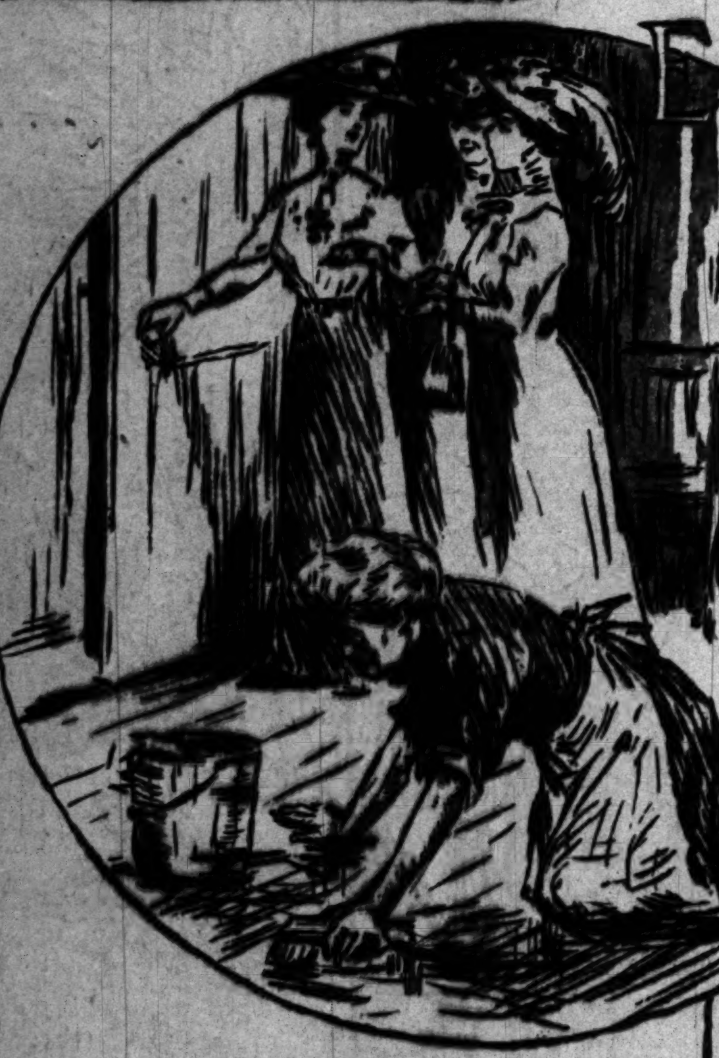
A Louis model of extra length is also more ornate, showing jet buttons on its shaped pocket lapels as well as down the front, and satin touches on both cuffs and collar.

The necessity for the long coat will be the measure of its success; and when has it not been the most convenient of garments? When a variety of frocks and suits is out of the question, or when an indulgence in them would spell "extravagance," why not one good, well-made long coat.

SCHOOL for HOUSEWIVES

By MARION HARLAND

ECONOMY in HIRED LABOR



"Off for the office and the factory to bring in $5 per week."

THE fourth of a series of articles on the necessities for economy in the time of high prices is presented today. Previous articles were: "A Stubborn Fact," written with a view to awakening housekeepers to the present necessities for economies; "Economy in Buying" and "Economy in Cookery."

Marion Harland will welcome letters and suggestions from readers of these articles. Every idea may be a help to some one who wants help.

IF I were required to indicate the chief source of wastefulness in the average American household, I should say, without hesitation, "The Hired Domestic."

The reason thereof is patent. It is older than the Christian era. "Whose own the sheep are not." The principle of self-preservation informs human motive. It would be folly to expect the hireling to take as good care of our possessions as we do. This is especially true in a country where she is a recognized nomad, here today and nobody knows where tomorrow. A high order of conscientiousness is needed to move one to absolute fidelity to neighbor and employer. And the antecedents of our paid employe do not tend to the cultivation of the finer virtues.

Forbear we, then, to throw the blame of extravagant mismanagement of our property and finances upon the foreign peasant, or the descendant of an enslaved race whom we have promoted to a place upon our domestic staff.

The monumental fact stands fast that she is the most expensive of modern luxuries. A stranger to the responsibilities of the property owner, she knows little and cares less for the value of what has cost the employer more money than she has ever seen in her life. How could it be otherwise? A pearl to a child is no more than a glass bead. Old family silver weighs less in the mind of Bridget-Thekla-Dinah than the gaudy plated ware she gets by hoarding trading stamps stripped from the soap her nominal mistress lays in by the box. Like ignorance of values, fostered by the sight of plenty that is wealth to her unaccustomed eyes, makes her leave the cake of soap to melt in the tub or dishpan when there is a boxful in the storeroom.

A NECESSARY EVIL

But why waste time and space in proving what is an ever-present and fretting sore in the housewifely soul? Each of us knows that her servants cost her annually so much more than their nominal wages that she dare not allow herself to compute the amount in calculating family expenses. Each of us recalls the calm satisfaction that pervaded her being when, during an interregnum in the domestic dynasty, she did her own work and wondered with exceeding admiration at the way "things" lasted; moreover, how servants contrive to consume so much time in performing the tasks she got out of the way in season to have whole hours of the day for other occupations.

"Granted!" I hear the chorus from a thousand fellow-sufferers. "But we can't do without them. They are necessary evils."

The object of this sympathetic talk is to reason together among ourselves as to this necessity. Let me premise that reasoning and talk are not intended for women whose incomes are entirely adequate to the expense of keeping one, two or three of the "evils." Nor yet for those who have stated occupations and professions sufficiently profitable to warrant remitting housework to competent hirelings. I have in view—as usual—the Mighty Middle Class, who must watch the outlay of every dollar and make that dollar do the work of 100 cents. I aim especially to reach families where the daughters have sought situations in offices, shops and factories, leaving the mothers to the mercies of third-rate maids-of-all-work. Call the class, if you will, by the apt title we learned last week from a clever magazine article, "the half-way poor." The father's income provides house rent, food, fuel and plain clothing. Florence and Gladys would dress better than the family means warrant. They are fond of a "good time," and don't fancy gallery seats at the theater; and, above all, they like to have money of their very own to spend as they please and no questions asked.

A STRANGE PREFERENCE

Since I began to reflect seriously upon the subject of this paper I have made it my business to collect data as to the number of young women engaged in shops, offices and mills who are eking out the family income by their labor, and whose parents find the addition to what is made by the men of the household welcome and even necessary to a comfortable maintenance. My conclusion, after consultation with employers, superintendents and fellow-workwomen, is that, at the lowest computation, one fifth of these are thus employed from choice rather than from necessity. I have given a summary of the motives that lead them to prefer this kind of work to remaining at home and taking part in domestic duties.

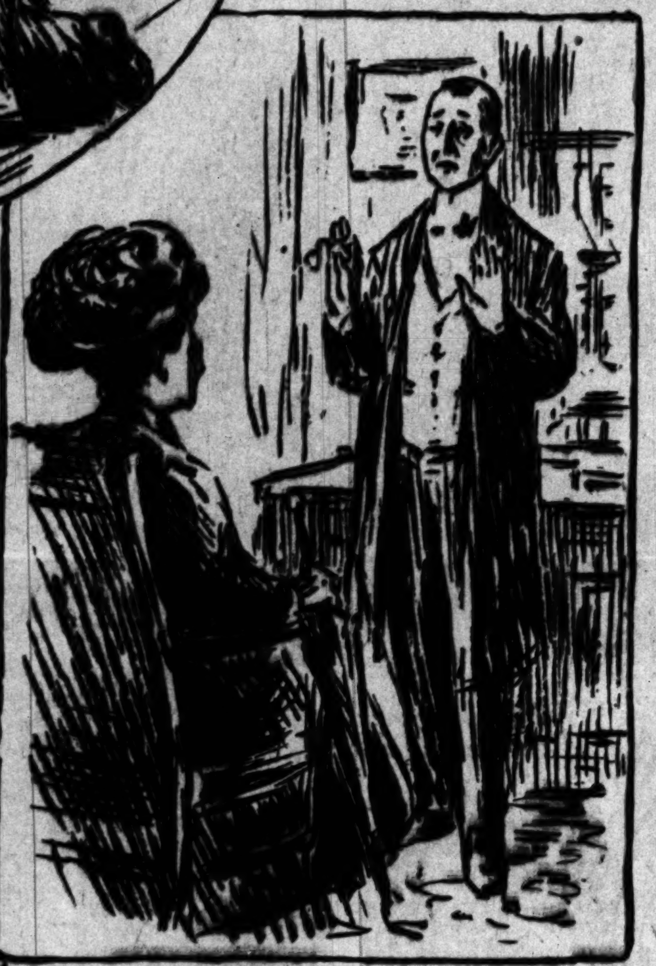
There are large mills in the neighborhood of my country home, and I meet scores of operatives in the late afternoon. We all know the general type of these girls: loud and eager to attract the attention of the men they meet; decked in shabby finery, and all with "wide dispread" coiffures embattling their heads. It is natural that they should be gay and garrulous in the reaction from the routine of daily toil. It is neither natural nor decorous that girls from 15 to 20 should traipse in bonnetless gangs along the public thoroughfares at an hour when all the business world is "homing." I know the stories of some of them—so many that my heart sickens in the recital—and my wonder grows that mothers of the class the girls represent do not take alarm at the frightful percentage and insist upon keeping them safe at home.

"But that is another story." I wish to heaven it were less common!

The farmers' and mechanics' wives of a former generation never dreamed of other domestic help than they had in their sisters and daughters. Each family was a close corporation, as it is now on the European continent and in many parts of Great Britain. Even where the fever of emigration has unsettled the old order of things, there is always one stay-at-home daughter to take her share in toils for which increasing age is disabling the old mother. It is superfluous to add that Bridget and Thekla contribute steadily and liberally of their earnings in the new world to the support of "the old folks at home." Witness the incredibly large sums that go through the mails over the sea from foreign servants on this side.

Florence and Gladys are not to be classed with "the foreigners." They belong to native families; they were graduated from good public schools; they "go" with nice people, including nice young men, and each has the sure and confident expectation of "marrying well" when she has had her fling in what is to her as truly "Society," with a tall capital letter, as the same word signifies "the best people" to the millionaire's wife.

"Marrying well" implies the ability to "keep a girl" when the bride becomes a wife. For—and here comes the most pitiful side of the story—not one of the operative daughters, who might live at home if she would, knows the rudiments of practical housewifery. A gardener whom I once employed had married a factory girl—a prettyish little doll, who could not broil a steak or make a biscuit to save her life. The husband did the cooking, and spent his evenings at the sewing machine cobbling clothes for the expected baby.



"'Our girls have higher ideals than housework.'"

"Keeping a girl" (for Florence and Gladys have not quite attained to the "maid" nomenclature) stands with them for exemption from work they, with other shopgirls, have been taught to regard as degrading. If "Mother" has kept a third-rate specimen of the genus, her daughter will have a fourth-rate specimen of the costly luxury. She is always that! She wastes more of the food bought with honest John's wages than would have sufficed to feed the Irish or German or southern old folks and their progeny; and, our whilome operative is exceptionally lucky if the "girl" does not pilfer as well as waste.

Would I "make a household drudge of a fine young creature who is capable of higher aims?"

That was the substance of a reply made by a professor in Hampton Institute to my application for a couple of girls who would work in a country house for good wages during their vacation. I represented, timidly, as I saw the gathering cloud upon the professor's face, that many college boys are waiters in hotels in the summer, and thus help to put themselves through the course.

"Please recollect that our pupils have higher aspirations than domestic service!" was the opening sentence of the retort that quenched my desire to "lend a hand" to some ambitious and independent learner.

HIGH-SOUNDING HERESY

I had a similar, and, if possible, more crushing answer from a noted philanthropist who runs settlements and girls' clubs in a metropolitan city:

"Our girls have higher ideals than housework!"

Is it a marvel that Florence and Gladys should echo the high-sounding heresy? For heresy I hold it to be, in view of the truth that if women do not learn how to keep houses, the home will cease out of the land.

A mother whose bright son is expected to raise the family in the world, as a mechanical engineer, told me pridefully that she had not had a plumber or other mechanic in the house for three years. "Johnny mends all the locks and bells and puts in window glass, and actually takes the range and water pipes to pieces and sets them right again. I told his father today that the boy had saved us literally hundreds of dollars in the last four years."

The proud parent has two daughters, one of whom is a stenographer and the other a "saleslady" in a department store. A "girl" is hired to cook, do chamber and general housework and to assist in the washing.

I dare to assert, without asking any questions, that either Florence or Gladys could have saved as much in the four years as Johnny has done, had she remained at home to do all the housework except the washing and ironing and what part is assumed by the patient, white-haired mother. I learned, incidentally, that neither of the girls contributes anything to the family income beyond table board—$5 per week. She could save twice the sum by putting her shoulder to the domestic wheel. Furthermore, she could, by her companionship and care, cheer and prolong the afternoon of life for the parent who is now the sole homemaker.

SAFE DOCTRINE

I believe firmly, and I have advocated strenuously for forty years, the doctrine that every girl should be taught some specific business by which she could maintain herself if need demanded. I believe, and maintain yet more warmly, that the acquisition of this knowledge should not hinder her from learning what no woman can afford not to know: how to order her own house aright in every department. In a little work to which I referred last week, "The Distractions of Martha," I tried to show that mere theoretical knowledge of cookery and marketing is as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal in the march of everyday living and doing.

What an important part the study of practical economy plays in this daily walk I have striven to show in this series. What a frightful leak in household expenses is made by intrusting the management of materials, the preparation of food and the disposition of left-overs to one who is, at the best, indifferent to her employer's interests I could not tell in full were I to write on until strength and space fail me.

"Bridget has a heavy hand with butter." Yet her cake and puddings are not a whit superior to those her mistress makes when Bridget is off on her vacation or busy with the washing, although one-half of the butter goes into the composition of the sweet. Thekla throws into the swill pail the sour milk that would make enough cottage cheese for luncheon. Dinah "never heard o' nobody eatin' cold cornbread," and tosses it to the chickens. Her mistress (always and everywhere nominal!) would have toasted and served it, hot and crisp and sweet, for breakfast.

And so on, ad infinitum and ad nauseam to the employer who cannot by using every effort accommodate a non-elastic income to the rising prices.

"Then you would banish hired girls from the home entirely?" I am asked. I am sorely tempted to answer in the bold affirmative, when a tide of experiences and memories surges in upon me. For they, of all our laboring class, suffer least from the general increase in prices and the stand-still of salaries. Let me illustrate:

A cook who had been with me three years, and had her wages raised twice in that time, asked, tentatively, "what I thought" of giving her a third raise.

"Why should I do it?" was my reply.

"Why, you see, ma'am, everything is awful dear. My brother tells me rents are going up dreadful."

"True. But that affects me—not you."

She was slightly staggered, but rallied.

"And there's coal, ma'am. It's rising every day."

"I have reason to know that. What difference can it make to you? I pay for heating and lighting my house."

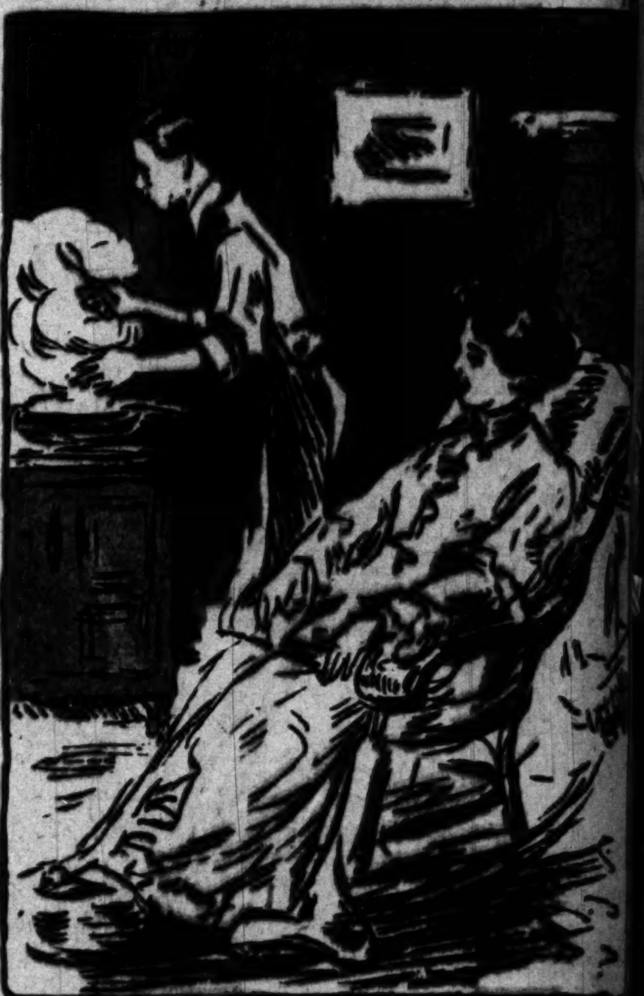
"But it costs so much to live! Do you know, you can't get pork chops for less than 16 cents a pound? And they used to be 12."

"Again, I can see that I am the poorer for the rise in meat. But you get as good board as when prices were down. You don't have to pay for your food."

She made a final stand: "At any rate, ma'am, I paid 3 cents a yard more for a gingham dress last week than I ever did before."

Six months later she married a man, young enough to be her son, who drinks hard. She has now, for the first time, practical demonstration of the increased cost of living.

It is not strange, I repeat, that those whose own the income is not should care little how fast it goes. The responsibility and the suffering are ours. Ours, too, is the duty of lessening the suffering by every intelligent and honest means.



"He had married a pretty doll from the factory."

We cannot look for help to our hirelings. That is clear. The prodigal son merely stated an iron fact when he bemoaned himself that in his father's house the hired servants had abundance "and to spare."

So ancient and so well established is the principle that we are ready to set it among natural laws.

I incline to the suspicion that an unrecorded reason for Sarah's hard dealing with the bondwoman Hagar was that the latter squandered the [illegible] abundance of the wealthy patriarch's tent.

THE HOUSEMOTHERS' EXCHANGE

With a Mexican Flavor

I GET so many good things out of the Exchange that I should like to show my appreciation by giving a few of my "experiences."

1. Let me say that for years the tomato and shrimp salad mentioned by you lately has been made by me exactly as you direct. I had never heard of the combination, but, failing to get the celery I had expected to use, I substituted shrimps, and found the result so delicious that I now bless the accident that revealed it to me.

2. "Mrs. W. S. H.," from Santa Fe, who sent in an excellent recipe for chili con carne, seemed to think the "chili molido" a necessity for this popular dish. After a residence of sixteen years in New Mexico, and handling many Mexican servants and many more conferences with native housewives, I find that the common chili pods are used to a great extent.

My old Carmencita washes five or six pods, boils them for fifteen or twenty minutes, then rubs the pulp and the water in which the chilis were boiled through a sieve and adds this to a pound of chopped meat. If one would have it pretty hot, one must use more of the pods.

This is the common pressed chili—perfectly dry in winter—which sells for 25 or 30 cents a pound. It may be shipped by mail.

3. Those whose homes are remote from modern carpet-cleaners, and who must resort to the primitive method of beating a carpet on a line, will find that hanging the carpet over the line so that the seams run crosswise will prove a great saving of the seams if the carpet be old. By this means, with careful beating, there is no danger of the seams ripping in the process.

4. If you are to have company for supper, and are going to be pressed for time, yet feel that you must have hot biscuits, try this recipe:

Quick Biscuits.

One pint of good buttermilk or "clabber," one level teaspoonful each of baking soda, baking powder and salt, a lump of lard as large as a big egg; mix with enough flour for a stiff dough. Put into a stone crock or jar or bowl, cover with a plate, and in summer put into the refrigerator. When it is ready for use, roll out and bake. These will keep twelve hours on the ice in summer or twenty-four in cold weather in a perfectly cold place where they will not freeze. Use very little flour in cutting them out to bake—just enough to keep them from sticking to the kneading board.

Mrs. H. J. H. (Clayton, N. M.).

An admirable letter throughout! We get so many valuable and novel recipes from New Mexico that the sight of the postmark excites pleased expectations. I have never eaten chili con carne, nor attempted to make it, because it is not easy to get the principal ingredient in the East. Our new correspondent tells us that it may be bought ready for use. Has any one seen it east of the Alleghenies?

The idea of keeping biscuit dough fresh on the ice is new, and will solve the difficulty that presents itself to the housemother who would like to treat the boys to hot biscuits on Sunday night that do not smack too decidedly of the warming-over.

To "Mrs. G. W.," of Philadelphia.

I should like to ask "Mrs. G. W." of Philadelphia, how she can use eight heaping tablespoonfuls of flour in the recipe for "kraut salat" in but one pint of vinegar and water. Perhaps I am wrong, but it seems quite out of proportion to me.

And "M. E. E.," in her recipe for old-fashioned gingerbread headed "Ida," says "one pint of molasses, a gill of shortening, two tablespoonfuls of water and three quarts of flour."

I do not see how so much flour can possibly be used, as the quantity of liquid called for could not take it up.

May I congratulate you and your colleagues upon the grand work the Exchange is doing? I have been alike interested and profited by it for a long time. This is my first contribution. If you find any part of it worth printing, perhaps I may come again. If not, I know you have a quartet of wastebaskets waiting for rubbish from the desk, which I can picture to myself as being as neat as the proverbial pin.

Mrs. G. T. H. (Buffalo, N. Y.).

Answering the last paragraph first: You might not think my desk "neat." To my eye it is in perfect order, except when "Serena" takes advantage of my temporary absence from study and house to give the former "a good redding-up." After which I cannot "lay my hand" upon the right thing for twenty-four hours.

You have apparently that rare thing in a woman: a fine sense of proportion. I plead ignorance in the matter of the German dish. With regard to the gingerbread, there is certainly a gross error. I hope it is a typographical blunder. When I reflect upon the odd combinations and quantities I am sometimes made to recommend, I lean to the explanation of the three quarts of flour. "M. E. E." doubtless quoted her grandmother as ordering three cups. Proofreaders are not cooks, and the compositor's mistake would pass unchallenged.

To "N. R. L." ("Jane," of Chicago)

I read in the Exchange that you have pieces to give away: men's woolen suiting and some pieces of clean white lawn. As I am trying to get enough scraps to finish a quilt, I am asking for a share in your gift. I should be very thankful to receive both kinds of pieces. I should also like to become acquainted with you and to write directly to you. I think it must be very nice to have a friend out of town.

I have often felt inclined to write to the Exchange and inquire how I could become acquainted with some nice old people living in the country. I say "old," because I love them better than young people. They are more interesting to me. I don't know anybody who lives far enough in the country to keep cows!

Mrs. C. B. (Philadelphia).

Our well-beloved "Jane" must say whether or not I am to give you her address with a view to opening a correspondence. I think it is pretty certain that she will send to you all the scraps she has left by the time your letter reaches her.

My own heart is moved by the thought of your never having had an acquaintance who keeps cows! Then you never visited the barnyard at milking time? Never got the fragrant breath of kine or tasted warm milk, "fresh from the good old cow"? It must be sad to be such a confirmed town-dweller! I trust that your letter may be the means of letting down the pasture bars to let you in.

Southern Servants

Don't you think most of the trouble with servants nowadays is caused by crowding too much work upon one maid, instead of dividing the work between two or more, as is done in the South?

For instance, out here the usual wages for a first-class general housemaid is from $25 up. They have no time to themselves, except one afternoon each week. In the South such work would be divided between two girls, and each would get about half that sum. But she has lots of time each day between dinner and supper.

This system engenders good feeling toward the mistress and general satisfaction all around.

SOUTHERNER (Porterville, Cal.).

According to your showing, the general houseworker receives (and expects) $25 or $30 per month. Would she accept half the amount upon condition that she divide her duties with a fellow-servant? So far as my observation and experience go, the servant imported to the East or North or West from the South at once arises to the level of those already in the field and demands the same wages, whatever may be her duties—I may add, and truthfully, whatever may be her disqualifications for the position she secures. I know of no other trade or calling in which proficiency goes for so little. The untrained boldly insist upon having the same pay as the skilled laborer.

The strong probability is that the mistress who tries to lessen the duties of an employe, coupling the benefit with a fall of wages, will be left in the lurch. Indeed, from what I have learned of the works and ways of the guild in the last half century, I believe that the fact that a housemother is able to "keep two gurrels" is prima facie evidence of her obligation to pay each what she would pay the "general-housework lady."

That is what she was styled in my hearing the other day!

Floor Coverings

IF THERE is not a hardwood floor, which is likely to be the case in a house more than twenty years old, a yellow matting will be suitable, and over it a soft-colored rug made out of Brussels carpeting with a border containing blue, yellow, olive and old red. The whole can be had at less than $1 per yard. There may be found rugs of any kind and of all prices, having grounds of dull blue well covered with Persian or other small figures, from $8 upward; but nothing affords a better background for furnishings and bibelots, or gives a more harmonious effect, than the rug made out of "filling." To be sure, as it is a solid color somewhat deeper than the walls, it shows dust and litter more readily than a figured surface; but what is that except an added incentive to neatness on the part of the occupant?

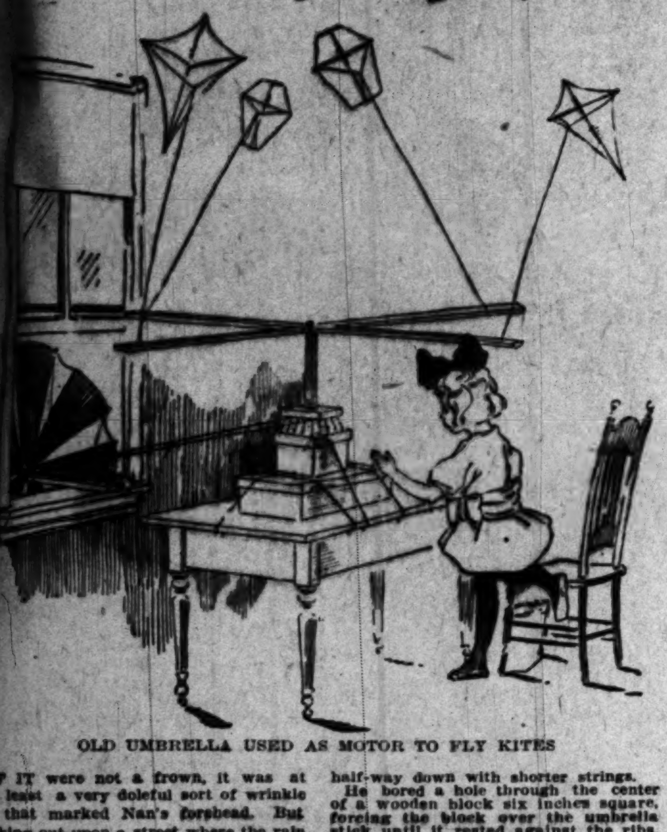
Nan's Rainy Day Sport



OLD UMBRELLA USED AS MOTOR TO FLY KITES

IF IT were not a frown, it was at least a very doleful sort of wrinkle that marked Nan's forehead. But looking out upon a street where the rain was beating down and the wind was sweeping certainly would not bring cheer to any little girl. Nan sighed and yawned with an "Oh, ho, hum!" and drummed upon the window panes. Would the rain NEVER stop?

Then, in spite of herself, a smile struggled to replace the frown. She bit her lip, but at last could no longer keep from laughing. Holding her sides, she screamed:

"Look here, Dan! Quick! quick! It's such a funny sight!"

Big Brother Dan glanced through the window at the stout gentleman who was trying both to keep his umbrella from being turned inside out and to save his hat from flying away. Suddenly the ribs of the umbrella weakened and bent backward, and the man threw the now useless thing away angrily and dashed along the sidewalk after the hat which had just escaped from him.

"Shame on you!" said Dan, reproachfully, although he himself could not refrain from smiling. He continued, thoughtfully: "You shouldn't make fun of the poor man, especially when he has provided entertainment for you."

Nan was about to reply that the stout man had been very entertaining, when she was surprised to see Dan throw a coat over his shoulders and rush out into the street, returning shortly with the broken umbrella. While he let the water drip from it into the umbrella jar he said:

"I'm going to show you that even an object as forlorn looking as this can do much in the way of entertaining. Come up to the attic, where I'll make an umbrella windmill for you."

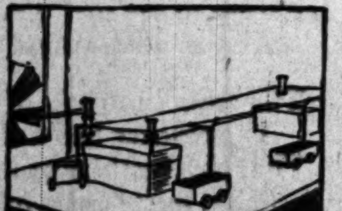
True to his word, Dan began to make a very interesting contrivance. After sawing off the handle of the umbrella, he cut the cover all the way down from one side of each rib. The tips of ribs he connected with equal lengths of string and tied strings from the loose ends of the cover to the tips of ribs. The loose cover ends he also fastened half-way down with shorter strings.

He bored a hole through the center of a wooden block six inches square, forcing the block over the umbrella stick until it rested against the ribs, then driving a nail slantingly through the block into the stick and driving tacks into the block on both sides of each rib.

For a pulley, he nailed together two pieces of wood, each an inch thick and eight inches square and having a hole bored through its center. Then Dan drove a circle of long wire nails on each side of the block, afterward fastening the block to the umbrella stick with a nail. The windmill he rested upon supports tied to the window sill both inside and out. The point of the umbrella was held in place by a little piece of wood nailed to the tip of one support.

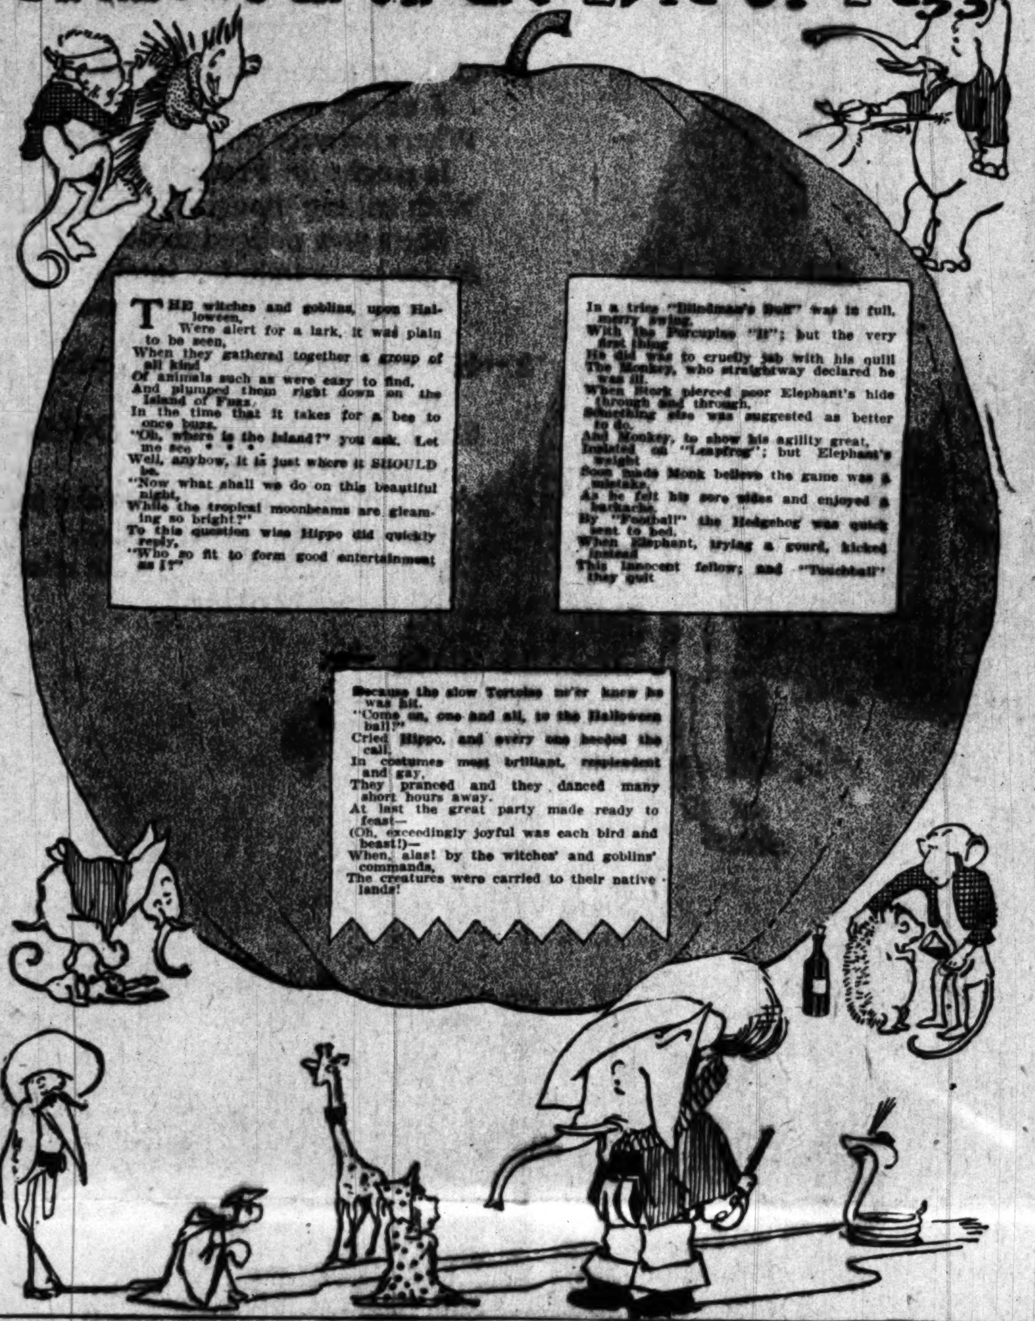
The picture shows you how Dan fastened the windmill outside the attic window, so that the harder the wind blew the faster the "sails" whirled round, working the pulley "belt" and causing to move the little kites and "motor cars" which Dan attached, one after another, to the pulley shaft.

"There, now," remarked the big brother, when he had the windmill operating nicely, "I hope you are properly grateful to the unfortunate gentleman who furnished us the umbrella. And I trust, too, that you will find enough amusement here, instead of mocking poor folk who must be out in such nasty weather."



ATTACHMENTS FOR "MOTOR CARS"

Hallowe'en on the Isle of Fuzz



THE witches and goblins, upon Halloween,
Were alert for a lark, it was plain to be seen,
When they gathered together a group of all kind
Of animals such as were easy to find,
And plumped them right down on the Island of Fuzz,
In the time that it takes for a bee to once buzz.
"Oh, where is the island?" you ask. Let me see * * *
Well, anyhow, it is just where it SHOULD be.
"Now what shall we do on this beautiful night,
While the tropical moonbeams are gleaming so bright?"
To this question wise Hippo did quickly reply,
"Who so fit to form good entertainment as I?"

In a trice "Blindman's Buff" was in full, merry swing,
With the Porcupine "It"; but the very first thing
He did was to cruelly jab with his quill
The Monkey, who straightway declared he was ill.
When Stork pierced poor Elephant's hide through and through,
Something else was suggested as better to do.
And Monkey, to show his agility great,
Insisted on "Leapfrog"; but Elephant's weight
Soon made Monk believe the game was a mistake,
As he felt his sore sides and enjoyed a backache.
By "Football" the Hedgehog was quick sent to bed,
When Elephant, trying a gourd, kicked instead
This innocent fellow; and "Touchball" they quit

Because the slow Tortoise ne'er knew he was hit.
"Come on, one and all, to the Halloween ball!"
Cried Hippo, and every one heeded the call.
In costumes most brilliant, resplendent and gay,
They pranced and they danced many short hours away.
At last the great party made ready to feast—
(Oh, exceedingly joyful was each bird and beast!)—
When, alas! by the witches' and goblins' commands,
The creatures were carried to their native lands!

HALLOWEEN MYSTERIES

TO FIND the name of a future husband or wife, cut the letters of the alphabet from a piece of paper and sprinkle them upon the surface of water. The floating letters will combine to spell the desired name.

Tie a wedding ring to a silk thread and hold it suspended within a goblet. Then slowly repeat the alphabet. Every time the ring strikes the goblet, note the letter, and begin the alphabet again. In this way you will find the letters to spell the name of your life-partner.

By an old custom, much practiced among the English, you can tell from which point of the compass the future husband or wife will come. Go out—of course, at midnight—pluck out a lock of hair and cast it to the breeze. In whatever direction it is blown from that point will come the expected person.

Another spell for an inquisitive maiden to use is to walk backward with a candle in one hand and a mirror in the other, and repeat the following rhyme:

Round and round, O stars so fair!
Ye travel and search out everywhere.
I pray you, sweet stars, now show to me
This night who my future husband shall be.

Pets of Royal Kiddies

LITTLE Princess Marie of Belgium loves her big dog just as much as any other little girl loves her pet. The great fellow plays very nicely with his tiny mistress, and, of course, never harms her.

Princess Marie's papa is Prince Albert, the nephew of King Leopold and heir to the throne. The prince, when a boy, used to play with toy locomotives and bits of machinery; and all over his copybooks he would draw designs. Two brothers has Marie: Prince Leopold and Prince Charles.

The favorite pet of Prince Louis, second son of the German crown prince, is a sturdy goat. This playfellow looks as though he might have his own way a little oftener than does the prince.

LIKE FAIRY TALES

IT IS not only in fairy tales that very poor boys go out into the world and reap fame and fortune. Many such stories—and true ones—are provided in real life.

In the year 1859 two ragged, dirty little boys, each about 10 years old, first met and played together on Randalls Island, N. Y., where they were cared for by the Children's Aid Society.

One of them—John G. Brady by name—had been sent there by a policeman. For a long, long time he had been selling papers and doing odd jobs during the day, and at nighttime he had slept in alleyways because he was afraid to go home to a father who beat him. He was almost starving one evening when he asked the policeman for something to eat. So the officer placed him in charge of the society, and soon John met on Randalls Island his chum, Andrew H. Burke, who had been taken from the slums by ex-President Roosevelt's father.

"MET AND PLAYED TOGETHER"

A short time after their arrival the lads were sent to Indiana, where they were put to work on farms. John Brady was employed by Judge John Green of Tipton, Ind. The boy spent all his leisure hours in study, and finally he left the farm and entered college.

He went to Alaska as a missionary with Dr. Sheldon, in 1878. After years of successful endeavor, during which time he gave up missionary work and became master of the Sitka Trading Company, he was appointed Governor of Alaska in 1897, by President McKinley. Three years later, his friend, Andrew H. Burke, was elected first Governor of N[illegible] Dakota.

Little did the two homeless [illegible] think, when they dug their toes in the mud of Randall's island, that the future would find each of them occupying the chair of a Governor.

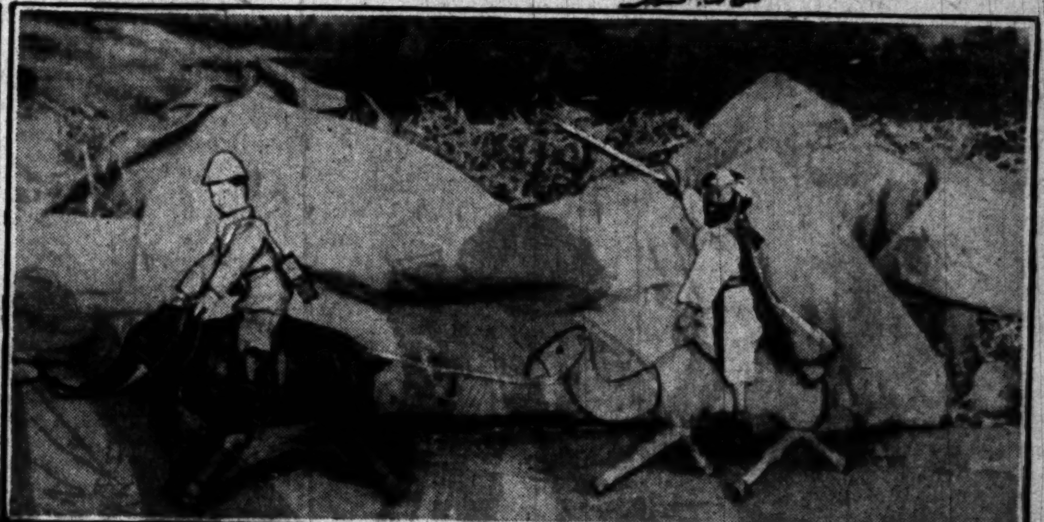
BWANA HUMPTO IN AFRICA

THE CARAVAN PREPARES TO LEAVE MENGO FOR LAKE ALBERT NYANZA



SOKO GRABBED THE CAMEL'S BRIDLE WITH HIS TAIL

(Photographs posed by figures of Humpty Dumpty Circus.)

By Raber Mundorf

"OH, WHAT a heavenly pose!" sighed Photo, rapturously, as he stuck a dead, whale-headed stork upon the back of a digdig, which also was propped up stiffly in death. Then Photo Humpto, son of the good and mighty Bwana Humpto, took a snapshot. This feat accomplished, the lad turned to the sad-eyed Arab chieftain who was an interested spectator.

"Yes, chief," said the boy, resuming their former conversation, "I am going to ride my wonderful pet elephant, Soko, upon our caravan journey across the desert. In fact, I have no respectable horse to ride since one of our gunbearers, who is supposed to be a crack shot, sent a bullet through my pony by mistake. Poor Poko! What a horrible sight it was, when those greedy black and white vultures swooped down upon him, gobbled up everything of him except the bones and then perched stupidly on tree boughs with their heads snuggled down sleepily in those white ruffs about their necks! I would have grabbed those wicked birds by the selfsame ruffs and choked them! If I had had the time, you know, I would have buried faithful Poko and placed a handsome sandstone monument above him. But now I am bound to ride Soko. I'll wager he'll prove as good a mount as your camel, too. He's carried me comfortably and well on many a march when the other hunters were so sore from horseback riding that they had to be borne by natives."

The Arab smiled and shook his head, unbelievingly, while Doctor Pillo, who had heard the last remark, said to the boy:

"You do not seem to understand, my son, the true merits of a thoroughbred camel. Listen to this very instructive verse, which I should like to have you memorize:

"Look upon the Arab camel
Owned by Chieftain Abdul Hamil.
Isn't he a patient brute,
Nice behaving, kind and cute?

Chorus:
"Bet your life, he isn't cute;
He's a wicked, cross galoot,
Always waiting for to pick
Out your tend'rest spot to kick.

"He has pads upon his heels,
Chest and legs, so when he kneels
He'll be nice and comfy quite—
Would you s'pose he'd ever bite?

Chorus.
"Bet your life that he will bite;
For tough shrubs an appetite
Camel has; but, with fair chance,
He'll dine, Photo, on thy pants."

But Photo was not convinced. "It may be, as you say," admitted he, "that the chief's camel will carry his master 100 miles a day, but I'm sure my dear Soko is able to do even better than that." And Photo determined to show, before very long, the mettle of his dear and hefty pet.

So excited was he that he himself took down his green, rot-proof tent, without waiting for assistance from the natives, and carefully packed his folding bathtub. Then he helped pack the tin-lined specimen boxes for Taxidermo, who marveled at the lad's unusual industry.

Shortly the caravan departed from Mengo, leaving behind the vine-covered trees of baobab, acacia and towering palm. Guinea fowl shrilled after them from the forest as they prepared to cross the grassy veldt. They reached barren, rocky ground, where Photo astonished the chief by carelessly picking off with his rifle a little rabbit-like coney that dodged around a boulder. Thence the caravan traveled, in single file, over the desert, inhabited only by lizards that scuttled away in dull yellow streaks.

Photo bided his time. There remained plenty of opportunity to show the party how superior his Soko was to the camel. It was a full month's journey over the desert to Kibero, on the shore of Lake Albert Nyanza. Right well did the remarkable elephant show his worth, up to the time that the massive, snow-capped mountain of the Ruwenzori range became visible through the rift-valleys, and the numerous waddies (dry bottoms of streams) told of the near approach to watered country. Then Photo decided to make the final, crowning test.

"Are you game for a race, chief?" he asked.

The Arab readily agreed. Bosso commanded the party to halt, while he and Elephant Hunter arranged a course for the race. Trappo and Bwana Humpto were to act as referees.

When all matters were arranged, and the other members of the party took position where they could best watch the contest, Bwana Humpto said: "When I fire my revolver, off you go!"

At the crack of the revolver away sped the two beasts from their starting point.

The camel made the best start, and at first had a decided advantage. But, while the onlookers cheered Photo enthusiastically and urged him on, suddenly the gallant Soko made a great burst of speed, outstripped the camel and took the lead, far in advance of his rival. He did not seem to move rapidly with his lumbering gait, but in reality he was covering ground with extreme swiftness.

Then the good Soko proved himself a noble animal as well as a speedy one. Suddenly he paused, turned straightway around, to the surprise of his rider, and retraced his steps to where the camel was gamely following. Seizing the camel's bridle with his tail, Soko kindly towed the almost exhausted animal to the goal, amid the thunderous cheers of all who gazed upon this thrilling exhibition.

Defeat was bitter to the Arab, but he took it in good part and willingly applauded when Doctor Pillo recited the following verse, which he requested all to memorize:

O, the noble, noble race!
Camel couldn't stand the pace
That the valiant Soko set.
So the vict'ry didn't get.

Elephant fed but on greens;
Carob-pods and dates and beans,
That the humpy camel ate,
Could not thwart a cruel fate.

Nostril closed and eyelash long
To the camel both belong;
Yet his rival, with great stride,
Put discomforts all aside.

Dashed he fast 'cross desert waste,
And his courage him soon placed
In a big and bustling lead—
O the bumptious, grumptious steed!

After the hurrahs that greeted the doctor's recital had died away, the Arab chieftain remained for a few moments absorbed in thought. Then he walked to Photo, grasped the youth's hand and pleaded with deep feeling:

"Permit me to go with the great son of the Mighty Hunter. Let me go with the wonderful boy and his wonderful beast along the vast river called the White Nile, braving the terrors of malarial fevers, until the renowned city of Khartoum is gained. And then let me follow him on and on, across the wide sea, to the wonderful boy's home, that I may be with him and the illustrious Soko all the years of my life. I and all my possessions, even to my camel, belong to the young lord."

"Sure; come along," Photo replied, heartily. "You're an awfully decent chap, and we'll have a circus in the states and you 'n' I'll have jim-dandy races 'round the rings."

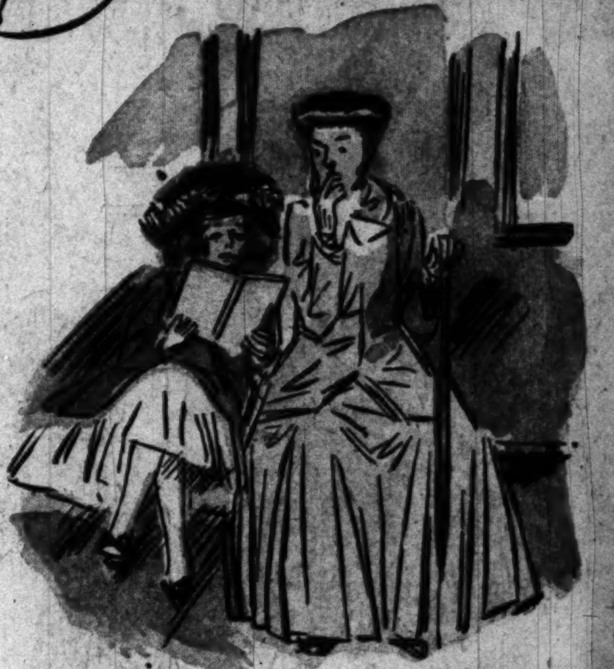
1.—Our Cynthianna now attends
A classic institute
Where actively the young idea
Is taught (in French) to shoot.
With trifling thoughts all put aside
She's now obliged to delve
In books, to train her intellect
From nine 'til half past twelve.

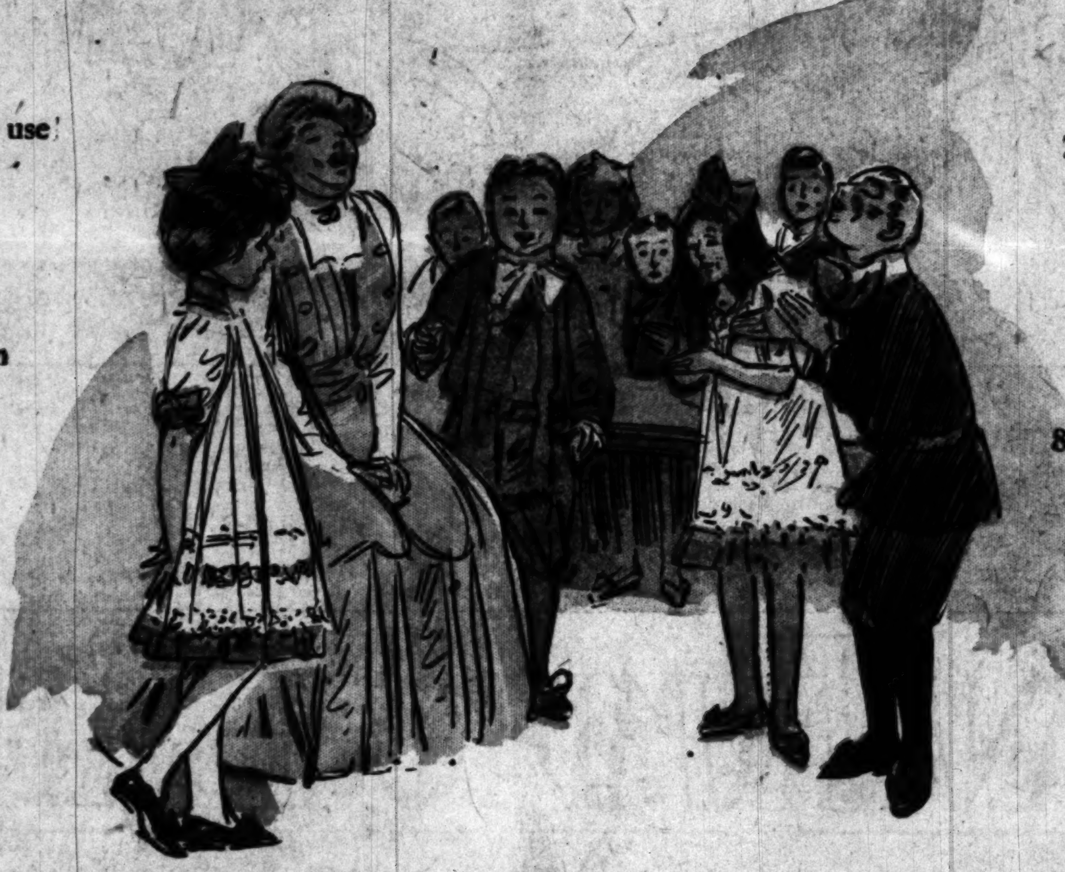
2.—Her zealous ardor, strong at first,
Soon weakens, for alas!
She finds young Seymour Dividends
A member of her class,
And looking o'er the room she has
Her feelings further pained,
For Miss De Fife's exquisite mind
Is also being trained.



3.—Here, Guy De Peyster Livingston
Is seeking knowledge too,
And so is tranquil Freddy Rocks
And fragile Cyril Drew;
And Cynthia sighs:—"Oh, what's the use
It seems to be my fate
That persons whom I most dislike
I'm forced to cultivate."

4.—The other kids, with nurses French.
Already have command
Of words poor puzzled Cynthia's brain
Can rarely understand;
For she to grasp the Gallic tongue
Makes very slow advance.
Her nurse unfortunately has come
From greener lands than France.

5.—As desperately she struggles on
Her troubles now increase,
For she's informed she'll be obliged
To learn and speak a "piece."
It's all about a fox and crow,
And when she has it learned
It might have all been Greek as far
As Cynthia is concerned.



6.—But mamma tries to help her out,
And Uncle Monte, who
Can make out Sherry's menu card,
Lends some assistance too;
But when she stands before the school
With thoughtful, studied grace,
Her words of French all leave her when Young Seymour makes a face.

7.—In great embarrassment she stands,
Not knowing what to do;
And then recites this verse she learned
From Uncle Montague:—
"Oh, Mrs. Dill was very ill
And nothing would improve her.
Except to see the 'Twillerees'
And waddle 'round the 'Loover.'"

8.—The school in peals of laughter broke,
The teacher had a fit.
Though Cynthianna knew it not
She'd made an awful hit.
Said she:—"I'll never speak again
(Unless I am compelled)
Until they have that hateful boy
S. Dividends expelled"
